tion with his remarkable collection but "Mons. l'Renotiere" has always remained inaccessible so far as his personality was concerned. We have heard many an astounding tale about the peculiarities or characteristics of the gentleman which were in keeping with the suggestions of Mr. Mekeel's very human tale. We believe that Mr. Mekeel has done a service in penetrating the haze that surrounds the celebrated collector and he has almost visualized the collector where before only an almost mythical individual existed in the minds of philatelists.

Good Fit—The Christian Science Monitor of April 24th, 1915, has an excellent editorial "On Collecting." While the thoughts reflected in the essay are intended to apply to collecting generally in its more dignified sense, yet it seems that the observations are especially fitted to philately. Here is an illustration of the highest motive that should actuate the collector: "A collector if asked to state his ideal would perhaps sum it up as the assembling together and classification of the most perfect specimen obtainable of every variety. . . . A variation of the perennial injunction, Study Your Stamps, is given in these words: "The collector must, indeed, have a thorough knowledge of his subject—all that there is to be known about it. He must have the knowledge that will detect the unworthy pretender. . . . He must have the courage which will not hesitate to pay the seemingly prohibitive price for the coveted specimen. . . . and patience enough to wait until the right moment arrives for making each addition to his collection."

Pledge Redeemed—The subscribers to the Peace Convention at the Hague, which among others included the United States and the European countries now at war accepted the provision "that money orders drawn in favor of or remitted by prisoners of war shall be exempted from any charge for fee or commission." Consequently, under date of April 26th, 1915, the Third Assistant Postmaster General has notified the postmasters of this country: "If a resident of the United States applies for a money order payable to a prisoner of war in any of the countries concerned in the present conflict, the applicant is entitled to receive an order for the full amount deposited at the post office without the customary deduction for fees."

NEW YORKNEWS GLEANINGS.—In a London daily, Fred J. Melville writes at length upon the exhibit of the revolutionary issues of Mexico recently made at the Melville Exhibition of War Stamps, held in London by C. H.
Mekeel, St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Melville speaks of the display as neatly arranged and we should judge that it was a very comprehensive one.—Oliver Raymond calling attention to the statement by H. S. Ashenhurst that the new Canada War Tax stamps came into use on April 15, states that he has a cover with a War Tax stamp that is marked April 14. The cover was sent from the American Consular Service in Trenton, Ontario, to the Collector of Customs in Port Huron, Mich.—We have made no attempt to chronicle the various censor marks resulting from the war in Europe. Various subscribers have favored us with specimens and we have E. W. Bridge to thank for one just at hand.—Richard F. Ettelt, 1626 Sunnyside

SOCIAL GATHERING OF N. Y. P. E. S.

The first annual ball of the New York Philatelic Exchange Society, Branch No. 3 of the National Philatelic Society, was held on Saturday, April 24, at Aschenbroedel Hall, New York, and was well attended. Among the guests were Clifford W. Kissinger, president of the Southern Philatelic Society, and Mrs. Kissinger. As a social gathering it was a great success, and it gave the members an opportunity to meet the wives and families of fellow-members. Although in existence only a year, the New York Philatelic Exchange Society has now nearly 100 active members. Its officers are: M. Herbert, President; Chas. Goetz, Vice President; George Holden, Secretary; M. Ohlman, Treasurer; E. L. Weiss, Auction Manager.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Scott's Circular says: It is not often that new discoveries are reported in the stamps of this country unless among very recent issues. It is, therefore, something of a surprise to find in the Philatelic Gazette articles by B. W. H. Poole and J. B. Leavy announcing new varieties in the issues of 1894-98. While these varieties are not as important as the types of the 1c stamps of 1851-57 they originate in the same cause, alterations in the transfer rolls, and are, therefore, entitled to recognition in the catalogue. They are to be found in the 10c and $1 denominations and may be briefly described as follows:

Ten Cents:

Type I. The tips of the foliate ornaments do not impinge on the white curved line below "ten cents."

Type II. The tips of the ornaments break the curved line below the "e" of "ten" and the "t" of "cents."

One Dollar:

Type I. The circles enclosing "$1" are broken where they meet the curved line below "One Dollar."

Type II. The circles are complete.

The 10c stamps printed in green in 1894-95 exist only in type I but the brown stamps of 1898-1901 exist in both types. For this denomination the two types are not found on the same plate but in the case of the one dollar stamps only one plate was made and both varieties appear on it. This plate contained 200 subjects, arranged in two panes of 100 each. The left pane was made up entirely of Type I. In the right pane the fifty stamps at the left were type I and the fifty at the right were type II. Thus it is possible to find the two types in a pair.

As collectors know, the stamps of 1895-98 were overprinted for use in Guam, the Philippines and Porto Rico. The overprinted 10c stamps are found in both types in the Philippines, but only in type I for Guam and Porto Rico. The $1 exists in both types. In the Philippines the two types of the latter stamp are found in about equal numbers and the conclusion is that the overprinting was all upon stamps of the right pane. Among the Guam stamps the dollar of type II is much scarcer than type I, from which it is inferred that the overprinting was largely upon the left pane.

There seems to be something interesting going on at Washington over the imprints and plate numbers of the current issue. I. C. Greene shows the 6c, Nos. 5719 and 5723, with star and imprint, No. 5430 with the same imprint having been previously noted. Mr. Greene also sends the 8c, No. 5722, with "A" and imprint, the same combination having been previously reported with No. 5718.

Harold N. Gibbs also writes that he has the current 8c imprint and "A" with Nos. 5718, 5719, 5721 and 5722; the 5c with imprint and "A", Nos. 5894, 5898, 5902 and 5906; and the current 10c with imprint and "A", Nos. 5745, 5751, 5764, and 5784—all perforated 12.

Ray E. Hartz supplements our chronicle of the new U. S. revenues on postage paper as given on page 142 by submitting for our inspection a copy of the 1/2c Documentary. Are there any other additions to be made to the list as given?

AUSTRALIA.—Hugo Griebert & Co. have also shown us the new King

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the widespread scattering of approval selections.

The 334th (regular) meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, Inc., was held in the Society's room this evening. The matter of purchasing a stereopticon was discussed and it was voted to purchase a suitable lantern and slides to be used with same. It was voted to extend an invitation to the American Philatelic Society to meet in Boston in 1916. The Collection of Counterfeits as far as it had been mounted, was shown and Mr. A. P. Brown showed his Twentieth Century British Colonials and the secretary, his collection of France and French Cancellations.

WITH THE NEW PHILATELIST.

Edited by BILL BLOSS, 2729 Hampden Court, Chicago, Ill.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

MINOR VARIETIES.

Whether a collector should include minor varieties in his collection or not, is the problem that faces everyone interested in the hobby. In other words, shall the stamp enthusiast be a collector or a philatelist? At the time Mr. Webster compiled his very useful book of words, the term "philatelist" was accepted as synonymous to "stamp collector." Today, however, a stamp collector is a peculiar individual whose hobby is to pursue, capture and file away stamps in a book arranged for the purpose, while a philatelist is a more peculiar individual who studies the same stamps after he gets them; learns their origin; picks them to pieces to see if they are on wove or laid paper; fusses with their watermarks; looks at their cancellations and tells whence they came. If he is a most peculiar individual, he will run them through a micrometer caliper to test their thickness, and will discover not less than a hundred trivial varieties for each stamp. Each of these gentlemen is on the right track—he does as he wants to, and gets the most fun out of the hobby.

Some people, not very badly bitten by the Bacillus Philatelicus can get 100% fun out of the hobby by merely trying to fill all the allotted spaces in a printed album. These folk seldom continue their labors for a long period of time, and really, may do but little for the hobby they are interested in. I have in mind a certain collector who is blessed with a gorgeous array of stamps, all different. He does not know who is pictured on his stamps, has no philatelic knowledge whatever, and has never gotten beneath the skin of the top crust of the game. He is satisfied.

On the other extreme, we have collectors who have spent hours of time with microscope and watermark cup, examining countless thousands of stamps to get all the varieties of that one stamp. They are students and scientists. Their research work is not important to humanity, as though they were studying some life-taking germ, for the world will roll on just the same without a record of all the varieties of the 2c Columbian. Yet their labors are not lost. They are hailed as masters by their fellows, and are looked upon as authorities in their line. Above all they are getting happiness from their hobby. While they may seem to go to extreme limits in uncovering the details of their particular stamp, these details must be uncovered in order to get the fundamentals for the collector to work on.

After the collector has begun to look beneath his stamps, and see why they were issued, and in what form, he will if he is of scientific turn of mind, find that he just beginning to reap the benefits of stamp collecting. I do not believe that every collector should go as deeply into the hobby as certain of our leading students have. It would be beyond the power of many collectors to accomplish much of value if they should attempt any research work, for numerous reasons.

Minor varieties are to a collection what salt is to a beefsteak. They are the icing on the cake, the finishing touches. They are the means of making the collector think. They are the result of keen study, and often patience. The collector who questions this should buy himself ten thousand 2c, 1890 and produce a right cap from the lot.

Minor varieties begin where the major varieties stop, and run down the scale to infinite depths, often to differences of one ten-thousandth of an inch. Some are highly important, and should almost be called major varieties. Others are invisible to the naked eye. The collector who includes these things in his collection, soon learns to love them. His salvation lies in the fact that many of them are obtained merely for the labor of looking for them, and are worth sometimes much, but often no more than the ordinary stamp.

Before proceeding, it might be well to mention here, that as a rule minor varieties, unless listed in the catalogue, are usually pretty hard to sell at an additional premium excepting to specialists, and in the great majority of cases it is practically impossible to place a price on them, as no basis can be had to work on, in naming a price. That is the chief reason the writer is unable to give accurate information on the "broken letter" varieties, and others, so often submitted. Unless by previous experience, I have data on prices of minor varieties on my quotation cards, I am often forced to estimate the price according to some similar variety.

Minor varieties can be classified into five groups. Varieties of color form one group; varieties of paper form another; varieties of the plate or stone form a third group; varieties of perforation form a fourth, and the cancellation differences form a fifth. Of course, in the surcharged stamps, the surcharge varieties must be further considered.

Paper varieties, which should be classified first, since the paper is the foundation of the stamp, are among the more important minor varieties generally, though less often listed in the catalogue. Paper varieties, unless distinctly different, do not sell readily. That is, mere differences of thickness are not popular with the average collector. Differences such as wove and laid, or ribbed, or pelure are more popular, since they are more apparent.

Plate varieties are rather popular, since they are more readily apparent to the eye. Certain stamps will, with study, yield a number of plate differences, and no little fun can be had in discovering these "varieties." Also, many stamps, such as the 3c 1851 and 1857, can be reconstructed to form the original sheet, according to their minor differences of design. A local collector is working within the upper elements of supreme and unconfined joy in his efforts to run down and capture the varieties of the New York stamp, in order to reconstruct the plate. He claims that "this is the life". If more collectors would direct their efforts in this line, it is probable that other stamps, especially of the popular early issues, could be plated.

Color differences, or shades, are probably the most common of the listed minor varieties, and are by far the most popular with the average collector who includes minor varieties, for the reason that the color difference can be recognized at a glance, if of enough importance to list. Many stamps offer as many as ten, and some even twenty, different tints. Shades are usually caused by different printings, as experts say that no two batches of printing ink can be made to give identically the same shade. Comparison between the first printing and the last printing of a stamp will often show marked variety of color. In mounting shades, it is advisable to group them in order from the lightest to the darkest, or vice versa.

Perforation varieties are less desirable than the other minor varieties, as many collectors and even those who specialize to moderation refuse to distinguish the different gauges. These differences are often minute, yet they tell the story of separate printings and issues and sometimes of the evolution of the stamp manufacturing in the country of issue.

Of course, practically every collector does or should distinguish the perforate from the imperforate variety, whether he specializes or collects generally. Many stamps are known imperforate through error and some exist in that shape as proofs. Single copies of imperforate stamps are not wholly desirable when perforated copies of the same stamp exist, for the reason that these perforated copies are often trimmed to make imperforates. The best way to collect imperforates is in pairs or blocks. This trimming of stamps is not always done to defraud collectors, though this practice is often resorted to by the unscrupulous. In the case of the first issue U. S. perforated, many people religiously trimmed the stamps before use as they "did not like these new-fangled notions." If the stamp is imperforate, has large margins, and is on the cover with cancellation covering the cut, it may generally be assumed to be O. K. These same remarks apply to part perforated stamps. In the case of the U. S. Revenues part perforated, pairs are in demand while single copies are a drug on the market and very hard to sell. Of course, to be desirable, the pairs must be imperforate between. A pair of so-called part perforates imperforate at top and bottom and perforated between would have no value as it fails to prove the authenticity of the variety. I have seen pairs of these latter offered to the uninformed collector as the genuine part-perforate pair.

Surcharge varieties are often very interesting. Inverts are desirable, though often faked. Missing letter varieties sell fairly well. Errors are eagerly sought by collectors interested in the country in question. Broken letter, or dropped letters, or no period or surcharge out of alignment varieties are hard sellers and appeal only to the specialist making a deep study of the country. It is often very hard to place a value on these trivial varieties. Usually, where the ordinary stamp sells at half-catalogue, the minor detail of the classes last outlined should be marked at catalogue unless quite common. That is a fair standard to price by.

Cancellations are often of great interest to the specialist, though unless very unique, they fail to add materially to the value of the stamp. In early United States, green cancellations, kicking mules, skull and cross-bones, pumpkin heads, masonic, early dated, ship, railway, town and the other out-of-the-ordinary obliterations are in great demand and often bring many times catalogue price. These cancellations which can so often be obtained for the mere labor of going through a large lot of the cheaper stamps make an interesting collection and any collector wanting some real philatelic fun should get a lot of the 3c green or the 1861 3c, or even the 1c 1870-87 or 2c same issues, and go through them for the different cancellations. The stamps can be had very cheap and will often yield rich finds, if unpicked. It is possible to make up sets of the different numbered and lettered cancellations, which prove interesting to the collector and non-collector alike. In the foreign, cancellations often determine the stamps of the parent country used abroad. To-day, collectors are eagerly searching for Belgian stamps canceled in Havre, as well as for the Military Field cancellations. As a rule, cancellations can be purchased without additional expense, and the wide-awake collector should be able to amass a nice assortment for a little labor and less money. A specialized collection including a number of cancellations will often command a high premium where single copies will not.

I believe the above covers fairly well the subject of minor varieties. New ones are constantly being discovered by the alert collectors. Some are valuable and some are not. They are hard to appraise, but are worth keeping generally. It is advisable to learn them before paying the fancy prices sometimes asked.

THE STAMPS OF NORTH GERMAN CONFEDERATION.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

The Austro-Prussian War of 1866, which gave the kingdom of Prussia the supremacy in Germany, led to the formation of the North German Confederation, composed of Prussia (which had previously acquired Hanover and the Duchies of Schleswig and Holstein by conquest) and twenty-one other German States, the only exceptions being Baden, Bavaria, and Wurtemberg. The first meeting of the North German Parliament took place at Berlin in February, 1867, and as later on in the year Prussia had completed the purchase of the postal rights of the Prince of Thurn and Taxis, the way was paved for the introduction of a general postal system for the whole Confederation, having its centre at Berlin.

This new Postal Union was inaugurated on January 1st, 1868, by an issue of stamps adapted for the Confederation. The differences in currency in the various states still presented some difficulty, as in the case of the issues for Thurn and Taxis, so that two series were again necessary, one with values in groschen and the other with its denominations expressed in kreuzer. The groschen is the same as the silbergroschen for the Northern District served by the Thurn and Taxis Administration but a new basis of equation was adopted to bring the two currencies to a closer approximation of their real values. Thus 1kr now equalled 1/3gr; 2kr=1/2gr; 3kr=1gr; 7kr=2gr, and 18kr=3gr.

Under a new law of the new German Parliament the rates of postage were readjusted and the rates within the confines of the Confederation were fixed as follows:—

1 to 10 miles—Single letters under 1 loth (1/2 oz.), 1 groschen. Double letters (over 1 loth) or parcels weighing under 3 lbs., 2 groschen.

10 to 20 miles—Single letters, 2 groschen. Double letters and parcels under 3 lbs., 4 groschen.

Over 20 miles—Single letters, 3 groschen. Double letters and parcels under 3 lbs., 6 groschen.

As letters were allowed to be included in parcels it will be seen that the rates of postage were remarkably low for that time on letters weighing over 1/2 oz. A particularly bulky letter was simply treated as a parcel. These rates also give proof of probably the earliest instance of a governmental postal system handling a parcel post.

These low rates did not apply to foreign postage which varied according to destination. Thus the rate on single letters to England was 5gr, double letters (1 to 2 loth) 10gr; letters weighing from 2 to 3 loth, 15gr, and so on. Late in 1868 an agreement was made with the British Post Office under which the rate of postage to Great Britain was reduced to 2 1/2gr per loth.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

The stamps were issued on January 1st, 1868, there being one design for the groschen values and another for the values in kreuzer. The groschen series show a large numeral in the centre in a circle with background of short vertical lines and dots. Around this is a circular band decorated with oak leaves, and surrounding this is another circular band inscribed "NORDDEUTSCHER POST-BEZIRK" (North German Postal Circuit). At the foot the value is shown in words in uncolored letters on a straight label of solid color; in the upper left and lower right spandrels are winged wheels; and in the other two spandrels are posthorns. The design of the kreuzer values shows the numerals within an upright oval, enclosed within a leaf decorated oval, and then an inscribed oval band. This band contains the same wording as the groschen series in its upper part while in the lower portion the value is stated in words. The spandrels are ornamented in a similar manner to the groschen design.

The dies and electrotypes forming the printing plates were made in the Government Printing works at Berlin, and the stamps were printed there in sheets of 150 arranged in 15 horizontal rows of ten each. The paper is ordinary white wove and as a precaution against counterfeiting the paper was, before printing, covered with a network pattern, similar to that on the stamps of Alsace-Lor-rairie, but in a colorless preparation which only becomes visible when acted on by certain chemicals. In the early seventies these stamps were frequently reported as existing on a watermarked or mottled paper these evidently being specimens on which the network had become faintly visible.

The stamps were rouletted in line in all kinds of gauges varying from 8 1/2 to 12 1/2. All values are known imperforate and though Gibbons' catalogue states they "were not issued for use, although some specimens were passed through the post," there seems no reasonable doubt that these are bona-fide varieties, put out by the Government though not constituting a separate issue. Mr. Westoby states "the pressure was so great to despatch the necessary supplies, in order to make the issue on January 1st, 1868, that many were sent out without being perforated, and at the time of the issue it was easy to make an entire series of unperforated specimens."

The free city of Hamburg was furnished with a special stamp for use on local or drop letters corresponding in value to the 1/2 schilling (about 3/4c) rate which had been in use there for many years previously. This is of similar design to the kreuzer series but without any numeral in the centre or, in fact, anywhere in the design. At the base of the inscribed oval the words "STADT-POSTBRIEF HAMBURG" (Town Postage Stamp for Hamburg) is shown. This label is rouletted like the others of the same period.

The only varieties in the designs of these stamps are those referred to in the following paragraph taken from the Stamp Collectors' Magazine for June, 1870:—

We owe to one of our correspondents information of a slight but noticeable variation in the design of the 1 groschen adhesive. It consists in the insertion of what appears at first sight to be a thick, solid, vertical line, and two thin side lines, in the body of the central figure of value; a closer inspection, however, shows that the middle line is formed of a diagonal shading, the lines of which run from left to right. As our correspondent observes this variety is found indifferently on perforated and pierced stamps, and on mottled and unmottled paper. The specimen he sends is singularly clear and complete; we have ourselves looked over a large number of copies, but could not find on any of them more than a few indistinct traces of the middle lines. We, however, took the opportunity to examine the other values of the series, and found the 1kr green and 3kr rose, with a similar variation in the design. Of the few specimens of the former at the moment in our possession, all showed the lines in the figures, or traces of them, but it will require further investigation to prove whether the whole issue of that value is thus characterised. Of the 3kr our stock is larger, and among these the proportion of specimens on which the lines or shading appeared was about two out of five. This shading appears in both curves of the figure 3, but all our copies evidently show it only incompletely.

These varieties are quite distinct but are probably purely accidental and of slight philatelic interest. My own opinion is that they are simply due to faulty electrotypes in which the uncolored portion of the numerals had hardly been struck with sufficient clearness.

NEW RUSSIAN WAR STAMPS.

The Russian patriotic war stamps may be changed at an early date. Although they are works of art and are beautifully printed their large size renders them inconvenient for use in quantities. It is now reported that two more denominations have been called for, a 2 kopeks stamp for use on printed matter and a 5 kopeks stamp for use on city letters. The values in the current series are 1, 3, 7, and 10 kopeks. Mr. A. Scheindling informs the London Philatelist that the 2 kopeks will represent soldiers at work with cannon, and the 5 kopeks will depict a cavalry attack by Cossacks. The size is to be smaller than that of the four stamps already issued, and it is in contemplation to replace the latter by stamps of like denominations in the smaller size. Another circumstance of interest to the collector is the possibility of future printings of the present stamps on white instead of tinted papers. Already, as mentioned in my notes of March 25, the 10 kopeks is printed on white paper instead of blue, and if, as Mr. Scheindling states, the stock of the coloured paper has become exhausted the next printings of the other values will probably be on white paper.—London Telegraph.

SPEAKING OF DISCOUNTS

WINDOW GLASS sells at 90-40-12 1/2% discount from list prices, and the man who can allow 5 or 10% extra for cash in 10 days gets the contract. I have no window glass to offer, nor am I selling stamps at the above discount, BUT I am selling high grade stamps at a reasonable discount, with a special inducement to prompt buyers. It will pay you to investigate. New customers get a 6c Interior unused (cat. 50c) as a premium. A good reference is NECESSARY. [caw2]

ONE MORE SURPRISE U. S. PACKET

The great success of my last Dollar Packet impels me to make another flier for those who are looking for Bargain Counter Offers. While 25 packets last I will send for a dollar bill, and 2 cents for postage, the following seven stamps:

51—1857, 12c black	$1.75
134—1870, 1c blue 9x1150
148—6c carmine20
151—12c dull violet50
159—1871, 6c dull pink08
161—10c brown08
179—1875, 5c blue10
Total catalog value	$3.21

And, being a generous soul, if you will give references and ask for a selection of U. S. on approval, I will send absolutely free when you buy $2 or more from them, a 6c blue, 1869, catalog 85 cents.

A Dollar goes further in filling up those vacant spaces if you give me a chance to close the gaps.

Let me figure on disposing of your duplicates. My plan is better than an auction because you get your price less 20% for advertising, insurance, etc. No stamps cataloguing under 20 cents wanted.

DEALERS PLEASE NOTE.

W. W. MacLaren, care Press, Cleve-

"A man called on me on Saturday, May 8, and offered a collection of stamps for sale. This collection consisted of about one hundred approval sheets, just as received from dealers, with the tops all clipped off. Also a few approval books, in same condition, with front cover removed.

This looks rather suspicious, so I have put him off for a few days, and taken his name and address.

If you know of or could ascertain through the WEEKLY of any extensive approval sheet fraud in this city, during the past year or two, I may possibly be able to locate him in this party."

THE "DENVER" REVENUES FOR MEXICO.

By S. B. HOPKINS.

This picture shows the regular postal issue. The revenue design differs in the omission of "Correos," its place being taken by "Mexico." The second issue revenues (printed in Denver) were used provisionally as postage stamps. The state of Coahuila was originally Constitutionalist territory, but they were unable to hold it long, in spite of the fact that Don Venustiano Carranza quit the governorship of Coahuila to become "first chief" of the Constitutionals; once lost to the Huertistas, it was the last of the northern tier of states to come under the full control of the Constitutionals, and when it did, they were unable to supply its offices with postage stamps, as the "Transitorio" issue was either exhausted or withdrawn (so far as the head office was concerned) and the "Denver" issue had not yet been received from the printers; hence, full and complete authority was given by the proper officials of the Constitutionalist Government to issue, sell and use the second issue revenues as postage stamps (without talon and without surcharge) throughout this unsupplied territory until such time as the regular postage stamps might be received. I do not see any difference between the postal use of these stamps and the postal use of the "Ejercito" stamps, except that the latter took place in parts of Chihuahua, Sonora and Tamaulipas in 1913, and the former in Coahuila in 1914. In both cases, the provisional use continued over a period of several months and was stopped by the appearance of a regular postal issue, and in neither case were there any other postage stamps to be had in the respective districts.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—R. E.—This subscriber asks, "What premiums do I get if I renew for a year?" None whatever! We do not think it necessary to give premiums on these renewals. If the WEEKLY is not worth 50c for fifty-two issues, then we do not know a bargain.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from C. M. Breder, G. W. Hallenberg, I. B. Robinson, Hollis Thacher.

—Jesse T. Lillibridge calls our attention to the wide range of shades in which the present 2c U. S. perf. 10 is appearing.

—The advertisement of J. E. Hand-shaw elsewhere in this issue announces the purchase of the entire stock of the Empire Stamp Co. of Nassau St., N. Y. City.

—A Correspondent calls our attention to the fact that collectors will do well to use extra care in the purchase of Albania stamps. These crude labels are so very poorly executed that the distinguishing of the genuine from the counterfeit is a task for the expert.

—In the issue of April 24 some old adv. copy was used in the make-up of the Hussman Co. advertisement. The copy was furnished some months ago to be used when no new copy arrived, but in this particular instance the offering had become obsolete.

—The talk by Frank L. Coes of Worcester before the B. P. S. at the informal meeting held May 4 was keenly enjoyed by those who were privileged to hear him. The talk was illustrated by lantern slides taken from various series which he employs to interest young people and showed a number of different ways in which a lecture could be gotten up. This was particularly interesting in view of the fact that the B. P. S. has voted to purchase a lantern with which to do missionary work under the auspices of the society. Mr. Coes talked at some length upon the coronation portrait of Queen Victoria and showed the differences in the treatment of this portrait upon the various Colonial stamps. Mr. Coes' talk was delivered in his characteristically easy manner and his presence with the society was appreciated by the large number of members in attendance.

—"The surcharge of the Monterrey issue (Scott's 392-9) on the Transitorio issue rests on the same basis as the same surcharge on the 1899 and 1910 issues and the 1908 due stamps, as the decree required the application of the surcharge to all previous issues of postage stamps. (I have even seen some "Ejercito" stamps so surcharged.) This decree was written by the P. O. Inspector in charge of the Monterrey district, which included the states of Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas, but was not issued by him until it had been duly approved by the "Direccion General" of the Constitutionalist Government."—S. B. HOPKINS.

—"I wish to call your attention to what I consider the rarest Constitutionalist stamp—a 1c 1910 with both "Monterrey" and the "printed" or $ (Mexico City) surcharges, the latter of course over the former. It is evident that some postmaster in the Monterrey district, following out the instructions contained in the decree of Oct. 7, 1914, sent in a sheet of 1 centavo stamps that had already received the Monterrey surcharge. This was passed along to the printer to receive the "printed $ surcharge" and was finally issued and used in Mexico City. I enclose my specimen of this rarity, which is on half the original cover, so that you may know that I didn't dream it."—S. B. HOPKINS.

—In a recent issue of the WEEKLY was an editorial with the title, "Broken Plate Proved," with reference to the 3c green, 1870, a stamp to which the WEEKLY has given much attention of late. Another correspondent, Ernst Karl, submits for our inspection a copy of this stamp showing the same interesting features as indicated in the variety described by E. R. Jacobs.

—Nebraska has two new monthly stamp papers. The Stamp Trade published by a company of which Frank S. Parmelee is president and Ora E. Stark secretary has already been mentioned in our columns. Vol. 1, No. 1 of the Nebraska Philatelist now appears with R. W. Ahlmann as editor and proprietor, from Norfolk, Nebr. It has eight pages, sixteen columns, and a sample copy can no doubt be obtained upon request.

TWO MORE G. C. M. OVERPRINTS.

The catalog illustrates a large G. C. M. overprint, but there are two other surcharges of a similar character which have not as yet been given much publicity.

We illustrate the two overprints herewith:—

Surcharge No. 1 is a miniature reproduction of the large surcharge illustrated in the Standard Catalog. It is said to have been used by the Carranza forces in Vera Cruz and vicinity. The second or Gothic type has been used by the Villa forces in various parts of Mexico where General Villa has been in control.

Authentic information as to the use of both these overprints will be welcome.

Later—W. J. Stanton, who is our authority for surcharge number one being used by the Carranza forces in Vera Cruz, states that he has seen this overprint on the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 10, 15, 20, 50c and 1p, 1910 Mexico.

OUR COVER DESIGN MAY 29.

No fewer than nineteen stamps have been used in the construction of our cover design for the May 29 issue. It will be an interesting study for our philatelic rebus lovers and we shall be pleased to reward the energy of those who send in solutions by publishing an honor roll.

We earnestly desire the aid of all our readers in sending this issue to every stamp collector of their acquaintance. There is no better way of gaining a new subscriber to the WEEKLY than the showing of a specimen copy to one who is interested in stamp collecting.

We are out for 9000 subscribers.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

We Take Him In—We have much satisfaction in announcing that Mr. William W. Jewett of Portland, Maine, has joined our corporation, the Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Company. The accession of Mr. Jewett was made possible through the purchase of the holdings of stock in the company by the Estate of I. A. Mekeel, consisting of 251 shares, by Messrs. Wylie, Jewett and Severn, respectively. Mr. Severn now owns about half of the total stock, Mr. Wylie, three-tenths and Mr. Jewett, one-fifth. Mr. Jewett needs no introduction to our readers, as years ago, he won his spurs in the field of philatelic publishing; and his product, the Philatelic Era, had a creditable career extending over many years, first as a monthly and later, as a weekly. Ever since the WEEKLY has been published in Boston, it has been printed in the establishment controlled by Mr. Jewett and to him, we feel that we are indebted for the mechanical sightliness of the paper and for the faithful performance of many of the details in connection with the issue of each weekly number. We welcome Mr. Jewett into our family, the members of which, at least, all like stamps,—and the smell of printers' ink.

and soon, the discerning reader will notice improvements in our paper. It is futile to make promises, as deeds must replace words to make an impression on the skeptical minds of the philatelic reader. Suffice it to say that we are aware that in some respects there is room for improvement in our publication; and we shall not ignore our opportunities. Based on decades of experience, we have a fairly logical sense of procedure in a progressive way and we can guess with some accuracy what will be most acceptable to our great body of readers. As we have said before, there will be no definite change of policy in the conduct of our paper, which, more than ever before, will cater intelligently to the foremost citizens of the philatelic world, the plain collector.

New Type—From Mr. W. C. Michaels, Kansas City, Mo., we have received what seems to be the latest variety from harassed Mexico. Mr. Michaels has a cover from Mexico City, postmarked April 22, bearing the 5 centavos, current, with surcharge, printed from plate in black, G. C. M., in miniature, the tallest letter, C, of the monogram, being 10 millimetres high. The overprint is neater than that in use previously.

* * *

Ye Grateful Ed.—We thank Mr. E. R. Jacobs, Chicago, for the gift of an interesting cover. It is the face of a mourning envelope sent by Rowland Hill to "Fredk. Hill, Esq., Ashton Lodge, Nr. Bristol," with the autograph of "R. Hill" in the lower left corner. The postmark in red, surmounted with a crown is: Paid—10 0c 10—1851, and cross. The frank of Sir Rowland Hill carried the letter in lieu of the stamp. In 1851, Rowland Hill was reaping substantial returns on his inventive genius as in 1846, the public had presented him "with a testimonial valued at $67,000.00." In 1854, Rowland Hill was made Chief Secretary of the English Post Office; and in 1864, the year in which he retired because of poor health, Parliament voted Sir Rowland Hill, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars; the Albert gold medal of the Society of Arts and the degree of D.C.L. were conferred on him and in other ways the services of Rowland Hill were fittingly recognized. Knighthood was bestowed on "the author of the postage stamp" in 1860 or nineteen years before his death in 1879, at the age of 84.

* * *

Good Man—Mr. George A. Chandler, Madison, Wisconsin, who is connected with the University of Wisconsin, has resigned his position as editor-in-chief of the Philatelic West and it is his intention to forsake philately and other collecting forms. Mr. Chandler has worked intelligently for the conservation of philately and his efforts have been of helpful kind. We regret to have to record the passing of Mr. Chandler who will be remembered by our readers for his authoritative treatment of postmark subjects in our columns at different times; and we hope that the lure of philately will be exerted so strongly that he will soon capitulate again.

There Are Others—Our boon companion of twenty years or more ago, Mr. Joseph S. Davis, Los Angeles, California, indites the following well chosen words: "In a recent issue of the WEEKLY, the subject of the ten scarcer stamps cataloguing one dollar or under was put to the readers. This same subject was one of the features of a recent meeting of the South California Branch, No. 35, American Philatelic Society, in our fair city; and I take pleasure in stating that 'yours truly' carried off the prize offered by Mr. B. W. H. Poole for the member exhibiting the scarcest ten. Of all the stamps in this class, the meeting decided that the following were entitled each to a score or point: Argentine Republic, No. 24, 30c orange, cat. $1.00; Dutch Indies, No. 20, 5c green, cat. 12 cents; Bosnia, No. 3, 1n gray lilac, cat. 25 cents; Costa Rica, No. 5, 4r green, used, cat. 30 cents; Guatemala, No. 63, 18c gray, cat. one dollar used; Italy, No. 51, 2l used, cat. one dollar; Netherlands, No. 20, 1c black, used, cat. 60 cents; Roumania, No. 601 to 606, each one dollar, used; and Sweden, No. 21, 6 ore gray, 50 cents used." Mr. Davis' list is a representative one, as it embraces stamps that are of strongest character. There are many scarcities that are of obscurity than those that have been named among the comparatively recent issues and lists of them as well as of other "hard to get" stamps are interesting as well as instructive.

Two Dollar Proprietary—As Mr. J. A. Bangs says, the two dollar revenue stamp, "Wines and Cordials," pays the tax on goods in casks at two cents a quart for wines and six cents a quart for cordials. As we understand the law, the vendor who sells the goods in bulk to the druggist say, does not pay the tax, as it is the consumer that is charged; and the druggist is not the consumer. However, as he sells the liquor or wine to his customers, he places a stamp on the container. It is unlikely that any purchaser in this way would buy twenty-five gallons at once and thereby require the use of the two dollar stamp. However, it is believed that bottled goods shipped in sealed cases before the tax became operative would not have to be dislodged so that stamps could be affixed to the bottles; and consequently, these case goods would be taxable as a unit and demand the use of the two dollar stamp. However, the supply of "goods on hand," the payment of the tax on which in bulk is certified to by a statement to the government, naturally would not be a lasting one; and so, the further use of the high denomination in question would seem to be involved in some uncertainty. Up to the time of our last inquiry at the Chicago office, the two dollar stamp was not in stock. Of course, we shall get to the bottom of this mild mystery as it appears to us at present, and probably we shall wonder why we were so dense as not to have understood all the possibilities of use. Those who have the used two dollar in quantity, might tell us what their specimens paid the tax on.

CO-OPERATION WITH A BIG "C."

When a subscriber sends in three new yearly subscriptions, it makes glad the heart of the managing editor. This is what Ora E. Stark has done during the past week, sending us two new subscribers from Omaha and one from Lawrence, Kansas. Such coöperation is heartily appreciated.

LISTS OF A's WANTED.

What "A's" should be inserted in our "Philatelic Dictionary," soon to be begun in the WEEKLY. Send in your lists and we shall have some awards of a suitable nature for the three best lists. We shall do better than this if any considerable interest should be manifested.

We desire a speedy response so as to lend a bit of a helping hand in the opening instalments.

Fine Stock Bought

I have bought the entire stock, fixtures, good will, etc., of the Empire Stamp Co., of 83 Nassau St., New York. This stock consists of both 19th and 20th Century used and unused, Foreign and U. S. There are many thousands of varieties, beautifully arranged in some 30 stock books, as well as a large surplus stock in envelopes, etc., carefully arranged in drawers, placed in the two safes. There are many very choice stamps in the stock, and the condition is extremely fine. Many nice things for Collectors as well as wholesale lots, etc., for the Dealer. The stock will probably list $50,000 or $60,000. This added to my already large stock, gives me one of the largest and finest stocks in the Country.

I shall be glad to meet customers at my John Street office, or the Nassau Street office for a short time. Stamps, etc., not disposed of within a few weeks, will be moved to my office at 18 John Street.

THERE ARE THOUSANDS OF NICE clean stamps, mounted on sheets. These will be sold very cheap to dealers.

Try These! $3.50 cat. value for 50c; $8.00 cat. value, $1.00; $15.00 cat. value, only $1.65.

I have the goods and it will pay you to keep in touch with me. Offers of desirable stamps may follow. Address

THE DOCUMENTARY REVENUE STAMPS OF THE STATE OF NEVADA.

By FRANK L. APPLEGATE.

THE ROULETTE STAMPS.

These have always been catalogued as a part of the issue of 1865, and while this is not to be wondered at owing to the impossibility of securing definite and authoritative data on the subject, it is my belief that the actual date should be placed two or three years later. Personally, I have not seen any dated (cancelled) before 1868. There are two roulettes, issued and used, I think at the same time. The less common being described as 16 to 18 points to the two millimeter unit, the more common at ten. In some stamps these are also found compounded. Valentine & Francis, A. L. Bancroft & Co. and Button and Company have been variously credited with the production of the Nevada revenues, but in the absence of official data on the subject and the lack of any mark on the sheets themselves it may never be definitely known who did the work. It is reasonable to presume, however, or at least possible that the work was done by different firms. The plates presumably were turned in to the authorities along with the first issue of stamps of $350,000. When certain of the values most used finally ran out, new plates had to be made whether by the same company or not as the plate arrangement of the roulette stamps is entirely different from that of the issue already described, although the dies are the same; that is all except some of the two cent ones. The paper is also somewhat different, being heavier and more porous on an average than in the imperforate stamps. The inks are also different. The stamps are all gummed. The normal plate arrangement which is adhered to in nearly all of them is one consisting of two panes of fifty (five rows of ten) arranged foot to foot as it were. There is a white strip of about eleven millimeters, between the two panes and a margin varying from 13 to 20 millimeters clear around the sheet which has no imprint or marks of any kind with the exception of a small cross mark in the centre of the space between the two panes and a couple of guide points of color.

The two cent roulette stamp comes from both the original die, and a new one described as "double star" (see cut). Some single copies of the double star stamp have indeed been found imperforate with pretty fair margins but it is thought they are trimmed copies or at best imperforate errors of an otherwise rouletted stamp. I have seen none dated earlier than 1869. Another variety of the two cent is the one in yellow. This is a good bright yellow, or rather orange yellow very much like the 10 cent yellow U. S. postage of 1908.

Prominent collectors and students of these stamps maintain that this is a chanceling due to soaking, while others including Mr. Kenyon and Dr. Lee claim otherwise. I have, myself, soaked copies of the 2 cent orange in water for ten days with no result. Again quoting Dr. Lee: "Your 2 cent yellow is not a chanceling; nor is it chemically diverted from the normal. I have a block of the rouletted 10, a part of a former block of 20 or more. The paper is bright, crisp and unstained. The gum is perfect and the general appearance is that of mint condition."

All I have seen are cancelled during 1869 and 1870.

Another variety diverging from the normal in this issue that I wish to call particular attention to is the fifty cent dark purple on thick paper. The color is almost purple black, and quite distinctive from the common violet brown, and the paper is nearly as thick as is that of the five and fifty cent stamps imperforate. It comes in both roulettes.

The one dollar stamp is the only one of this issue that diverges from the normal in the plate arrangement. There are two plates quite different in every way. The first one has the same number of subjects as has the one dollar plate of the imperforate series, i. e.: two panes side by side, twenty-five to the pane. In the imperforate $1 stamps there is in common with the others of the set a faint outer line running clear around the design and forming a complete and independent rectangle. In the plate in question from which some of the roulette stamps were printed there is a line of color between each row of stamps, both vertically and horizontally intersecting at the corners and dividing the sheet into rectangles, but not independent ones. The other plate is normal in its arrangement (two panes of fifty) but lacks the colored lines, leaving no line between designs at all. Neither plate shows the outer rectangle known on the imperf stamps. Furthermore the stamps from this latter plate are of a different color which has generally been catalogued as "crimson". It has none of the rose quality of the former varieties and tends more toward orange red.

Some of the imperforate stamps, particularly some of the two cent and five dollar denomination, but possibly all values come on watermarked paper. The watermark consists of a large shield about three and one-fourth inches high, and two and a half inches wide, the upper third of which is barred horizontally and the other portion vertically. Large stars surround the upper portion while a word part of which can be deciphered as Carew appears below the shield in large outline Roman letters. This is a sheet watermark and undoubtedly of no official significance.

A 2c CHECK STAMP.

There is one more variety of Nevada revenue to which I wish to call particular attention. Dr. Lee says:

"The Bank of California (San Francisco) in 1870, 1871 or 1872 had the Federal stamp on their checks overprinted with a 2 cent Nevada stamp. Whether other banks did the same I am unable to answer." I have examined a copy of a check thus overprinted. The die is identical with the single star 2 cent Nevada adhesive and is printed over the Federal 2 cent check stamp, design with the eagle at bay, described in Sterling's catalogue as New York die B—Variety 3 (No. 23). The Federal stamp is yellow orange and the Nevada stamp red brown. The check is printed in carmine on white paper, is headed Virginia, Nevada, and has signature of Jas. G. Fair. Strict consistency would demand the inclusion of this item under the first classification of state revenues, i. e.: non-adhesive stamped paper.

issue on highly surfaced white cards 46x74 millimeters in size. The impressions are in grayish ink and correspond with the designs of the imperforate stamps, there being no 2 cent double star. All have the outer line of the design as in the stamps themselves, but the 2 cent has an extra fine additional outer line which I have never seen on any of the stamps.

REMAINDERS.

There is no reason to suppose that any reprints were ever made, but when we come to Reminders that is another matter. In the report of one of the early Controllers, referring to the return of the unused reminders to his office when the law was repealed, is this significant sentence. "Many of the stamps are unaccounted for through carelessness of the officials"; hence, in course of time some of these found their way into unauthorized hands. This is the original source of what sheets Dr. Lee has, they having come to him as a gift many years ago and long before he became interested in stamps as such.

Following up a lead contained in a letter from the Hon. Sam Davis, who was State Controller from 1898 to 1906. I had a certain party then in Nevada with whom I had previously had an acquaintance and whom I know to be reliable call on Mr. Davis and inquire into the matter of reminders still on hand. Here is an extract from his report made February 6, 1905:

"There are still on hand hundreds of thousands of stamps of 2, 5, 10, 25, 50 cent and $1 and $5 denominations mostly in sheets, but all of the $10 and $20 stamps have been stolen some time since by unknown persons and there are none of these left. Mr. Davis has had many letters asking to purchase the stamps, but he has always refused to sell them claiming that he had no authority to do so." Since then I have paid no attention to the matter, but now find that the reminders have all disappeared. Here is the great mystery. What did become of them? From the fact that Mr. Davis had had many letters asking to purchase them, it would seem that their existence was known to a good many interested parties, yet they have never come on the market in quantities sufficient to reveal any large holdings. Dr. Lee feels certain that the reminders as well as the plates were finally destroyed. No act authorizing their sale nor memorandum of such sale can be found.

There is a wide divergence in the prices of Nevada revenues as quoted in various catalogues and will be, it seems to me, until the matter of the fate of the reminders is definitely known.

I had some samples of the reminders in Mr. Davis' custody in 1905 and am quite certain that none of the imperforate 4 cent, 5 cent dull green, 50c on thick paper and $5.00 stamps were included in the reminders at that time, hence the comparative rarity of these varieties.

AUSTRALIA.—Arthur Russell has shown us specimens of the 1d Kangaroo, with large and small "OS" official perforations.

Ewen's Weekly has the following interesting correspondence from Australia:

"Two more denominations have appeared with King's head. This practically proves my conviction (oft expressed since the 4d came out King—even in the teeth of official incredulity) that the whole of our Kangaroos are about to change into Kings. Not that it required a great deal of perspicacity to expect a logical sequel. For, you see, the Kings are not only a different perf, but a different size paper. Therefore, the confusion and inconvenience to the Department resultant on the two kinds being issued at one and the same time, on the face of it, could only be due to a phase of transition. Of course, the penny is a stamp apart—sheets being used to singles of other denominations, and therefore might have remained sin generis, but immediately, a higher value like the 4d appeared King, the shadow of "coming [Philatelic] events" was plainly discernible.

"I have discovered a curious current variety. You have doubtless noticed that the watermark of King stamps is rather different to that of the Kangaroo. The crown varies, but the outstanding feature is that, whereas the "A" of the latter is squat, that of King's is tall and narrow, thus "A." Marginal words, (Commonwealth of Australia), are same except for being more squat in the King paper; which is also rather thicker, with surface inclined to be chalky. Well, a few of the latest sheets, 2d Kangaroo, are on King paper, though the printing must have been very small, as one seldom sees more than one sheet thus together. One result of this mis-use of King paper is that very few stamps of the sheet have the watermark well centred."

AUSTRIA.—According to Ewen's Weekly, four new Charity Stamps are being prepared. The denominations are 3h, 5h, 10h and 25h, with two hellers added, like the 5h and 10h stamps already noted, but depicting quite different subjects.

BOSNIA.—Ewen's Weekly is informed that the 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 10, 12, 20, 25, and 60h stamps of the issue of 1912, have been issued as Austrian Field Post stamps by being overprinted in black, in two lines, slanting upward, "K. u. K. Feldpost." The other stamps of the 1906 set are to be issued as War Aid stamps by being surcharged like the 5h and 10h values of the same issue already noted.

CANADA.—W. R. Pringle informs us that a circular has been issued by the Canadian Postal authorities, stating that, "it had been decided to accept the War Tax Stamps, bearing 'War Tax' in white letters as prepayment of postage." These stamps are therefore postage stamps in the full sense of the word. This is proved by letters coming through with no other stamps on them.

Arthur Russell reports having seen a cover with both the 1c and 2c War Tax stamps postally used. Mr. Pringle's letter has three of the 1c stamps and we have seen other covers with all kinds of odd combinations.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Ewen's Weekly reports the £1 stamp in dull blue green, instead of the bright green of the earlier printings.

Morocco Agencies.—The 1½d King George stamps has been overprinted, "Morocco Agencies," and new value like the 20c on 2d recently chronicled.

Adhesive.

15c on 1½d brown.

HUNGARY.—The postage due stamps are now appearing with red instead of black figures of value, the 10f and 20f values being reported by Ewen's Weekly, on paper watermarked multiple crosses.

Postage Due Adhesives.

10f green and red.
20f green and red.

NIGERIA.—According to the Colonial Journal, a new supply of stamps is being prepared in the same design and colors as the first issue. The 3d, 4d, 1sh, 5sh and 10sh are all to be printed on paper colored through, whereas, in the first issues, all these values were on surface tinted paper.

RUSSIA.—According to a correspondent in the London Philatelist, serious changes are imminent in Russian Red Cross stamps:

"With reference to my last note re the Charity stamps, I beg to inform you that as there appears to be a great demand for 2k stamps for wrappers and for 5k stamps for city letters, the Women's Patriotic Committee has asked her Imperial Majesty, the Empress Alexandra Feodorovna, for permission to issue the above-named values; meanwhile, the first engraver at the State printing office, M. Sarring, is at work; the 2k shows soldiers at work with cannons, and the 5k, a cavalry attack of Cossacks. The size will be much smaller—about the size of the Commemorative stamps of the 1913 issue; and, as the size of the Charity stamps, 1, 3, 7, and 10k, has been found to be a very unsuitable one, it is also contemplated to replace these stamps by a new issue of a much smaller size. It is also possible that these, as well as the new 2 and 5k stamps, will be printed on white paper, as the stock of coloured paper has now become exhausted."

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Kelantan.—The Colonial Journal reports that the border of the $1 stamp has been changed to brown, owing to the similarity of the $1 green to the 1c green.

Adhesive.

$1 brown and green.

Federated Malay States.—The current 4c and 10c stamps now have their centres printed in very shiny black ink.

Trengganu.—The Colonial Journal reports the colors changed of several of the current stamps, the lower values being now bi-colored.

Adhesives.

2c brown rose and brown.
4c green and Italian brown.
5c brown and gray.
10c red and green on yellow.
25c purple and green.
30c black and purple.
$3 red and green on green.

THE ELUSIVE "SPECIMEN".

By HARRY E. HUBER.

A recent contributor to the WEEKLY writes that "Specimen" stamps are not available for postage, but are samples for distribution to the countries comprising the Universal Postal Union. Through favor, however, some copies get on the market, but these are very few. 722 copies of each denomination (in distinctive type or color) are sent to the Bureau at Berne, from whence distribution is made.

These stamps are scarce, even though there is little demand for them. A year or so ago I decided to include "Specimen" stamps of the Cayman Islands in my collection of that Colony, and found early in the game that I was not going to have smooth sailing.

From a New York dealer I got the 6d George, while a couple 1/2d and 1d values, with the 1/4d of 1908, came from a friend. There I rested while I circularized the dealers over here. They were sorry, but had none. In fact, hadn't seen any.

In London I got the 6d Edward, P & R, and on the continent I got quite a few, but by no means was I able to complete the country. The prices were not low—the 5s, 1907, cost me about three times face value.

In London recently quite a lot of "Specimen" stamps were sold at auction. I understand the collector who got the Cayman Islands section (not complete, by any means) paid approximately $20.

Even in the stamps of the Cayman Islands, the surcharges of 1907 and 1908 are not the only things unobtainable—for one with moderate means.

WE HAVE A RIGHT TO CELEBRATE.

We propose May 29 for the date!

It will take the form of special number that will celebrate the "new birth" as well as the great circulation feat of 8,000 paid subscribers recently accomplished by the WEEKLY.

It will have a pretty cover made entirely from postage stamp designs.

Advertisers will note the date and make their plans accordingly. Put a little "pep" into your publicity propaganda and there will be a quick response.

The New Birth of "Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News"

☐ The entire Mekeel interest in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY has passed into the hands of Charles E. Severn, Willard O. Wylie, and William W. Jewett. Mr. Jewett is well and favorably known to the stamp trade as owner and printer of the old Philatelic Era and is the motive power in the Jewett Printing Co., Portland, Me., which has printed the WEEKLY ever since it moved to Boston.

☐ We are going to recognize the new order of things with a special issue of the WEEKLY, Saturday, May 29, and we desire your patronage. We shall give full value for every dollar invested. Our circulation will be gathered from:—

- (a) Orders sent us by the Marks Stamp Company
- (b) Addresses obtained from WEEKLY subscribers
- (c) Sample copy requests received during the summer

Advise us at once how much space you need in this special issue

Our famous quarter page at $15.00 is a most favorable advertising offer

☐ We shall have a cover of a purely stampic flavor made up in an artistic manner and the contents of the entire number will be of a high order.

Our Advertising Dummy is Already Under Way

How Much Space Do You Want And Where Do You Want It?

All Copy Must be in by May 22nd at the Latest

☐ The WEEKLY has been a great paper throughout all its career but it will be a greater paper in the future. Its three owners combine to a large degree the qualities essential for newspaper success and the new relationship will prove a particularly strong one.

☐ We may properly celebrate the "New Birth"!

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS,

BOSTON, MASS.

WITH THE NEW PHILATELIST.

Edited by BILL BLOSS, 2729 Hampden Court, Chicago, Ill.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE FABLE OF THE GINK WHO NEARLY WRECKED HIS HAPPY HOME.

Once upon a time, The Perfect Man lived in The Ideal Bungalow with the Only Girl. Life was a Happy Dream, with nothing to interrupt except the Gas Bill and The Only Girl's Mother. Both of these Evils only occurred once a Month, so everything ran along smoothly. The Only Girl was the grandest Little Cook. The P. M. nearly killed all his Friends inviting them to the Angel's Roost to inspect the labors of the O. G., who was the G. L. C. Seldom, if ever, did the Friends ever come back for more. Life consisted of an elegant Meal in the Morning with Lots of Kisses; nine long Hours at the Office; another Meal with more Kisses; washing the Dishes; more Kisses; then the Porch-Swing and Perfect Bliss.

Everything went along this way for Six Months. The Perfect Man was kept as busy as a One-armed Paper Hanger with the Hives trying to chase in enough Rubles to keep the Only Girl supplied with Flummydoodles and new Hats. The Poor Goof hadn't learned that Married Men don't give their Wives Candy and Flowers. The Only Girl could make a Twenty-case Note look like a Jinney quicker than a Carpenter quitting for Lunch. Every time the Tailor needed a New Tire for the Flivver, he would gently advise the Only Girl that the New Fall Models were in, and the Price of the Tire would come right home. Poor Warren had to cut down Expenses. He smoked only Quarter Cigars now. He couldn't afford Whole Ones. Every time he took Milk on his Baked Apple instead of Cream, he saved a Nickel. When he got a Dollar saved, Friend Wife would have a New Way to Spend it. Still they were happy.

One Day, Mother blew in and caught the O. G. dusting the Piano. "Why do your own Work and cheat some poor Belgian out of a Job? I didn't raise my Girl to be a housemaid," exclaimed the Demon Mother-in-law, as she sowed the Seed of Rebellion. That Night, the Perfect Man got his right in the Bank Roll. He started a Pay Roll. That worked so fine, the Disturber of the Peace started something else. "Let your Husband do his own Housekeeping for a While and train him. Come Home and visit me." That night, Warren coughed up the fare to B'Gosh corners and took his Sentence of Solitary Life.

The First Night, Warren didn't grab the 5.15, but stayed in town to be Naughty. He lost 80c playing Kelly-pool. The next night, he decided to go home and water the Flowers. The City looked Nix to him. After feeding the Canary and putting down the Canned Salmon, he started in for an evening of Simple Life. An Idea struck him and burst. He got out the Old Stamp Album and went to it, for the First Time since he met Helen. This was the Life. At 2.35 G. M. he exterminated the Light and Dreamed Happily of a New Set of Colonials with Helen's Picture on them.

The Next Day, he couldn't get to a Dealer's quick enough, and shot the balance of his small Wad for a Catalogue and some New Issues. A Week later, when Helen came back, she found a Changed Husband. The poor Boob kissed her with a Mouthful of Hinges and pulled a Specialized Collection of 2c Reds on her. That evening, instead of the Porch Swing Sketch, He soaked Continentals and She knit Nighties for the Navy.

After a month of this Life, Helen began to wonder if this WAS the Perfect Man. The Dealers made the Bank Roll as Skinny as a Vegetarian's Cat. When Helen asked for a Time to tip the Milkman, Warren growled ferociously and asked her how she thought he could spend that Amount and still buy those New Sonoras. Their Married Life wasn't broken, but it was certainly Badly Bent. Helen hated a stamp so much she used to telegraph instead of writing.

Warren, too, began to notice that Someone had spilled Mustard on the Home, Sweet Home. He wondered if Helen's Salads had always tasted of Polarine. The Ache that he had blamed as Palpitation of the Heart caused by Cupid was now doped out to be Indigestion caused by Friend Wife's biscuits. Helen discovered that Warren was a Crab and Warren believed he had picked the Proverbial Lemon.

Just when the Divorce Lawyers were rubbing their Hands and sharpening the Axe to chop up the Happy Home, and Real Estate Man was figuring the Commission for renting the Ideal Bungalow, Nature stepped in and issued a Commemorative.

Helen insisted that It was Good-looking, like the Papa, and Warren said it got its beauty from the Mama. The neighbors all agreed that it looked like a Seebeck and was Badly Off Center, not to mention a few Trifling Thin Spots.

Between doing the Fox Trot with the Most Wonderful Child in the Little Hours and humping all day to keep up with the Milkman, Warren had little Time for the Stamp Stuff. From the Racket the Spawn made when he was cutting his Perforations, the Neighbors doped out that Some Day he would be the Big Noise in a Boiler Factory.

One Day, Warren made a Whale of a Discovery. The Pocket Edition was a Life Picture of the Baby on the 1/2c Newfoundland. Even Helen was overcome by the Discovery. Surely, it meant he would be a Big Man.

The Big Event happened when the Larva was Six Months Old. He saw the Old Man working on a page of Mexicans, and said "Da-da," signifying that he was a Born Collector. That was too much for Helen. If the Perfect Husband and Wonderful Baby saw something in Philately, there was something in it. Helen got busy, and hunted for Stitch Watermarks every evening when Warren went through the Shifted Dies. Pretty soon, she was as Wild as any other Collector, and they started out to show what Team Work would do in Philately.

And, contrary to the Expectations of the Well-wishing Friends and Relatives, they lived Happily ever after.

Moral: Sometimes, it is best to Educate 'em up to it.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

As I shall be absent from the city for the next three or four months, and shall have no permanent address, it will be impossible for me to answer any correspondence, either through the columns of the paper or by private reply, therefore, I will thank you all to keep your inquiries until my return. I shall have a new supply of information to give you next fall. My articles will, however, continue as heretofore. All outstanding matters will receive attention before my departure.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

G. D. F., Jr.—Dutch Indies stamps surcharged "Buiten-Besit" are classified Dutch Indies and are merely a separate issue of those islands. The Java surcharge may be placed under Java or under Dutch Indies as you prefer.

The purple stamp inscribed "Marca da Bollo" at top and "Cent mi Cinque" at bottom is an Italian revenue and has little value.

sold in large quantities, canceled, to business concerns for use on mail to be sent out in quantity. A careful record is kept of each sale to prevent the misuse of the stamps for individual purposes. Their use saves labor in canceling.

B. W.—As far as we know, single sheets of the 1c and 2c imperforates can be bought at the St. Louis post office. Many offices of this size carry imperforates.

Coils are issued in strips, and come in 500 and 1,000 stamps to the spool. "Paste-up pairs" are the pairs showing the joining of one strip to another. Coils are not issued in sheets, but in continuous strips, hence the impossibility of getting them in blocks.

Most collectors hinge blocks with only a single hinge, generally applied to the top center of the block. If the block shows a tendency to curl, it is sometimes wise to use a second hinge near the bottom.

The WEEKLY cannot act as reference for any collector. Whether your correspondent gave a S. P. A. number is not important, though it will be advisable to ascertain whether or not he is a member of that society. The fact that he refers to the WEEKLY places him in a doubtful position. It is usually impossible to get information from dealers. Most of them haven't the "service idea" and will not get it until the "live ones" chase them out of business.

C. W. H.—There are numerous errors in the Venezuelan issues you mention, but why Scott should fail to list this one, I do not know. There are a great many varieties of this kind that are uncatalogued for no particular reason. These stamps are poor sellers, and I have no quotation on the imperforate vertically variety. A specialist might be coaxed to pay you a fair premium for it.

E. L. C.—I am no precancel expert, either, but am glad to see your 2c and 4c Honolulu. If "A. J. R." will send me his address and a 2c stamp for postage, I will gladly forward them to him with your letter.

Z. S.—Your list will be used in a future article. Turkey 2pa olive yellow is listed by Scott as a Newspaper stamp, No. 368.

A. L.—Your violet-colored stamp inscribed "Marca da Bollo" and "Centmi Cinque" is an Italian revenue stamp, of little value.

A. D. C., Jr.—The 3c Cuba map stamp seems to be scarce, and I should say it was worth at present about 80c a hundred, at the lowest. The 5c is worth about 40c, the 8c is worth $1.00, and the 10c about 40c. These prices may seem too low to you, but a great many of these stamps are coming through. The 3c seems best of all.

M. O.—Your stamps inscribed "Magyar Kir Tavidra" are Hungarian, but just what their use is, if not fiscal, I do not know. There are some private and local stamps, as well as private revenues, of these European States and they are quite a study in themselves.

I have never heard of a double transfer on the surcharged 1 sol Peru, but possibly, this may have been discovered. It ought to be worth something to a specialist. Is it a double impression? Why not refer this to George W. Linn, of Columbus, Ohio, who is, I believe, a specialist on this country.

THE STAMPS OF NORTH GERMAN CONFEDERATION.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

In 1869 it was decided to issue the stamps with machine perforation instead of with the more or less unsatisfactory rouletting. The machine used had a gauge of 14 by 14½. The stamps began to appear in February but as it was decided to use up the old stock first some of the denominations with perforation did not appear until 1870. The 5gr, for instance, was not in use until February, 1870, while the 18kr came into use at a still later date.

The special stamp for Hamburg was also issued with perforation.

Reference List.

1869-70. Typographed, Perf. 14 by 14½.

13. ¼gr lilac, Scott's No. 13 or 13a.
14. ¼gr green, Scott's No. 14.
15. ½gr orange, Scott's No. 15.
16. 1gr rose, Scott's No. 16.
17. 2gr blue, Scott's No. 17.
18. 5gr bistre, Scott's No. 18.
19. 1kr green, Scott's No. 19.
20. 2kr orange, Scott's No. 20.
21. 3kr rose, Scott's No. 21.
22. 7kr blue, Scott's No. 22.
23. 18kr bistre, Scott's No. 23.
Local for Hamburg.
24. ½sch violet brown, No. 24 or 24a.

THE THIRD ISSUE.

On March 1st, 1869, two new high value stamps of 10 and 30 groschen were issued. The designs were evidently inspired by the stamps of similar values issued by Prussia in 1866 on the so-called "goldbeater's skin." They were not for the use of the public but were affixed by the postal officials to heavy packages or registered matter requiring high postage and prepaid in cash. Instructions were also given to cancel the stamps with pen and ink, hence the comparatively high prices of postmarked specimens. The 10 groschen shows the numerals of value in the centre of an oval band which is inscribed "NORDDEUTSCHER POSTBEZIRK" in its upper part and "GROSCHEN" at the base. The rest of the design is filled with a ground composed of "ZEHN GROSCHEN" in small capitals repeated as often as necessary to complete the rectangular shape of the stamps. In the case of the 30 groschen, the numerals 30 are in a rectangle with a frame around inscribed above and below as on the 10gr. The sides of the frame are filled with ornamentation and the ground-work is a repetition of the words "DREISSIG GROSCHEN." Both values were printed on white wove paper and were perforated 14½ by 14.

Reference List.

1869. Perf. 14½ by 14.
25. 10gr grey, Scott's No. 25.
26. 30gr blue, Scott's No. 26.

OFFICIAL STAMPS.

Pursuant to a law passed on June 5th, 1869, it was decided to issue special stamps for franking official correspondence and other mail. The stamps were issued on January 1st, 1870, and as with the ordinary stamps there were two series, one with values in groschen and the other with denominations in kreuzer. The design is the same for both series and consists of an octagonal frame, of a transverse oblong shape, inscribed "NORD-DEUTSCHE-POST" along its three upper sides. At the foot is "GROSCHEN" or "KREUZER," the spaces at the sides being filled with ornaments. In the centre are the words "DIENST" and "SACHE," reading up at left and down at right respectively, with numerals of value between. The color is black for all values the designs being printed on a background composed of a repetition of "NORDDEUTSCHER POSTBEZIRK" within a dotted rectangular frame. The color of this ground is pale red brown for the groschen values and grey for the kreuzer stamps. The stamps are all perforated 14½ by 14.

REMAINDERS.

None of the stamps of the North German Confederation were ever reprinted but when they were superseded by the issue for the German Empire in December, 1871, there was a large stock of remainders of most values. These were sold by the German government later but whether in small quantities or in one lot I have been unable to trace.

ALSACE AND LORRAINE.

The stamps generally known as the issues for Alsace and Lorraine were really a sub-issue of the North German Confederation. These stamps were used in those parts of France occupied by the German Army in the war of 1870-71, and afterwards provisionally in the annexed provinces of Alsace and Lorraine until they were superseded by the general issues for the German Empire. It should be distinctly understood that these stamps were not issued for the use of the German troops for all soldiers' letters, parcels, etc. were forwarded free of charge, but they were intended to be used by the civilian population of the districts temporarily under German control. Much has been written on the subject of these interesting stamps the best article in the English language being, perhaps, that by Mr. G. B. Duerst, which appeared in the Philatelic Record in 1896. I am indebted to Mr. Duerst for much of the following information. In the early portion of his article this writer says:—

We all know that these stamps were issued in consequence of the Franco-German war, and this in itself should make them interesting to all collectors, considering that they owe their origin to a decidedly historical period, a time of trouble and anxiety, not only to the two nations principally concerned, but also to all the other nations of Europe in a minor degree. How many stamps exist that have such a weighty reason for their existence? Their stern simplicity of design seems to bear witness to the time of issue; no name, no ornamentation, neither head nor coat-of-arms, everything points to the fact that they were issued at a grave period, when nobody could foresee the ultimate end.

It is interesting to know that the German government already in August, 1870, had practically decided upon what land had to be ceded by France, as all the obliterating dies of places within this radius having French names were issued bearing their old German names. Thus we find:

Mulhouse changed to Mülhausen.
Strassbourg changed to Strassburg.
Nancy changed to Nanzig.
Thionville changed to Diedenhofen.
Riquevihar changed to Reichenweier.
Ferrete changed to Pfirt.
Wasselonne changed to Wasselheim, etc.

Of course, we also find the old French obliterating dies, but rarer. For all places outside this radius the French obliterating dies were used as they were found, but, in uniformity with the German custom, only the dies having name and date inscribed. The French dot dies have also been used, but very rarely; as a matter of fact, it was against all orders to do so. Naturally, when the French die was worn out or got damaged a new one had to be made, and then we find German-shaped dies with French names, notably Rouen.

Wherever the German troops went they established post-offices, but whether these stamps were ever used in Paris is very doubtful. Reinheimer, in his work, mentions a specimen with the Paris obliteration, but, unfortunately, the die does not give any year. Krötsch gives one also, but the date there is August 16th, 1871; a date which is about six months after the time these stamps could be used in France, besides there is on the envelope a French stamp (head of Liberty) 20c blue, which paid the postage.

As far as official records can be found, no German post-office was established in Paris during the limited stay of the German troops, and of course, if no German post-office existed, no letters with Alsace-Lorraine stamps would be forwarded.

This "Occupation" postal service came into use in the beginning of September, 1870. It had its own administration, with headquarters first at Nancy, later removed to Rheims; also General Post Offices at Metz (from the 6th October) for German Lorraine, and at Strassburg (from the 1st of October) for Alsace. It had its own laws, taxes, etc., and came to an end on the 24th of March, 1871, when all offices outside the ceded provinces of Alsace and Lorraine were handed over to French officials in accordance with the convention signed on the 22nd of March. A few places were still in German hands, but further negotiations also gave these back to France. The most notable of these places was Belfort.

From this date (March 24th, 1871) all letters in the interior of France, or from France to other countries, had again to be franked by French stamps at the same rates that were in force before the war. In the ceded provinces of Alsace-Lorraine these stamps were used until the 31st December, 1871. Mr. R. F. Albrecht says in the Illustrated Stamp Journal, that letters franked with such stamps were allowed until late in 1873, but I cannot quite agree with him, as the decree dated Berlin, 16th of October, 1871, distinctly states that letters franked with such stamps after the 31st December, 1871, should be considered as not franked.

Until February 15th unused stamps could be exchanged at the post offices for German stamps, which had to be used since January 1st, 1872.

FOR YOUR EYE.

TO THE EDITOR:—

You like to do a good turn once in a while for a "shut-in" and here I believe is a good opportunity. A few months ago, I had a letter from a young man, Raymond N. Tucker, No. 549 Birr St., Rochester, N. Y., stating that he had not a great many desirable duplicates, but that so far as his duplicates might be useful to me he would like to exchange stamps with me. The correspondence has continued and we have done quite a bit of exchanging.

In the course of the correspondence, but mentioned in a casual way to explain a delay or something, Tucker stated that he was lame, moving about in a tricycle, and as he could not get out much when there was snow on the ground, he had a good deal of time on his hands which he would like to devote to stamps, but found it hard to get in touch with other collectors. He is 21 years of age, has been collecting stamps for 10 years or more, and offers as reference Mr. Joseph A. Crane, Ex-Postmaster of Rochester.

I asked him if he did not think he could work up a little stamp business if I should give him some suitable stamps for approval trade to start and he seemed very grateful, but said he had found it very difficult to get in touch with buyers. I sent him the names of several collectors who had applied to me for approval selections, and am wondering if you would not be willing to mention him to your readers with the idea that they might suggest to juniors or beginners to write him for approval selections. By that, I mean that he will have few stamps that catalogue over 10c each, but, so far as I can help him with advice, he will have only good worthwhile stamps in extra good condition.

I have given you the facts, and if you feel like devoting a little space to some extracts from this letter, you will be doing a good act and it will be appreciated by

Yours very sincerely,
L. A. BEEBE.

JUST A FEW POINTS.

Regular advertising each week is the only publicity that really pays. Spasmodic ads may win business but regular advertising compels it.

Don't let your advt. get stale. Every price given in the WEEKLY is eagerly scanned and the repeat of an advertisement is seldom called for. This applies to definite offerings of stamps and not albums, catalogs and auction sales.

Our cover next week will give the rebus lovers a chance to set their wits at work. Nineteen different stamps may be discovered if the hunt be successful.

The managing editor had a good time in N. Y. City last week, calling on the dealers. He was given a royal reception.

When a dealer tells us his advg. does not pay, we know there's a screw loose either in advertised offers or follow up methods. We advertised in the WEEKLY for seven years and know what we are talking about.

We want regular advertisers, for their own good as well as ours, and our offer of space at $1.80 the inch per week is a bargain. It takes 2000 lines, used in a year, to get this rate on spasmodic advertising.

If the paper be late next week don't get worried. It may run to sixteen pages.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Director General of Posts—The director general of posts of Mexico, Carranza faction, accompanied by one of his consuls, was in Chicago recently where he was the guest of Mr. A. Roterberg. It was arranged that we should meet Senor Cosme Hinojosa, the director; and at our interview we learned much interesting information concerning the Constitutionalist issues; and light was thrown on some of the obscurities of their history. Senor Hinojosa does not understand English and we were dependent upon Dr. Alfredo Caturegli, Mexican Consul of the Constitutionalist Government, Chicago, for elucidation.

Philadelphia, Pa.

While conversation was not of a sprightly variety at our meeting, yet we succeeded in gaining a mass of data that is worth collating.

* * *

A Surmise—The objects of the visit of the postmaster general of Mexico to America evidently were somewhat diverse in character. The functionary had with him a large stock of practically all of the issues of the Constitutionals, except the first; and it was assumed that it was his intention to sell the stamps in this country as he disposed of the entire lot for cash while in Chicago. Senor Hinojosa is arranging for the new issue that is in preparation by the Carranza authorities; and it is probably his plan to visit different dealers as he had their addresses in his itinerary. We cannot say just what philatelic knowledge Senor Hinojosa possesses, but we suspect that it is not extensive or precise. Indeed, the tendency to naivete was noticeable when market prices of different issues were under discussion.

For Illustration—A better understanding of the stamp situation was gained and the postal decrees in the possession of Senor Hinojosa were of historical value. Further, it seems that "gentlemen's agreements" obtain between the factionists and that the Villa forces respect the postal issues of Carranza and vice versa. A cover was shown that bore both the so-called Villa and the Carranza surcharges side by side. An envelope addressed to Senor Hinojosa from a point in Yucatan had the double surcharge, the printed "Gobierno Constitucionalista Mexicana." The monogram surcharge, G. C. M., printed, was used as early as February 11th and the small printed G. C. M., February 15th. Senor Hinojosa said that the Torreón surcharges were really not authorized and that they were created without the consent of the postal powers but that the tone of legitimacy was conferred on these stamps by the acceptance of them for postal duty.

Stumped—The cover on our special issue of next week is reconstructed from parts of the designs of nearly a score of stamps that are familiar to collectors but it is likely that one would have to spend some time in assigning these parts to the stamps from which they are taken. At a recent meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society, Mr. R. McP. Cabeen gave a chalk talk by drawing a salient and distinctive feature of the design on a large sheet of paper; and it was surprising how difficult the proper placing proved to be. For instance, the fret work in each corner of the queen's head Hong Kong was not identified by a single contestant; and "Dienst" as first used (on the North German Postal District officials) was not located by anyone.

A Wily One—The offer by a dealer of an amazingly high price for a ninety cent of the 1869 issue used on the envelope has excited some comment and a number of letters have been received asking why the stamp in the condition indicated should be esteemed so highly. In the first place we do not know of the existence of this stamp on the original cover, notwithstanding that collectors of stamps on the envelopes were aware years ago that the ninety cent 1869 was a commodity to obtain which inspired their best efforts. While the rates of domestic postage were three cents a half-ounce in 1869, the charges for postage to foreign countries were still excessive. For instance, there was a formidable list of countries to which the postage by French mail was thirty cents for each quarter-ounce. It is safe to say that most of the ninety cent were used for foreign postage; and in this connection, we remember having bought as late as 1886, the complete set of 1869 for $2.50, in Paris. It is probable that the foreign letters were not kept; at least the envelopes did not get into the files. The domestic use of the ninety cent was on packages to a great extent whose wrappings would not be saved, even if there was some collector about who had his eye on the stamp. The stamp was the thing in those days. Then again, the stamp was in use for a comparatively short time, a consideration that enters into the catalogue price of the stamp off the cover.

The Reason—Some time ago, readers were told that the $50 documentary of the current set was recalled for reasons that were not made public; and as a consequence, the sixty dollar documentary was issued. We now have received the explanation from a dependable Washington source that a number of the $50 denomination stamps were stolen after they had left the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the somewhat heroic means were taken to render the missing stamps worthless. Further, it has been intimated that this $50 documentary stamp should be exceptionally good philatelic property.

* * *

Mexican Melange—Mr. W. C. Michaels of Kansas City, Missouri, has shown us a batch of mail received from Mexico in the regular course of business; and some of the covers have their suggestions that are not lost on the collector. We mentioned the new variety of "G. C. M." printed surcharge small design in last week's issue. One cover from Sanata Lucrecia, Vera Cruz, dated April 15th, bears stamps with the rubber stamp surcharge that was at one time used by the Carranza authorities when their operations were limited to Sonora. This cover passed Vera Cruz and is postmarked on the back, April 16th. Another cover left Chihuahua on April 15th. While Santa Lucrecia and the City of Vera Cruz are in the possession of Carranza, Chihuahua has been occupied by Villa; and the stamps have the "Gobierno," etc., printed surcharge and are of a much deeper shade of orange than usual. Another cover from Vera Cruz, that originated in Mexico City, was sent by carrier from Mexico City to Vera Cruz and then by steamer to New York City. The envelope bears ten cents in U. S. stamps which are postmarked at New York City; and two Mexico, 5c, with the large printed "G. C. M.," printed monogram surcharge, which are uncanceled.

* * *

Handy—One of our readers has invented a catalogue holder whose convenience will be appreciated by those who have occasion to work with the catalogue before them. We shall not attempt any description of the contrivance until the device is patented, but it may be said that its simplicity is a point in favor of the apparatus for which there is likely to be some demand. The article will be welcomed to the list of philatelic accessories.

COMING AUCTION SALES.

This week we do not announce any coming sales but June 5 we shall undertake to list all sales advertised in the WEEKLY and none others. We shall extend this courtesy to auction advertisers, believing that it will be appreciated by our readers. The data will be amplified and inserted in a satisfactory shape for reference.

S. & H. STAMP CO., Rome, N. Y.Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
SOME POSTCARD STATISTICS.

By WILLIAM E. MARSH.

Last fall, the WEEKLY reprinted an article from the "Then and Now" series, which is widely syndicated in our metropolitan papers, on the first use of the postal card, forty-four years ago, in Austria (October 1, 1869) and comparing their introduction with their wide use today. The article as originally published stated that no estimate had been made of the number of cards used annually, but quoted a German estimate of 1,300,000,000, as the consumption in the Fatherland.

On account of the prevailing custom abroad of printing views on regular government cards, instead of on blank stock as is done here, and the fact that American tourists provide a market for these enormous quantities of souvenir cards, a fair comparison with U. S. statistics can hardly be made. However, it is interesting to note that in 1911, our banner postcard year, we bought $75-138,748 or an average of ten apiece all around.

The first postcard was sold in the United States on May 1, 1873, under an act passed by Congress June 8, 1872.
Why it took the department nearly a year to plan for such a simple device as our first postcard is hard to answer.
Evidently our officials were then not speeded up to the point of efficiency that saw the postal banks and the parcels post put into smooth running order almost over night. The seven months of that year developed a market for only 31,095,000 of the little bits of card, or about one to every other person.
The full year following, nearly every one bought two, as it took 91,079,000 to supply the demand.

At the end of the tenth year, the sale quadrupled, nearly 380,000 going through the stamp window. The growth then became steady, nearly every year showing an increase, averaging five millions, till 1894, when a decided slump came, and of the 530,505,600 supplied the postmasters in 1893, so many were left over that 62,000,000 less were called for in 1894.

The first view cards most of us remember were the ones prepared for sale at the Chicago World's Fair. Although these, a set of twelve, which were contained in a vending machine in which they were piled consecutively, and arranged so that two dropped for each nickel inserted, and 30c would draw the series—although these were printed on the regular postal cards, about the same time picture post cards generally came into use and the "common people" began to prefer them for personal correspondence. Since that time an ever growing percent. of the government cards have been used for advertising and business notices. It was six years later before the 1894 figures were reached again; then there was a steady climb till 1901, when a new big mark of 659,614,800 was reached. The next year saw a loss of over a hundred millions, then again a gain of 220 millions, a loss of 70,—then a gain every year till 1910 saw the sale of 926,478,900.

FULTON STAMP CO., NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

Next year there was a slump of 200 million; then came the high water mark of nearly a billion in 1911 which stands as the record.

The grand total of cards issued, from the beginning to 1912 inclusive is 19,441,425,583. I presume these figures derived from government reports consider the reply cards as two each.

The postcards have always been printed from electrotypes, on cylinder presses. The stock has always been a shade of manila except the international card, sold for two cents, which for a time, at least, was on a bluish tint and the regular card of four or five years ago which for a time was on the blue tint. The cards for many years were done up in packets of 25 with a band around them, but have been changed to fifty. They are also available now, on special order, in full sheets, being desirable this way where they are to be printed for advertising purposes in large quantities.

Unlike stamps, U. S. postal cards are redeemable at the office of purchase at 75c on the dollar, "in trade," no matter how dirty, or in what condition, so long as they are not cancelled.

The first U. S. postcard and the international card were embellished with the head of Liberty; and Martha Washington divides with George the portrait space on our present double cards.
The second design used had the portrait in the middle top, a unique position.
Some of the cards have had full frames around the face, but most have not.
For a time they were printed with the face divided so that part could be used for the message as is frequently the practice abroad. In fact nearly every assistant P. M. G. has had a different idea of how to design a postal card. In one thing there has been no change,— for the standard card the price has always been a penny.

MORE FRENCH RED CROSS STAMPS.

The French island colony of Reunion has issued two varieties of Red Cross stamps, and a third in a definitive type is reported to be in preparation in Paris.

At first, the current 10 centimes stamp was surcharged in black, with the cross and extra value, "x5c," in heavy type.

But this did not prove satisfactory, and was not in conformity with the general plan of surcharging the French home and colonial issues in red for the Red Cross.

So the black surcharged stamps were withdrawn, and a new printing made, with the surcharge in red. Each of these local provisional stamps of Reunion may prove rather scarce, as although

50,000 were printed in black, only about

2,000 had been distributed to the public before instructions came to hand for their withdrawal. The second lot, overprinted in red, will probably be quickly superseded by the Paris-printed edition.

Another Red Cross stamp has been issued for Tangier, where apparently the use of the ordinary French Morocco

Protectorate Red Cross stamp is not appropriate. In Tangier, the French

Red Cross stamp of the definitive "Se-meuse" type has been issued, with an overprint reading "Maroc."

The French Red Cross stamp is now available in the convenient booklet form; the booklets contain twenty of the stamps, and sell at 3f. The letterpress on the cover states that these stamps are only available for postal use in France, Algeria, Tunis, and the French Colonies, and that although the stamps sell at 15c each, they represent a postal franking value of only 10c each.

—London Telegraph.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Examination of a lot of the 10c green of 1890 shows that all are of Type II, as quoted in No. 1271. This raises an interesting question as to whether the type where the foliated ornaments break into the curved line should not be called Type I, as the 1890 stamps must have been printed from the original die.

BARBADOS.—New post cards have been issued with head of King George, according to Ewen's Weekly.

Post Cards.

1/4d green on white.

1d red on buff.

BELGIUM.—A correspondent writes to Ewen's Weekly as follows:

"It is a well known fact that both French and Belgian Red Cross stamps are only for internal postage and are not available for foreign postage. The Belgian Red Cross stamps would frank letters in Belgium. It is not the fault of that Government that their territory is so much restricted, that these stamps are hardly of any use. Notwithstanding that, the demand for Red Cross stamps is so great at St. Adresse, of course, by philatelists, that the Belgian Government have had to issue fresh orders for more stamps. The issue with large head was not liked on account of their size, and the execution was poor. A fresh issue was made of another design, but this has not met with approval, and the supply has been returned in order that it may be retouched. The Belgian stamps of the regular issue will not be sold to the public until the Government returns to Belgium."

BULGARIA.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles two new high value postage due stamps for Bulgaria, the design closely resembling the ordinary Russian postage due stamps of 1909.

Postage Due Adhesives.

10 leva violet.

20 leva carmine.

CANADA.—Among the freaks of the new "War Tax" business must be included one just shown us by E. T. Wallis. This is a cover bearing a strip of three 1c stamps, one of which has been surcharged "War Tax" with pen and ink, in black. Evidently, some postmaster was trying to "do his whole duty."

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Ewen's Weekly says that there were printed 42 panes of 60 stamps, or 2,520 stamps in all, of the 10sh on white back paper. As a number were appropriated for fiscal use, this is the rarest of the higher denominations printed on the provisional paper.

FIJI ISLANDS.—According to the Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung, the 3d is now printed on orange yellow paper instead of lemon yellow.

HAYTI.—Two values of a new series of stamps have been sent us by Whitfield King & Co., the design being like the 1906 issue, except that the words "Exterieur" and "Interieur" have been worked in around the central circle, under the name of the country. The 7c "Exterieur" has a portrait of T. Auguste and the 5c "Interieur", the familiar arms. Both read "Emission 1914."

Adhesives.

For Foreign Postage.

7c red orange and black.

For Domestic Use.

5c yellow green and black.

HUNGARY.—The second series of war entires has just been issued for this country, according to Mr. Schachne. The face value of each card has been advanced 2 fillers and the cards have been surcharged in red "1914-1915" "War tax 2 fillers."

Post Cards.

5f green and red on buff.

10f red and green on buff.

5x5f green and red on buff.

Letter Card.

10f red and green on gray.

INDIA.—Mr. Schachne has received the current cards surcharged "I. E. F." in black.

Post Cards.

1/4a gray and black on buff.

1a red and black on buff.

1/4x1/4a gray and black on buff.

Soruth.—Whitfield King have shown us a new stamp, the 3p, from this state. The design is the same as Scott's Type A4, with the values in English and native characters different. Scott's Circular also chronicles the 1a in the same changed design.

Adhesives.

3p yellow green.

1a rose carmine.

INDO-CHINA.—Scott's Circular illustrates the two types of the Red Cross stamps issued for this Colony. The first had the cross in the upper left corner, with the extra value in the lower right, the "C" under the "5." On the other type, both cross and added value were in the lower right corner. In the first type, the cross was larger and thinner than in the other.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Michael P. Hynes writes: "Since the war commenced, a stamp tax has been imposed in Newfoundland, and checks, etc., must carry a 2c stamp. The Postal Department has had the 5c Guy overprinted for use on post office money orders." The specimen shown us by Mr. Hynes has "Money Order—Stamp Tax—only" in three lines in red. This stamp has been used for some time.

PORTUGUESE COLONIES.—Further provisionals of the Portuguese Colonies have been surcharged "Republica" like those noted in No. 1269. The following are reported by Whitfield King & Co.: Lourenzo Marques—Scott's Nos. 54, 55, 56 and 59.

Mozambique—Nos. 98, 85, 76, 77, 78, 80, 81 and 50r "Provisorio."

ROUMANIA.—Two provisional stamps are shortly to be issued by Roumania, according to the Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung. The denominations are 1b on 1 1/2b and 5b on 3b. The issue will be limited.

ST. VINCENT.—J. A. Galbraith has kindly submitted a specimen of the provisional "One Penny" on 1 shilling stamp. The surcharge is in two lines of block letter type with line below, printed in red ink.

A BIT OF THE PERSONAL.

By H. S. DICKEY.

I enjoyed your precancel notes very much in the May 1st issue.

I might add that Newton, Kansas, has the 1 and 2c Precancels and they are used continually by the A. O. U. W. in mailing out its reports to 40,000 members.

I enjoyed a visit recently from A. S. Razor, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., who is a specialist in U. S. issues and I found him to be quite a genial fellow.

I am expecting to entertain J. K. Doughty of Lamar, Colorado, in a few days. He is a type of the old school collector, and is like myself, quite a specialist in U. S. issues and collects them in singles, pairs, strips and blocks used. To say our collections are large doesn't half tell it. He makes it a point to stop off to see me every time he comes this way and we sure do some tall talking and stamp displaying.

It's rather odd, but nearly every stamp collector that travels over the Santa Fe from the east or west drops in to see me at Newton, Kansas, between trains and talk stamps.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The stamp collectors of Sacramento, Cal., are to organize a local society, and we are obliged to J. A. Garrison for a clipping from a local paper. Further particulars will be soon available.

—There is a rumor that no more of the 5c Cuba Avellaneda will be printed. A. D. Comas, Jr., advises us that the 5c map type has no doubt taken its place. It certainly has at the Havana post office, where the supply of Avellaneda has been exhausted.

—A well established dealer wishes us to call attention to the injustice of compelling dealers to bear the expense of bank discounting as found in cashing small checks submitted by collectors in payment for stamp purchases. The same firm suggests that postage be required on all orders by united action on the part of dealers. While we are in full sympathy with the former proposition, it would be difficult to work the latter.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Al. de la Torre Bueno.

—M. R. P.—The color of the set you refer to is red.

—We recently asked for the location of Sunnyside Ave., in our endeavor to place a subscriber who had failed to name the city. It was a very foolish request for us to make. We might have known it was Chicago. Anyway, we thank E. H. Robinson for the information at hand. We are also indebted to W. R. Harrison for the same information.

—The Milwaukee Public Museum has on exhibition at the present time a considerable collection of covers and stamps from the war zone in Europe. Practically all the warring nations are represented and there are covers from each, showing the various censor marks, soldiers' letters, charity stamps, prisoners' letters, letters returned because of invasion, etc., as well as covers from the other powers when the effect of the war is shown in some way (Holland, Luxembourg, Switzerland, etc.). Red Cross and Charity stamps from each country are also included. The collection mentioned is the property of Leon D. Peaslee, a member of the A. P. S.

—The omission of the word "not" from an editorial in the issue of two weeks ago made it appear that General Coolidge would be a candidate for a third term as president of the American Philatelic Society, although the context contradicted the statement. General Coolidge will not run for the presidency again.

—The death of the wife of Mr. Geo. L. Toppan, some weeks ago, after an illness extending over a long period of time, will evoke sympathetic thought for Mr. Toppan by many of our readers. Mr. Toppan's plans for the future are indefinite at present but announcement of his course of action will soon be made.

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the widespread scattering of approval selections.

13 RUE DROUOT

FRANCE

FRENCH COLONIALS—1st ISSUE.

By W. J. HOLMES.

The issue consists of six values, viz.:

- 1 centime, bronze-green on pale blue paper.
- 5 centimes, yellow-green on grey paper.
- 10 centimes, bistre on yellowish-white paper.
- 20 centimes, blue on bluish paper.
- 40 centimes, orange on yellowish-white paper.
- 80 centimes, rose on yellowish-white paper.

Slight shades of each, but chiefly of the 10 and 40c. Gum generally white, but occasionally of a dark brown which stains the paper.

The design consists of a crowned Eagle on a brick-wall patterned disk, within a broad beaded inscribed circle with scrolled outer angles. The inscription reads (COLONIES DE L'EMPIRE FRANCAIS POSTES). The stamp is square, measuring 19 mm. across. They were engraved by M. Barre and printed by M. Hulot at the printing establishment of the Mint. 360 stamps to the sheet. Imperforate, but may be found pin-perf unofficially.

The expense of engraving and preparation of plates was charged to the Colonies, proportionately to the extent of their postal service, and the stamps were sold to them at a uniform rate of 1 franc per thousand. A circular of 28th April, 1860, regulated the apportionment, the style of obliteration, etc.

The 10c and 40c were issued in July, 1859, and on 28th March, 1862, it was decided to issue stamps of 1c and 5c for use on journals and printed matter, and they duly appeared in May of that year. In October, 1865, the 20c and 80c were issued, ostensibly to facilitate prepayment, but more to bring the colonies into line with the mother country.

In preparing the die for the 5c an accident appears to have happened to the figure following the word POSTES, and a plug has been inserted, as will be seen by the white curves on either side. In the 10c two stamps in each sheet were placed sideways with top to the left, and specimens may be found se tenant with the stamp in the orthodox position, and the 20c is occasionally met with doubly printed.

All the values were reprinted in 1887 in sheets of 16 stamps—4x4—on slightly different tinted paper. It is stated that they were ungummed, but those I shew have gum.

The first obliterations were a rhomboid of dots, occasionally approximating to a diamond shape; the dots vary in size and number, viz., 49—7x7, 64—8x8, 81—9x9, and 100—10x10. They chiefly occur in black, but also in blue and red. About 1862 or 3, the initial letters, or an abbreviation of the name of the issuing Colony, were inserted in the centre of the device, and this in general provides the only clue to the country of origin.

The abbreviations employed were:—

- ASA.—Assinie (Guinea).
- CCH.—Cochin China.
- GAB.—Gaboon.
- GNE.—Guiana.
- GOR.—Goree (Senegal).
- GPE.—Gadalupe.
- INDE.—India.
- MQE.—Martinique.
- MYE.—Mayotte.

The above were in black and blue only.

In June, 1857, the French Minister made an order that the stamps on letters coming from beyond the seas, by the vessels of the Imperial Messageries, should be obliterated with a hand stamp similar to that used by the post offices, but with an anchor in the centre in place of a number, and this postmark may also be frequently found on this issue. The right position of this postmark is with the flukes pointing to the right. Another variety consists of the letters P. D., enclosed in a circle or an oblong; this should have been impressed on the letter, but it is frequently found on the stamp itself.

After 1872, the circular date stamp was chiefly employed, and may be found in black, blue, and occasionally in a reddish-brown colour.

Forgeries of all the values are known, they are very crudely lithographed and are not likely to deceive any one.

The above stamps continued in use after the fall of the Empire, but were suppressed by a law of August 24th, 1871, although the stamps of lesser value were used in various places as late as 1879.—Stamp Lover.

PICTORIALS--HIGH VALUES--SCARCE--HARD-TO-GET STAMPS--SPECIALS

This adv. is designed to give WEEKLY readers an idea of the range and variety of our stock. The majority of the stamps are selected because they are seldom offered, or seen in stocks, and much better than most stamps which only catalog the same. High values, postally used, pictorials, jubilee issues, etc. Everything offered in good to fine shape.

GLASTONBURY, CONN.

CHIT CHAT ON POSTAL CARDS.

By MAITLAND MILLIKEN.

British Somaliland, Chefoo, Kishengarth, Sirmoor and half a dozen others can boast of issuing only a single postal card and no more.

In some of the countries where issues of postage stamps are profligate, cards have not been issued from 10 to 30 years. Very extreme! Isn't it?

Barbados, Bermuda, France and Colonies, Germany, Hayti and Venezuela were among the few countries having in its issues adhesive stamps affixed to cards according to rates of postage required, on cards.

Mashonaland! Sounds unfamiliar, doesn't it? This was an old name on cards before it was changed to Rhodesia in 1896.

Bavaria and Italy are old offenders in having their cards dated each year.

During the Franco-Prussian War of '870, four varieties of cards were issued for Alsace and Lorraine by the Prussians.

Selections Sent on Approval. Want Lists Filled

U. S. POSTAGE, selections at 50% discount. Want lists filled at net prices.

U. S. REVENUES and MATCH and MEDICINE, selections sent and want lists filled at 50%.

U. S. CUT SQUARE, selections sent and want lists filled at 50%. I make up packets and sets of cut squares to order. Can make very favorable prices. Let me quote you.

U. S. ENTIRE ENVELOPES, want lists filled at net prices, as a rule, about half catalogue. I have many unlisted shades, oddities, freaks, etc. I make a specialty of sending out selections of each issue. The recut die of the 1903, 2c envelopes, (usually called types) are my specialty. These I sell at net prices as per my price list.

FOREIGN ENTIRE OR CUT SQUARE, these I price by Bright's latest catalogue (55c Postfree) and give 50% discount in all cases. I have a line of approvals of foreign cut squares in great variety at 1c each net. These are very popular.

U. S. and FOREIGN POST CARDS, entire only. These I price by Bright and give 50% discount in all cases.

FOREIGN REVENUES and STATE REVENUES, these I price by Forbin's latest catalogue ($1.50 Postfree), and give 50% discount.

If you have some line that you are no longer interested in, and wish to exchange for something that you are interested in, as I deal in everything, I may be able to use yours and give you what you want.

Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News

MEKEEL-SEVERN-WYLIE CO., PUBLISHERS

104 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

TO ALL OUR READERS:—

For more than a score of years MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS has upheld all that is good in stamp collecting and its efforts have been heartily appreciated by its ever-increasing circle of subscribers.

It has achieved many notable successes, and those who are familiar with its progress will recall the great special numbers of the WEEKLY that have given strength and stability to our hobby.

It will be difficult for the new management to improve upon the past but we expect to make the paper better than ever before. For the past dozen years Messrs. Severn and Wylie have guided the editorial destinies of the publication, but henceforth they will be assisted by Mr. William W. Jewett, who during this time has printed the WEEKLY but has now acquired a large financial interest in it.

This combination of ability should produce a publication more powerful than ever before and to this end we invite the hearty co-operation of all our readers.

EXCHANGE YOUR DUPLICATES

FOR STAMPS NOT IN YOUR COLLECTION

50% CASH 50% EXCHANGE

Believing that many collectors are like ourselves, long on stamps and short on cash these trying times, we have decided to accept exchange to an amount of 50% of purchases during the summer months, where collectors can offer us genuine stamps in good condition that we can use and of which we have not at least five copies in stock.

All stamps offered for exchange must be mounted on sheets and arranged Alphabetically by countries and each stamp marked with Scott's number and price. This will enable us to go through the consignment quickly and in returning it we will give memorandum of amount taken off and enclose a selection of our 50% discount or Net Books as requested.

We Offer Two Series of Books on These Exchange Offers:

AT 50% DISCOUNT—We have about 5000 varieties, will accept 50% cash and 50% exchange, at even exchange, catalogue for catalogue, if satisfactory stamps are offered.

This is a mixture of mixtures. In it will be found stamps from everywhere, some on cover and some off. Stamps in small quantities, too few to specify separately, the tail ends of lots, (odds and ends), old European, Asiatic (Japan, China, Philippines, etc.), all kinds of English Colonials. No two lots alike. Some are better than others. There are lots of genuine "finds" in this mixture, and the supply is limited. Take a chance on trial lot.

SURVEY OF THE "WEEKLY."

By C. E. SEVERN.

A new generation of stamp collectors has arisen since the first number of the WEEKLY appeared on January 7th, 1891; and to the collector of to-day who does not concern himself with philately's past, it seems as though the paper has always existed. When the first number of the WEEKLY was distributed, one thousand and seventy-four weeks ago, it was hailed as a daring and novel venture by the C. H. Mekeel Stamp and Publishing Company of St. Louis, a large corporation, but the projectors of the enterprise had every confidence in its ultimate success and expended in the aggregate thousands of dollars in firmly establishing the paper. Naturally, there were many predictions by the more conservative collectors that a weekly stamp publication could not attain permanency under conditions as they prevailed twenty-four years ago. It was not long before all philatelists were impressed by the intelligent perseverance that was manifest in the management of the paper and the general disposition was to regard the WEEKLY as a fixture.

The editor of the WEEKLY was I. A. Mekeel whose genius later had its fruition in the general publishing field; and at the time of his lamentable death in February, 1913, Mr. Mekeel had attained a national eminence as a publisher and successful business man. One of the early contributors to the WEEKLY was C. E. Severn of Chicago and in 1894, he became the paper's Chicago correspondent. In those days, a column or so of notes each week from the different stamp centers was a feature of the paper. Several years later, business vicissitudes were encountered by the corporation that published the WEEKLY that made a readjustment of its business necessary; and by an order of court, I. A. Mekeel became the buyer and owner of the WEEKLY. Soon, Mr. Mekeel's acumen led him to measure the advertising possibilities of the paper and he determined to launch a campaign that would thoroughly test them. He proposed to Mr. Severn that he become editor and part owner of the WEEKLY and early in 1898, Mr. Severn's alliance with the WEEKLY as editor and partner was made. The paper was edited from Chicago, but published from St. Louis, and Mr. Mekeel, free to give his undivided attention to the business department, found a congenial occupation in expanding the advertising prestige of the WEEKLY.

For several years the paper flourished under these conditions, but it was not long before Scott F. Redfield of Smethport, Pennsylvania, who was publishing a weekly stamp paper at that period, merged his paper into the WEEKLY and became a part owner of the corporation which had been formed under the laws of the state of New York to conduct the WEEKLY. For a time the WEEKLY was printed at the plant of Mr. Redfield at Smethport, Pa., published by Mr. Mekeel in New York and edited by Mr. Severn in Chicago. At this period, the Boston correspondent of the WEEKLY was Willard O. Wylie of Beverly, Mass., and so capably did he discharge his duties that he was recommended to the notice of the owners. After Mr. Wylie had proved his ability further by planning special issues from start to finish, he was invited to become one of the corporation. In the meantime, the WEEKLY had purchased W. W. Jewett's Weekly Philatelic Era, an excellent publication that almost divided with the WEEKLY the regard of the collecting public and Mr. Wylie was placed in charge of the Era as a separate publication. By his conduct of the Weekly Philatelic Era, Mr. Wylie further emphasized his fitness for philatelic newspaper work and when the Era was consolidated with the WEEKLY, Mr. Wylie, who had bought a tenth interest in the company, was made managing editor.

The interests of Mr. Mekeel in a general publishing sense were becoming more and more important and such were the demands made upon his time by affairs of magnitude that he could not give freely of his services to the corporation, although the paper continued to hold its warm place in his affections. It was advisable to re-incorporate the company under Massachusetts laws and publish the WEEKLY from Boston under Mr. Wylie's direction; and it was at this time or in 1904 that W. W. Jewett entered into a contract with the publishers of the WEEKLY whereby he was to print the paper in his plant at Portland, Maine. From that year, the WEEKLY continued on its steady course until early in 1913, when I. A. Mekeel was stricken suddenly with death at his home in Montclair, New Jersey, and in our memorials of Mr. Mekeel, published on that sad occasion, tribute was paid to Mr. Mekeel's genius by its beneficiary, the WEEKLY. The controlling interest in the WEEKLY then became

PHILA. STAMP CO.
21 SOUTH 17TH ST. PHILA.

CHARLES E. SEVERN.

Editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

The editor of the WEEKLY is without doubt occupying the foremost position in philatelic literature. While certain English journals might dispute our claim, nevertheless, the enormous circulation of the WEEKLY offers an audience that no other stamp publication can rival. Mr. Severn with his years of editorial experience is eminently fitted for this responsible post.

From its early days, our editor has been a worker with the WEEKLY. A student in philatelic research and skilled in the art of communicating his thoughts to paper, Mr. Severn became a valuable correspondent and soon editor of the paper. A financial interest in the paper was followed by the acquiring of larger interests until at the present time, he owns one-half of the WEEKLY stock.

It is needless to say that all his work has been of the highest order, and the WEEKLY is fortunate in being able to command his ripened judgment and experience. The editorial department of the WEEKLY represents the highest degree of philatelic scholarship.

vested in the estate of I. A. Mekeel and for over two years, affairs remained the same. Finally, Mrs. Mekeel felt that it was advisable to dispose of her holdings and the consequence was that the two hundred and fifty-one shares that she held were just recently acquired by Messrs. Severn, Wylie and Jewett, respectively.

The appearance of Mr. Jewett as a member of our little family is hailed with satisfaction, as under the present ownership, each of the proprietors is an actual worker in behalf of the WEEKLY and the hand-books that are published. Further, Mr. Jewett's dominant ability as a "boss printer" will have fuller scope than ever before under the new management; and the remarkable record for typographical cleanliness that he has established in the WEEKLY will be excelled in the days to come.

Willard O. Wylie, who has distinguished himself as managing editor of the WEEKLY for over ten years, feels a greater enthusiasm than ever before in his work and he will bring all energy and enterprise to bear on the rejuvenated WEEKLY, so to say. Mr. Wylie's faithful performance of duties in connection with the company is eloquent testimony to his belief in and liking for the specialistic work.

Charles E. Severn, who as holder of half the stock of the company is president of the corporation, has grown up with the WEEKLY and knows it in every phase. His long service in the WEEKLY's cause in itself is proof that it is something of a labor of love for him to devote the most of his time to the paper's welfare.

We are confirmed in our belief that great days are in store for the WEEKLY and as evidences of the increasing usefulness of the paper become more and more apparent, we know that there will be generous recognition of the part that we are performing for the benefit of all philately; and through service of this kind, we shall have our profit.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A stamp society has been formed in Brooklyn, N. Y., known as the Brooklyn Philatelic Exchange Society. Meetings will be held every Wednesday evening. For information, address the secretary, G. W. Gabriel, 2719 Church Av., Brooklyn, N. Y.

—A correspondent wants to know whether anyone has purchased any part of the stamp stock of the McGraw Stamp Co., Detroit, Mich., since the manager of the company, John Wilkowski, left Detroit. If this party has been located in any city and has offered stamps under his own name or that of the McGraw Stamp Co., please advise this office.

—A correspondent calls our attention to the fact that the "Gobierno Constitucionalista" overprints of Mexico inverted are worth comparatively little more than the normal varieties and collectors will do well to note this fact. The overprinting is done with a rubber stamp so that inverted varieties are just as easy to make as the normal.

—We welcome to our columns as a regular advertiser F. W. McCreery of Rockville, Conn., who will use six lines displayed. Mr. McCreery will specialize in British Colonies and United States at reasonable prices.

—A stamp is advertised this week under conditions which will occasionally arise. We refer to the 1 penny on 1 shilling St. Vincent in the advertisement of J. A. Galbraith. No one knows what this stamp is worth, nor is it definitely known just how many were issued. It is probable that the number issued ranges from 1,500 to 2,000 and all were disposed of in less than a day's time. Mr. Galbraith offers this stamp at a fair margin of profit at the purchasers' option, gain or loss.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Herbert Richter, Joseph W. Beggs (12), Herman Boers.

—We have received from W. J. Stanton some pieces of covers showing a queer assortment of stamps used in Mexico. One Banderilla cover has upon it a 50c Denver, 5c Villa GCM, and 1c Carranza GCM. Another from Juarez has Gobierno surcharges, the unsurcharged 50c 1910, and Villa 3c GCM. Let brotherly love continue.

—Clifton A. Howes has been nominated for President of the American Philatelic Society by the Boston members.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT STAMPS.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

Department of Interior.

Owing to the greater number of stamps put into use we can get a better line on the Department of the Interior than many of the other Departments. Perhaps collectors have neglected this department, as it seems less attention has been paid to it than to Agriculture and Treasury, although there is a greater field in Interior than in Agriculture.

The stamps were printed by the Continental Bank Note Co., sometime between May 24 and July 1, 1873. The exact date of printing is not known as they were issued to the department and put into use on July 1. The number of stamps delivered to the government between these dates was 970,475. Between July 1 and September 30, 1873, the contractors delivered 88,000 more stamps, the total value of all stamps issued between May 24 and September 30 being $59,171.

The design of Interior follows closely those of other departments, and the portraits are the same as those of the postage stamps then current. The words "Dept of the Interior", are contained in a broad ribbon curving over the portrait. In each upper corner are six-pointed stars. Shields between the label of value and the portrait in the 1c, 2c, 3c, 6c, 10c and 30c, contain the initials "U" and "S". In the 12c, 15c and 24c the shields are on either side of the label of value, while on the 90c these initials are under the label in the lower corners.

Mr. Luff, in his most excellent work on the Postage Stamps of the United States gives the shades in all values as rose-vermilion and scarlet-vermilion. By close comparison one can find other shades, probably due to age and exposure.

The 1 cent and 3 cents of Continental printings are found on ribbed paper, so called.

Postage 2c. extra. Remit in Stamps, Bills or Money Order.
MARKS STAMP CO. TORONTO, CANADA

Each value was printed from plates containing 100 designs. The following plate numbers were used: 1c, 52; 2c, 45; 3c, 27; 6c, 56; 10c, 109; 12c, 49; 15c, 93; 24c, 104; 30c, 95; 90c, 108.

During the month of February, in 1879, other stamps were printed by the American Bank Note Co., on soft paper. The plates used by the Continental Bank Note Co., were used in every case. The following values were so printed on soft paper: 1c, 2c, 3c, 6c, 10c, 12c, 15c and 24c. The shades are classified as from vermilion to rose-vermilion. A greater variety of shades exist in the soft papers than in the hard.

Mr. Luff gives the following data as to the number of stamps printed and delivered to the Department of the Interior between the years 1874 and 1884, each inclusive:

1c	394,800	12c	359,850
2c	1,413,400	15c	247,100
3c	5,258,500	24c	134,125
6c	1,722,500	30c	138,300
10c	284,350	90c	64,377

When orders were given to destroy all obsolete stamps on hand sometime during February, in 1885, a considerable number of each denomination went into the hopper of destruction, so the above figures do not exactly indicate the amount of each value which were distributed for use. But a fairly good estimate of the comparative worth can be gleaned from the above figures.

In common with the other department stamps the Interior were overprinted by the makers with the word "Specimen" in small light gothic capitals. All denominations were so printed, and the following amounts were sold:

1c	7,194	12c	75
2c	1,263	15c	78
3c	88	24c	77
6c	83	30c	75
10c	82	90c	77

From these figures it will be seen that a complete set of "Specimens" is worth more than a 5,000 variety collection of all countries. And yet there are some collectors who say there is nothing in specialism.

The error "Sepcimen" occurs in the Interior stamps, but only in the 1 cent, so I am told. I have not seen the error with the small "i" in these specimens.

Proofs on cardboard and on India paper are fast becoming scarce and the writer would advise anyone to procure them while the "procuring" is as easy as at present.

WILLARD O. WYLIE.

Managing Editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

Mr. Wylie has been managing editor of the WEEKLY for the past eleven years, and for six years previously had assisted in the editorial management with special articles and correspondence. He is a member of the A. P. S., having served on the board of vice presidents, and is a past president of the Boston Philatelic Society. Unused British Colonies and United States and possessions are Mr. Wylie's favorite stamps, though he is interested in U. S. Revenues, including match and medicine. He takes a keen interest in original covers.

WHAT IS A STAMP BARGAIN?

Undoubtedly collectors like to buy bargains but how few of them have ever stopped to consider what con-

THE MADERO ISSUE

As yet the Madero stamps are of historical interest only, as they have never done postal service. These stamps were delivered to the Mexican Government at least two months ago and they are still being held, supposedly for commemorative purposes. The values issued are 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c and 10c. I have a few of the 1c, 2c and 5c, the latter imperforate being from a proof sheet. My prices are as follows:—$1 each for the 1c and 2c and $3.50 per pair for the 5c. I purchased these when received from the postmaster. I have none of the other values.

I still have about fifty more full sets 1c to 1 peso of the printed surcharges. Ten stamps for $1.25 the set. It includes the hard-to-get 4c stamp. All unused.

I have a good line of the first and second issue Sonora stamps, the 3c, 4c and 5c printed G. C. M. script form; the 2c, 3c and 5c printed G. C. M. in Old English. In the rubber stamp surcharges I have the G. C. M. and a few of some others.

stitutes a bargain. Anything you do not want is not a bargain at any price. Some may think that if they buy cheap enough they can easily sell again at a profit. A person having any commodity to sell naturally tries to get as much as possible. If goods are offered very much below the market there must be some reason. They may have been stolen, or be defective or greatly over priced in the catalogue. If the original owner has found the lot so unsaleable that he offers at such a great reduction from the supposed value, what chance have you to sell at an advance over his price? The only real bargains are very desirable stamps, the price is of no importance, if they are desirable they will shortly advance in market quotations. The most successful collectors are those who never consider catalogue value when an extraordinary fine thing is to be had. We are not advising to pay any higher prices than will secure the goods. The correct way of forming a fine collection is, first to buy all of your wants that can be secured at as low a price as possible, when these have been obtained, let every dealer in the world know that you are prepared to pay more than any one else for the rarities. This is the only way you can get the pick and you will also buy cheaper than by giving your list to one man. There are many dealers who make a practice of making the rounds of all in the trade, picking up the good things and selling again to speculators at a profit of one hundred per cent. These remarks only apply to people who are making fine collections of ten thousand dollars or upwards, the average collector should set aside a small sum well within his income and never fail to make his weekly purchase. If confined to certain lines, the smallest regular purchases will give constant pleasure and in time secure a valuable collection which may prove a valuable asset in time of adversity.

WHY NOT A PHILATELIC LIBRARY?

We are doing our best to encourage the purchase of books devoted to stamps. With this in mind we are placing on the market from time to time, helps that are reasonable in price and really necessary to the student of stamps.

A nice little library of stamp books covering the stamps one is interested in will be a splendid asset to collecting interest and enthusiasm.

We have ambitious plans for the future and shall make definite and valuable contributions to philatelic book lore as the occasion offers.

In the meantime, set aside a little corner in the desk or library where you can begin a philatelic library. It will be a source of pleasure and satisfaction. See our list of offers.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

We Pause—We may be pardoned, we trust, for indulging in a self-approving hour or two at this time which marks an epochal occasion in the career of the WEEKLY. We have just announced that the controlling interest in the paper that belonged to the estate of I. A. Mekeel has been bought by Messrs. Severn, Wylie and Jewett; and the stock of the company is now owned wholly by Messrs. Severn, Wylie and Jewett. The experience of the proprietors has been so extensive as philatelic publishers that they may becomingly give assurance that improvements will be made in the publication as the weeks progress. There is no restriction placed upon the fullest efforts that the members of the company may develop; and as we said before, the discerning reader will notice a gradual strengthening of the savour of the WEEKLY until it meets the demands of the most captious. Elsewhere in this issue we speak briefly of the career of the WEEKLY.

His Little Joke—Some time ago, Dr. C. F. Roh suggested that we give a prize to the one who named the oldest stamp. We thought that he had in mind a contest for early dates on the penny blacks of Great Britain and in consequence refused to become excited over the proposal. Now Dr. Roh writes to say that Bavaria is to be credited with the oldest stamp. This remarkable specimen is No. 79 in our catalogue, the 10pf, 1911, Bavaria, Prince Luitpold set but Senf, etc., give a variety of the stamp, "Abart mit Plattenfehler (1)911." In the variety the date at top of stamp reads: 12 Marz 911, instead of "12 Marz 1911." The error in question has been advertised at from three to four marks by German dealers.

Post Office Exhibit—The postal administration has issued a notice to "officers and employees of the postal service" who visit the Panama-Pacific Exhibition to inspect the exhibit of the Post Office Department, which has on exhibition "a Model Post Office, a Model Railway Post Office, Motion Pictures of Postal Operations, a Display of Postage Stamps, and a Display of Pneumatic Tubes, such as are used in the larger cities." It is mentioned that the display of stamps is made in connection with the Model Post Office. The exhibit is in charge of a personal representative of the postmaster general.

Our Thanks, Good Sir—The Rev. Joseph Dreyer of Westerly, Rhode Island, writes: "The appended stamp with the postmark, 'Thann-Alsace' is yours with my best compliments and regards. The French having consolidated their positions in the charming valleys of the Vosges Mountains that lead into the plains of the Ill and the Rhine in the southwestern part of Upper Alsace have reestablished postal communications in the towns held by their troops. Some of these towns and villages have been in their hands since early August, 1914. From the first they used the ordinary French stamps and presumably the 'Postes-Bureau Frontiere' obliterations with distinguishing letters were used there. Now they are using date postmarks which give the name of the place, e. g., 'Thann' followed by that of the country 'Alsace.' The domestic rates of postage apply in those towns on all correspondence to France and French territories. The earliest date of the 'Thann-Alsace' postmark in my possession is Feb. 11, 1915, 7 A. M., expressed. There are to my knowledge French post offices at Thann, Dannemarie, Massevaux and St. Amarin." The specimen sent us is the one centime current France with the dated postmark of April 26th, 1915.

Those Roulettes—Readers of the WEEKLY had early information about the Kansas City roulettes and they have been kept informed of the developments of the issue. Recently, several of our contemporaries have been devoting space to a consideration of the stamps in their varied aspects and the only advantage that might be claimed for their accounts is that the journals in question now present the whole story, while through force of circumstances our recital was a continued one that reached its conclusion some time ago. So strong a case has been made in favor of the roulettes that there is a basis for the belief that they will be given a place in the catalogue; and further, the work may include mention of a sub-variety of part roulette. It seems that the post office clerk in rouletting the sheets missed the vertical rows in a few of the sheets. Undoubtedly, Mr. L. B. Lincoln of Chicago was the discoverer of the Kansas City roulette which he found on a letter in the ordinary mail from Kansas City; and early announcement was made of the curiosity in the WEEKLY. While we have always felt that no speculative taint attached to the varieties, it appears that we underestimated the strength of their appeal to collectors. We have been informed that "fakes of the roulettes have been made in Chicago, in St. Louis and in Seattle." Yes, we know that as a joke a collector in Chicago had his typist roulette some of the imperforate stamps by using the "dash" key of the typewriter, uninked, to punch out the slits in the margin.

* * *

Official Sanction—From our valued correspondent, Mr. W. C. Michaels, Kansas City, Mo., we have received a statement that was sent him by Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery on the subject of the Kansas City roulettes and which contains some bits of information that supplement what has been said in the WEEKLY: "As you are doubtless aware, the Department issues one and two cent postage stamps imperforate primarily for the benefit of the users of certain mechanical stamp-affixers and stamp-venders requiring them in that form. It appears that the Kansas City post office having in stock some of these stamps for which the public demand had ceased, perforated them by means of a tracing wheel with a view to making them available for use by the general public. When this perforating came to the notice of the Department, the Postmaster was requested to submit a statement concerning it, and I quote from his reply dated December 28, 1914: 'It was found that a very satisfactory perforation could be made with an ordinary tracing-wheel; and sheets of these stamps were in that way perforated from time to time, and placed on sale with the regular stock at the retail stamp windows. We have perforated 93,600 one cent stamps, of which 85,700 have been sold, and have perforated 69,200 two cent stamps, all of which have been sold.' January 5, 1915, the Postmaster was advised by the Department that there would probably be some demand on the part of collectors for these stamps and that the remaining one cent 'rouletted' stamps should be reserved for such sales but that not more than 100 should be sold to a purchaser. He was also instructed not to make any special perforations in future without authority from the Department."

* * *

Split—Copies of the current five centavos green of Bolivia, 1913, are coming through the mails in the ordinary course of business, split diagonally; and it is certain that the use of the stamp as a provisional is allowed if not officially recognized by the authorities.

U. S. Postage

A splendid mixture of the used stamps of our own Country—going back to 1863 and up to date—but the common 2c reds are very few. There are between 100-200 varieties, all clean and free from paper, all values from one to 30c. Many values hard to get. Postage dues of all issues, Special Deliveries, Parcel Post, Commemoratives, etc. A large percentage of the 1871, 1873, 1879 and 1882 issues (low values) and occasionally some department stamps will be found. Some of the stamps in this mixture have been in my stock over 30 years. A large stock on hand and the quality will be found uniform—all clean and free from paper.

THE STAMP TRADE IN NEW YORK CITY.

Some Little Visits to the Offices of Big Dealers.

By the MANAGING EDITOR.

It was my privilege some two weeks ago to spend several days in New York City, calling upon the dealers and getting well acquainted with trade conditions. A very optimistic feeling prevailed and dealers generally feel that the coming summer will find more activity than any previous summer.

I cannot take the space to give a detailed story of the many calls made but feel it incumbent upon the WEEKLY to note the manner in which the "New Birth" Special was received and make a bit of comment of a more or less personal nature.

At the Scott office Messrs. Clark and Russell were found surrounded by a busy corps of clerks and there was a bustle of activity that was gratifying. Mr. Clark said, "Speak a good word for the Circular," and this we are glad to do. This house organ is now an established fact and is no doubt getting business for the firm. The up-to-date collector needs the Circular fully as much as he needs the standard catalog.

J. C. Morgenthau is extremely active with a very superb collection of stamps to be sold at auction in June and July. His quarter page advertisement this week gives only a suggestion of the wonderful collection and anyone who buys at auction will need a catalog of this sale.

Mr. Klemann of the Nassau Stamp Co. is very busy with the Chapman collection, a collection which secured high honors at the New York Exhibition. The Philatelic Gazette, published by this firm, is being well edited, every article being original and it deserves a larger subscription list than it has yet attained.

The Economist Stamp Co. last year entered the list of house organ publishers with a Bulletin that has proven very successful and Mr. Stern expresses himself as well pleased with the publication. It is withal a newsy sheet and has evidently come to stay. Send for a specimen copy.

In Mr. Bartels' advertisement will be found a list of special offerings well worth perusing. The writing of an advertisement is not very much to Mr. Bartels' liking, but a study of the offers presented will show that he can do a good job when he gets down to business.

The Woodwirth firm makes an offering of an auction sale to lend variety to the contents of this issue. These auction sales through the WEEKLY have become quite popular in view of the low rate at which space can be had, coupled with the fact that an appeal can be made to 8,000 stamp collectors.

A. Perrin of Perrin & Co. has favored the WEEKLY with a quarter page. During the summer months this firm divides its interest in stamps with kodaks and kodak supplies, but in either line the firm makes good and a pretty little store on East 28th St. offers a good opportunity to secure business.

We are greatly pleased to have Herman Schmidt represented in this number, and especially since his list of wholesale offerings will be bound to attract attention. I can vouch for the value in the 100 precancelled stamps for $1.50 and lovers of these stamps will find it an excellent bargain.

On Broadway at 212 is C. G. Dietrich, who started in the stamp business in Buenos Ayres in 1890 and continued for thirteen years. More recently he came to New York from Liverpool. Mr. Dietrich handles the medium and rare grades of stamps, with wide connections in Europe. On account of the war he was obliged to transfer his business here and wants the advanced collector to give him a trial. We bespeak for him a goodly share of American business.

When the Krassa stock was recently disposed of, Mr. Krassa stated in the WEEKLY that ere long he would again be established in the foremost ranks of dealers. He has made good with his promise and showed the Managing Editor many books of choice stamps on his recent call at his office, 71 Nassau St.

The stock of the Empire Stamp Co. on Nassau St. is the latest acquisition of J. E. Handshaw, whom we found at his office on John St. buried in work. He has found time to prepare an advertisement for this issue.

While we are greatly obliged to every advertiser in the WEEKLY for patronage extended, the Managing Editor is especially pleased at the cooperation extended him on his business trip to the stamp trade center of America as evidenced by the amount of advertising patronage seen in this special number.

OUR REBUS COVER.

Our cover is a rather unique one and in due season we shall announce its source. In the meantime, how many of our subscribers can find stamps upon which are pictured portions of the cover design. In all, nineteen stamps are represented.

We shall be glad to recognize the industry and energy of contestants with some suitable prize awards. Just get busy and send in as good a list as possible.

All entries are due June 15.

Please Note.—When you have had the WEEKLY ten weeks, six months, or a year, don't try to pull a premium when you send a renewal. Our premiums are intended to get new names for our mailing list and if your name has ever been on our mailing list, these offers are not for you!

Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.

BILL BUBBLES OVER.

By BILL BLOSS.

Great works often have small beginnings, as the well-known oak trees, etc. Way back in 1891, when Mr. Mekeel started this paper, he started something. It's a long way from No. 1 to No. 1274, and no other stamp paper can boast of such a record,—hence our reasons for crowing about it and feeling all fluffed up over it.

For nearly twenty-five years, the WEEKLY has been serving the philatelic public, and from the size of our present list, we believe that we have given the readers their money's worth. Being more or less, mostly more, intelligent, they would hardly stay with us twenty-five years if they were dissatisfied, would they? When a concern has rendered satisfactory service for nearly a quarter of a century, it may well feel proud and satisfied with itself; therefore, we believe the readers will excuse us for telling of our achievements.

This is not our birthday, so we cannot claim the twenty-five years. That will come next January. However, it is a moment of great importance in our life. We are taking in a new partner.

Mr. Mekeel felt an interest in the paper and in the company publishing it to the time of his death, in February, 1913. It is more of a job to run a paper of this nature than many of the readers would imagine, hence it is advisable that there be three men interested in it. Who would be better fitted to become a part of the publishing force behind the paper than Mr. Jewett, who has so faithfully kept his presses oiled and read the proof of our paper since 1904, to save the readers from a conglomeration of mistakes so common in many sheets.

Therefore, when the estate of Mr. Mekeel decided to part with his share in the business, Mr. Severn absorbed some of it; Mr. Wylie also purchased some of the stock, and the rest was sold to Mr. Jewett, of Portland, Maine, who is now a member of the close corporation.

All three of these gentlemen are philatelists of no mean repute, and through their experience have succeeded in turning out in the aggregate more real philatelic matter to the readers than any other paper in America. Mr. Jewett has attended to the printing end of the paper for eleven years, and as mentioned above, has done wonderful work in keeping the paper free from errors and in "making up" the different issues.

The proprietors of this paper are famed in other ways beside their unusual ability as publishers. The pictures of the three gentlemen will appear in this issue, so I leave it to you to select three more distinguished looking gentlemen anywhere than our worthy publishers. (These last remarks are included with the hope that said publishers will see fit to raise my salary for these efforts. They are distinguished, though, and all good fellows.)

I have said nothing about the future for the reason that the plans have not been disclosed as yet. Only, I do know that the future will hold something for the readers that will excel all of our past efforts. Every issue will be worth while, and that in itself is a promise that amounts to something. We certainly intend to give our readers the biggest half-dollar's worth of stamp reading they can purchase anywhere. That, in addition to the benefits gained from our advertisers, the best dealers in the business, ought to be enough to please the most exacting reader.

The WEEKLY will continue the same policy as heretofore, and will always be glad to hear from readers having suggestions to make.

The WEEKLY is more of a philatelic newspaper than a magazine. There are many monthly papers to handle the magazine end of philately, but only one weekly to keep the collector informed of the news. The WEEKLY has seldom failed to be first with all the important items of interest to both collector and dealer. Our staff is composed of some of the leading lights of philately. Many of our contributors have several books to their credit, and are recognized authorities in their particular lines. These are only some of the things the WEEKLY does for philately.

What the collector does for the paper is shown in the fact that he is with us eight thousand strong! That is some circulation for a trade paper, and compares favorably with the trade papers in any other line. We are certainly grateful to the collectors for their support and propose to show our appreciation by making the paper better than ever before.

Yes, under the old management we have done something. Now, under the "new" we intend to do even more. We intend to make the WEEKLY indispensable to the collector, big, little, young, or old, and to the dealer, be he large or small. We need the help of every collector, both as a reader and contributor, and the support we have received in the past leads us to believe that we will be able to do the things we intend to in the future.

Please overlook our vanity, but—well, if you were the one paper, in the thousand of papers that have been started and failed, that has kept alive and prospered for 1274 issues, you might talk about yourself, too.

A very unusual mixture and a wonderful bargain in these popular stamps. It is a "mixture" in more ways than one, Queens heads, King Edward and King George—and even the fourth generation. Quite a few are on parts of original cover, in large strips and blocks and from all over the world. Transvaal, Newfoundland, Australia, old and new—Bermuda, Trinidad, British Honduras, Jamaica, Bahamas, Hong Kong, Barbados, Br. Guiana, Gold Coast, etc., etc., a magnificent variety of the lower values many 50 years old and a great many of recent issue—

WILLIAM W. JEWETT.

Printer of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

We take great pleasure in the pictorial introduction of one who needs no introduction to many of the patrons of the WEEKLY. The writer has been associated with him for many years and it is a pleasure for him to give a few facts concerning his career.

Mr. Jewett was born in Bridgton, Me., March 30, 1869, establishing the monthly Philatelic Herald, Vol. I, No. 1, in 1884, in Portland. A specimen copy is before us and it is typical of the first effort of a boy with a new printing office outfit, and quite a contrast with this number of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS which is a product of his establishment. Mr. Jewett established himself as a job printer and made good.

Mr. Jewett published the Herald for nearly five years, when he sold it and shortly after purchased the monthly Philatelic Era from Pickard & Eustis of Portland, in 1889. It was changed to a semi-monthly after a few years and on September 1, 1894, to a weekly and continued until sold to I. A. Mekeel in October, 1903. As stated elsewhere in this issue, the editorial management of the Era was placed in the hands of Willard O. Wylie and in the spring of 1904 the paper was consolidated with MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

During the years 1889-91, Mr. Jewett published a series of four philatelic handbooks in conjunction with J. H. Lyons, now with the New England Stamp Company.

In 1907, Mr. Jewett bought another printing plant and combined the two at the present location, 226-232 Federal St., Portland, incorporating the business as the Jewett Printing Co., of which he is treasurer and general manager. The plant has since expanded and now occupies nearly all of a two-story brick block in the very center of the city.

Mr. Jewett is a member of several orders, including the Masons, Red Men and Sons of Veterans. His pet hobbies are the Sons of Veterans and the automobile. That he has not forgotten his old love for stamps is evident from the fact that a very considerable accumulation may be found in the Jewett home-stand.

The Managing Editor is pleased to pay this tribute to one with whom he has been closely associated during the past eleven years. It has meant almost daily contact and with the many opportunities that a paper such as this offers for misunderstandings, fault-finding, and criticism, there has never been the least bit of friction between the two. His work has been of the most painstaking order and the uniformly handsome typographical appearance of the WEEKLY has been due to the interest Mr. Jewett has taken in it.

He has come into what is logically his own.

TO MEET a large and constantly growing demand for a device that will securely hold loose leaves, we offer you the LOOSE-LEAF Loose Leaf Stamp Album. Leaves are held by pressure; you may insert or remove at any joint without disturbing the rest. The locking mechanism while positive is instant, and there is no rubbing of stamps as in most loose leaf devices.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

AUSTRALIA.—Ewen's Weekly says that the 1d King George stamp has been issued with the small "OS" perforation. The 4d yellow is said to be more common than the darker shade.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—The Rev. Louis Voss has shown us the current 5c ultramarine, overprinted, with wavy lines in lilac, as recently noted. Apparently, the overprinting is from a tint block similar to those used in making the safety paper for checks.

HONDURAS.—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. shows some new varieties and freaks in the official stamps of this country, including the 50c brown, No. 137, and 50c rose, No. 157, overprinted "Official" in black; the 5c ultramarine, type A 18, or portrait type with the same overprint; the 50c brown, No. 137, with the same overprint, and also surcharged a new value, "$0.20", and a pair of the 2c rose, No. 152a, with the same overprint, one being spelled "Oficail." The overprint on the 5c ultramarine, portrait type comes in both black and red, with one stamp in each, reading "OFIC", the latter part of the word being lacking.

NEW BRITAIN.—Maury's Collectionneur announces that a portion of the stamps of German New Guinea have been overprinted "O.S." in addition to "G.R.I." and new value, as previously printed. There seems to be some doubt in regard to the standing of this issue, but M. Maury illustrates one of the values with the "O.S." overprint. The quantities printed are said to be as follows: 3pf, 9258; 5pf, 1681; 2 1/2 on 10pf, 1675; 2 1/2d on 20pf, 1445.

REUNION.—Arthur Russell has favored us with several covers having used copies of the Red Cross stamp in the latest surcharge. The statement that the stamps were surcharged locally is borne out by the fact that the cross is made up from pieces of rule, while the ink is orange red and not the clear carmine of the Paris prints.

SERBIA.—Maury's Collectionneur reports that the Serbian Government proposes to issue a new set of stamps, which will show King Peter in the battle front.

STATEMENT FROM GEN. COOLIDGE.

We corrected last week the statement made in the previous issue that Gen. Coolidge was to be a candidate for the presidency of the A. P. S. General Coolidge addresses a letter to the WEEKLY dealing with this matter and we quote from his letter the following:

"Please allow me to state emphatically that I decline the honor; but while my services are ever ready for any work or assistance to the A. P. S. I do not desire to be re-elected President. I accepted it last year only under protest, and because no one else was nominated when the voting tickets had to be sent out blank. I understand Mr. C. A. Howes of Boston is willing to accept the nomination for President, but there being no 'Branch' in that city, there has been some delay in publishing the fact to the A. P. S. members."

WITH US ONCE AGAIN.

Our readers noticed last week the advertisement of the Manhattan Stamp Co., and this firm will be with us regularly in the future. Regular space has been taken on page 3 under Bryant Pollard.

We expect that Herman Schmidt of N. Y. City who has not advertised in the WEEKLY for some years will henceforth be represented in each number of the WEEKLY. His advertisements will be worth reading.

E. H. Gammans, Jr., takes displayed space and also space in adlets. We found Mr. Gammans full of business on our recent call upon him at his Nassau St. office and we shall expect him to be with us regularly hereafter.

The name of Jacques Krebs is a familiar one. Mr. Krebs advertised in the WEEKLY years ago and we are glad to have him with us every week. His advertising copy, written in perfect form, would be welcome in any newspaper office.

Vahan Mozian, formerly advertising as the Ararat Stamp Co., is now located at 140 Nassau St., N. Y. City, where he has a fine office. He is the headquarters for Forbin's revenue catalog and we are glad to have him with us regularly.

What about summer dullness?

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used, at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Some time ago, we mentioned a party by the name of Easton, concerning whom a complaint had been filed in the WEEKLY. Can any dealer give us any information as to whether the claim referred to has been settled? His residence was Butte, Montana.

—Ely Marks, the manager of the Marks Stamp Co., has recently been operated upon at a Toronto hospital and while convalescent, it will be some days before he will be able to give his attention to business. He asks the consideration of his customers for any apparent inattention to correspondence.

—We allow the Parker advertisement to go in this week with a 60% display line for the reason that he indicates the particular stamps that he offers at this discount. This comes within the new rule laid down by the management of the WEEKLY.

—Herman Schmidt, 60 Nassau St., N. Y. City, has had unsatisfactory dealings with R. F. Robinson, Winnipeg, Can. He would like to hear from interested parties.

—President Kissinger of the S. P. A. leaves June 18th for a 38 day trip to the Pacific Coast. On his trip, he means to visit many of his old time friends and make many more.

—"Hearty greetings! to the WEEKLY. Long may it prosper, and may it continue to have all the success it deserves! Which latter is not meant in an equivocal manner—it deserves the best ever. I'm sorry I've been so belated with copy the last weeks—it is a desperately busy spring with me, business-wise and otherwise, and I never seem to have the necessary punch to write copy. I'll have to engage a manager, though I hesitate to do so, when someone wrote recently:—"I seem to note a man's fine hand in your advertising." Now, what is a poor woman to do? All I can say is, 'Tis a poor thing, but mine own!" —LOUISE W. KELLOGG.

—L. A. Beebe submits a specimen of the 1861 Sardinia newspaper stamp, 1c black, with the numeral of value in a double invert.

WITH THE NEW PHILATELIST.

Edited by BILL BLOSS, 2729 Hampden Court, Chicago, Ill.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

DISCOUNTS.

The recent ruling of this paper in regard to advertisements featuring approvals at a greater discount than 50% has caused considerable discussion. This subject of discounts is one seldom understood by the beginner and often misunderstood by the advanced collector.

Many dealers have resorted to the practice of advertising 70% and 75% discount approvals, and when the collector writes for same, expecting to get at least a fair selection of stamps, he receives one or two poorly prepared sheets of trash, together with a few better grade stamps marked at 50%, or even 25%, and a note explaining that "the company believed he would be interested in a better selection." As a result, the collector feels that he has been tricked, and becomes suspicious of all dealers. Such methods bring the dealer no results, and are harmful to the trade as a whole.

From the character of certain advertisements, the uninformed collector would assume that he could purchase perfection U. S., Colonials, and rare stamps at these discounts. Therefore, he reasons that dealers asking higher prices are trying to rob him. It is a fact, as nearly all collectors will testify, that perfection U. S. are bringing in some instances considerably more than catalogue prices, and that practically all of the early issues are bringing full catalogue or a very slight discount.

If your grocer placed a sign in his window, selling eggs at 25c a dozen, and when you asked him for a dozen, told you they were rotten but that he had some better ones for 36c, how long would you trade with him? Yet, a stamp dealer can advertise approvals at 70% and 75% from catalogue, giving the impression that he can supply anything in fine condition in the early rarities, and in replying to his customers, sends out a mess of trash at 75% and some better sheets at 50%, usually containing stamps sold at 60% by other dealers, gets away with it, and gains the name of being an honest and low-priced dealer.

Some stamps are too high at 75% off catalogue, while others are worth many times catalogue. A certain Eastern firm recently offered me $2,000. catalogue value of certain Nicaraguans for $175. cash. I could have sold them for $500. and yet allowed the 75% off catalogue. On the other hand, I have paid half catalogue for the 12c Chile 1910-11 issues, wholesale, and have sold my entire supply at catalogue.

In arranging a selection of stamps of one country, it is almost impossible to fairly mark them by a fixed discount. Take for instance the 20th Century Chile issues. The 1905-9 issue can be had in quantity at discounts wholesale of 80% or 85%, with the exception of the 3c, 12c, 30c and 1 peso. The 3c usually brings 50c to 65c a hundred. The 12c, which was "suppressed" sells for 25c each, while the 30c in quantity brings about $2.00 per hundred. The Peso, which appears to be quite scarce, wholesales at $2.00 and retails at $2.50 to $3.00. From the above figures, you will readily see how impossible it is to mark stamps at a fixed discount. When the Peso lists at $3.50 and wholesales at $2.00, or over half catalogue, how can you expect to buy it at 50% off, or $1.75, being 25c less than wholesale? Result: You do not find these scarce stamps in the selections.

Using the "net" system of pricing, the dealer can include all stamps, and mark them justly. If the 12c costs him 25c, let him mark it at 50c. If the 50c listing at 6c costs him 1c each, let him mark it at 2c, etc. Pricing the stamps at their actual cash value, regardless of discount or catalogue value, is far more satisfactory to the collector who appreciates a fine selection, and is anxious to locate the scarce values. By this system, if a stamp is actually worth but 25% of catalogue, and the dealer can sell it at that rate and make a profit, he can price it at its actual value and thus not overcharge the collector.

Many collectors appear to be afraid of a dealer advertising "net" approvals. The word "net" does not signify that the dealer prices his goods at full catalogue, but simply that he does not allow a discount from his own prices. It is a well-known rule of philately that stamps purchased at full catalogue are usually worth more in proportion than stamps purchased at 75% off. It is generally the kind sold at the great discount that decreases in the next catalogue, not the ones that are so scarce that they command full catalogue. The latter are usually the ones that increase in value first. Of course, the collector must be sure that the stamp in question is really worth the money. To buy successfully in stamps, as in every other line, the purchaser must know his goods. I am not advising collectors to purchase from dealers the stamps worth 75% off, and pay 10% off for them, as sometimes asked. True, these dealers who send out complete and expensive selections are entitled to charge more in proportion for their goods, as their selections represent a greater outlay of money and more time than the cheap selections thrown together by the less careful dealer.

As a rule, collectors start the hobby in their younger days. Among the boys it has long been the custom to get approval sheets from dealers, and after selling the stamps to other collectors, keep half the money as commission. Hence the 50% discount habit. However, probably not one collector in a hundred depends on selling from approvals to make money, and many collectors who do sell to their friends allow the buyers the discount. Therefore, the custom of allowing a large discount is outgrown and should be abolished. It matters not whether a collector buys a stamp at 4c less 50% or 2c, or whether he buys it at 2c without any discount, and does not bother to do the necessary mathematics.

In summing up this matter of discount, let us call attention to the fact that it is not the discount that is of importance, but the actual amount charged for the stamps. Therefore, collectors will find that the reputable dealer selling at net prices will often give better service and satisfaction in the end than the dealer who sells at a big discount, sells damaged goods, looks to the grasping of every penny for his profits, and must "slip things over" in order to stay in the game. Learn your values, and discount will be of no consequence.

ATTENTION, KANSAS CITY COLLECTORS.

The writer will be in Kansas City for a few weeks shortly after June 1st, and desires very much to make the acquaintance of collectors and dealers located in that vicinity. This is a pleasure trip for me, solely, and I am neither anxious to buy or sell stamps. Please address me c/o O. P. Bloss, 3527 Highland Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

As explained a few weeks ago, I cannot answer correspondence, either privately or through the paper, so will thank collectors to keep all other matters until my return to Chicago in the fall.

BILL BLOSS.

Here's a St. Nicholas salute for Mr. Wylie and MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

Congratulations on the "New Birth". Your work to make the stamp collecting business cleaner and better must count—can't help but be very much worth-while. St. Nicholas Magazine will hope to aid in this good endeavor, as it has in many other good things during its 42 years of active life.

Indeed, with thousands of enthusiastic youngsters in the best American homes who devotedly believe in St. Nicholas, we are able to exert a powerful influence in many ways.

St. Nicholas and its Stamp Department hopes to be of increasing service to the friends of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. Watch our pages.

NASSAU STAMP CO.

THE STAMPS OF NORTH GERMAN CONFEDERATION.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

It was not until after the battle of Sedan that a German post was established in the occupied territories. The first decree relating to this service was published in the Official Gazette for September 6th, 1870, and it would appear that the stamps were all ready for use for specimens cancelled Sept. 6th are known. The decree dealt with the routes over which mail could be sent and the rates of postage to and from Germany. Single letters (weighing up to ½ oz.), cost 10 centimes, when sent to Germany, and 1gr or 3kr when sent from Germany. As the groschen was worth 10 pfennig and 10 centimes only 8 pfennig, the French service had the benefit of cheaper postage. For heavier letters, newspapers, and registered letters the rates were more uniform. The following extract from the official decree relating to the stamps themselves is of interest:—

"For the prepayment of all letters, etc., from the district of the Postal Administration of Nancy, new stamps have to be used bearing the inscription POSTES and the values in centimes. Stamps will be issued as follows:

- 1 centime, light green impression on white paper.
- 2 centimes, dark brown impression on white paper.
- 4 centimes, grey impression on white paper.
- 10 centimes, light brown impression on white paper.
- 20 centimes, blue impression on white paper.

Letters franked with other stamps than the above will be treated as not franked."

Evidently most if not all of the values mentioned in the above decree were issued in September. Two new values—5 and 25 centimes were added to the set later but, curiously enough, no decree relating to their issue has ever been found. It is presumed they were on sale about the middle of December, 1870.

The design is unpretentious in the extreme. It consists simply of a rectangular frame, nearly 2 mm. wide, enclosing large numerals of value in the centre with POSTES above and CENTIMES below. This design was set up from ordinary printer's type to make a plate of 150 impressions in 15 horizontal rows of ten each. The thick frame lines separated the stamps horizontally and vertically—that is one thick line separated each two stamps so that each design did not have its own individual frame. From the settings-up stereoplates were made from which the stamps were printed. Although the type was set by hand, remarkable uniformity was obtained and varieties are few. There are three distinct types of the 4c, viz.:—

- A.—The foot of the 4 is over the IM of CENTIMES.
- B.—The foot of the 4 is further to the left hand and is above TIM.
- C.—The foot of the 4 is still further to the left and is above TI.

There are also two varieties of the 10c, viz.:—

- A.—The foot of the 1 is over the N of CENTIMES.
- B.—The foot of the 1 is further to the left and above the letters EN.

Whether the above occurred in the same setting or represents distinct settings of the type, I cannot say.

The design being so simple it was necessary to have some addition which would render illicit imitation difficult. It was therefore decided to make use of the plate which had done duty in providing the stamps of the North German Confederation with invisible network only in the case of these Alsace Lorraine stamps the network was printed in color, the colors for the several denominations corresponding to those used for the designs. Normally the points of the network point upwards but in some cases the sheets were used wrong way up so that errors with points of network turned downwards are found.

Scott's catalogue lists the 10c without network though I have been unable to discover any information regarding this. The other catalogued variety—the 20c with blue and yellow network—was first discovered in 1902. I quote from the Monthly Circular for April of that year:—

He Got the Money, We Got the Stamps

We have had a rather expensive visit from the Postmaster General of Mexico. We bought practically all he had to offer, and coming from this official source the status of these stamps is unquestioned.

REVENUES AND COILS.

We find that in the past month quite an interest has developed in the present issue of Revenues. This is as it should be and we feel sure that the collector of U. S. that does not keep his Revenues and Coils up to date will have a front seat with the mourners.

We also find quite a demand for the Spanish War Revenues, of which we have a fine stock of blocks in many shades.

Better fill up on these and "Do it now."

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Mr. S. Farges, of Lyons, has seen a curiosity of which he gives the following account:—"Everybody knows that the stamps of Alsace are printed on paper with a network of which the curves are downwards in the ordinary type and upwards in the scarcer type known as inverted net. The newly discovered variety consists of a 20 centimes with a double network (i) blue, net inverted, and (ii) pale yellow net in normal position. The superposition of the two networks gives the whole stamp a greenish tint which strikes the eye at once. I look on it as a printing of the 20 centimes made by mistake on paper prepared for the 10 centime stamp, having already received the network for that value; or, it may perhaps be a printing on paper that had been used for printers' trial impressions of the 10 centimes network. There can be no possible doubt as to the authenticity of the variety in question. The two specimens that have passed through my hands came from the correspondence of a Lyons house of business (then in the Cours de Broesses and now in the Cours Gambetta). Both are on original letters. One is postmarked SAAR-UNION, 29. 9. 1871 and the other BUCKENHEIM, 1. 8. 1871."

REPRINTS.

In May, 1885, the Philatelic Record published the following paragraph:

We have been somewhat astonished of late at the numerous offers we have had of the sets of these stamps, spick and span-new, with burélage inverted. Some of the values, especially the 5 centimes, used to be extremely scarce, especially unused; and yet we hear of complete sets being offered on all sides at prices less than moderate. Now the mystery is solved; the newcomers are reprints, or more properly imitations. From Der Philatelist we learn that they have been done at the Imperial German Printing Office to the order of a Hamburg stamp dealer. Those dear Hamburgers! Upon close examination they may easily be distinguished from the originals. In the first place the network, notably on the 10 and 20 centimes, is bolder and more distinct. The word POSTES is a trifle larger, and the letters composing it somewhat thinner. The colors are fairly well imitated, except on the 20c, which is printed in a different shade to any of the old issue. The perforation is exactly copied. As these stamps vary in certain respects from the originals, they are, like the so-called reprints of the first issue of Wurtemberg and certain of the United States stamps, Government forgeries, and are of the slenderest philatelic interest.

These reprints are quite easily told the best test being that given in the catalogues. In the reprints the P of POSTES is only 2 1/2 mm. from the left hand border whereas in the originals the distance is at least 3 mm.

In addition to these well-known Government forgeries Mr. G. B. Duerst mentions two others which are rather dangerous, viz.:

In 1893 another forgery was announced, and was said to come from Brussels. The reversed net and dull colors are well imitated but the word POSTES measures 13 mm. in length, and the perforation is 13 1/2 all round instead of 13 1/2 by 14. A very good forgery was also made in Paris. The net and the design look well, and are apt to deceive collectors at a first glance, but here also the perforation of 13 1/2 all round condemns them. This forgery is also found obliterated.

IN THE BOOK LINE.

If any of our subscribers have any particularly choice things in the stamps of Egypt, either on or off cover, we shall be very pleased to secure photographs for use in connection with a book on Egypt which will ultimately be issued by the WEEKLY. It will be printed in instalments and will be commenced immediately. It will be written by R. E. R. Dalwick and we expect to make it an authoritative work on the stamps of this country. If you have any varieties of Egypt stamps worthy of illustration we shall gladly recognize the coöperation that may be extended.

Handbook No. 10 will no doubt be "United States Department Stamps" by F. E. Goodwin. The book will contain much useful information and we shall no doubt be able to publish it for the small sum of 10c.

We have in mind this summer the publication of "Range Tales" by Edwin B. Hill. These stories are of rare merit and we have been warmly complimented upon securing the services of so talented a writer. Tales of the western country are interwoven with a bit of philately in such a manner as to prove of great interest. We shall run in close succession several new stories with old ones revised, and ultimately gather them together under the title indicated.

The work "United States State Revenues" by F. L. Applegate is moving along slowly. The author is a painstaking writer and it will no doubt be some months before this work is completed.

"A Philatelic Dictionary," by F. E. Goodwin will be a standard work and we take pleasure in announcing its early appearance in the WEEKLY in serial form. Mr. Goodwin's literary work is the best guarantee that the dictionary will be a standard one. Will subscribers volunteer lists of B's that should be represented in the book, and we will recognize meritorious entries.

Mr. Poole's "Germany and Its Colonies" will soon be concluded, and he will begin another work that will touch a responsive chord. Particulars later.

THE MATTER OF WHOLE NUMBER.

Some subscribers seem unable to understand our method of indicating expiration of subscription. Let us explain it once again. Every issue of the WEEKLY bears upon the first page a serial Whole Number. Look up the label on your wrapper and if your Whole Number has been passed by the Whole Number given on the first page of our current issue, then your subscription has expired.

THE BELGIAN POSTAL SERVICE.

There seems to be a general impression in philatelic circles that the circulation of Belgian postage stamps, both ordinary and Red Cross varieties, has been confined to the tiny Belgian Colony at La Havre (France). That this is not by any means the case is clearly shown by the following list of twenty-six communes where the Belgian postal service is still in operation and maintains a regular exchange of mails with France; Adinkerke, Alveringham, Biget, Coxyde, Elverdinghe, Furnes, Hoogstaede, Houthem, La Paune, Leysele, Loo, Neuve-Eglise, Nieuport, Oostdunkerke, Oosteloteren, Ploegsturt, Pollingrove, Poperinghe, Proven, Rousbrugger, Harlinghe, Stovele, Vlamertinghe, Warne-ton, Waton, Wulveringhem, Ypres.—Stamp Collecting.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Postage Stamps of Sudan—published by D. Field, 4-5 Royal Arcade, London, England, and edited by T. F. Marriner. Price, 12c. This is No. 10 of the series of handbooks consisting of articles reprinted from the columns of the West End Philatelist. It is uniform with the rest of the series and is a handsome production. The stamps of this country are covered in detail and illustrated by some beautiful half tone plates. The post office at Khartoum is a very attractive frontispiece illustration.

EDITORIAL.

Proof—We have been too busy to speak of the stamp market in relation to the unprecedented conditions at present in the world at large. In fact, if it were not that those who do not participate actively in philately are inclined to ask if the pursuit is not suffering in various ways by reason of the world's unrest, it is likely that the subject would be given no consideration. Only when times are slack does the stamp writer of his own accord moralize upon the aspects of philately in an abstract sense and as has been said, so briskly has the stamp season proceeded that discussions of the kind have not been inspired. It is natural that those removed from the circles of the pursuit express a curiosity to know how the hobby fares under the stress of the times and to them we say that philately is holding its own in this country, if it is not doing more than that. It would be wrong to suppose that no harm has been done, as in individual cases, injury has been sustained but in a broad, national way, the accelerated growth of stamp interest has neutralized any tendencies to halt or languish. We attribute this wholesome condition to the advertising campaigns that have been pressed for some years past and which are now having their cumulative effect; the seeds that were sown so intelligently are having their fullest fruitage. Philately is growing sturdier all the time and as a recreation and inspiration it is filling a larger place; and without wishing to indulge in flamboyant phrase, the darker the worldly conditions are, the more inviting does the restful sanctuary of philately become. However, we do not rest our case on words; last week's issue furnished the proof of the present healthful condition.

A Memento—An envelope has been shown us by Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer with an interesting cancellation as we may call it for the sake of description. On an envelope bearing a Washington postmark and the three cent red of 1861 is the additional impression in postmark form in black: "Central Office, U. S.

FERRIS AUCTION REVIEW, published in 1913, including actual auction prices realized for United States stamps. A few copies left which will be sold for 35 cents post free.

Philatelic Bit—In a recent number of the Docket, a journal for the legal profession, sent us by Mr. W. E. Marsh, we find a bright little article by W. H. Hamel, "Collector of War Tax Stamps," with the head: "The $1,000 Revenue Stamp—Have You Used One Yet?" Here is a case of "helping philately" that must have practical results.

* * *

The Best Explanation—In answer to our inquiry as to the occasion for the use of the two dollar "wines and cordials" revenue stamps, Mr. Leonard F. Garbaccio gives the following interesting details: "Having read your editorials on the $2 wines and cordials stamps and that you would like to know how they are used, I shall try to give an explanation. The manufacturer of wines and cordials does not have to pay the tax on wines or cordials that are sold to the retailer by him but when the retailer sells a pint or a barrel of the wine or cordial to the consumer, he has to attach the stamp to the container. In all probability you do not know that many of the French and northern Italian people living in this country drink nothing but wine with all their meals in the manner that other people drink tea and coffee and when they buy wine, they generally buy a barrel at a time; and as each barrel contains from fifty to fifty-three gallons, the need of a two dollar stamp becomes evident." The explanation submitted by Mr. Garbaccio, is the best of several that we have received and conforms with that furnished by the revenue commissioners. Still, we are of the opinion that the last word has not been said about the use of the stamp in question and we are hopeful that further particulars will soon be reported so that we may relay them to readers. Those who are interested in this stamp might read our remarks editorially in the issue of May 15th, if they have not already done so.

* * *

Canada's War Tax—Our second assistant postmaster general has issued the notice that "postmasters and other postal officials" should acquaint themselves with the provisions of Canada's war tax as relating to the use of the stamps. The Canadian postal authorities have decided to permit the use of the war tax stamps and the regular postage stamps interchangeably and as a result we have postage stamps good for revenue purposes and revenue stamps valid for postage. Postmasters in this country are enjoined to "cause any article which is tendered for mailing at their offices obviously with the intention to evade the higher postage rate applicable to it in Canada to be refused unless fully prepaid at said higher Canadian rate." Elsewhere we print the official notice of the method of use of Canada's one and two cent "war tax" stamps.

Advertising Cancellations—On letters from the Bahamas we find cancellations advertising the attractions of that "most salubrious spot" as a resort for tourists. There are several varieties of the markings which are rectangular in form and have the wording in three lines: "Have you been to Nassau, Bahamas? If not, Why not?" and "Come to Nassau, Bahamas, Ideal Tourist Resort," respectively. On some of the envelopes the inscription is used as an obliteration for the stamp. This idea is somewhat in advance of the postmark plan and seems a bit contrary to the conservative traditions that prevail in the departments of the British colonial postmasters; and in fact if this distinctively American style of advertising is improved upon, we shall find our stamps canceled perhaps with: "Hit the High Spots at Raratonga" and "Night is turned into day at Reykjavik."

* * *

Censor Marks—We are indebted to several correspondents for packages of censored envelopes. Russian covers are coming with a rubber stamp inscription as well as the printed label of censorship in three languages. In this connection our attention is called to an "error" on one of the envelopes as it has been described to us in which the diacritical marks over "Oppnats" the two dots are enclosed within the "O." A French marking rubber-stamped on a label, reads: "Ouvert par l'autorité militaire." German letters from Belgium bear "Feldpost" markings and there are "Landsturm" postmarks on others.

* * *

Gentlemen, Be Calm—The following clipping has reached us as having been published originally in the Moosomin (Saskatchewan) World-Spectator: "When we referred to the mammoth paper at Esterhazy as a 'post card' we intended it for a compliment. Now the editor - roller-washer - compositor-blacksmith, office 'devil,' etc., who presides over office scissors and paste-pot is insulted and has become real nawsty. What will he say when we call it by its true name, the 'Post Stamp,' and not even a war stamp at that? We should worry!" The philatelic imagination of the editor we have quoted is what appeals to us and we take it that his verbal onslaughts mixed with stamp metaphor and stamp similes will play havoc in the camp of his dazed contemporary.

IT STANDS CORRECTED.

Mr. Frank L. Applegate calls our attention to three corrections which should be made in his Nevada State Revenue article and we quote from his letter just at hand:—

In referring to the watermark appearing on the Nevada revenues, the text as published, says, "Some of the imperforate stamps," etc. This is very misleading, as it should read, "Some of the rouletted stamps," etc. In reference to the stamp printed on checks, I should have said, "The die is identical with the double star 2c Nevada," where in the text as published I am made to say the "Single star," etc. In the last paragraph of the article where the reading refers to the "4c, 5c dull green, 50c on thick paper and $5.00 stamp"; it should read "$5.00 imperforate stamp."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Geo. Gandenberger, Jr., formerly at 291 Railroad Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., has opened an office at 83 Nassau St., where he will hope to meet his many old customers and make other new ones. Collectors in and around New York City should note his offerings each week and call upon him at his new place of business. Mr. Gandenberger would like to hear from dealers who are interested in Horace Ingles, formerly 1929 Grant St., Fresno, Cal., Glenn B. Fretz, 1102 N. St. Francis, Wichita, Kans., and Wm. Stolz, 1122 Forest Ave., N. Y. City. Mr. Gandenberger's advertisements will be found regularly each week on our editorial page.

—A valued subscriber calls our attention to an advertiser who has ignored two communications addressed the firm on business matters. He writes "Twice in the past I have replied to the advertisements of this stamp firm but have never had any sort of reply. On April 26 I wrote saying that in response to their adv. concerning new issues service I wished to take up Central and South America at the same time referring to my New York bankers. I have never had a reply at all. What is the reason? Why do they advertise if they do not want business?" This is, indeed, a curious situation. Can dealers be so short-sighted that they advertise for patronage only to spurn the business that results? Common courtesy at least calls for the proper recognition of a letter received, even though the firm is unable to make good.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Grant L. Paul.

—New York is mourning the loss of Charles Gregory, who died on May 20. He was an active collector, one of the oldest members of the American Philatelic Society and one of the founders of the Collectors' Club. He will be missed by a large circle of business friends and acquaintances.

—Charles H. Stone sends us a clipping from the Paper Trade Journal giving the particulars of the merging of the Mercantile and Middle West Companies, who were competitors for the Government's stamped envelope contract. The business will be continued under the title of the latter concern, which will fill the big order necessary to meet the probable consumption of the next four years of envelopes and newspaper wrappers. The plant at Dayton, Ohio, will be a busy place.

—"Of the three white back stamps sent to the Islands in November, 1913, but one remains on sale. The 3d was exhausted within 9 months after it was put on sale, and the 10s lasted but a year and a half. Only one consignment of these white back stamps was sent out, and the numbers were small. Of the 10s, 2520 were printed—42 panes of 60 each. And yet the 3000, 10s Edward, Postage & Revenue, on single watermark paper, issued in 1908, lasted over six years. In fact, it is even now on sale at George Town, concurrently with the 10s Georg."—HARRY E. HUBER.

—Minneapolis collectors are out for the S. P. A. Convention for 1916 and ask all S. P. A. members in making out their proxy to instruct for Minneapolis in 1916.

—"A letter just received from Jamaica has such an odd cancellation, I believe a note concerning it will interest collectors of British colonials. The cover bears a 2 1/2 stamp cancelled in purple ink, in the usual circular form—"Street Letter Box, Montego Bay." In the middle of the circle and right across the center of the stamp is hand-written in black ink "May 14" and below is a "15" in purple ink, a part of the circular cancellation. Now the important point about this whole cancellation is that if the stamp were removed from the cover, it would be difficult to convince any collector that it was not revenue cancelled. I receive a good many letters from Montego Bay and this is the first cancellation of the kind I have ever seen."—HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.

—L. A. Beebe sends for our inspection a pair of the 10c 1904 Colombian Republic, Scott's No. 353, which is imperforate between vertically. This variety is not mentioned in the catalog, though it may have been previously listed in the philatelic press.

MARKS STAMP CO. TORONTO, CANADA

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

AUSTRIA—J. M. Bartels & Co. have shown us the new Austrian War Stamps recently announced. All are in a single color, are printed on white, unwatermarked paper and perforated 12½. The shape is a horizontal oblong, the design of the frame being similar to that of the low values of the 1908 set. The figures of value appear in colorless tablets in the lower corners, the word "heller" being arranged as in the older set but divided by a small colored circle, containing a figure "2" for the 3h, 5h, and 10h values and "3" for the 20h and 35h values. This marks the addition made to the face value for charity. "Kaiserliche Konigliche Osterreichische Poste" is grouped around the central oval, containing a different picture for each value, as follows: 3h, soldiers in the trenches, firing on the enemy; 5h, cavalry on the march; 10h, siege howitzer in action; 20h, battleship in action; 35h, aeroplane.

Adhesives.

5h yellow green.
10h carmine.
20h slate.
35h ultramarine.

Otto Weismann also reports these stamps; and also says that the Bosnian stamps overprinted "K. u. K. Feldpost" are for use in the parts of Russian Poland occupied by the Austrian armies. The values overprinted are 1h, 2h, 3h, 5h, 6h, 10h, 12h, 20h, 25h and 60h postage stamps and 5h post card.

BELGIUM—The London Telegraph gives the following particulars regarding proposed Belgian postal issues. First comes the new Red Cross issue, which this time will consist of four stamps, 5 centimes green, 10 centimes red, 15 centimes brown, and 20 centimes blue. They will be printed from recess-plates, and will be of finer workmanship than the stamps of the Red Cross already issued for Belgium. Each stamp will bear portraits in medallions of the King and Queen of the Belgians, but they will be quite unlike the spurious stamps with the two portraits which were sold in Holland last November. They will be ready about May 15, and will be sold at double the face value. The face value represents the postal value of the stamps which are available for postage in the Belgian community at Ste. Adresse, Havre, and in the parts of Belgium not invaded by the enemy, and in the curiously situated community of Baarle-Duc, which, though not in Belgium, but in Holland, is yet part of Belgium. A million sets of these stamps have been ordered.

The current ordinary Belgian stamps have to be changed. With the German invasion many postoffices have fallen into the hands of the invaders, and they have helped themselves to the stocks of stamps, among other things, and quantities of current Belgian stamps have been sold at considerable discounts in neutral countries and in Germany. Such stamps, having been looted, represent no revenue to the Belgian Government and there will be no alternative for that Government but to demonetise them. These considerations have led the Minister of Posts to prepare a new set of stamps, which will not be issued to the public, however, for postal use until Belgium is a free country once again. But the stamps are even now in course of preparation. There will be fourteen denominations, 1, 2, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 35, 40, 50 centimes, 1, 2, 5, and 10 francs. The low values (up to and including the 25 centimes) will be typographed in a small ordinary stamp size and will portray King Albert.

The next three denominations will be of slightly larger size, and, in common with all the values above 25c, will be printed from plates engraved in recess. The 35c will show the Cloth Hall of Ypres, after the visit of the Germans, the 40c will depict the College of Dinant and surrounding landscape after the invasion, and the 50c will show what the Germans did to the University of Louvain.

Then there are some special designs for the franc values, which are to be of still larger size. The freeing of the Scheldt in 1862 is to be symbolised on the 1f, as the most important economic event in the modern history of Belgium. The annexation of the Congo is the subject of the vignette on the 2f, and the Great War forms the subject of the 5f picture. On this stamp King Albert is depicted presenting the Belgian flag to his Army on the steps of the Town Hall of Furnes. On the 10f will be portrayed the three kings of Belgium, the two Leopolds and the present King Albert.

BULGARIA—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the new postage due stamps as noted in No. 1273, and we find that the values are expressed in stotinka instead of leve. The design is 19x26 mm., and the stamps are printed on pelure paper. There is also a 50s value, which we have not yet seen. The London Telegraph says that a new set of regular postage stamps is being prepared by Petiti & Co. of Rome, and that the 5s, 10s and 25s values have already been delivered to the postal authorities at Sofia.

CANADA—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred informs us that the new 5c Inland Revenue War Tax stamp has been issued in the same design as the 1c orange, 2c brown and 10c olive green, previously noted. The color is olive yellow. The Quebec Law stamps, with inscriptions in both French and English are now issued in a full set, the $3 green being the last one issued.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC—A. W. Dunning reports a new official set for this Republic, approximately the same size as the current Nicaragua set, and all printed in the same color. The stamps are a large oblong, with "Independencia" in a curved label at the top, figures of value in the upper left and lower right, and the value in words across the bottom. The main portion of the stamp is taken up with three ovals, containing portraits of Duarte, Sanchez and Mella.

GERMANY—Offices in Russian Poland.—Otto Weismann reports that the 3pf, 5pf, 10pf, 20pf, and 40pf German stamps have been overprinted "Russich Polen" for use in the parts of Russian Poland occupied by the German armies.

HONDURAS—A. W. Dunning reports having seen the new Official overprints, surcharges and errors noted last week. Unfortunately his letter arrived too late to be included in the notice.

LUXEMBURG—In 1912 the 87½c dark blue of Luxembourg was surcharged with a new value, 62½c, and it seems that this odd value has come into favor, MEXICO—Raymond Freshwater reports having seen some unchronicled varieties of the "Gobierno"—"Constitucionalista" stamps, including "C" for "G" of "Gobierno," "c" for first "o" of "Constitucionalista," and another with only the "$" showing. Possibly the latter was due to poor inking.

NICARAGUA—A. W. Dunning reports having seen the new official set, the designs being the same as the regular postage set of 1914, but printed in pale blue, and overprinted "Oficial" in small condensed black capitals. Mr. Dunning has seen the 2c, 3c, 5c, 6c, 10c, 20c and 50c values and thinks all values of the regular Postage set exist in this official form. Scott's Circular adds the 1c, 4c, 15c and 25c values to the above.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322, Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P.M.

The 336th (regular) meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, Inc., was held on Tuesday evening, May 18, 1915, with 36 members present. The application of Mr. Albert Harrison Hall was posted. Mr. Nevin, who had investigated the subject reported that of the members canvassed 40% subscribed to magazines which were upon the library table, while only 26% subscribed to those which the Society did not receive, thus showing that it did not hurt a magazine's subscription list to have a copy where the members could see it free. Mr. Lyons won the contest for the 12 handsomest stamps exhibited, and Mr. Barrett won second prize.

THE MOTORCYCLE AND THE COWBOY.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

The Heavenly Twins rode into the frontier town of Willow amid a cloud of dust for which they were in no wise responsible. It was one of those hot days of August when the mercury, lingering all too long around the 110° mark, was about to be cajoled into change by the aftermath of the rainless wind storm. This sand-storm always was followed by a cool wind which, as an old timer announced, "kem 'cross the mouth o' th' pit, but somehow hit a corner o' heaven before arrivin' on this yere earth." All of which, while perhaps not strictly orthodox, was very satisfying to the denizens of Willow.

All morning I had been sitting in front of the tent-house, trying to interest myself in the news of the philatelic world. The twins saved the rest of the day. Jimmy O. and Eddy Fyne had been christened the Heavenly Twins by a jeering cowboy who had found a prehistoric novel up in the bunkhouse. He said Jimmy and Eddy deserved the name, ever since they raised the other thing in the bar of the Frontier House the night before the town went dry.

Be it known, then: sixty-eight dollars' worth of glassware was demolished in as many seconds by the twins, for the reason, solitary and sole, that they had just sixty-eight dollars between them, which they had brought into town to spend in true cowboy style.

"Real money, too," declared Eddy, joyfully, as he paid it over.

I have seen some handy work with a gun, but Eddy, according to an eyewitness, had all records—and glassware—broken hopelessly. He shot with either hand, and with both hands; and then, with back toward the target and face toward the mirror. But, miracle of miracles, blindfolded, he did some fancy shooting that made one feel crawly. Among other stunts, Jimmy stood against a partition door, while Eddy made a silhouette of bullet-holes around his body. I have the souvenir at the shack, where interested tenderfoot gaze and gaze. Someone told the first-comer Eddy did it standing on his head—which fiction Eddy ignored.

"Me—I c'n shoot a hole in a barn door—if some one moves the door," declared Jimmy, as he rolled the inevitable cigarette and proceeded to reposition the whole of out-of-doors. "But Eddy—why, Eddy couldn't miss a mark if he was chokin' t' death."

Eddy grunted unhappily. He never approved the praise from the other Twin.

"You ought to see Jimmy rope!" broke in Eddy. Whereupon Jimmy immediately fell silent.

Jimmy picked up a philatelic paper. "My fav'rite readin'—the WEEKLY," declared Jimmy, as he buried his nose in the pages of the latest issue.

I went into the tenthouse. A few minutes later, when I returned, the twins were gone.

Shortly after their disappearance, the chug-chug of a passing motorcycle was accentuated by the poison of its gases which drifted with the breeze. The ensuing silence was broken by the return.

Then the calm of Willow mid-afternoon was broken by the jeers of the rider and the curses of cowboys intermingled with the pounding of hoofs and the snorts of frightened horses. I ran down the path. The motorcyclist was circling the Twins, whose horses were giving a fine exhibition of rearing, side-jumping, and bucking that would have been the joy of an Eastern boy's heart.

The town marshal sidled up to me. "Fun fer th' boys," he said, with a grin.

"Fun, nothing!" I replied, rather forcefully. "The fool will have them both killed yet."

The marshal laughed. Then a great light broke upon me. The cyclist had tried this stunt before—but not with the Twins. They had heard of it, undoubtedly, and the trip into Willow followed.

Things began to happen immediately. The Twins were holding their horses down, and getting ready their riatas. The cyclist sensed trouble, and swung into a straight run for safety. It was too late. Jimmy's arm swung. The rope soared, settled, and the cyclist went up Main street at the end of forty feet of riata and a loping horse, two blocks and return. Part of the time he dragged. When he recovered his feet to run, Jimmy spurred his horse and the cyclist made increasingly long leaps until he lost his footing and rolled in the dust.

Not to be outdone, Eddy roped the motorcycle. The engine was still running on slow. Eddy started down the street as Jimmy went up, forty feet of rope towing two hundred pounds of irate motorcycle.

The marshal and I leaned against each other and laughed ourselves sore, for the motorcycle, jerked upright, immediately began a pursuit of Eddy which several times threatened to be successful. And Eddy's horse! It sure missed every other high place. Eddy made a circle of the block, the motor dragging or pursuing, until a convenient telephone pole enabled the champion to encircle it, dismount, and tie.

Eddy looked reproachfully at the machine, now quiescent. Then he laughed and laughed some more.

"Oh Lordy! Plum' scared me nigh to death—an' ole pinto—he sure thought he war a goner!"

Jimmy, meantime, had paused long enough to enable his captive to shed the rope. The cyclist was a sight. His clothes were in rags, his face and hands bruised and bloody, but in his eyes the unquenched fires. He stood his machine against the telephone pole. Then, at my invitation, he came up the path to the tent-house to wash up, the Twins following at a discreet distance.

The Twins watched him get presentable. The bruises were only minor, but the clothes were a ruin.

The cyclist turned an observing eye upon the Twins. Then a slow grin broke over his face as he put out his hand.

"Say! honest! I am all kinds of a fool, aren't I? This time I got some sense dragged into me. Much obliged—I sure am!"

The Twins grinned and shook hands.

The cyclist stooped to pick up a little flat case which had fallen from the pocket of his ruined shirt. It opened. Three stamps fell out. He carefully gathered them out of the dust, and looked at them apprehensively. Jimmy's jaw fell. Eddy's did likewise. Their four eyes bulged.

"Gee! He's a collector!" began Jimmy.

"Fi' cents black—New York per-visionsals o' 45!" declared Eddy.

The cyclist opened his eyes several degrees. "Why—why—" he began.

"Yep," broke in Jimmy. "Both on us."

Then we sat down for a pow-wow. He was a middle-western boy out for his health in this land of sunshine. Yes, he had his collection with him. Yes, he'd bring it over. In fact, he'd go get it now out of his trunk at the Frontier House.

He looked expectantly at the two cow-punchers. They rose promptly. Just as the trio started down the path, Jimmy turned to me and said in his old whimsical way:

"Henceforth we'll be no more known as the Heavenly Twins, but the Three Musketeers."

I walked to the street in their wake. The three linked arms, the cyclist in the middle. They turned the corner and were lost to view. But of their further progress I was assured. Eddy's voice came back.

"An' that there other N' York—was it th' one wit' double line at bottom? I didn't quite see."

WITH THE NEW PHILATELIST.

Edited by BILL BLOSS, 2729 Hampden Court, Chicago, Ill.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

S. D. D.—If your unused pair of 3c 1851 is fully gummed and is not damaged in any way, I believe you can get close to catalogue for it, or $3.00. A recent auction price was $2.50. These pairs seem to be in demand. The same pair used on cover might be worth from 25c to 50c, depending upon the appearance of the cover, cancellation, etc. Green cancellations are worth much more than other colors.

H. R. S.—From your description of Porto Rico No. 60 imperforate with double impression one inverted, I should say that this stamp was printer's waste. The fact that it is imperforate and without gum is quite good evidence, as it is doubtful if a stamp with so many faults could escape detection and get in circulation. Doubtless, it would bring a small premium from a collector interested in this island, and it is certainly odd.

The 3c in the color of the 50c did not turn out to be a very scarce variety. I have purchased quite a number of these myself, and the colors of the two stamps were very close to each other at one period of printing.

A. J. G.—Isn't your stamp Austria No. 251. The Mexican stamp you illustrate is an official seal for letters opened by the post office or opened accidentally. Your drawing is remarkably well executed.

F. A. W.—Unless you had a correspondent at Havre to send you the Belgian stamps postmarked in that city, I doubt if you could get them. I do not believe the Post Office authorities would bother with a mail remittance, especially if your letter was not written in French. Why not write to one of the French dealers, who can no doubt supply these postmarked stamps? As far as I know, the entire Belgian set is used there.

H. W.—Your list will be used later. Thanks. The current ten piastres Turkey, lightly canceled, should be worth 25c at least. The two piastres is more commonly used and is only worth a few cents. I am not familiar with the new surcharge, but would not pay too much for it.

No parcel post stamp was issued on ribbed paper. This effect is caused in the process of printing the stamps and is not uncommon. Ribbed paper is manufactured that way, while your variety is plain paper given the ribbed effect after manufacture.

J. B.—I presume your U. S. with only one side perforated is a coil stamp. These are perforated at top and bottom or at each side. No doubt, your copy was trimmed on one side, leaving perforations on only one side. No stamps have been issued perforated on one side only, and they would not be practical in that shape.

G. S. B.—Your difficulty in putting values on stamps not priced, used or vice versa, is one that bothers every collector. Scott does not price, as a rule, stamps they have not in stock. This does not always imply that the stamp is scarcer used than unused, but simply that they have no definite information as to how to place a value. You will have to study these things out for yourself, I am afraid, and trade according to the cost of the stamps, or what you can get for them. Naturally, stamps from the small countries and out-of-the-way places are scarcer than those from Japan, etc., when current. As a rule, a 2sh 6d Nyasaland canceled is worth as much, or at least within 25% as much, as an unused copy. Japanese and other stamps used in quantities are not as good used as unused. New issues can always be priced unused, as they are obtainable that way long before stocks are offered in used condition. Some collectors set a price of half unused on their used copies, which is usually quite fair.

A. E. M., Jr.—The 1897 Jubilee Issue of Canada was issued to commemorate the sixtieth year of the reign of Queen Victoria.

The Quebec or 1908 Jubilee issue commemorates the three-hundredth anniversary of the founding of Quebec. These stamps were placed on sale in the early summer of 1908. I do not know what month the 1897 issue was placed on sale.

The accented "C" and hair-line varieties of the current 2c are caused by defects in the plate.

All Canadian stamps since the Jubilee issue of 1897 were printed by the British-American Bank Note Company, at Ottawa. This concern is a branch of the American Bank Note Company, and still handles the manufacture of the stamps.

The 3c stamps of 1899 were overprinted 2c to comply with the reduction in rate from 3c to 2c for ordinary letters. At that time, there was an immense quantity of 3c stamps on hand, and few 2c, hence the surcharge to use up the supply of 3c.

The best authority on Canada stamps I know of is C. A. Howes' "Canada." This book is quite expensive, but is truly a masterpiece and worth the price to a thorough student of the country. It is published in De Luxe form with several full-page plates. Any New York or Boston dealer can supply it.

Miss H. A. L.—Your sheet of envelope stamps to illustrate size, color, etc., as distributed by the government to postmasters would really be classed as proofs. They are very interesting, but hard to sell and to place a value on. While these are proofs, they are different from the usual run of proofs.

R. B. M.—I believe my article of last week, on cancellations, answered your inquiry. If you get any "funny" U. S., let me hear from you.

J. B. P.—I suspect your 6d Western Australia grey is a chemical changeling, as purple does become grey under certain conditions. I never heard of a 6d grey stamp of this design.

C. C.—I believe your 3pf German current issue imperf. is a wrapper stamp cut square and used as an adhesive. These are not unknown in this condition. Submit it to an expert.

J. H. C.—I am sorry but I know less about State Revenues than you do, as I have never even seen some of them. I have always found straight postage a subject more than sufficient for me to master without dipping into the State revenues and locals. Read the WEEKLY series on state revenues.

R. W. H.—Your pair of Santander, No. 20, used, with error "Corceos" ought to be worth a dollar bill to a specialist, if postally used. Colombians are, unfortunately, not in great demand and usually sell at big discounts, though many are very scarce and should be more popular. Therefore, it is pretty hard to say what an unpriced item of this kind would be worth. Used copies of these things are very good property.

H. E. W.—I would suggest that you write to one of the big dealers who stock philatelic literature about the foreign revenue catalogue. See the ad offering it.

The caps on the 2c, 1890, are small breaks in the plate at the top of the figure "2", appearing as small oblongs added to the numeral. It is hard to describe them, but if you ever see one, you'll know it. The right cap is the rarest, and often a "2" with a dot at the top is claimed as a right cap, instead of the variety with the large oblong.

The stamp you picture is a Spanish war revenue, and has little value. Come again, next season.

The RAREST WAR STAMPS are the following:

TOGO Occupation Franco-Anglaise
GERMAN GUINEA Overprinted G. R. I.
MARSHALL Overprinted G. R. I.
SAMOA Overprinted G. R. I.

We have some of the above stamps in stock and can offer them at low prices, considering the small quantity issued. These stamps all bear on the back our guarantee mark.

OUR POSITION APPROVED.

The extent to which a newspaper proprietor may find it politic to control the subject-matter of the advertisements accepted for his journal is rather a nice problem, although it is never disputed that the right of rejecting any advertisement rests absolutely with the proprietor or his accredited advertisement manager.

Our American contemporary, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, which beyond all question is the most important philatelic advertising medium in the United States, has taken a determined stand against the practice of advertising stamps for sale at absurdly high discounts off catalogue prices.

"No dealer," writes the Managing Editor of MEKEEL'S, "can furnish any large number of desirable stamps at 75 to 90% off catalogue. He can supply some good stamps, no doubt, at from 60 to 75%, and there is rubbish including faked stuff that can be sold at 90%. It is not, however, a good business policy for the WEEKLY to allow one or more dealers to poison the minds of the rank and file of the collecting public by intimating that good stamps can be purchased at such big discounts as we have named."

Briefly summarising its position, MEKEEL'S announces that dealers can advertise stamps at any discount off catalogue they please, provided the particular stamps are named; "but we decline henceforth [writes the Managing Editor] to allow high grade stamps to suffer from the flaring headlines that have been used in the past to indicate excessively low prices at which stamps can be purchased." This action is defended as being a good business policy for both dealers and collectors, and one that is adopted in the best interests of Philately.—Phil. Jour. Gt. Brit.

CANADIAN WAR TAX.

Office of Second Ass't P. M. Gen.

WASHINGTON, May 20, 1915.

The Postal Administration of Canada has informed this Department, under date of the 17th instant, as follows:

"Beginning on the 15th of April, the Canadian Government imposed a war tax of one cent each—

1. On every letter mailed in Canada for delivery within the Dominion, the United Kingdom and British Possessions generally, in the United States, Mexico and wherever the two-cent per ounce rate of postage applies.

2. On every postcard mailed in Canada for delivery in Canada, the United States or Mexico.

3. On every postal note issued in Canada.

"Beginning on the same date, a war tax of two cents each was imposed on every post office money order issued in Canada.

"One-cent and two-cent postage stamps having the words 'War Tax' printed upon them were issued by this Department for the purpose of prepaying war tax on letters, postcards, postal notes and money orders; but it has been decided to permit these stamps to be used for prepayment of postage and also to allow the war tax to be prepaid on letters and postcards by means of ordinary postage stamps in any convenient way."

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT STAMPS.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

Navy Department.

With the exception of the stamps of the War Department none possess such possibilities of study as do the stamps of the United States Department of the Navy. These are prolific in shades, paper varieties, and there are several double transfers; and the various town dated cancellations provide an opportunity to create a collection of stamps which is attractive and interesting from the standpoint of historical facts. Some of these, bearing foreign postmarks, ought to be very valuable in years to come.

Eleven denominations were printed—from 1 to 90 cents. As was the case with all Departments these were printed by the Continental Bank Note Co., on hard paper. The designs, 100 to the sheet, followed closely those described in previous articles. The word "Navy" was placed diagonally across the left upper corner, and "Dep't" across the right corner. A cable, characteristic of the Navy, is prominent in the border. The initials "U" and "S" are in small hexagons.

A supply of these stamps, of all denominations, was printed in the interim between May 24 and July 1, 1873. At this later date the stamps were put into use with 160,830 delivered.

In classifying the shades, Mr. Luff arranges them from dull blue to bright ultramarine. The following number of shades to each denomination are listed:
1c, 6; 2c, 5; 3c, 6; 6c, 6; 7c, 5; 10c, 5; 12c, 4; 15c, 6; 24c, 5; 30c, 4; 90c, 5.

Only one plate was made for each denomination, plate numbers being as follows:

1c	80	12c	92
2c	50	15c	94
3c	34	24c	107
6c	53	30c	96
7c	119	90c	106
10c	101

An error of color occurs in the 2 cent stamp in deep green. It has been stated that by accident this plate was put into the press for printing the stamps of the Department of State. It is a true error, but the knowledge that so-called errors exist, which are only chemical changelings, makes it an object of suspicion, except when purchased from a reputable expert, and fully guaranteed.

I have seen two varieties of double transfers both in 3 cents. One of these shows quite plainly in the doubling of the lines of the lower label; the other occurs in the word "Navy" it being slightly "shifted" to the left. Varieties of ribbed paper exist in all denominations.

When the contract of the Continental Bank Note Co. was taken over by the American Bank Note Co. all plates of Department stamps were given into that company's possession. A printing on soft, porous paper was made by this concern, the denominations being so printed being 1c, 2c, 3c, and 6c, all in a shade of dull blue. These printings were made from Continental plates.

On or about Feb. 24, 1885, all department stamps were destroyed, including "Specimens".

The exact number of "Navy" stamps issued is not known. Between June 30, 1874 and June 30, 1884, the following amounts were delivered by the contractors to the postoffice department:

1c	106,800	12c	61,300
2c	201,350	15c	37,500
3c	580,700	24c	26,000
6c	234,800	30c	29,600
7c	16,000	90c	12,270
10c	55,210

These amounts have been erroneously given as the total number delivered.

For the Centennial exposition in Philadelphia 10,000 stamps of each denomination were overprinted with the word "Specimen" in carmine. Of these the following numbers were sold to the public:

1c, 9,182; 2c, 1,748; 3c, 126; 6c, 116; 7c, 501; 10c, 112; 12c, 107; 15c, 107; 24c, 106; 30c, 104; 90c, 102.

The error in the word "Specimen" reading "Sepcimen" occurs in the 2c, 7c and 12c.

I have never seen the stamps overprinted "Specimen" with a small "i" in the type, but have every reason to believe it exists, as it does in most other departments.

THE REASON WE PERSIST.

In calling attention to coils and present issue Revenues is, 1st, Because we want to sell them and, 2nd, Because we know it is for the interest of our clients to buy them now, while they are current and cheap. Some varieties of revenues on postage paper have already become obsolete and we have some values we have not seen quoted elsewhere. The coils have come to stay none of them are expensive if bought now and no collection is complete without them, including the Line and Paste-up varieties.

If your name is not on our Mailing List
WE BOTH LOSE.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

STAMPS OF AUSTRIAN ITALY.

FRED. J. MELVILLE.

Of Topical Interest—A series of stamps of topical interest at present are those classed in the catalogues as issues for Austrian Italy. They have been obsolete for half a century. When Austria adopted the postage stamp system in 1850 two sets of stamps were produced of similar design, one set was denominated in "kreuzer" for Austria proper, and the other in "centesimi" for use in Lombardy and Venetia. The design of the die was the Arms of Austria on a shield, enclosed within a rectangular frame, the lower part of which formed a pierced label for the insertion of the value in type. The die was engraved by Tautenheim, of Vienna, and in the Lombardo-Venetian set the values were 5 centesimi orange, 10c black, 15c red, 30c brown, and 45c blue. The stamps were printed typographically, and owing to the method of using the one die to make the electrotypes of all values there are variations in the lettering in the value label.

Change of Currency—All values in the issue of 1850 are very scarce unused, but most of them are still easily obtainable in the used state. They continued in circulation until 1858, when a new design was adopted for all the Austrian stamps, showing a small embossed cameo portrait of the Emperor Francis Joseph turned to the left. The new designs were the work of Professor Meissner, and the dies were engraved by Schmidt and Shrepfer, of the Austrian State Printing Office. The change of design coincided with an alteration in the currency to soldi, one soldo being equivalent to the Austrian kreuzer, which from 1858 was changed from 60 kreuzers to 100 kreuzers to the florin. The values in soldi are 2s yellow, 3s black (changed the next year to green), 5s red, 10s brown, and 15s blue. These were perforated, the perforation gauging 15.

End of Austrian Italy—The Treaty of Zurich, November 11, 1858, gave Lombardy to Italy, and from that time the stamps of Austrian Italy did postal duty only in the remaining State of Venetia and in the Austrian postoffices in the Levant. A series commenced in a new oval design in 1861 was only issued in two of the soldi values, 5 soldi red and 10 soldi brown; in these the embossed portrait of the Emperor is turned to the right, and the perforation gauges 14. This design was superseded in 1863 by a new one, also oval in form, but with the Austrian Arms embossed instead of the Imperial portrait. The arms series is in five values, 2, 3, 5, 10 and 15 soldi, which were at first perforated 14, but in 1864 a new perforation gauging 9½ was introduced for these stamps. The Austro-Prussian war lost Austria its remaining Italian State in 1866, and the subsequent Austrian stamps denominated in soldi were only used in the Levantine post-offices of Austria, where the accounts were then kept in soldi. Even these offices are now closed as a result of Turkey's abrogation of the Capitulations last October. —London Telegraph.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from H. W. Litten, Irvin B. Robinson, Maitland Milliken, N. Hagenauer, Silas Chapman, Jr.

—J. E. Holloway of the Edgewood Stamp Co., of Milford, Conn., was a recent caller at the WEEKLY office. Also, Mrs. Louise W. Kellogg of Hartford, Connecticut.

—In some way, the heading "German Colonies" was omitted from the advertisement of H. F. Colman in our issue of May 29. We regret this, but presume that it did not effect the pulling power of the advertisement, in view of the fact that the sets were all well described.

—Clifford D. Harvey, M. D., supplements our item of two weeks ago relative to Venezuela stamps surcharged "Fama de Cuba" by sending us Venezuelan stamps showing us this surcharge inverted and another overprint LA AMERICA in capital letters. This latter is a diagonal overprint and is shown normal and inverted.

—May 24, the parcel post service between Italy and the United States was temporarily suspended, due to the war between Italy and Austria. The Postal Department at Washington was advised of this fact by the Postal Administration of Italy.

—We are informed that George A. Tyler has received a sentence to the state reformatory at Cheshire, Conn. for his connection with burglaries in Hartford. Tyler will be remembered as procuring stamps without making any settlement for them.

—M. A. Berglund.—Will you please send your address to this office? We desire name of city and street address, when your request will be complied with.

—The Northern Philatelic Association is the latest thing of its kind. We are indebted to N. N. Cohen, 321 Williams Av., Brooklyn, N. Y., for an application blank and he will no doubt favor any of our readers in a similar manner with full particulars as to benefits, dues, etc.

STAMP COLLECTORS AT THE FRONT.

By W. E. IMESON.

The ever-popular hobby of stamp-collecting—or, as some style it, the science of Philately—has many and enthusiastic devotees in our new armies. At least one Philatelic Society publishes its "Roll of Honour" of members who are serving in some military or naval capacity. Many a man puts his pet hobby before his business or profession. Some do not forget it even in the stern business of war. No doubt many a stamp talk takes place in the trenches, in the lulls between the fighting. I have in my mind's eye just now a couple of "stamp fiends," serving with a Public Schools' Battalion of Territorials. Possibly at this very moment they are hard at it—both in a philatelic and fighting sense. To a Tommy who has never worshipped at the shrine of Philately, their conversation would appear to be a trifle "mixed":—

"I reckon, Lal, that Germans will soon be obsolete (bang, I've got another of them), and then become rare."

"Don't you believe it, Reggie. They've whole army corps—I mean big stocks of current issues untouched. They'll simply flood the trenches—that is, the market, after the war."

"Still, they're bound to 'rise,' after a time."

"P'raps. (I wish that wretched sniper would. Ah! there he is (bang). Confound it—missed him again!")

"Well, I shan't be keen on water-marks—once I get out of this trench. I can't help thinking that the old German States will go (bang) into the stamp business again. Then I'll bet my cap (whizz)—there it goes! Just look at this, old man, drilled right through the centre!"

"That's what I call a clean-cut perforation. Say, chummy, if that were put up at Puttick's, it would fetch a slap (bang) up price."

"Rippin' idea! Wouldn't it 'catalogue' well, too? 'Lot 500. O. H. M. S. cap. Khaki shade, with enormous margins. Stained, but otherwise in good condition. The hole through centre is guaranteed to be a genuine official punch. Happy thought—send that to Punch.'"

"You deserve one, anyhow. Now, what I say about Germans is this. Solid formations—I should say blocks and rows—are bound to 'advance.' Then will be the time to fix your attention—"

"Fix bayonets, you mean—by Jove, they're coming!"

Two Territorials, with a German prisoner, are seated together in a cosy "dug-out." They are intent upon the contents of three pocket-books. Little "bits of coloured paper" are being as closely studied as if they were miniature war maps. The German (who speaks English like a native—only much better) is doing a "swap" with his captors. To them, as to him, the phrase "our friend the enemy" has a real meaning. They are soldiers for the time being, but they are stamp collectors (and may possibly remain friends) for all time. Such is the humanising influence of the world's most popular hobby.—Khaki.

A. P. S. NOMINATIONS.

The Detroit Philatelic Society has nominated the following ticket for offices of the American Philatelic Society for the ensuing year:—President, C. A. Howes of Boston; Vice Presidents, B. Schlesinger, A. Hatfield and Wm. Homan of New York; Secretary, Wm. E. Ault of Jeffersonville, Ind.; Treasurer, C. F. Heyerman of Detroit, Mich.; Int. Sec., L. H. Kjellstedt of Scranton, Pa.; and Directors at Large, H. B. Phillips of California, and H. C. Barr of Buffalo, N. Y.

The Philadelphia Branch has made the same nominations for president, secretary, treasurer and Int. secretary, but names the following for the Board of Vice Presidents: H. H. Wilson, Wm. B. Sprague, Dr. Carroll Chase, all of N. Y. City; and for Directors at Large, H. B. Phillips of California and W. H. Barnum of Ohio. The Branch unanimously recommends the re-appointment of P. M. Wolsieffer for Sales Manager.

"RANGE TALES."

This will be the title of a book that we shall issue within a few months, and the story published last week is a sample of its proposed contents. We are very sure that our readers appreciated the skill with which the author, Edwin B. Hill, gave us a bit of fiction in which philately was interwoven with a moving picture of Western life.

WHAT IS THE STAMP WORTH?

This question applies to the St. Vincent provisional, 1d on 5sh. One of our advertisers has been offering this stamp for $5.00. It is not known definitely how many were issued. Some have said from 1,500 to 2,000, but the Colonial Journal says there were 15,000. Frank M. Mason asks, "If this statement of the Journal be true, what should the price be?" Ordinarily, we should say that a stamp of which 15,000 were issued would be worth in the vicinity of $1.50 after the entire issue had become scattered amongst collectors. It is a matter of speculation to attempt to indicate the value of a stamp when the ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MEKEEL-SEVERN-WYLIE CO. CORPORATION.

The annual meeting of the Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co. corporation was held Monday, June 7, at the Company's office in Boston, with Messrs. Wylie and Jewett in attendance. Charles E. Severn was elected president, W. W. Jewett, treasurer and Willard O. Wylie, clerk. The reports of the officers showed the affairs of the corporation to be in a prosperous condition.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Speculation—From Mr. Albert Lee of New York City, we have received a very interesting summary of a newspaper article that "purported to give a synopsis of the secret understanding on which Italy joined the Allies, particularly in respect to the terms of peace which shall be imposed upon Germany in the event of the latter's defeat." It is indicated that after peace is declared the map of Europe will be so altered that a host of new issues will necessarily be made to accommodate the "minor states" that will become national entities under the terms of peace; and Mr. Lee aptly says: "In fact, so great a philatelic revolution may be brought about that after peace comes the collector may find it convenient to abandon the present classification of Nineteenth Century and Twentieth Century in favor of issues made 'Before the War' and 'After the War.'" Mr. Lee's deduction is not without its significance even though it is "problematical" as all predictions must be.

Pleased to Meet It—Several weeks ago we told of the recall of the fifty dollar documentary revenue stamp of the current issue because a number of "the $50 denomination stamps were stolen after they had left the Bureau of Engraving and Printing." One of our readers has shown us a fine copy of FERRIS AUCTION REVIEW, published in 1913 including actual auction prices realized for United States stamps. A few copies left which will be sold for 35 cents post free.

Specials: Owing to a fortunate purchase, I can offer a fine $200 red and green, first issue revenue, perforated, for $ 6.00 this stamp in used condition and in this connection it would be interesting to know how many of the stamps were purchased for use before their sale was prohibited by the order that provided for the return of the stamps to Washington. Our intimation still holds that this $50 documentary stamp should prove to be exceptionally good philatelic property.

In Passing—Those one and two cent stamps, side by side in strip, that are used in slot machines and are noticeably wider than the ordinary stamps must be reckoned with as collectible varieties. These products of the rotary press are on a seemingly thicker paper with a shiny, white gum and measure over a half millimeter wider than the usual stamps. These printings in reality are different stamps. The beautiful new Liberia stamps are coming through on the mails and the stamps make a brave showing.

Even Prune Juice—Our discussion of the use of the $2 wines and cordials stamp has brought forth details that are worth hearing and through the courtesy of a number of correspondents, all misunderstanding as to the manner of employment of the stamp is removed. In supplementing his former explanation, Mr. J. A. Bangs writes as follows: "The consumer is always charged with the tax and when the druggist or liquor dealer buys wines or cordials by the cask for the purpose of bottling the article as he receives it, the $2 stamp is not used but merely two or six cent stamps, as may be required when bottled for the consumer; but when a cask is sold to the consumer the $2 stamp is used. However, when the druggist buys wines or cordials by the cask which he employs in making other preparations or products, he becomes the consumer and the $2 stamp is used on the cask that he purchases; and he in turn is compelled to put another stamp on the bottled product as he may put it up for sale. This also applies to rectifiers when wines, cordials, prune juice, etc., are employed in blending; he then becomes the consumer and pays the $2 stamp, and when the blended product is sold in bottles, the two or six cent stamp is used; and when sold in casks, the $2 stamp is again used. This really incurs a double tax. Bottled goods in sealed cases cannot be considered a unit, and must be stamped individually before sold, even if purchased before the tax became operative." Attention is called to the last sentence of Mr. Bangs' letter which disposes of the hypothetical case that we cited to account for the use of the $2 wines and cordials.

Have Another Barrel—Another reader knows whereof he speaks as he himself has taken the $2 stamp off the original packages. Mr. M. B. Marshall writes from Roseville, California, and it is certainly to be said that wine flows like water in his favored land: "I am getting a good number of the $2 wines and cordials stamps here in California. The stamps are used on barrels of claret and the section gangs on the railway where I work use from five to ten barrels a month to the gang; and there are about one hundred gangs that I come in touch with. The tax comes to $2.16 and the barrels have everything from 216 one cent stamps up to the mysterious $2 stamp. Yesterday, I got at two empty barrels, one of which yielded 54 of the four cent in one fine block and the other 5 of the forty cent and a pair of eight cent."

Clever—In the past we have called attention to two varieties of label on the order of the following form but the wording of the "sticker" under notice is a variation from either of those that already has been recorded: "This Letter was dropped in the Post Office without any stamp, which, according to the Regulations, would have been sent to the 'Dead Letter Office,' but realizing the importance of such letters, we have paid the postage thereon, relying on your generosity to return a liberal compensation. Address: 'Postage Stamp,' New Orleans, La." The stamp that was supplied was the three cent of 1861 and the office of origination of the envelope was New Orleans. The envelopes on which we have seen similar labels heretofore were of the issues of the seventies but the cover at hand shows that the ingenious plan had been resorted to some years previously. It is probable that an enterprising employee of the postal service was responsible for the label whose insinuations met with an abundant return in some instances at least; and in the instance of the present notice, the expectations of the donor of the stamp fee are emphasized somewhat and the recipient of the favor would not have been lead to believe that he should limit his appreciation to the extent of the three cent stamp only.

* * *

Scratched—The following letter has come from Mr. S. J. Jones of Santa Maria, California: "I can vouch for the broken plate variety of the three cent green U. S. as in 1894 or so, I discovered the stamp with the identical mark or line that you describe and which at the time I took to be indicative of a cracked plate. I placed it in my album as a side line but in revising my collection a few years ago I lost trace of the stamp." What we have described as the cracked plate variety in the three cent green has attracted some attention, to say the least, from several experts and after due examination it is their opinion that in reality the irregular line of color is not the result of a crack in the plate but is a consequence of a deep scratch in it. While the indentation which caught the color and printed the line has the appearance of a break yet close examination seems to have shown that in some way the plate had been accidentally scratched to some depth. One may well indulge in a moment of triumph if one finds the variety in a lot of the three cent greens.

THE STAMPS OF GERMANY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

Germany (from the Latin Germania) is the English name of the country which the natives call Deutschland and the French L'Allemagne. It occupies the central portion of Europe and is bounded by the North Sea, the Danish Peninsula, the Baltic, Russia, Austria, Switzerland, France, Belgium and the Netherlands. Its area is 211,168 square miles, or about one-sixteenth of that of all Europe—slightly larger than France, but not twice as large as Great Britain and Ireland. Germany is composed of a federation of twenty-five states, with one imperial territory (Reichsland), which vary enormously in area and influence. In 1901, Berlin, the capital of the Empire, had 1,888,848 inhabitants, next come Hamburg, 705,738; Munich, Dresden, Leipzig and Breslau, with over 400,000; and Cologne, 372,529. There are 26 other towns with between 100,000 and 200,000; and 175 towns between 20,000 and 100,000. The population of the German Empire at the census of 1871 was 41,058,792; in 1880, 45,234,061, and in 1901, 56,367,178. The following table of the different states forming the Empire together with their respective areas is of interest:

Kingdoms.

1. Prussia area, 136,073 square miles.
2. Bavaria area, 29,632 square miles.
3. Saxony area, 5,856 square miles.
4. Wurtemberg area, 7,619 square miles.

Grand-duchies.

5. Baden area, 5,891 square miles.
6. Hesse area, 3,000 square miles.
7. Mecklenburg-Schwerin area, 5,197 sq. miles.
8. Saxe-Weimar area, 1,404 square miles.
9. Mecklenburg-Strelitz area, 1,144 sq. miles.
10. Oldenburg area, 2,508 square miles.

Duchies.

11. Brunswick area, 1,441 square miles.
12. Saxe-Meiningen area, 964 square miles.
13. Saxe-Altenburg area, 517 square miles.
14. Saxe-Coburg-Gotha area, 765 sq. miles.
15. Anhalt area, 917 square miles.

Principalities.

16. Schwartzburg-Sondershausen, 337 square miles.
17. Schwartzburg-Rudolstadt, 367 sq. miles.
18. Waldeck, 438 square miles.
19. Reuss-Greiz, 123 square miles.
20. Reuss-Schleiz, 323 square miles.
21. Schaumburg-Lippe, 133 square miles.
22. Lippe-Detmold, 476 square miles.

Free Towns.

23. Lubeck, 116 square miles.
24. Bremen, 100 square miles.
25. Hamburg, 160 square miles.

Reichsland.

26. Alsace-Lorraine, 5,668 square miles.

Germany presents two very distinct physical formations. (1) A range of high tableland having an area of 110,000 square miles, occupies the centre and southern parts of the country, this being interspersed with numerous ranges and groups of mountains. The most important of these are the Hartz and Teutoburgerwald in the north; the Taunus, Thuringerwald, Erzgebirge, and Riesengebirge in the middle; and the Black Forest (Schwarzwald), Rauhe Alb, and Bavarian Alps in the south. This last range contains the Zugspitz, 9665 feet high—the highest point in Germany. (2) A vast sandy plain, having an area of about 98,000 square miles, extends north from the centre to the North Sea, and from the Netherlands into Russia. This plain is varied by slight terrace-like elevations marked by summits of 300 to 800 feet high. A large portion of the plain is occupied by sandy tracts interspersed with deposits of peat; but other parts are moderately fertile, and admit of successful cultivation.

The German speaking inhabitants of the Empire number upwards of 51,000,000, but a considerable portion of these are not of Germanic stock. Among the peoples retaining their own language—more than four millions in all—are Poles (exclusively in eastern and north-eastern Prussia) 3,329,000; Wends (in Silesia, Brandenburg and Saxony) 93,000; Czechs (in Silesia), 107,000; Lithuanians (in eastern Prussia) 103,000; Danes (in Schleswig) 141,000; French (in Rhenish Prussia, Alsace and Lorraine) and Walloons (about Aix-la-Chapelle in Rhenish Prussia) 224,000. The Germans are divided into High and Low Germans; the language of the former is the cultivated language of all the German states; that of the latter, known as Platt-Deutsch, is spoken in the north and northwest.

Education is more systematically cultivated in Germany than in any other country of Europe. Besides the Lyceum at Braunschweig there are 21 Universities; Heidelberg, Wurzburg, Leipzig, Rostock, Griefswald, Freiburg, Munich, Tubingen, Marburg, Konigsburg, Jena, Giessen, Kiel, Gottingen, Erlangen, Berlin, Breslau, Halle, Bonn, Strasburg, and Munster. There are also nine polytechnic institutions; nearly 1,400 gymnasias, realschulen, etc.; numerous special schools of technology, agriculture, forestry, mining, commerce, military science, etc.; seminaries for teachers and preachers; and about 60,000 elementary schools. Among the military recruits only .05 are illiterate. Public libraries, museums, botanical gardens, art-collections, picture galleries, schools of music and design, and academies of arts and sciences are to be met with in most of the capitals, and in many of the country towns, upwards of 200 of which possess theatres.

In 1871 the Prussian military system was extended to the whole empire; and alterations have since been introduced, especially (in the way of strengthening the army) in 1893. Every German who is capable of bearing arms must be in the standing army for seven years (generally his twenty-first to his twenty-eighth year). Three (in some cases two) of these years must be spent in active service, and the remainder in the army of reserve. He then spends five years in the first class of the Landwehr, after which he belongs to the second class till his thirty-ninth year. Besides this, every German, from seventeen to twenty-one and from thirty-nine to forty-five, is a member of the Landsturm, a force only to be called out in the last necessity. Those who pass certain examinations require to serve only one year with the colors. The whole of the land forces of the empire form a united army under the command of the Emperor in war and peace. The sea-faring population of Germany are liable to service in the navy instead of in the army.

The Empire as reconstituted in 1871, possesses the exclusive right of legislation on all military and naval affairs; on civil and criminal law for general application; on imperial finance and commerce, on posts, telegraphs, and railways in so far as the interests of the national defence and general trade are concerned. In all disputes that arise among the individual states, the imperial jurisdiction is supreme and final. There are two legislative bodies in the Empire—the Bundesrath, or Federal Council, the members of which are annually appointed by the governments of the various states; and the Reichstag, the members of which are elected by universal suffrage and ballot for a period of three years. The former deliberates on proposals to be submitted to the latter, and on the resolutions received from it. The Reichstag contains approximately one member for each 131,600 inhabitants. In 1905, there were 397 members. They are unpaid, but enjoy various privileges and immunities. There are something like sixteen different parties or groups in the Reichstag of modern times.

Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News, Boston, Mass.

When first in the 4th century B. C. the Romans heard of new peoples of common kin whom they called Germani, the German tribes were living between the Elbe and Rhine, and to the north of the Main. In 58 B. C. Caesar drove back the Germans who had crossed the Rhine. Successful Roman incursions were made into Germany by Augustus; but in 6 A. D. the German tribes rose under Arminius (Hermann) and utterly destroyed Varus and his legions. Henceforth the Romans were in the main content to hold a strip of territory from the lower Rhine to the Upper Danube, and to guard the frontiers of the empire from German raids. From the 3rd century on this became impossible, and in the 4th the Germans continued to force their way into German territory. The settlement of the Franks in the north of Gaul founded the French nation and the German Empire, or rather the "Holy Roman Empire" or Germany. Charlemagne, who received the imperial crown from the Pope in 800, extended his dominions north over the heathen Saxons and as far east as Hungary. Under his successors France and Germany fell apart and in 911 the national diet of the Germans claimed and secured the right of electing their emperor who could not assume the imperial title until crowned by the Pope. At this period there were in Germany five nations—the Franks, Saxons, Bavarians, Swabians and Lorrainers. A duke of Franconia was Emperor 911-918; his rival and successor, Henry, Duke of Saxony, and Henry's son, Otho, extended the empire over northern Slavs, Magyars, and into Lombardy. Burgundy was added by Conrad II, first of a new Franconian dynasty, in 1030, and his successor temporarily annexed Denmark, Bohemia and Hungary. Henry IV, of this line, was constantly at feud with Pope Gregory VII; but it was under Conrad III, first of the Hohenstaufen dynasty, that the wars of Guelphs and Ghibellines, between Pope and Emperor, so disastrously weakened the empire. His nephew Barbarossa was more concerned about his interest in Italy and the Crusades than about the internal well-being of Germany. From the accession in 1273 of Rudolf, first of the Hapsburgs, till 1806, the Austrian Princes were Emperors almost without a break, and the imperial crown was all but hereditary. The Emperor, Charles V, was also King of Spain, and lord of the Netherlands and of a great part of Italy. The influence of the Reformation and the Thirty Years War was to weaken the imperial power and cut up the empire into a crowd of petty factions and almost independent states; at one time there were as many as 300 states in the empire. Alsace and Lorraine were lost to the empire in 1648-97. The Napoleonic wars reconstructed the map of Germany. In 1806, the Emperor resigned the German crown and contented himself with being Emperor of Austria; and the Confederation of the Rhine was formed under French influence, to be succeeded in 1815 by the German Confederation, which comprised virtually all Germany, including German Austria, in 35 states, with a diet at Frankfurt. The political discontents of 1848 and 1849 led to not a few local insurrectionary movements which were swiftly crushed, and followed by a period of severe reaction and repression. The rivalries of Austria and Prussia for pre-eminence in the Confederation ended at Königsgrätz (1866) with the exclusion of Austria from Germany. The great Franco-German war of 1870-71 led to the re-annexation of Alsace-Lorraine and the constitution of the new German Empire, with the kings of Prussia as hereditary emperors.

German colonial expansion began in 1884 and between that year and 1899 the following regions became German possessions or came under German protection: in Africa—Togoland, Cameroons, German East Africa, and German Southwest Africa, with a total area of 931,460 square miles and a population in excess of thirteen millions. In Asia—Kiaochau Bay, with an area of 200 square miles and a population of about 32,000. In the Pacific—German New Guinea, Caroline Islands, Marianne Islands, Marshall Islands, Samoa, etc., with a total area of 96,160 square miles, and a population of about half a million.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles two new values in the current series.

Adhesives.

60c green and rose.

96c black and red on yellow surface tinted.

J. A. Galbraith has submitted a specimen of the 60c King George and ship design. The name of the country, table and figures of value are in the rose color. It is a pretty stamp.

CANAL ZONE.—The New England Stamp Co. calls attention to the fact that the one stamp on each sheet has the words "Canal" and "Zone" spaced wider than the others. This stamp is the 7th from the top in the first vertical row. This is found in all values.

CHINA.—Stamp Collecting is informed that the whole of the current series of stamps has now been printed at Pekin. All values are on thinner paper than the London print, but the 1c and 3c are also found on thick, opaque paper.

DENMARK.—Three new values have been added to the series of newspaper stamps, type of 1907, according to Lemaire's Journal, all on the paper watermarked multiple crosses. The 1, 5, 7, 10, 20 ore and 1kr values of the older issue have also appeared on this new paper.

Newspaper Adhesives.

Sore green.

29ore orange.

41ore brown.

EGYPT.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us several values with the new official overprint as noted in No. 1258. These are the 2m green of 1888 and the 1m, 3m and 5m of the current pictorial set. The most salient difference between the two types is that in the new overprint, the final character in the Arabic inscription lacks the right hand hook at the top.

EPHROS.—G. Stanley Haines has shown us a piece of a cover with a strip of five of the 5 lepta Greek allegorical stamp of 1913, overprinted for use in Northern Ephros as noted in No. 1262.

FRANCE.—Books of 20 Red Cross stamps are now on sale at three francs each.

Offices in Egypt.—Red Cross stamps have been issued for Alexandria and Port Said, specimens being shown us by the New England Stamp Co.

GERMANY.—Offices in Russian Poland. —J. M. Bartels & Co. have shown us the German stamps, overprinted for use in Russian Poland, as noted last week. The overprint is in black in the same type as "Belgien" on the stamps surcharged for use in Belgium, and is in two lines, "Russisch-Polen", with a hyphen after "Russisch". The values are not changed.

Provisional Adhesives.

3pf brown.
5pf green.
10pf carmine.
20pf ultramarine.
40pf lake and black.

GUADELOUPE.—Lemaire's Journal notes that this Colony also has a Red Cross stamp, though we have not yet seen it.

INDIA.—Soruth. —Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 3p and 1a stamps recently chronicled, both perforated and imperforate. Three grades of paper, at least, were used in printing these stamps.

INDO-CHINA.—Arthur Russell has shown us a cover from Canton, China, with a strip of five of the Indo-China Red Cross stamps of the first type, with the Cross above the "R" and "5c" in the lower right corner, the "c" being under the "5," instead of at the right.

A SET OF AUSTRIAN WAR PICTURE STAMPS.

We are indebted to several correspondents for particulars in connection with this new set of stamps just issued by the Austrian P. O. Department and now freely advertised by continental stamp firms. Our chronicle of new issues gave a description of the set last week. The 3h shows infantry in the trenches, the 5h cavalry scouting party, 10h motor howitzer in firing position, 20h battleship in action, and 35h, aeroplane. It will thus be seen that the new set is in reality a "war set". The firm of J. M. Bartels Co. has kindly furnished the above set for illustration.

QUARTER PAGES THE LIMIT.

As we advertise elsewhere, the issue of June 26 will have no advertisement larger than a quarter page. There's a reason! We shall send out 2,000 extra copies to a choice lot of names just secured from the Hussman Stamp Co. through their advertising during the past four months in high class publications. No large advertisement will be allowed to dominate the patronage of the issue. If you have any stock that will appeal to the young collector, work up an advertisement TODAY and have it in our office by Saturday, June 19. THE MANAGING EDITOR.

The 338th (regular) meeting of the B. P. S., Inc., will be held on Tuesday evening, June 15th, preceded by an informal dinner at the Boylston Cafe.

An auction will be held at which lots for the benefit of the Society's collection will be sold if donated for that purpose.

The application of Mr. A. H. Hall will be voted upon.

The committee appointed in connection with purchasing a lantern, writing stock lectures and having slides made to illustrate same find they will need about $125. for this purpose. As these lectures are to be given before various boys' clubs, etc., for the purpose of arousing interest in philately, it seems that every member will be glad to do his share towards making a success of so good an object. Subscriptions of from $1.00 to $5.00 may be sent to C. K. B. Nevin, 6 Beacon St., A. W. Batchelder, 12 Bromfield St., or to the Secretary. The committee hopes this will meet with a hearty response and to be able to have such lectures ready for delivery in the fall.

- VENEZUELA - ISSUE OF 1911 -

ALTHOUGH IT IS WELL KNOWN AMONG COLLECTORS THAT THE VENEZUELAN STAMPS - ISSUE OF 1911 - WERE PRODUCED AT TWO SEPARATE PRINTINGS, IT MAY BE NEWS TO SOME THAT A NEW DESIGN WAS MADE FOR SOME VALUES FROM WHICH STAMPS WERE PRODUCED AT ONE PRINTING. THESE ARE UNIFORM IN COLOR, WHILE THE FRAME & VIGNETTE OF THE ORIGINAL ISSUE VARY DUE TO THE DIFFERENCE IN MIX OF INK.

THIS NEW DESIGN IS NOT A REENGRAVED OR ALTERED DIE, BUT AN ENTIRELY REDESIGNED STAMP, THE DESIGNER NO DOUBT WORKED FROM THE ORIGINAL DESIGN BUT TOOK NO PAINS TO COPY IT IN DETAIL, EVERY PART DIFFERING IN THE TWO DIES.

THE 25c AND 50c ARE FOUND IN THIS NEW DESIGN, AND IT IS IMPROBABLE THAT OTHER VALUES WERE ISSUED AS THE SERIES HAS BEEN SUPERSEDED.

IN BOTH THE ORIGINAL & NEW DESIGNS THE 25c & 50c ARE ALIKE EXCEPT FOR VIGNETTE & VALUE TABLETS.

IN THE FOLLOWING DRAWINGS VARIATION IN THE STAMPS DUE TO POOR PRINTING HAVE BEEN CAREFULLY ELIMINATED.

ORIGINAL DESIGN

NEW DESIGN

SOME OF THE MORE PROMINENT DIFFERENCES

- A. THE VIGNETTE FRAME IS EGG SHAPED IN THE ORIGINAL, WHILE IN THE NEW DESIGN IT IS MORE NEARLY ELLIPTICAL.
- B. THE RIGHT HAND NUMERAL PANEL EXTENDS BEYOND THE RIGHT HAND FRAME IN THE ORIGINAL, BUT LINES IN NEW DESIGN.
- C. THE SHADOW AT RIGHT OF FRAME IS USUALLY MISPLACED ON THE ORIGINAL LEAVING A COLORLESS LINE BETWEEN IT AND THE VERTICAL LINE WHICH STOPS THE BACKGROUND LINES, IN THE NEW DESIGN THE SHADOW TOUCHES THESE LINES.
- D. IN THE ORIGINAL THE LETTERS VENEZUELA ARE CONNECTED. IN THE NEW VENEZUELA ARE CONNECTED. NOTE THE SHAPE OF THE BOTTOM STROKE OF THE "L" AND THE NARROW "A" IN THE NEW DESIGN.
- E. THE HORIZONTAL BACKGROUND LINES DO NOT TOUCH THE OVAL VIGNETTE FRAME IN THE ORIGINAL DESIGN BUT DO IN THE NEW DESIGN.
- F. THE PAIR OF BERRIES IN THE LAUREL BRANCH AT THE RIGHT OF THE S OF CORREOS ARE IN HORIZONTAL ALIGNMENT IN THE NEW DESIGN, WHILE IN THE ORIGINAL THE BERRY AT THE LEFT IS ONE MM ABOVE THE OTHER.
- G. THREE ADDITIONAL BERRIES ARE FOUND IN THE NEW DESIGN ONE AT THE LEFT OF THE "C" OF CORREOS AND ONE ABOVE EACH END OF CENTIMOS BESIDE THE ISOLATED LEAF.
- H. THE LOWER ENDS OF THE LAUREL BRANCHES SHOW MORE CLEARLY IN THE NEW DESIGN THAN IN THE ORIGINAL.
- I. "CENTIMOS" IS IN PLAIN BLOCK LETTERS IN THE ORIGINAL WHILE IN THE NEW DESIGN SLIGHT SERIES HAVE BEEN ADDED.

GOBIERNO $ CONSTITUCIONALISTA.

We have received from Giles Bishop, Jr., a letter in which he takes to task those writers who dismiss varieties found in the rebel issues of Mexico as being of interest only to the "specialist." Captain Bishop says that it causes a wave of indignation to go over him. We quote from his letter as follows:—

"I am not a specialist and I know very little about stamps or stamp collecting, yet, I do take an interest in these minor differences, and the boy collector likes to know about them, too, or else he is not the kind of a boy that it has been my good fortune to meet. Your paper caters to the boys as well as collectors of an older growth and for that reason, if you can enlighten them and add to their interest, it should be your aim to do so.

Let me refer to the 'Gobierno $ Constitucionalista' issue, which is of interest not only to the so-called 'specialist,' but to the general collector as well.

In 1914, the Constitutionalist government, in order to safeguard their postal business, began overprinting the general Mexican issue of 1910 'Gobierno $ Constitucionalista.' Possibly, there are some things in the way of broken letters, but aside from this I find without much trouble four distinct types as well as a fifth minor type, and so far as I know, these types appear in all the denominations overprinted with this surcharge.

Type I shows the dollar sign directly under BIE of Gobierno; Type II shows the dollar sign directly under IER of the same word; in Type III, the dollar mark is under IER and the C of the second word has been misprinted G; in Type IV the sign is under BIE and the C is also printed as G; in Type V the sign is in a midway position between B and I.

Captain Bishop gives us a diagram showing the number of times these varieties appear and claims that the following statistics may be accepted as the correct number of each type: Type I, 160; type II, 24; type III, 12; type IV, 2; type V, 2. He believes that the young collector will be interested in knowing the distinct differences that may be found in the surcharging of these stamps.

A BRIGHT AND BREEZY LETTER.

The following is characteristic of the correspondence that comes to the office of the WEEKLY and it shows the human touch in the interest that our subscribers take in all that concerns philately. L. A. Beebe writes:

"I congratulate you on your 'New Birth' number. I'm going to start that scrap book with those three portraits and Bill Bloss's two articles on 'Discounts' and 'Bubbling Over.' He is sure a live wire and I'd like to meet him face to face. He may be desperately sick, but he still can shove a quill to interest a stamp audience.

"There are at least a dozen ads. I am going to answer myself, in this one issue. Young Tucker is having the time of his life to answer correspondence you stirred up and is a most grateful chap. Sent me a very kind letter from one gentleman accompanying an almost complete set of Nevada State revenues, something I envy him the possession of; also, a letter from another shut-in with contribution of stamps."

NASSAU STAMP CO.

118 Nassau Street, NEW YORK CITY

THE 5c PERF. MEXICO TRANSITORIO.

By the MANAGING EDITOR.

This stamp has been in the lime-light to a considerable degree in recent months. Geo. W. Linn claims that it is a legitimate issue, while S. B. Hopkins is just as positive that it was never officially recognized by the Mexican postal authorities. Moreover, it is claimed that when it did appear upon the scene, a new issue was put into use at once.

In a lengthy communication accompanied by quotations from correspondence, Mr. Linn has endeavored to show to us that the stamp has a legal standing. It appears that early in 1914, C. Hinojosa, Postmaster General, writing from Hermosillo, Sonora, sent the firm of W. M. Linn & Sons Co. a sample of the 5c stamp then in use and asked the firm to quote prices in lots of from one thousand to one million. This stamp was none other than the imperforate 5c Transitorio and Hinojosa added, "You may send a sample if so desired."

The Linn firm immediately proceeded to make a design which was nearly identical with the one submitted, but differed mainly in the width of the inscription at the bottom. In the original stamp, "Cinco centavos", measured 14 x 2 mm., while in the Linn design, it measured 16 x 2 1/2 mm.

On March 23, the firm wrote Senor Hinojosa as follows:—"We are now sending you a complete sample sheet of postage stamps of the 5 centavos value. These have just been printed and are yet to be perforated with round holes between the stamps for separation. We will send you * * * * thousand of these stamps within a few days. We have made only the 5 centavos value and will be able to make any other values and send them to you within ten days after the receipt of your order for the same."

From the above, it is apparent that in response to a request for a sample of work that might be done by this firm, it was decided by the Linn Co. to go ahead with the manufacture of a supply, shipping them, as it were, on approval to the Sonora Government. This is what took place, for on April 2, the following letter was received by the Company from Hinojosa:—"In due time, I received three packages containing * * * * thousand 5 centavos postage stamps, which are very much like the sample I sent you. On this day, I have sent to the Department of Communications a sample of these stamps and, also, your lowest price per thousand. When I first received your sample sheet, I sent some of the stamps to the Department of Communications and pointed out the convenience of sending you an order. You may write to the Department of Communications directly, which at present is located at Crudad, Juarez, as that department does the purchasing of postage stamps. The Minister already has your references and the samples that I sent him."

In this letter, Senor Hinojosa enclosed a copy of the letter that he sent to the Department of Communications and it will be of interest for me to quote a portion of this letter, which was addressed to Ignacio Bonillas, the head of that department:—"The firm of W. M. Linn & Sons Co., Columbus, O., has just sent me * * * * thousand 5 centavos stamps. These stamps are very like the ones we now use and the difference can only be told by examining them closely. The quality is very much better and they are well perforated. I am sending a sheet that you may compare them and see their superiority! They have made this shipment as I sent them a sample of our 5 centavos stamp and asked them for their best price in quantities. I beg to inform you of the convenience of getting the plates after the issue of the stamps. We have very few 5 centavos stamps left, only about ten thousand. Those just received, I believe ought to be used unless some of the others are ordered."

At this point, the correspondence ceases and no further light is given as to any subsequent developments. I wrote Mr. Linn that something further seemed necessary. There is no evidence that the Department of Communications even went so far as to accept the lot submitted on approval by the Linn Co., and certainly, no evidence that the lot was ever paid for. I so wrote Mr. Linn, only to receive a further letter from him under date of May 12 and from this letter I now quote:—"I have not attempted to show that the stamps were actually ordered by the Constitucional Govt. with the intention of using them. I do claim and the correspondence shows clearly that the

THE WEST—Greatest collectors' journal on earth. Sent three months for 10c, 300 pages. Devoted to stamps, coins, curios and most hobbies, for it is collectors' oldest philatelic monthly. For ten years averaged 100 pages per issue. Well illustrated. Going on twenty years old. 75c per year includes 20-word adv. in the largest exchange department extant, or send $1 for one year and get Lincoln's latest issue catalog sent direct from London. Has U. S. illustrated and published by oldest stamp dealer in the world. Southern Philatelic Association meets at Reading, Pa., August 5-7. West is official organ. Pay you to attend. Over a dozen leading philatelic papers like Redfield's Stamp Weekly and other lists have been combined in the West, making it the largest paid circulation of any two philatelic monthlies. Why advs. pay big—only 3c per word. Sample sent free.

OUR NEXT SALE IS JUNE 29TH

Our next sale will be held in the Club Room of the Philadelphia Stamp Club, 34 South 16th St. on Tuesday evening, June 29th, at 8 o'clock P. M. The catalog has been mailed to all auction buyers on our list. If you did not get it drop us a card.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—H. S. Dickey, writing us from Newton, Kan., informs us that three collectors have recently called upon him, Howard Kemp of N. Y. City, Thomas C. Hunter of Topeka, Kans., and Frank Edgar of Wichita, Kan. Mr. Dickey expresses his satisfaction in seeing pictures of the owners of the WEEKLY in the big number and urges us to make pictures of philatelists a feature in coming issues of the WEEKLY.

—At the last auction sale of M. Ohlman, N. Y. City, the block of twelve U. S. 1847, 5c though damaged brought $115.

—It will be noted that A. E. Tuttle uses a discount line this week which is permissible in view of the fact that individual stamps are named.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from G. R. Harvey.

—We are informed by A. C. Roessler that the 1/2d green King George New Zealand was to have been put on sale June 3. The other values are being held up on account of shortage of ink, which is made in London. The plates of the new issue are all in New Zealand.

—R. E. R. Dalwick, who has recently published an extensive article "Togo and its Occupation Stamps" in Stamp Collecting will be found regularly in our columns as an advertiser. He has been fortunate enough to purchase a splendid stock of Togos containing all the rarities, so that he is able to fill all want lists in these provisionals. We trust our readers will extend him a full measure of patronage.

—The New York Sun of June 8 contains a savage editorial taking for its subject "The Burleson Shoddy Two Cent Postage Stamp." We shall publish the editorial as soon as space can be found, in order to show the measure of interest that is taken in this particular stamp by such an able representative of newspaperdom. Clipping from D. D. Berolzheimer.

—The 9th annual convention of the United States Revenue Society will be held at Springfield, Mass., Wednesday, August 4. J. W. Prevost is the chairman of the credential committee and W. C. Stone of the committee on arrangements. The secretary of the Society, Otto F. Moses, states that he is not a candidate for re-election, as it will be impossible for him to serve during the coming year.

—H. B. SHAW.—Your renewal of subscription came safely, but there was no address given on renewal blank. Will you please supply the desired information? We shall thank any dealer who can assist us.

—Stanley Gibbons, Inc. has just issued a check list of U. S. stamps 1908-1915. It is very comprehensive in that it includes all manner of varieties such as imperfs., coil pairs, arrow blocks, double line and single line watermarks, and perfs. 8 1/2, 10 and 12. It is issued as a supplement to the Gibbons Circular for June. Write the firm for particulars.

—"I have gone over thousands of Columbus stamps 2c used of 1893 and I discovered a distinct 'cap' on the right figure and with broken line at right corner."—H. MEYER.

—The 2c Canada post card referred to in the following quotation from a letter from Mrs. E. W. Oughtred, may have been chronicled by Mr. Kidder, but we venture to print the same as it may be news to some of our readers:—

"I enclose our current 2c postal and did you ever know that we have two varieties of both 1c green and 2c pink? One is with inscription in both French and English—and one with inscription in English only. The former is for use in those provinces where French is largely spoken and the latter for use in the western provinces, where comparatively speaking, there are very few French."

—At a meeting of the Chicago Branch No. 1, American Philatelic Society, held June 10th, the ticket headed by Mr. C. A. Howes, for president, was endorsed. The nominees for vice-presidents reside in New York City and Mr. Ault was named as secretary. As Mr. Mann, the present treasurer refused to run again, Mr. C. F. Heyerman of Detroit was nominated. For International Secretary, Mr. L. H. Kjellstedt was chosen and as the two additional directors, Messrs. L. B. Phillips, California, and W. H. Barnum, Ohio, were honored.

EDITORIAL.

Nosegay—A letter from Mr. Chester J. Moore, Albany, New York, startles us. He says: "I herewith send a specimen of some of the art as exemplified by the engraving people at Washington, D. C., which in the old country would constitute lese majesty."—Washington with a ring at the end of his nose!" Mr. Moore exclaims:

"Is this the hand of cruel Fate, to so depict this man of State Who led for Freedom's cause his band and drove the tyrant from our land?"

Small wonder that Mr. Moore bubbles over with indignation to find our beloved Washington "ringed like Mr. Bull" as on the envelope the white outlines of a ring are to be seen at the end of Washington's nose. Mr. Moore has several of the envelopes with this curious marking due to a mechanical mischance. However, Washington should not be blamed for this sacrilegious blemish as the mean old envelope contractors are at Dayton, Ohio.

'Tis True—"Philately has changed with the years," is the highly original thought of a philatelic moralist. Yea, we happen to have an Oppen's album of 1873 before us at Nicaragua which has four spaces provided for the stamps of that country. The 1915 cat. allots eighteen pages, double column, to Nic's teeming issues. We may add that the editor of the old Oppen album in his preface made the following hopeful observation: "The Editor trusts, therefore, the work thus enlarged and improved may be eventually considered as the much-desired Permanent Album."

From His Own Lips—From Mr. James C. Jay, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, we have received the following account of the origin and use of the famous Jay's "locals" of 1888: "I saw an item in the WEEKLY some time ago in regard to Jay's locals and so I will give you the history of the labels. I was born three miles north of LaHoyt, Iowa, in a thickly-settled place called Richwoods. Several cousins and myself had nothing to do but to collect stamps, birds' eggs, minerals, Indian relics, etc., and some of us went to the post office every day. The farmers were busy and asked us what we would take to bring their mail. We agreed to carry it to and from the post office for one cent for each piece. Then, a brilliant idea struck us; we must have a carrier stamp and so, on October 1st, 1887, we issued the Jay local, "Paid to the P. O.," type-set on a small printing press. We never thought anything more about the matter until the stamp was illustrated in a Chicago stamp paper, edited by S. B. Bradt, I think—and then the fun began. Later, we issued the carrier pigeon type, "to and from the P. O." and then the triangular stamp with my picture but it did not flatter me very much. My cousins moved away and my older brothers left home and I had to run the farm; and so the post was discontinued." Here we interrupt the smooth flow of Mr. Jay's discourse to say that in our collection of "oddments" we have the three types enumerated, the first and third issue being on covers. The triangular stamp is on an envelope addressed to Mr. T. J. Mitchell, Chicago, recently deceased, who was famous in the philatelic press in those days, as "Wanderer." The Chicago paper that waxed hilarious over the locals and caricatured them cleverly with creations such as "one sausage" for carriage "to and from the grocery store" was Emile W. Voute's Stamp Collectors' Figaro which was published by a brilliant youth of sixteen.

The Aftermath—Mr. Jay still has the floor: "The Jay's locals were issued in fun but several hundred were used. We carried a rubber stamp and pad and gummed stamps. Of the last issue I have only one in my possession; it is used on cover. I have received many letters from all over the country and Europe asking for specimens which I sent free of charge until I have only a few left and so there is no need to write for them. About a year ago, I had a letter from a person in Europe desiring to purchase all the remainders, plates and copies of the Philatelic Midget which I published for nearly two years. What he wanted with them, I did not know. Fifteen years ago, I moved to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. I would have answered sooner but have been laid up with pneumonia and rheumatism." We have no observations to make on Mr. Jay's moving tale which we think readers will find diverting, although we should add that true to his sense of postal fitness, Mr. Jay canceled his first issue with the design of horseman.

Pat and Tab—From an esteemed correspondent, Mr. G. M. Mosler, Cincinnati, Ohio, we have received the following communication: "I want to congratulate you and the other gentlemen associated with you upon the success of the issue of May 29th which indeed gives you something to be proud of. At the same time I want to offer a little criticism with reference to the articles entitled 'Discounts.' All of the ideas advanced by Mr. Bloss are in the right direction and deserving of high credit. The main trouble that I have experienced with 'net approvals' is that the dealer will always mark the stamps worth more than half catalogue at their proper price but very seldom, if ever, will he mark stamps worth 25% of catalogue accordingly. He works the game, heads I win, tails, you lose. Unfortunately, as an example in the article, Mr. Bloss has selected No. 78 Chile, which lists at $3.50. This stamp is very hard to find in this country at anything like one-half catalogue or $1.75. However, the Paris market is full of them and they are offered by the various dealers from $1.30 to $1.50. I myself purchased a copy from Champion at the latter price. As you well know most of the American dealers that have foreign correspondents are in touch with conditions of this kind. However, they have been offering this stamp as stated from $2.50 to $3.25, whereas there is no doubt in my mind but that they can be bought wholesale at $1.25 or less. Trusting that you will appreciate the above in the spirit it is written, and wishing you continued success, I beg to remain," etc. The citation made by our correspondent speaks for itself and we adjure dealers to discountenance all forms of evasion that when put into practice incur the resentment of collectors. It is only through the satisfaction of buyers that dealers flourish and those who are in philately permanently must make conditions pleasant for the buyer.

BARBADOS LARGE AND SMALL STARS.

In a recent number of the Stamp Collector was an article by C. A. Stephenson dealing with the large and small star watermarks of Barbados. We deem the accompanying illustration worthy of reprinting and quote from Mr. Stephenson's article the following description of the same:—

"The large stars measure from 15 mm. to 16 mm., measuring across the star from point to point. Usually they measure just over 15½ mm. The small stars measure from 12 mm. to 13½ mm., from point to point, and they vary more in shape than the large stars."

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE STAMPS OF GERMANY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

The empire was re-established on January 18th, 1871, and the Imperial German Postal Administration replaced that of the North German Confederation. This necessitated a change of stamps and by a law passed by the new German Parliament on October 28th, 1871, these were not to be used until January 1st, 1872. As the old system of two currencies still prevailed two sets had to be prepared one with values in groschen and the other expressed in kreuzer. The same design, however, served for both series, this consisting of an uncolored circle in the centre on which the Arms of the empire were embossed. Above this circle are the words DEUTSCHE REICHS-POST (German Imperial Post) in a curve and at the base is the value "1 GROSCHEN" or "2 KREUZER" etc., in a straight line. A colored line enclosed the central circle and between the stamps are solid lines of color of about 1 1/2 mm. wide, probably made with printer's rule, which makes a colored margin on all four sides of each label. The background is composed of a sort of colored network. The embossing was done at a second operation, the colored printing being produced by typography. The stamps were manufactured at the Government Printing Office in Berlin, and were perforated 13 1/2 by 14 1/2. It will be noted the values are the same as those of the superseded Confederation stamps and the colors, also, are practically the same.

This set, familiarly known as the "eagle with small shield" series, was ready for use before January 1st, 1872, and was actually sold to the public on December 15th, 1871, though they were not available for postage until the authorized day. This issue, however, can only properly be described as a provisional one, since the postal authorities, anxious to start work on the series as quickly as possible, constructed the Arms in the centre themselves instead of waiting for the authorized design of the Herald's Office in Berlin. The design of the latter was only approved on August 3rd, 1871, so that had the postal authorities been a little less impatient they could still have prepared the new stamps in time and have had the arms heraldically correct. Mr. Barnsdall, writing in Gibbons' Stamp Weekly tells us that "In this provisional issue the displayed eagle was a somewhat scraggy-looking bird, and the shield upon its breast bore a rather microscopic Prussian eagle. As finally arranged, the Imperial eagle was rounded out into fuller proportions, and two banderoles or streamers added to the Imperial crown hovering over its head. The shield borne on its breast was enlarged about four times so as to display to better advantage the Prussian eagle, on whose breast also appears a shield bearing the arms, quartered black and white, of the Hohenzollerns, the family to which the Emperor belonged."

In an interesting article in the London Philatelist for January, 1902, Mr. Reichenheim states, "In the earliest print of some of these stamps (1/4, 1/2, 1, 2 and 5gr and 3kr) a small network, exactly like that on the stamps of Alsace and Lorraine, has been found, and becomes visible if the stamps are dipped in a solution of sulphuretted hydrogen. The stamps of the top and bottom rows of each sheet have about one or two perforations less, and are about 1 to 2 mm. smaller than all the other stamps. The 2gr and 5gr are also found imperforate, but I am not aware whether entire sheets or only parts of sheets have escaped perforation."

Practically all values, except those printed in bistre, may be found in a variety of shades. The 1/2gr and 2kr were originally printed in a tint which can best be described as orange-vermilion and, apparently, the vermilion had some detrimental effect on the plates, for in April, 1872, the printers were ordered to change the color to orange yellow. The 1/2gr in the new shade appeared in the following May, but the 2kr was not placed on sale until August.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

In February, 1872, two high values of 10gr and 30gr were issued to take the place of the corresponding denominations in the series for the North German Confederation. In design and color they are identical with the stamps of the Confederacy except that the inscription was altered from NORD-DEUTSCHER POSTBEZIRK to DEUTSCHE REICHS-POST. Like the former stamps, these were really only intended for internal service on heavy packages and, again like the confederation series, they were not supposed to be sold to the public but to be affixed by the postal employees after the proper postage had been paid in cash. The official instructions, also, were to the effect that the stamps were to be cancelled with pen and ink, hence the reason for the rarity of postmarked specimens. These stamps are quite common unused for the remainders were sold to dealers after they had become obsolete.

THE THIRD ISSUE

At the beginning of October, 1871, the Imperial Postal Administration issued an order to the various post-offices throughout the empire instructing them to have all official stationery printed for the future with the corrected arms—Eagle with large shield, surmounted by a larger "Charles the Great" crown to which streamers were added. There is no doubt that about the same time preparations were made to have the postage stamps altered to conform with the official arms as authorized by the Herald's Office, though the first value in the corrected type the 1 groschen, did not appear until June 1st, 1872. In July the 1/2gr and 2gr were issued followed by the 1/2gr in August or September, while none of the others were

United States Loose Leaf Album

We have just completed our new Loose Leaf United States Album. The Album is unsurpassed anywhere in the world. The size of the page is exceedingly convenient, 9x7 1/2 inches. The postage issues are all up-to-date including spaces for Imperforate pairs and part perforations. We could tell you pages of good merits but seeing is believing so send for a prospectus and sample sheet and you will be convinced that there is nothing more up-to-date. The Album in spring back binder, $1.60 Postfree, in Marquette Prong binder, $2.60 Postfree. Additional sheets for the Dept., Dues and Revenues are being printed each month and if you want them as they come out add 50 cents to the above price. Don't miss the opportunity, it's wonderful placed on sale until May, 1873, at earliest. In fact the 2kr seems to have been the only one issued that month and the others were probably not sold to the public until the existing supplies of the small eagle type were exhausted. With the exception of the modified arms embossed in the centre the stamps are exactly like those of the preceding series. A new value, 2 1/2 groschen, was added to the set in November, 1872, and a corresponding value (9kr) for the kreuzer stamps was issued in May, 1873. Both were printed in brown.

The 1/2, 1 and 5 groschen are all known imperforate and the latter, at any rate, seems to be a bona-fide error for it is stated a few sheets were issued in this state by the post-office at Stettin. According to Mr. Reichenheim the stamps of the top and bottom rows are again smaller than the others as in the case of the first issue. Many values of this and the first set are known with the embossed centre inverted but these varieties are all counterfeit.

THE FOURTH ISSUE.

Many mistakes arose, especially in a bad light, from the similarity of color of the new values mentioned above and the 5gr and 18kr.

In February, 1874, therefore, the 2 1/2gr and 9kr were issued overprinted with large numerals of value on the central device in the same color as the stamps themselves.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—W. M. Dann submits a pair of 1c stamps from a coil, with a strongly marked impression, 3 mm. wide across both stamps. This was evidently made by a milled edged feed wheel, but whether in some process of manufacture or in a stamp-selling slot machine we are unable to say.

BARBADOS.—Geo. W. Hartwell sends us a postcard from this colony new to us. The stamp is in the current postage type.

Post Card.

1/2d green on white, 121x75 mm.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Godfrey W. Schroth reports finding a minor variety of the current 96c stamp. The changes consist of a heavy shading of the end of the ribbon at the left of the crown, and a different shading of the leaves under "Guiana."

CANADA.—Geo. W. Hartwell submits a Canadian 2c card printed in rose with portrait of King Edward. This was issued in Victoria, B. C., June 1, though possibly at an earlier date in other parts of the Dominion.

Post Card.

2c rose on buff, 141x86 mm.

Geo. S. Bryan reports various combinations of the new "War Tax" stamps on letters, and one letter postmarked with an advertisement of the "Brookville Horse Show, Sept. 6, 7, 8."

CEYLON.—Arthur Russell shows us a cover from Ceylon, which has been pretty thoroughly censored. The censor mark is rubber stamped, and shows "Colombo" down the side, with "Censor" across the top, and the date below. In addition the opened top has been sealed with a stamp margin strip, and stamped twice "Opened under martial law."

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—Hermann Focke submits specimens of the stamps with three portraits as noted in No. 1275, but printed in carmine. They are local products and poorly printed and perforated. These are revenue stamps, as were also the green stamps reported by Mr. Dunning. Mr. Focke calls attention to an error in the official stamps overprinted "Habilitado—1915," the "H" of Habilitado being a cap "L." This undoubtedly occurs on all values, though the 10c and 20c have not yet come to hand. Mr. Focke also submits a pair of the 5c stamps of the same overprinted series, with "Habilitado" at the bottom instead of the top.

INDIA.—Bundi.—A new series of stamps has been issued for this state. The central figure shows the arms of the State with native characters in tablets above and below. The stamps are crudely drawn and printed on thin paper in small sheets of 4.

Adhesives.

- 1/2a black.
- 2a light green.
- 4a yellow green.

PERSIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us ten new provisionals from this country, the 13c of 1911 having been surcharged "1 ch" in both native and Roman letters, and date "1914," all in black. The 5c of the same series has been surcharged "2 chahi" and native characters with date "1915" and the 13c of 1909 has been surcharged "12" in both Roman and Persian characters, in an oblong frame with heavy black border. The 1c, 2c, 3c, 6c, 9c, 10c and 1k values of the 1909 series have been overprinted "1333" in native characters at the bottom of the stamp, that being the Mahomedan year.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.

As Seen by the Cartoonist of the N. E. Philatelist.

Provisional Adhesives.

- 1c on 13c ultramarine and violet.
- 2c on 5c carmine and brown.
- 12c on 13c dark blue and maroon.

Whitfield King & Co. are informed that only a very small quantity of these provisionals have been issued and in some cases the stock at the Post Office is quite exhausted. The last issue of Persian stamps were printed somewhere on the Continent, probably in Germany, and as the supply from this source is of course stopped, these provisionals have been created, pending further arrangements for a new issue.

SIAM.—There is an error on each sheet of the 2s on 1a chronicled in No. 1276, according to Whitfield King & Co., showing accent over "g."

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us more values of the new postage due set, as described in No. 1262.

Postage Due Adhesives.

- 1/2d green and black.
- 1d scarlet and black.

AN APPRECIATION.

"I take pleasure in enclosing check for $15. Had nine answers to my ad before I received my paper, which is 'going some' for that class of advertising. I thank you for the excellent position you gave my ad as well. Will be with you regularly on my return from the Pacific Coast next fall."

The above tribute comes to us from Dr. W. I. Mitchell, who had a fine advertisement in our special number, offering precancelled stamps. It was an attractive advertisement and the endorsement by Dr. Mitchell shows the power of the WEEKLY to produce business.

JIMMY O.: APOSTLE OF PEACE.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

The postoffice had yielded a bunch of stamp literature that would have gladdened the soul of any one less enthusiastic philatelically than Jimmy O. and Eddy Fyne. I had revelled in the reading, and had carefully filed away the papers I wished to preserve—few indeed, considering. The others I tossed into the hammock, as I heard the beating of hoofs up the road. It was the day after Jimmy O. and Eddy were due at the border town of Willow. Perhaps they were more welcome, because of the anticipation. At any rate, here they were.

Jimmy waved his hand deprecatingly toward the hammock, which Eddy proceeded to occupy, without a word.

Jimmy looked at Eddy sadly. "I shore have spilled the beans, Eddy," he said, sadly. "I shore have. An' we needs them beans a lot."

Jimmy sat down upon the ground at Eddy's feet, and rolled a cigarette. A few minutes later he was invisible. Eddy did not speak.

"It was this way," began Jimmy O., out of his invisibility. They was a meetin' las' night at the op'ry house fer the promotion o' peace between the warrin' nations o' Europe. By heck! The warrin' nations sounded good to me."

"Me, too," declared Eddy. "Not countin' them at home."

"Meanin' sheep an' cowmen," interpolated Jimmy.

"Well," Jimmy continued, "that there warrin' nations sounded real hostile like to me, bein' I was for peace. We went."

Jimmy sighed heavily.

"That was when we spilled 'em," said Eddy, lugubriously.

"Yep, we went. A bunch o' them prominent citizens was on the platform. They was lookin' as hopeful 'sif it was their war."

"It war," said Eddy, with a sheepish grin.

"They was three Englishers, four krauts, one Belgium, an' a Jap there that I counted. Then I knew whiles the war in Europe was progressin' favorably, the war in Willow was about to begin. Talk about peace!"

Jimmy O. doubled up with mirth.

"One o' the parson's opened the meetin' with prayer. It was for peace. One o' the Germans says 'Amen,' an' right there I felt I sure was goin' t' need my gun, w'ich the bishop annexed wen I lef' my cayuse at the stable."

"Well, as I was sayin', the prayer and the amen started things."

"Fellow I knew on the range spoke first, pleadin' fer peace. Then two other men they pleaded fer peace."

"Willin' t' fight fer it, too," said Eddy, sadly.

"About that time one o' the Germans, not speakin' good English, got up t' speak. Now this chap I know. He's white. He sure bruk down an' cried w'en the war began. He los' a brother an' two nephews over there. No need fer him t' ask for war."

"Then one o' these yer funny fellers he ups an' says, 'I'm neutral. I don't care a whop who kills th' kaiser.'"

"The ol' German, he sits down, lookin' hurt an' insulted. Me—I spots Mr. Man an' I 'lows after that there meetin' fer peace war is sure t' start."

"It was pretty bad—that meetin'. That there fellow w'at yelped spoiled it. But I do' know—I do' know. You can't tell."

"Well, after th' meetin', I natcherly lays fer Mr. Man."

"Nobody prayed fer peace, then," chortled Eddy. "He was past prayin' fer in about a minute—that fellow. But say! He won't break up any more meetin's fer a while—not him."

Jimmy swung lazily to and fro.

"I'm plum ashamed o' myself—me spillin' the beans thataway."

"Maybe you didn't sow the seeds which fell among stony places," I suggested, humorously. Jimmy would not rise to it.

Jimmy picked up a philatelic paper and was soon absorbed. Eddy found another. Neither looked as if he had a friend in the world.

A few minutes later I heard voices, and looked up. There was a local preacher whom I had met, an elderly German whom I knew and loved, and a sadly disfigured cowboy, one eye in mourning and a cut lip which interfered somewhat with his speech.

When the three discovered the inimitable Jimmy, looking as sad as a mourner, and Eddy with a face as long as his riata, they smiled.

"I wish to apologize," said the minister, smiling still.

"Me, too," broke in Jimmy.

"Secun' the motion," broke in Eddy, with a blush.

Then the party started in to explain. Jimmy O., having beaten into his fellow cowpuncher the futility of warring at a peace meeting, the aforementioned c. p. had gone to the old German to apologize. There he had met the minister, who, likewise, felt the need of apology. Then the three had concluded to look up the inseparables, and apologize to them for the necessity of carrying the war out of Europe and into Willow.

When Jimmy rose from the hammock the papers fell upon the ground. The minister picked one up, with a glance at the headline.

"Why, are you interested in stamps? I collected when I was a boy, and I really believe I have the album home now, in my trunk."

"Me—I lef' mine up on th' range. But I sure am int'rested," declared Jimmy.

"I haf some letters from my odder nephews. I gif you de stamps," said the old German, kindly. "They haf dose funny marks. One of de poys is Russian prisoner. De odder, French prisoner. I gif you all de envelope mit dose funny marks."

Meantime the disfigured cowpuncher sat upon the ground, looking at the cuts of new issues.

"Gee! Is them the things? Gee! I'll jest start in an' collec' 'em myself!"

"An' we thought we'd spilled the beans!" declared Jimmy, whimsically, to the somewhat mystified visitors, as they started down the path to garner the envelopes with the "funny marks."

PHILATELIC FACTS AND OPINIONS.

Belgium Double Impressions.—In our last number we published an article on the line-engraved stamps of Belgium, in which Mr. Higlett outlined the salient points in their history. As bearing on this subject, a description of a stamp which has lately come into my hands may not be out of place. This is the 20 centimes of the first issue with double numerals. From the extreme rarity of this variety it is almost certain that it is due to some cause different from that which gave rise to the same peculiarity in the 10 centimes. Though the 10c with double figures is not specifically mentioned by Mr. Higlett, it is included under the heading, "Re-entry on Plate," and there is apparently no reason whatever to doubt that this is correct, and that there were two or more examples of it (in varying degree) on each sheet. But if the 20c with double figures were examples of re-entries they would be at least as common as the 10c; whereas they are exceedingly rare, only a very few copies being known to exist. I have been told that a Belgian collector paid £15 for a copy. At any rate, it certainly does not occur once in every 200 stamps, as it would do if it were a plate variety. The possibility that two plates were made and used for this value must not be overlooked, but even then the one containing the variety must have been very little used, and I think this hypothesis may be safely discarded. My view is that it is a double impression which affected possibly only one sheet. This would at once account for its rarity. Close examination of the example before me helps to sustain this view. One impression of the figures is in a paler shade than the other—this would not occur if it were a case of a re-entry. The two impressions, of which one is very faint, are about half a millimetre apart, and only affect the upper portion of the stamp—indeed, apart from the numerals, there is very little of the lighter impression to be traced.

Messrs. Gelli and Tani, in their useful catalogue of Belgian stamps, say, "These double impressions probably come from traces insufficiently erased from a plate having served for the first printings." This is somewhat obscure, and obviously a bad guess. If my theory is right, it is certainly a peculiar coincidence that such a curious phenomenon as the duplication of identical parts of the design on two different stamps of the same issue should be brought about by different means.

Flaws on Recent Belgians.—While I am on the subject of Belgium, I may as well mention two unimportant varieties, which may be found on more recent stamps. The first affects the 35 centimes brown, of the first Sunday-label issue (1893). About one in every ten of these will be found to have a white dot after the '5' in the lower right-hand corner, on a level with the centre of that figure. Can anyone tell me how many times this occurs on the sheet, and where?

I am also seeking the same information about a variety of the 50 centimes, grey, of the current issue, though in this case it is almost certain that it only occurs once on the sheet. The variety affects the G and I of BELGIE. The former letter is joined where the opening should occur, making it a cross between an O and a G, while the I has a small serif at top, turning it into a numeral.

There are numerous other flaw-varieties to be found on the latter issues of Belgium, and, as the stamps of this Hun-ridden country are now receiving a great deal of attention, a study of them would doubtless prove very interesting, and could be made at small expense.

Prince Edward Island.—Gibbons' catalogue, has at last, in its current edition, got out an intelligible list of the issues of this Colony, but it is still open to a little criticism. It is, for instance, by no means certain, that the variety catalogued as 47a exists. This stamp is the 3 cents of 1872 with the words "Prince Edward," with compound perforations. The variety occurs ten times on each sheet, but never on a marginal stamp. Now the compound perforations in the stamps of Prince Edward Island were not produced in the usual way by perforating each sheet vertically by one machine and horizontally by another one. They are, in fact, more or less accidental. All the evidence goes to show that they were caused by sheets which were not properly perforated in the first instance, being finished off by the operator of another machine. Thus it appears that the outside rows of perforation (top, bottom and sides) were frequently omitted in the first place, and probably it was intended to issue them in that way, thus leaving a wide edge to the marginal stamps. Sometimes, also, the machines being single-lined, and the operator careless, one or more inner rows were missed, but this was much less frequent. All such sheets were finished off, after scrutiny, by the other machines. As a consequence, the usual form in which these compounds occur is with the $11\frac{1}{2}$ —12 gauge on three sides and the $12\frac{1}{2}$ —13 on the fourth. The true $11\frac{1}{2}$ — $12 \times 12\frac{1}{2}$ —13 is very rarely seen, and until a copy of the three cents with stop (which was not a marginal stamp), turns up with the compound perforation, it is not safe to assume that it exists, though it is extremely likely to do so.

Serbia.—There are plenty of analogies for this kind of thing, and one which serves very well as an illustration occurs in the 1898 issue of Serbia. There was a certain printing of four values—5, 10, 15 and 25p—in which in the first instance the bottom outside perforation on each sheet was missed, and on this being noticed the sheets were handed over to another operator to finish off with a machine which happened to have another gauge.

Now there is a flaw variety of this stamp in which quite a considerable chunk of the design in the lower left-hand portion is missing, but as this variety occurs in the bottom row, it only exists perforated $13 \times 13\frac{1}{2} \times 11\frac{1}{2}$ and not in the normal perforation.

Mexico Paper Varieties.—Though many think that the almost microscopic study of stamps, which is such a feature of modern philately, is carried to absurd lengths, nobody who has had much to do with the detection of forgeries and reprints will be likely to hold the same view. No detail is so insignificant that it may not prove the genuineness of a given stamp. In this regard the study of the make and texture of paper often bears a very important part. In the case of the first two issues of Mexico, although the stamps were in many cases reprinted on the same paper as the originals, it is precisely by means of the paper that we are often able to reject specimens as reprints. If you will take a specimen of any value of the issues of 1856 and 1861 and look through it against a good light, it will be seen that there is a mesh in the paper which runs in parallel lines, each grain of the mesh being oblong in shape and arranged end to end to form the line. This can be seen much more clearly on the 1861 stamps than on the 1856 issue; sometimes, if the paper is thick, it is almost impossible to detect it. If the stamp be held horizontally against the light, it will be seen that the mesh is translated into an appearance of ribbing.

There is a way to detect this mesh, and the examination bears out the theory. If the stamp be held horizontally against the light, it will be seen that the mesh is translated into an appearance of ribbing. If the stamp be held vertically against the light, the mesh will be seen to be in the form of a series of parallel lines. This is a very simple test, and one which can be made at small expense. It is, for instance, by no means certain, that the variety catalogued as 47a exists. This stamp is the 3 cents of 1872 with correct, that the stamp is genuine. Other tests must then be resorted to.

The reason why the 1 and 2 reales differ from the other values in this respect is no doubt because the plates of these two values consisted of 200 stamps, whereas the other values are from plates which consisted of 80 stamps each. It was apparently necessary, for the purpose of economising paper, to turn the sheets sideways for printing from the smaller plates.

We do not hear so much nowadays about short and long stamps of Mexico but that they vary in length and width is beyond doubt. The paper shrinks after printing and always in one direction, i. e., between the lines forming the mesh. Thus the $\frac{1}{2}$, 4 and 8 reales, which have the horizontal mesh, are slightly shorter and wider than the other two values, which have the mesh the other way and consequently have shrunk in exactly the opposite direction.

This phenomenon is not generally understood, and has been the cause of a good deal of nonsense having been written years ago, about two dies having been used, not only for these Mexican stamps, but for the stamps of other countries, which exhibit the same peculiarities.

Ceylon.—The London Philatelist for October contained a note by Mr. E. D. Bacon, in which he described certain varieties found in the one penny, fourpence and tenpence Ceylon, each shewing two impressions overlapping of the die. These are instances of what is known as "re-entry." The variety of the one penny which Mr. Bacon describes is that in which the secondary impression is nearly 1 mm. to the right, parts of this impression being noticeable on the stamp in the letters of the words—CEYLON—ONE PENNY. It is not generally known that there were at least two other varieties of re-entries on the plate of this value. In one of these, which lies before me, the secondary impression is $\frac{1}{4}$ mm. too high, the effect being that the letters of the word CEYLON appear to have a double outline at foot. Traces of the re-entry are also noticeable on the letters NE of ONE. The other variety I describe from the lower left hand stamp in a block of four proof impressions in black. In this the secondary impression is $\frac{1}{2}$ mm. too low, the bottom outline of which can be traced for most of its length in the margin at foot, and the top outline, though more faintly, can be seen through the design $\frac{1}{2}$ mm. from the top. Traces are also noticeable on most of the letters forming the inscription and especially on the NY of PENNY.—Phil. Jour. Great

NO HOBBY LIKE STAMP COLLECTING.

It Has Its Followers in Every Part of the World Where Civilization Has Gone.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

In every country, in every town, almost in every village stamp enthusiasts are to be found. What is there in philately that gives it such world-wide popularity? Perhaps its greatest charm of all is its adaptability. It is not a hobby for the wealthy only, such as the accumulation of old masters, but is for each and everyone of us. Each individual can plan his collection to suit his pocket and on the lines laid down can collect just what he likes. The intelligent collector of small means can form a collection equally as interesting, if not so valuable, as that formed by a wealthy individual and he will certainly obtain as much pleasure from it. Dollars do not make the best philatelists or always the best collections. The man of limited means but rich in philatelic acumen is at least on equal terms with the wealthy plutocrat whose knowledge of stamps is hardly as great as his love of them.

But adaptability alone would not make it a hobby of universal popularity. Where then are its fascinations? To the busy professional man it serves as a real recreation—a pastime of such interest that the cares of business are forgotten, the tired brain is rested without being bored, while it makes time pass pleasantly, and profitably without further taxing an already overburdened energy. Its value as a recreation for the busy man is amply proved by the number of captains of industry, successful lawyers, and overworked journalists who are among its keenest votaries. For the man of leisure it affords a stimulating occupation—an occupation that demands time and trouble, for really fine specialized collections are not built up by money alone. The items that really matter have to be hunted for while the spice of competition with a "rival" collector only adds to the interest. To the studious it offers unlimited scope for research for of no stamps, even those most extensively studied, can it be said that the "last word" has been written. To the old it is a pleasant relaxation, sociable, and a hobby that brings them into contact with the young on common ground. To the boy it is a hobby full of entrancing delights.

Think of the stirring events depicted on many of the treasures in his album. If he is a lover of animals, and what real boy is not, he will find in his album a fair sized menagerie; ships and boats of all sorts from the primitive native contrivance used in Papua to the up-to-date liner shown on the 10c Pan-American stamp; portraits of heroes who have led their troops to victory; explorers; monuments erected to the memory of great men of bygone days; public buildings; people of every clime; flags; maps; the gods of ancient Greece; in fact, the varied designs are alone sufficiently interesting to make stamps desirable objects to collect.

Postage stamps—old bits of paper as they were contemptuously termed by the scoffers years ago—are rich in memories of history and mythology; they show the progress of the arts and sciences; they link the present with the past; they tell of the things that have been; they mark the progress of mankind; they indicate the growth of empires and the federation of states; they tell of the rise and fall of dynasties; they record the wonderful inventions of modern times; they bear testimony to the civilization of other decades; they bear honor to great statesmen and national heroes; they record the work of great explorers; and, lastly, they are part and parcel of that greatest of all the wonders of civilization—the modern postal system, with its marvellous organization that makes communication between the remotest corners of the world a matter of the utmost simplicity to the individual.

Stamp collecting is "the king of hobbies, and the hobby of kings." Truly, when we consider its scope for pleasure, for profit, as an intellectual and social pursuit, as a real recreation and pastime for all sorts and conditions of men, its world-wide popularity as a hobby is hardly to be wondered at!

MEXICO. The most interesting Country in the World to the Philatelist! SPECIALIZING—Best for original research and as a sound investment.

SUSTAINED INTEREST—Having studied these stamps for 30 years I still find new features and puzzles in their manifold varieties. To the Collector seeking new fields this country strongly recommends itself—any issue can be taken up, studied and specialized in.

TOWN NAME OVERPRINTS, etc.—These and the Consignment Numbers and Dates each and all are highly interesting and much has still to be found out about them.

THE POSTMARKS—Alone are a big subject for investigation, offering a larger and more extensive variety than those of any other part of the Philatelic World.

Special Selections of any issue can be submitted on approval, containing unrivalled ranges of varieties, shades, errors, Habilitados, etc., etc.

Headquarters for Stamps of the U. S. and Its Colonies

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

THE STAMPS OF GERMANY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

THE FIFTH ISSUE.

The dual system of currency in the Empire caused endless trouble, and in 1874, it was decided to introduce a new monetary system by which the currency of groschen and kreuzer was superseded by one of pfennige and marks. Not only did a uniform system result from this change, but matters were further simplified by the fact that the new currency was a decimal one, the mark consisting of exactly 100 pfennige. This change, of course, necessitated a new issue of stamps and though the new labels were ready and placed on sale in the early part of December, 1874, they were not allowed to be used until January 1st, 1875, the date officially chosen for the introduction of the new monetary system. The set consisted of six different values—3, 5, 10, 20, 25 and 50 pfennige—for public use, and a 2 marks stamp for the special use of the post offices, to be placed on heavy packages prepaid in cash. This value took the place of the 10gr of the previous issue.

The 3 and 5pf stamps were produced by surface printing and these were alike in design, except as regards the frame. In the center is a large numeral denoting the denomination on an upright oval of solid color. Around the figure, the words DEUTSCHE REICHS-POST are curved and the oval itself is surmounted by a large Imperial crown. At the base of the oval is a posthorn and on a band at each side the value is expressed as 3 (5) PFENNIGE reading upwards at the left and downwards at the right. The 10, 20, 25 and 50pf were alike in design and these were embossed in color. The Arms are shown in the center within a pearled upright oval band which is inscribed DEUTSCHE-REICHS-POST. In the upper angles are ornaments and in the lower ones discs of solid color on which the numerals of value are shown in white, while between these discs is a label on which PFENNIGE is shown in graduated letters.

The 2 marks stamp was produced by typography, like the two lowest values, and this in shape and design resembles the 10gr label it superseded. In the center is a large 2, on which "2 MARK" is shown twice in small uncolored characters. The oval band is inscribed DEUTSCHE REICHS-POST at the top and ZWEI MARK at the base, while the background consists of a repetition of the latter inscription in small letters.

All values, except the 2 marks, were perforated 13½ by 14½ as in the case of the preceding issues, while on the 2m, on account of its shape, the perforation is 14½ by 13½.

Shades may be found in all the pfennige values and in the case of the 50pf at least one change of tint was made with official intention. The earlier shades were grey to slate, but in March, 1877, the color had a large percentage of green mixed with it and later printings vary from grey-green to olive green. The 5pf was always printed in aniline ink and in 1879 similar fugitive ink was used for the 10pf.

The 2 marks stamp had a somewhat lengthy life, as it continued in use until 1900. During this time there were, of course, several printings and as no special attempt seems to have been made to keep its color uniform, a variety of prominent shades may be found. Gibbons' catalogue lists five distinct shades and accords a different date to each as follows:—

- 1875, dull lilac.
- 1881, red lilac.
- 1884, lilac rose.
- 1889, lilac.
- 1893, deep red lilac.

I believe all seven values of this series were printed in sheets of 100.

Reference List.

- 1875. New currency. Perf. 13½ by 14½.
- 29. 3pf green, Scott's No. 29.
- 30. 5pf mauve, Scott's No. 30.
- 31. 10pf carmine, Scott's No. 31.
- 32. 20pf ultramarine, Scott's No. 32.
- 33. 25pf brown, Scott's No. 33.
- 34. 50pf grey, Scott's No. 34.
- 35. 50pf green, Scott's No. 35.

Perf. 14½ by 13½.

- 36. 2 marks lilac, Scott's No. 36 or 44.

THE SIXTH ISSUE.

According to German grammar, the spelling of PFENNIGE with a final E, as on the last issue of stamps, was incorrect, and a great outcry was raised in the press on the matter. The word as printed, was the plural when speaking of a number of coins, but the descriptions of currency, weight, measure, etc., have no plural in Germany. Bavaria and Wurtemberg, which still retained their postal autonomy at this date, had the correct spelling on the stamps they severally issued when the currency was unified, but it took some years before the Berlin administration could be induced to see they were in error.

The first stamp to appear with the correct spelling was the 10 pfennig, which was issued for sale in March, 1880, while the other denominations appeared about a month later. In the 3 and 5pf stamps an additional numeral was inscribed in place of the redundant "E", but on the other values, the word was simply redrawn so as to fill the tablet. In all other respects the designs remained the same as before. All values are said to have been printed in aniline as well as ordinary colors and Mr. Westoby states that from 1883 down to 1889 they "were printed on paper that had been previously coated on the face with a preparation similar to that made use of in Russia, the effect of which was that when the stamp was wetted on the face the color came off, either partially or wholly, according as the paper had been thinly or thickly coated." The colors of the stamps on the surfaced paper are, generally speaking, much brighter than those of the earlier printings.

The 3 and 10 pfennig are known imperforate and the former appears to be a bona-fide error, for it is stated that a few sheets were issued in this condition from the Leipzig post office in the early part of 1883.

An interesting minor variety may be found in the 50pf. This has the small projecting ornament in the center of the right frame omitted, making a deep v-shaped indentation in this part of the design. The variety was not discovered until 1901 and it seems to be of a fair degree of rarity. Apparently, it only occurred on one stamp on one of the earlier plates.

In 1882, a clever forgery of the 50pf was made with the object of defrauding the government. The stamps were made and sold by a lithographer named Riechers, of Barmen, and it is estimated at least 140,000 were used before the counterfeit was detected. According to a note made in the Philatelic Record some years ago, it is said that "as a forgery, it is magnificent, the color and entire execution are so exact that it is not surprising copies passed the post office in such quantities". The forgery differs from the originals mainly in the shape of the small ornaments at the sides and though it would not deceive a collector looking for it, it would certainly pass as the original article with nine persons out of ten.

CANADA WAR TAX REVENUES.

We have received from Mrs. E. W. Oughtred, a specimen of Canada's new King George war tax stamps in ribbon form. The value before us is the 5c black, and is a nice piece of work from the American Bank Note Co., of Ottawa. Mrs. Oughtred says that there will be issued in this one design the values 5c, 10c, 15c, 25c and 50c. The 2c red war tax is now being furnished in coils, the minimum number sold at one time being 500.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A subscriber wishes to know whether he can have a Goodwin book by sending in a new yearly subscription and 25c in cash. Our reply is "Certainly."

—Clippings acknowledged with thanks from A. E. Meyer, Daniel J. Kaib, N. L. Stanley and Fred G. Ross.

—M. F. METHFESSEL—Your letter contains no address and we can find no advertising copy. Please send copy for your three line adlet.

—The membership list of the American Philatelist recently issued contains the 16th annual report of the committee on philatelic literature, "being an addendum to the 15th annual report with additions and corrections and continuing the catalog to Jan. 1915." It is compiled by the committee of which Wm. R. Ricketts is chairman and is issued in two parts, one devoted to separate works and the other to periodicals. One hundred and fifty copies of this index have been printed separately from the membership list and each one numbered, the first fifty being an edition de luxe. They are priced respectively 25c and 50c. The indexing has been thoroughly done as will be evidenced by even a cursory examination.

—I am the happy possessor of a copy of the 3-cent green, "cracked" or "scratched" plate. I happened to be looking over about 1,000 of the green ones when the fifth stamp I picked up had a faint line running from the "H" in "THREE" up to the oval surrounding the medallion. All the particulars Mr. E. R. Jacobs mentioned were present on my specimen with many more. I am enclosing a drawing which shows plainer than I can tell, the ramblings of the mark in question.—C. E. ENGELHART.

—Over forty members have signified their intention of attending the S. P. A. convention in Reading, Pa., August 5-6-7, already. The convention bids fair to be by far the largest the S. P. A. has ever held.

—"I have just received Theodore Champion's bulletin wherein is a statement to the effect that since the German and Austro-Hungarian governments have prohibited the sale of French and French Colonial Red Cross stamps in either country, it has been decided that French dealers will not import or buy stamps of either Germany or Austro-Hungary, and that therefore while the war continues no new issues of the above mentioned countries will be chronicled."—G. M. MOSLER.

—In our issues of June 5 and 12, the Gibbons' 1915 Part II catalog was advertised by the Manhattan Stamp Co. as containing "No illustrations." This, of course, is not the case, and we regret the error, which was corrected in the advertisement of last week. Mr. Miller, the manager of the Manhattan Stamp Co., has been doing jury duty during the past two weeks.

—There has been a reduction of letter postage between the United States and the Dutch West Indies. Commencing July 1, letters will be mailed at 2c per ounce or fraction thereof in place of 5c as heretofore.

—Geo. J. Carter, 265 Halsey St., Brooklyn, N. Y., reports that he is unable to get any answers to letters sent D. H. Cowdin, Box 322, Grand Prairie, Tex. He would like to know whether any other dealers are similarly situated.

KNOW YOUR STAMPS.

This is a day of specialism and it is called for in every pursuit or line of work. The stamp collector, to get real benefit from his hobby, must study and specialize.

There is no better field than the stamps of the United States and every American collector should have sufficient pride in the stamps of his own country to build whatever collection he may have upon a foundation of U. S. issues.

The book by Mr. Wiley on that common stamp, the 3c green of 1870, shows what is possible with a stamp that has been little appreciated but nevertheless offers a wide range of investigation. Price, only 12c.

It is our plea that collectors generally should have in permanent form literature dealing with our hobby, and we shall make amends in coming months for past remissness by furnishing the stamp collector with a literature that will prove of permanent value.

May we suggest a philatelic library? Let the books advertised in this issue be given a corner in the philatelic possessions, and the collecting of one's stamps will take on added interest in proportion to the studiousness of the collector.

"The Beginner's Guide", by Mr. Poole, price 25c, should be in the hands of every collector.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Spreading.—The announcement has been made by the department at Washington that our rate of letter postage to the Dutch West Indies, including Curacao, has been reduced to two cents, beginning July 1, 1915. Elsewhere, we print the order in full but we may observe here that the prediction made some time ago on the occasion of the first reduction between our country and one of the British West Indies while already verified in good measure will be more emphatically so in the future. Last week, the probabilities of cheap postage between this country and South America were mentioned; and now the actual reduction has been ratified by the Dutch government in behalf of its West Indian colonies and the United States. Philatelists are in a position to appreciate postal reform about as well as any other class of persons.

Ossa On Pelion—Really we must call a halt. With amazement and indignation, we beheld last week a current two-cent stamped envelope on which Washington was depicted with a ring in his nose. We protested against this outrage but at the same time, a sop of consolation was found in the thought that the lesser house of postal production, the envelope factory at Dayton, was responsible for this egregious insult. The worst was yet to come and now that it has descended upon us, we are unnerved. The final iniquity leaves us helpless; we can only mutter dire abjurations against those abandoned creatures who have now added injury to insult to Washington. Can it be that a band of conspirators are hacking away at the palladiums of our liberties? Mr. Otto F. Henker of Dubuque, Iowa, writes: "A few days ago a friend of mine gave me a box of stamps to look over and in searching through the lot, I found a vertical pair of one cent of the current issue, as enclosed. At first I thought that one of the 'punch outs' of the perforation had adhered to the top stamp just over Washington's eye but I could not rub the blank away. Looking closely I found that George Washington was printed without an eye. You may determine for yourself if the omission is the result of a fault in engraving or not." The error indeed is a curious one as Washington's eye is missing and there is a blank in its place. The imperfection was caused doubtlessly by some foreign substance that caught the color at the point as the paper is not thinned at the spot.

Connecting Link—From Mr. J. W. Fox, Pottsville, Pa., we have received a most interesting cover which has on its reverse side the following pasted label which is nearly three by four inches in size: "The Adams Express Company, S. A. Jones, Agent, Louisville, Ky., Will forward letters to the Confederate States when the following directions are observed: Enclose each letter in a U. S. Government Envelope—an ordinary envelope with a stamp affixed will not answer. The Company will forward and deliver at any point where it has an office, or will mail as near as possible to the point of address, paying Confederate postage, for a fee of 25 cents. The rate here given is for letters not exceeding 1-2 oz. in weight; each 1-2 oz. being charged 3 cents by U. S. Government and 25 cents by the Express Company." On the face of the envelope, which is addressed to a resident of Pottsville, Pa., are the postmarks, Richmond, Va., July 25, 1861 and Louisville, Aug. 1, 1861 and further, the "Paid 10" impression used in the Confederate States before the advent of stamps and the postmark form, "Adams Ex. Co., Louisville, Ky., July 31, 1861, over the three cent U. S. stamp of the 1857-60 issue. At this time, postal interruption between the north and south was almost complete and communication between the two sections existed only through the intermediary of the Adams Express Company through its agency in Louisville. Mr. Fox's envelope originated in Richmond and after ten cents were paid as a postal fee to the Confederacy, the Express Company carried the letter to Louisville, where the agent supplied the three cent stamp and postmarked it as indicated. The letter was carried in the northern mails from Louisville to Pottsville, where it arrived, August 10, 1861, according to an annotation on the face of the envelope.

Data—Until recently, we had in our possession, a similar cover, which was sent from New Orleans to Louisville and then north. The envelope was the three cent stamped envelope, red on white, 1857-61, but it did not have the paster on the reverse. We assume that letters sent from the north to the south at the time had a label attached at Louisville the wording of which was changed to conform to the situation as it existed in the southern states. In the latter part of May, 1861, Postmaster-General Blair of the United States ordered the suspension of all postal communication with the states in rebellion, from May 31, 1861, and by July 10, 1861, the postal embargo was complete, it having been extended even to "Middle and West Tennessee." Several express companies at this period undertook to supply carrier needs between the belligerent sections but it was not long before the postmaster-general was importuned to interdict intercourse "between the loyal and rebellious States by private express or otherwise." The postal functionary observed that the necessary power to accomplish this end was not vested in him but was delegated to the war and treasury departments. However, the postmaster-general broached the subject to General McClellan, basing his representations on the president's proclamation of August 10, 1861, that all commercial interchange between "the insurgent State or the people thereof and the loyal States is unlawful." It was not long afterwards that the war and the treasury departments uttered prohibitions on the lines in question. On August 26, 1861, the post office department ordered the arrest of any "express agent or other persons" who thereafter engaged in furthering written intercourse between north and south. Subsequently, raids were made on clandestine mail depots in the "border states."

In Alsace—We are indebted to the Rev. Joseph Dreyer, Westerly, Rhode Island, for further information on the subject of the use of French stamps in the occupied part of southwest Upper Alsace. Official announcement is made that the date of the opening of the offices was 11-2-15 or February 11th, 1915. A stamp enclosed by our correspondent bears a postmark of the opening day,—"Massevaux, 11-2-15, Alsace" and the Reverend Mr. Dreyer says: "Massevaux" stands for the German 'Masmünster,' and hence the French are doing in Alsace what the Germans have been do-

On the Watch—Our correspondents are sending for inspection a great many United States stamps that show slight mechanical variations which while interesting are not important enough in themselves to attract general attention. Dry paper in printing will account for not a few of these variations and an occasional color "blister" will show itself. When a small variety is found in duplicate, a permanency is established for the variant, which becomes worthy of the consideration of the student.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT STAMPS.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

Department of State.

No stamps ever printed for or by the United States government exceed in beauty the ones issued for the Department of State. Although the designs follow closely those of other departments, the rich shades of green attract the eye, while it seems to set off the beautiful engraving of the designs to such extent that they seem to the untrained eye to be even more carefully engraved than those of the other issues.

These stamps, as of all other departments, were issued for use on July 1, 1873. They were printed by the Continental Bank Note Co. The plates all contained 100 designs, each bearing the same portraits as of the current issues of regular postage stamps. In addition there were four "Dollar" values made, in denominations of $2, $5, $10 and $20. These were printed with portraits of Seward, after the artist Carpenter, in black, with frame of green. The dollar values were about twice the size of the regular stamps.

Various shades of green are listed by Mr. Luff, each denomination having the following variety:

1c, 3; 2c, 3; 3c, 4; 6c, 3; 7c, 3; 10c, 3; 12c, 3; 15c, 3; 24c, 2; 30c, 2; 90c, 2; $2, 2; $5, 2; $10, 2; $20, 2.

A single plate only was made for each denomination, the following plate numbers being issued:

1c, 55	24c, 117
2c, 59	30c, 116
3c, 70	90c, 67
6c, 83	$2, 121
7c, 112	$5, 120
10c, 98	$10, 122
12c, 78	$20, 124

CHIT CHAT ON POSTAL CARDS.

By MAITLAND MILLIKEN.

The great European War has doubtless seen many new cards issued for the soldiers serving their respective countries.

Many of the cards of Ecuador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador have elaborate lathework designs, which in some respects resemble the designs of bank notes. They were made by our friend, the late Nicholas F. Seebeck.

The sets of King George cards for many British Colonies are far away from being complete.

The country is full of Puerto Rico cards now. The holders are unloading them almost for a song. This country is easy to complete as the catalogue quotations are very reasonable on these 19 standard varieties.

Austria, Bavaria, Canada, Great Britain, Mexico, Portugal and Colonies and Sweden have had their Jubilee cards.

In the occupied territory of Belgium

The plate number of the portrait used in the dollar values was 123 in all cases.

Between May 24, and July 1, 1873, there were printed of all denominations and delivered to the Department of State, 60,495 stamps. Later additional supplies were provided.

The American Bank Note Co. printed the 15 cents and 30 cents on the soft porous paper used by that concern. These are scarce, and high in price, and well worth diligent search to find.

The following number of each denomination were issued during the years 1874 and 1884 (fiscal year ending June 30):

1c, 31,800	24c, 13,800
2c, 41,800	30c, 20,100
3c, 109,200	90c, 6,643
6c, 82,100	$2, 3,508
7c, 37,800	$5, 363
10c, 64,900	$10, 363
12c, 20,800	$20, 363
15c, 22,800

Each denomination was overprinted with the word "Specimen", with other departments, in 1875. The error "Specimen" occurs in the 1c, 2c, 3c, 7c and 24 cents. Three printings were made of the 1c, with "Specimen" with a total of 25,000. Of these nearly all were sold. All other denominations were overprinted in lots of 10,000, and the following number of "Specimen" stamps were sold:

1c, 21,672; 2c, 5,145; 3c, 793; 6c, 467; 7c, 791; 10c, 346; 12c, 280; 15c, 257; 24c, 253; 30c, 249; 90c, 245; $2, 32; $5, 12; $10, 8; $20, 7.

Varieties in the State consist largely of so-called ribbed papers, found in all denominations. Town cancellations are scarce, and desirable.

the Germans are using surcharged "Belgien" on current German cards with values in centimes.

Brazil has been the delight of specialists in furnishing them minor varieties in multitude Mexico heads the list with nearly 250 varieties, followed closely by Bavaria and Austria with 200 and 175 varieties respectively.

It is long since past time that Liberia should issue a set of four or five cards. She brought the last one out in 1892. We are still waiting for her to come forward with some new ones.

In the letter cards of Mexico, Newfoundland, Portugal and Colonies there is attached inside a smaller reply letter card. You never knew of it before?

Quite a number of philatelists have added card collecting as an adjunct to their stamps. Have you as one of them started in the "swim"? If not, why not? Try to start a collection. Cards are inexpensive. An ordinary shoe box will do to hold the cards.

COLUMBIAN STAMP CO., Arlington, Mass.

THE LEGEND OF ST. ILIA.

Le Journal des Philatelists explains the design of one of the set of Russia's war stamps in an interesting fashion.

The 1 kopeck depicts Saint Ilia of Mouron, an old Cossack of the epic songs of Russia, whose venerated remains are preserved in the catacombs of Kiev. The legend of St. Ilia is as follows:—

Ilia had been paralysed for thirty years, when one day he saw two godly old men approach his dwelling.

"Ilia of Mouron, son of a peasant," they exclaimed, "open your great gates and let us enter your house."

"Alas!" replied the cripple, "I have remained seated for thirty years; I can move neither arms nor legs."

"Raise yourself, Ilia, on your feet quickly, and open your great gates unto us."

Ilia indeed raised himself and went to open the gates for the strangers.

The latter then handed him a cup filled with a certain draught. Scarcely had Ilia drunk of the potion when his heroic heart warmed, and his body became moist with perspiration.

"What do you feel in you, Ilia?" asked the strangers.

"I feel a great power in me," he replied.

"Ilia, you will be a great hero; you shall not die in battle. Fight all the heroes and the audacious heroines, but struggle not with Sviatagor the bogatyr, for the earth can scarcely carry him, nor attack Samson the strong, on his head there are seven sacred hairs; nor struggle with the blood of Mikoula, it is cherished by Mother Earth; nor come to grips with Volga, it is not his strength that renders him invincible, but his cunning."

Ilia accomplished deeds worthy of Hercules. He set about the cultivation of Russian soil, rooting up the forests as a gardener roots out weeds; then, having bought a miserable hack from a peasant, he transformed it by parading it through the dew, into a magnificent courser. After which, Ilia took the field against the monsters and brigands who then infested holy Russia.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Homer R. Hendricks sends us a 5c stamp of the current issue, which is nearly covered with a nondescript precancellation, mostly black "smooch." We are obliged to accept Mr. Hendricks' word that it was intended to represent "Dallas, Texas."

AUSTRALIA.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles a new King George wrapper. Wrapper. 1/2d green on cream.

BARBADOS.—New letter cards have been issued with portrait of King George.

Letter Cards.

1/2d green. 1d scarlet.

BRAZIL.—Smith's Circular chronicles a registration envelope. The stamp is the same as the 1907 ordinary envelope, but the paper is blue, cloth-lined.

Registration Envelope.

300r sepia brown on blue; 153x103 mm.

BULGARIA.—We are still very much at sea in regard to the new postage due stamps. Champion's Bulletin mentions 10 and 20 leva stamps. We have actually seen the 10, 20 and 50s stamps, and now comes Ewen's Weekly with a chronicle of 5, 30 and 50 leva values. As Champion gives the colors of the 10 and 20 leva the same as the actual colors of the 10 and 20s stamps, and further as Bulgaria has never had any postage due stamps in the leva values, we wonder if our usually correct contemporaries have made a blunder in translating. For the present we shall chronicle no more of this set until actually seen.

CANADA.—M. F. Cassidy sends us a clipping from the Drayton (Ontario) Advocate, stating that the Canadian Government is shortly to issue a 2c post card to cover the "War Tax."

DOMINICA.—Maury's Collectionneur notes that a new series, with portrait of King George is being prepared.

DUTCH INDIES.—Red Cross Stamps and card are to be issued by this Colony shortly.

GERMANY.—Offices in Russian Poland.—Maitland Milliken reports having seen the 5pf single and 5x5pf reply cards of Germany both with divided face, overprinted "Russisch-Polen," as described in No. 1276. Possibly the 10pf single and reply cards have also been issued, though not yet seen.

Post Cards.

5pf green on cream. 5x5pf green on cream.

ITALY.—Maury's Collectionneur describes a Red Cross reply post card which was issued before the Italian Government had actually decided to join the Allies.

Red Cross Post Card.

7 1/2 x 7 1/2 red.

JAPAN.—Frank Kocher and Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the current 3c stamp, on both unwatermarked and watermarked paper, overprinted with two large characters, placed vertically. These are the same as the 1910 overprint, and signify "War Service."

LUXEMBURG.—C. G. Dietrich informs us that the issue of the provisionals 62 1/2c on 2 1/2fr, and 62 1/2c on 5fr, as noted in No. 1275 was a very small one. The 62 1/2c on 2 1/2fr was sold out in two hours after it had been put on sale.

NIGERIA.—Single and reply post cards of the King George type have made their appearance.

Post Cards.

1d red on buff. 1x1d red on buff.

PERSIA.—The series of stamps issued to commemorate the Coronation of the Sultan Achmed Schah, and dated "1914" have begun to appear. They were placed on sale April 23, and will be valid for one year. The values 1 to 24c show the imperial crown, 1 to 5k "Darius on his Throne" and 1 to 5 toman the "Gate of Palace of Persepolis."

RUSSIA.—According to Maury's Collectionneur a new series of stamps is being prepared. The values 1k to 7k will show a female figure sitting with sword and buckler, representing "Russia." This suggests the current Swiss stamps. The values from 10k to 70k will show the principal means of travel employed in Russia, as follows: 10k, a light drosky; 14k, a Siberian sledge; 15k, a reindeer; 20k, a camel; 25k, a dog team; 35k, locomotive; 70k, automobile. The 1, 2 and 3r high values have been reserved for historical monuments, including the Kremlin, the Convent of Jpatzeu and the Winter Palace, while the 5r will have a portrait of a member of the Romanof family.

TURKEY.—The Ottoman Empire is to have a new series of stamps, as the current series is printed in England and for obvious reasons further supplies are impossible to be secured.

THE NEED OF A. P. S. PROXIES.

In recent years it has been a source of great concern to the official board of the A. P. S. that the members of the Society have not given proper consideration to the matter of convention proxies. This year every member is earnestly requested to delegate someone to vote their proxy in case of inability to attend. The managing editor of the WEEKLY will be pleased to serve in this capacity. Address him, Willard O. Wylie, Beverly, Mass. Important business may be blocked by lack of proper representation.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Togo and its Occupation Stamps.—By R. E. R. Dalwick. This is the first and a very comprehensive book on the war stamps of Togo. With its map, it tells us where Togo is, while Lome, concerning which we have heard considerable, is pictured with a fine halftone. The opening chapter deals with this former German colony from a descriptive standpoint, while the second chapter gives the story of its occupancy by the Allied forces. The book is splendidly illustrated and it is well worth the small price asked for it. The book is reprinted from Stamp Collecting, making No. 3 of the handbooks issued by this popular English Weekly. Price, 12c and the book can be obtained through the Meekel-Severn-Wylie Co.

WHY NOT DEAL IN STAMPS?

It's a pleasurable occupation and can be easily conducted from the home if office life is objectionable. It will not only give you pleasure but profit as well. We know because we have had the experience.

For seven years the managing editor made the catalog a constant companion in his leisure hours and with a benzine cup at his elbow, approval books blossomed into a successful stamp business. We know this not only because our stock books testified to it, but because stamp collectors put it into their correspondence.

Here is the WEEKLY ready to serve you. It has 8,000 subscribers. Our advertising rates are low, very low, the lowest in the world for service rendered. Of course, you need a little cash to provide stock, but little cash can be made to answer if you have the necessary grit and enthusiasm.

Get "How to Deal in Stamps", a fine little booklet, only 10c.

MALTA 1/2 PENNY YELLOW.

At the New York Exhibition in 1913 was shown a very fine collection of Malta, which was awarded a silver gilt medal and which has taken all sorts of medals in exhibitions in Great Britain and on the Continent. It is the property of J. E. Williams, Wilton House, Blair Rd., Manchester, S. W., England and Mr. Williams desires to get in touch with collectors who are specializing in the stamps of this island.

He is particularly desirous of securing information in connection with the 1/2d yellow series and is seeking to ascertain the earliest dates of issue of various printings. There are two particular varieties of the sixteen he has listed concerning which he is especially desirous of learning earliest dates and these are:—Crown CC perf. 12 1/2 clean cut 1866 yellow buff, and Crown CC perf. 14 1868 bright orange, brilliant color almost saffron, but with white back. Can any reader favor Mr. Williams?

THE 1911 VENEZUELA ISSUE.

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

In re Mr. McCabe's article on the 1911 Venezuelas in your issue of June 12, I call your attention, and his, to an article on these stamps in the P. S. N. of March 21, 1914.

The single printings of the 25c and 50c began to come through the mails in February or March last year. I have found one copy of the 15c, but none of the bolivar or the lower values. As the 5c and 10c have a solid background behind the head, they would not be so readily identified as the others which can be picked out at once by the fine or coarse hatching in the background. The yellow color of the bolivar stamp would help it to pass unnoticed by any but a careful observer, but now that you have given the subject publicity in such an interesting way if it exists, it will probably be found.

You may care to note that the current 25c has been coming in a lighter shade of blue for several weeks and this may be a permanent change of shade. The dark shade is still coming, however, and sometimes a cover has stamps of each shade. A higher value than 25c is badly needed and should appear at any time. Many covers require four or more 25c and the lack of a bolivar denomination must cause considerable inconvenience. Occasionally, the 50c "Instruccion", which is very like the current design, is used for postage.

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the widespread scattering of approval selections.

OUR REBUS COVER CONTEST.

By courtesy of the Illustriertes Briefmarken-Journal, we were permitted to give our readers a good philatelic rebus on the cover of our issue of May 29. Many subscribers have written us complimenting us upon our being able to provide this contest and expressing the desire that there may be more of them in the near future.

No doubt, a good many were discouraged from sending in their solutions because of their inability to find the nineteen stamps that were represented, notwithstanding we urged that incomplete lists be submitted where complete ones were not attainable.

It will be seen that we have a goodly number of successful contestants and it is with pleasure that we announce the result of the competition.

The list of stamps pictured follows and we give the country only, in order to permit the contestants to have a little further pleasure in locating the particular designs:—Central figure, Greece; first border surrounding figure, Baden; second border surrounding figure, Russia; third border surrounding figure, Montenegro; top and sides, Madagascar; scroll containing name, Saxony; cross beneath scroll, Switzerland; upper left hand corner, Italy Special Delivery; upper right hand corner, Portugal; inner upper left hand corner, Crete; inner upper right hand corner, Norway; inner lower left hand corner, Netherlands; inner lower right hand corner, Bulgaria; lower row: first, Italy Commemorative; second, Mauritius; third, Austria; fourth, Germany; fifth, Belgium; and sixth, Bermuda.

Nearly all of the successful contestants gave merely a list of the stamps, but a few showed artistic talent that should be recognized. From Leroy C. Brown, Olean, N. Y., we received a drawing of the cover design nicely executed and a correct list of answers. Mr. Brown is frank enough to say that his wife found seventeen out of the nineteen stamps pictured, so, while we award first honors to Mr. Brown, we presume he will be very willing to share the honors with Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. W. E. Underwood, Sparrows Point, Md., executed a similar drawing that was quite useful and in our list of answers, we have followed her method of describing the location of the several pieces of stamps pictured.

The entry of Wallace A. Wright, Methuen, Mass., is also entitled to special mention for his original method in answering the rebus. We wish that we had the space to print in full his entry. We therefore award highest honors in this contest to Leroy C. Brown, Olean, N. Y. Mrs. W. E. Underwood, Sparrows Point, Md. Wallace A. Wright, Methuen, Mass.

These contestants will please select any four books from our book list as printed elsewhere in this issue. We shall be willing to send a cloth bound Scott's catalog, 1915 edition, (or the new one when issued) if preferred.

Others who sent in complete lists and are entitled to a place on a roll of honor are the following:—

Arthur T. Hale	Howard Algeo
Harold Grieg	G. Bos
Willard Newton	M. Borowsky
Franklin Williams	W. G. Birdseye
Harold K. Schoff	C. Edw. Wright
E. J. Strothkamp	E. P. Morehouse
J. B. Cayasso	Frank C. Clark

Miss Amelia Blydenburgh

These successful contestants are privileged to select any book desired from the book list published elsewhere in this issue.

A goodly number sent in lists that were incomplete, some lacking one solution and others up to three or four. We note the following:—

Geo. A. Hargraft, Egbert Bacon, Mrs. M. K. Beale, Robt. S. Gordon, Oscar Thiebaud, Warwick Beardsley, Allen Greeley, H. H. Thomas, Raymond Van Buskirk, Fred Paulsen, Archie M. Porter, Chas. P. Plumlee, Hollis P. Thacher, Elbert C. Hoover, Geo. Kump, Christ Burke, H. R. Sherman, Jr., Theo. H. Ames, L. B. Ferguson, Stanley L. Chisholm, Raymond Freshwater, John Mairs, Geo. L. Frost, Arthur Reum, George Nicholls, Jr., J. A. Galbraith, Jr., A. E. Meyer, Jr., and Carl W. Heinricke.

MEXICAN NOTES.

By S. B. HOPKINS.

It will not be news to WEEKLY readers that the two warring factions in Mexico are issuing stamps of the 1910 issue with two different G. C. M. monograms printed on them in black. Both factions have been and are still using the "Gobierno $ Constitucionalista" printed surcharges issued in Mexico City in 1914 before Villa and Carranza "fell out," but certain values of this issue became exhausted in Carranza territory as early as last December.

These were at first replaced by stamps with the large purple monogram (G C M) handstamped on them in the old familiar script style; later, arrangements were made in the new capital (Veracruz) for printing the surcharges and a small black monogram was printed on certain values in a very close imitation (script) of the large purple handstamped one.

Carranza Issue.

Villa Issue.

When the Villa offices began to run out of the "$ surcharges" in certain denominations (2, 3, 5c), they also adopted a G C M monogram surcharge, printed in black, but entirely different in style and shape, with fancy letters and lots of hooks and curlicues.

The Carrancistas are the real, simon-pure Constitutionlists, followers of the original "first chief" of the Constitutional Government, Don Venustiano Carranza. They also have the original postmaster-general (or Director General of Posts, as they call him), Don Cosme Hinojosa. Their capital is at Veracruz, on the east coast, and they control all the southern and eastern States of the Mexican Republic.

The Villistas (or Conventionists, as they prefer to be called) claim to be loyal to the "military convention" which met at Aguascalientes last year and proclaimed itself the sovereign power of Mexico; but, as a matter of fact, they recognize no law except the will of their bandit leader, "Pancho" Villa. At the present writing (May 17th) they control only a few of the northern and western States (except for their alleged allies in Mexico City, followers of Zapata) and have fights on their hands in most of these.

As previously noted, the Carrancistas at Veracruz decided it was too much trouble to surcharge envelopes, postcards, etc., and authorized the use of the old 1910 stationery without any surcharge whatever; the Villistas, however, apparently think it worth while to put their trademark on theirs, as I have seen the 5c envelope with the fancy monogram above described, printed directly on the stamp.

In a "postoffice department" circular from Veracruz (Carrancista), dated February 25, 1915, it is directed that all offices having stamps of the 1910 issue with the "Gobierno $ Constitucionalista" surcharge, the large purple (handstamped) G C M, the new black (script) G C M, or even the Villista G C M (some of these having been captured from the "Conventionists" in Mexico City and elsewhere), shall continue to use them pending the preparation of a permanent new issue.

In this same circular, mention is made of the penalties provided by law for postoffice employees who may be guilty of receiving and forwarding correspondence bearing stamps not properly ly surcharged with one or other of the surcharges above described, and penalties are also provided for the punishment of private citizens or postoffice employees who may themselves surcharge (for their own use or for sale to the public) any of the obsolete stamp issues, it being stated that all supplies must come from the proper official source—the "Dirección General."

An interesting comparison may be made between the two factions on the basis of recent changes in the postal rates. While the Villistas have recently doubled all domestic rates, leaving intact the already doubled foreign rates, the Carrancistas have just published an order restoring the foreign rates to what they were before the revolution (in other words cutting them in half). Thus in Villa territory it now costs 10 centavos to mail a letter to any point in Mexico (as well as the U. S. and possessions, Cuba and Canada) and 20 centavos to other countries; while in Carranza territory you can now mail a letter to any place in Mexico, U. S. and possessions, Cuba and Canada for 5 centavos, and for 10 centavos to any other country.

CHANGES WROUGHT IN COLLECTING.

EDITOR SCOTT in Metropolitan.

Time brings many changes in our ideas. In the early days of stamp collecting many amateurs said they "collected foreign stamps" and as their own country was not foreign did not preserve U. S. stamps. They have now gone to the other extreme and large numbers confine their attentions entirely to the stamps of their native land. In the beginning we were told that they "collected stamps" and seemed to consider that the amateurs who bought their specimens were not playing the game fairly. Now we buy all, all above the boy age being ashamed to beg stamps. Again the majority of collectors wanted used stamps and when they found certain specimens could not be obtained bought new ones and cancelled them themselves. Now the finest collections are composed entirely of unused specimens. Our first customers neatly trimmed their specimens down to the lines of the engraving, cutting off perforations, making all uniform. Now they go to the other extreme and want all the margins possible, even to the extent of paying extra for corner specimens. The first idea was to paste their stamps so solid in the book that scores were ruined by their removal. Now we want the most peelable variety of peelable hinge and lose numbers by their being absorbed by our friends or lost by ourselves. After emerging from the pocket book era our prototypes wanted the largest and most elaborate albums they could find, plenty of blank pages for future issues. The modern amateur makes his collection as compact as possible so that it can be contained in the smallest space. Early stamp men were very patriotic. We lost the sale of many copies of the "Common Sense Album" because we were wicked enough to head one page "Confederate States" instead of Rebel States or the more popular "Copper head issues." Times change but stamp collecting goes on forever. Greater values, more enthusiasm, more study and better results. Those who have kept their early collections have reaped great rewards and avoided all regrets. The grandsons of our early customers are now dealing with us as their fathers did before them. A complete collection of the world's stamps is now impossible for the great majority but there are hundreds of lines which can be followed with success by the new comers which if persistently pursued will lead to as great results as the early achievements of our predecessors. The foundation of many a fortune started with the stamp collection, which if it did not bring cash results, inculcated habits of saving, steady perseverance, neatness and other virtues more enduring and happiness producing than wealth.

THE BURLESON SHODDY 2c STAMP.

This is a word that ought to be sufficient, addressed in all gentleness to those who ought to be wise.

The Government document or letter which comes most intimately and remains most constantly in relation with the daily life of the hundred millions of Americans is the two cent postage stamp. It is the unit of mail communication. It is beloved by all; tolerated when it brings the butcher's bill, blessed when it becomes the motor of the missives of Cupid. It is not too much to say that in the domestic affection of most people, the two cent postage stamp ranks immediately after the members of the family and the savings bank account.

Well we remember, notwithstanding the many years that have elapsed, the cyclonic storm of indignation that swept over every part of this republic when the post office authorities, in some whimsy, conceived in hebetic fatuity, undertook to substitute for the agreeably dry red of the then existing two cent stamp, a thing of horror printed in a particularly nauseating pale green. We do not believe that any veteran in the establishment at Washington over which the Hon. Albert S. Burleson now presides has forgotten the historic incident of the Sickly Green Stamp.

Mind you, there was no question of deterioration in the quality of the paper, in the regularity of the perforation, in the adequacy of the adhesive smearing. The offense was mainly against good taste, the sin was purely æsthetic. Yet, not for that reason was the popular uprising (which, it may perhaps be proper to observe, The Sun had the honor to organize and to lead to victory) less prompt, less fierce in its just wrath, less overwhelming in its practical unanimity. If the Post Office Department had not surrendered by the withdrawal of the spinach splashed tombstone which it had fatuously put forth as a two cent stamp—had not the Post Office Department gracefully placated the public indignation by restoring the cherished color of aurora and rosebuds—it is quite conceivable that the Administration might have gone to smash. Thrones have been overturned for less heinous crimes against the people's rights.

For weeks reaching into months, the purchasers of Mr. Burleson's two cent stamp have noticed with surprise and growing anger that it is not the good old reliable two cent stamp to which they had become accustomed. The hue of the ink has changed but slightly, if at all; the mucilaginous coating on the reverse has undergone no marked depreciation in efficiency, but all the crispness and toughness of the texture of the stamp itself has disappeared. This means that an inferior quality of paper is now used, and the most casual inspection of one of Mr. Burleson's postage stamps shows that such is the case. The fibre is so slushy, the paper is so soft, the perforation is so poorly done, that it is a work of delicacy and caution to separate a sheet of these stamps into its component parts without destroying from two to forty of the one hundred units and thus contributing to the revenues of Mr. Burleson's department a considerable percentage of excess taxation for which the Government makes no return in postal service rendered.

It cannot be that Postmaster-General Burleson expects by such petty economies, by such impositions on the citizen-

NASSAU STAMP CO.

U. S. REVENUES FOR VERA CRUZ.

1st Lieut. WILLIS E. MILLS, 4th U. S. Infantry.

Upon the taking of Vera Cruz, April 21st, 1914, by the U. S. navy all government offices were closed and placed under guard of navy or marines. Immediately after the arrival of the United States expeditionary forces (5th Brigade, 2nd Division, U. S. Army) in Vera Cruz, April 28th, 1914, all local Mexican government offices were taken over by the military authorities, and officers from the army, navy or marine corps placed in charge. The functions of these various offices were carried on as nearly as possible in accordance with existing Mexican laws.

Among the various offices was one for the sale of revenue stamps. As the collection of the various revenues was to be continued by the U. S., for the Mexicans, and there were no U. S. stamps available, the Mexican stamps found in the stamp office were checked up, and the number necessary to make sales until June 30th were surcharged by the U. S. government officials. The surcharge used was "Gov. U. S. A." applied with a hand stamp. Purple and black surcharges are known.

The following varieties of stamps found in the offices were surcharged and sold:

Documentos, (for contracts, deeds, etc.), 1, 2, 3, 5, 10, 25, 50c, 1, 5, 10, 50, 100 pesos.

Federal (for collection of Federal tax), 1, 5, 25c, 1, 5, 10, 50, 100 pesos.

Renta Interior (ordinary internal revenue) 1, 2, 5, 10, 25, 50c, 1, 5, 10, 50, 100 pesos.

Hilazas Y Tejidos (fabrics), 1, 5, 20c, 1, 20, 100 pesos.

The Renta Interior, or "Comun" as it is commonly called, had been surcharged by the Mexicans for use as follows: Alcoholes (alcohol), Bebidas Importadas (imported drinks), Capitales (stocks and bonds), Vinos Y Licores (wines and liquors), Cervezas (beers) and Seguros (insurance).

All Mexican revenue stamps are surcharged with the district name of the district in which sold. When the stamp office was taken over those found in the salesroom had been surcharged "Vera Cruz" in addition to above surcharges, but those in the storeroom had not. When the supply in the salesroom was sold out, those taken from the storeroom were not given this surcharge, "Vera Cruz." This accounts for the three surcharges on some of the stamps. The actual number of these surcharged Mexican stamps sold I have been unable to ascertain.

The Mexican law requires the design of the revenue stamps to be changed on June 30th of each year. To meet this requirement a contract was made with the National Type and Paper Co. for the making of the necessary stamps for the year 1914-15. The Mexicans had the varieties of stamps shown above only and the U. S. made only two kinds (not including the cigar stamps). These were called "Comun" and "Federal", both varieties having talons. (The talon is a coupon, about one-half the size of the stamp proper, attached to the bottom. On certain classes of papers the talon is placed on the dealers' stub, and the stamp itself on the buyers' receipt.)

To meet requirements, the "Comun" stamp made by the U. S. was surcharged as follows: Alcoholes, Bebidas Importadas, Capitales, Vinos Y Licores, Cervezas, Hilazas Y Tejidos and Seguros.

Cigar, Cigarette and Tobacco stamps were at first surcharged "Gov. U. S. A." but later many were sold without this surcharge. The law did not require these stamps to be changed yearly, so only one new tobacco stamp was printed; that for boxes of 25 cigars. The supply of brown stamps for 100 gramme sacks of imported tobacco was about exhausted, so the small, green stamp for packages of native cigarettes was surcharged "100 Gramos. Tabaco Cernido y Rapé. Gov. U. S. A." with type in red.

Later the green stamp for 100 gramme sacks of native tobacco ran out, and again the small native cigarette stamp was surcharged, "National—100 Gramos. Tabaco Cernido Y Rapé Gov. U. S. A." with type in black.

The following is a close approximation of the number of stamps sold from July 1st to Nov. 19th, 1914, the date of the closing of the stamp office:—

MARKS STAMP CO. TORONTO, CANADA

Headquarters for Stamps of the U. S. and Its Colonies

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

33000; 1p, 27500; 5p, 5000; 10p, 3400; 100p, 60.

This does not include the surcharged varieties (Alcoholes, Bebidas Importadas, etc.) of the stamps made by the U. S. The number of these surcharged varieties sold I have been unable to ascertain.

The stamps made by the U. S. were on unwatermarked, wove paper. Of the values from 1c to 5c some were perforated, some rouletted, and some were combinations of these methods, both vertical and horizontal. From 10c to 1 peso I have seen only rouletted, and the 5 peso, perforated.

Prior to the departure of the U. S. troops from Vera Cruz, on Nov. 23rd, 1914, all stamps not actually sold to the trade were taken out and burned under the supervision of an officer from the U. S. Army. The surcharged Mexican stamps were burned shortly after June 30th, 1914.

THE ORIGIN OF "MAUVE."

D. D. Berolzheimer has in mind our Philatelic Dictionary and submits the following candidate for the same. This information is taken from "The Chemistry of the Coal Tar Dyes," by Irving W. Fay, New York, '11:—

Mauve (Perkins' Violet), has the unique distinction of being the first dye to be made from coal-tar products on a commercial scale. W. H. Perkins in 1856, discovered it and put it upon the market in a form soluble only in alcohol. This expensive solvent limited its use to the dyeing of the most costly of all fibres, silk. Mauve has been long superseded by other dyes save for English postage stamps, which were colored with this mauve until the close of Queen Victoria's reign.

DON'T.

Don't ask a dealer to send you stamps cataloguing 25c to $2.00 each, if you cannot afford to buy that quality.

Don't think your dealer a "Piker" if he cannot supply you with every stamp in the catalogue. No dealer can do that.

Don't keep that approval selection longer than six months. The dealer might want to send it to some one else.

Don't ask your stamp man how much the stamps of Philippine Islands are worth complete, or expect him to identify your stamps for you. He has consolidated his information bureau with ours, and has asked us to attend to those questions for him.

Don't write to every dealer in the WEEKLY for a selection, just to get the premiums. Buy your stamps with the money you would use for postage.

Don't think the dealer is trying to "skin" you if he makes a mistake. Remember he is nearly 80% human, and is liable to err.

Don't forget that nearly all the "worth while" dealers are soliciting your trade through this paper; so don't forget to watch their ads.

A NEW TWO-CENT STAMP COMING.

We publish a clipping from the New York Sun dealing with the current 2c stamp and roundly scoring it. The Third Assistant Postmaster General, A. M. Dockery, comes to the rescue with a letter to the editor of the Sun in which he says that the stamp is to be reformed by making the perforations closer together.

Following Mr. Dockery's communication is another from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing signed by director Joseph E. Ralph, and it is of sufficient interest for us to make a goodly quotation from it. It would seem to indicate that a new 2c stamp, new so far as perforations are concerned, will soon be a reality. We quote as follows:

"The editorial article complains that an inferior quality of paper is now used and that the most casual inspection of one of the stamps would show this to be the case as 'the fibre is so slushy, the paper is so soft, the perforation is so poorly done, that it is a work of delicacy and caution to separate a sheet of stamps into its component parts without destroying from two to forty of the one hundred units.'

It is no doubt true that in attempting to separate the stamps the difficulty encountered would lead one to believe that the fault is due to inferior paper, but this is not so, as the standard quality has been fully maintained and the paper now in use is equal, if not superior, to any heretofore used.

The fact is that for many years the stamps were perforated with the perforations close enough together to permit of the stamps being readily separated without mutilating them, but as the automatic stamp vending machinery was developed and stamp affixing machines were devised it was found necessary to modify the style of perforating to meet the needs of these machines and the perforations were consequently placed further apart. This made the paper strong along the line of perforation than in the printed part of the stamp in many cases, and as a result, while the stamps were perfectly adapted for the mechanism of the vending machines, they gave difficulty to consumers who used them in sheets. By direction of the Postmaster-General steps have been taken to remedy this defect by making a closer perforation, which it is believed will entirely obviate any cause for complaint.

While the article states with regard to the two cent stamps that the hue of the ink is changed but slightly, if at all, I would add as pertaining to this subject that it would not have been surprising if the criticism of the stamp had referred entirely to the color, as it is a fact that the stamps that have been issued for the past several months have been of various shades of red, in some cases so decidedly different from the standard that it has been expected that some public criticism would be made regarding it. This variation is due to the fact that the bases of many of the colors used in printing are manufactured in Germany and since the war began it has been very difficult to procure sufficient supplies of regular colors to maintain the standard colors of the stamps. Fortunately by quick action at the beginning of the war in procuring as large supplies as possible it has been practicable to maintain an approximation to the standard, but there is a possibility that if the war should continue for a considerably longer period it may be necessary to change the shade of this color entirely."

Next January, the WEEKLY will celebrate its quarter centennial of publishing activities. It is needless to say that we shall properly celebrate the event. Just now, suggestions are wanted, in the rough, for a cover design, and we will pay $5.00 for the best one that comes to hand by July 20, providing it be accepted for cover purposes. Our only suggestion is that it be purely philatelic and one following the lines of the cover of May 29 would be very acceptable.

KANSAS CITY CELEBRATES.

By BILL BLOSS.

The writer was much pleased to discover on his arrival in Kansas City that the collectors there were quite as active as in other cities, and much more so than in many places we have visited.

It is only within the last two years that Kansas City has had an organized philatelic society. Several societies have been organized in the past, but have gone the way of so many stamp clubs and papers. The present organization is built to stay, and is growing larger every month. The members are firm in their intention to give Kansas City a place in the philatelic sun.

Collecting in K. C. is much more difficult than in New York or Chicago, for the reason that there are fewer dealers' stocks to draw upon, and also during the summer months, the balmy breezes drive all thoughts of stamps from the collectors' minds. In this city of beautiful homes there are too many things to do on a fine evening to devote much time to philately. Then only the most ardent collectors can resist the call of the boulevard and the smell of the gasoline on these fine evenings. Of course, on the rainy evenings, everyone gets out the album and mounts the new specimens or re-mounts the old.

United States is perhaps "collected stronger" in K. C. than in the other cities. Out of the entire membership of the society, it is safe to say that 75% are U. S. enthusiasts, and a good portion of the remaining 25% are interested, though they collect other countries. Many of the collectors have spent no little time in studying their stamps and even the beginners seem to be well versed in the various phases of our country's stamps.

There is a spirit of good fellowship behind the society that is too often missing in organizations of this nature. The financial side of philately does not enter into their transactions, and instead of each member working for himself, they are united and working for the common cause, to elevate collecting in their city and to make the hobby more pleasant for each other. If collectors in cities not having societies could know of the benefits to be gained from organizations of this order, there would be numerous new societies started at once. No matter if the membership is only a half dozen, those collectors can profit from their experience in working together.

On Saturday evening, June 19th, Mr. William C. Michaels invited the entire society, and the writer, to his beautiful home at Sunset Hill, and a most enjoyable evening was had. Mr. Michaels exhibited his fine collection of United States stamps, contained in nine volumes very attractively "written up," and explained the points of interest. His collection is claimed to be the finest in the city, and contains an array of early covers, cancellations, oddities, and choice philatelic pieces sufficient to gladden the heart of the most skeptical collector.

Not only has Kansas City a nest of live collectors, and a healthy philatelic society, but also she has the Kansas City Stamp & Coin Company, a regular stamp shop, presided over by Mr. Sidney H. Barnes, a collector of experience, and a gentleman of most pleasing personality. Mr. Barnes is secretary of the philatelic society, and a most enthusiastic member. He is popular with the collectors for the reason that he always has the latch string out and is "at home" every time they call.

Kansas City is famous now for the "Kansas City roulettes." The story of these stamps has been published several times and needs no repeating. The stamps are an authentic issue of the Post Office here, and the limited supply was sold entirely without speculation to the public. Outside of the collections of several members, and one or two very limited quantities held by Mr. Barnes and local collectors, there are none of the stamps available here. However, as it is possible to "fake" a roulette of this kind, it is advisable that collectors only purchase the stamps bearing the O. K. of a reputable dealer and sold with a copy of the affidavit.

A great many collectors will be traveling through the west this summer and I can assure those contemplating a stop-over in Kansas City that the local collectors will give them a royal welcome. Make it a point to go west through Kansas City and get acquainted with the fellows out here. It will be worth while.

I must again request the readers to save all inquiries until my return to Chicago in the fall. I am not at present situated to handle the volume of correspondence involved, and cannot answer any letters, either through the paper or privately. This will also apply to letters received by me in the past three weeks, which I will hold until my return, at which time I will be at the disposal of the readers and will be glad to hear from everyone.

SALE OF NEW ENGLAND STAMP CO.

Just as we go to press, we learn that the old established business of the New England Stamp Co. of this city has changed hands. Messrs. Batchelder and Putney have both retired and the general management of the business has fallen upon the shoulders of James H. Lyons, who has been long employed by the firm.

Mr. Lyons will be remembered as the proprietor of the Colonial Stamp Co. and for years the Boston representative of the Weekly Philatelic Era. He understands the stamp market as few men know it and his lifelong acquaintance with stamps makes him admirably fitted for the great responsibility placed upon him. The firm will continue to be represented in our advertising columns.

OUR VACATION TRIP ITINERARY.

We expect to leave Boston, Thursday, July 28, and journey direct to Williams, Ariz., where we desire to enjoy for a few days the grandeur of the Grand Canon of the Colorado.

We shall spend Thursday, Aug. 5, or Friday, Aug. 6, at San Diego, Cal., and the four following days in Los Angeles and Pasadena. Here we expect to live a life more strenuous than even the office life of managing editor of a stamp paper.

We shall reach San Francisco, Wednesday, Aug. 11, and remain there through the 18th, when we shall leave for Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek. We shall reach Chicago, Sunday, Aug. 22, and spend Tuesday, Aug. 24, in Fulton, N. Y.

We expect to reach home Aug. 26.
THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Proposed—The Director General of the Pan-American Union, Washington, John Barrett, has received a letter from the President of the Cincinnati Board of Trade that gave him a start of surprise, glad or sad, we cannot say exactly which. The letter conveys a suggestion not originating with the President of the B. of T. but enthusiastically relayed by him. The idea is that a series of postage stamps be adopted and in this connection, the president aforesaid well says: "This is the seventy-fifth anniversary of the use of postage stamps and would be an appropriate year in which to inaugurate this new plan." For the news, we are indebted to the Cincinnati Enquirer of June 24th, which says further that the letter followed a suggestion from Mr. C. A. Aerts, "who considers that one of the most effective means of building up friendly relations between the United States and South American republics, especially at this time, would be to inaugurate a Pan-American postage stamp of different denominations to be used exclusively on business between the United States and South and Central American countries and also between these countries. stamps would be of different denominations, from two cents to one dollar, so that postage stamps might be sent in payment of small accounts."

Just Like This—The sponsors of the suggestion are not content merely to present the plan so baldly that the mind of the postal chief cannot grasp it, but as showing that they have pondered the subject and that it is not a dream-child, they offer the suggestion that the head on the postage stamp be that of "one of the popular heroes of each country, such as Washington, Bolivar, etc. The stamp might be made a trifle larger than the ordinary postage stamp; namely, the same size as souvenir postage stamps, which are issued from time to time and might be of a distinctive color." Somebody is always taking the joy out of life for the post office department; and it would prove highly diverting, if not elevating, to hear the P. O. D. express itself on the idea that is so pleasantly conveyed to it. Yet who knows what eventually will result from a proposal of this kind? We do not.

Another Carrier—We have secured details of the operation of a second express post that was in existence between the states of the north and of the south as a letter-carrying institution for some time after the cessation of the mails between the two sections. The company was known as the American Letter Express Company, and as in the case of the Adams' Express Company, the distributing office was at Louisville, Ky. The American Letter Express Company was in business as early as June, 1861, and it was understood that its methods of the interchange of mails was not disapproved of by the postmaster general at the time of its earlier activities. Later, its operations were forbidden; and although for a period it was regarded as a convenience for and a benefit to the people of both north and south and as a consequence must have received no little patronage we have not seen any envelope with markings that showed it had been carried by the American Letter Express Company. The instructions of the company for postal intercourse with the south were based on the following lines. The letter, enclosed in a three cent stamped envelope of the United States bearing an address in the secession states, was enclosed in another envelope with the ordinary stamp on it, directed to the American Letter Express Company, at Louisville, Kentucky. At the same time twenty cents' worth of U. S. stamps were enclosed out of which the company paid the postage, five or ten cents, as the case may have been, to the office within the confederacy; and the rest of the stamps was retained as a fee by the express company. It may be added that by law express companies were permitted to carry letters only when they were enclosed in U. S. stamped envelopes.

No Trifling, Please—A story in the Saturday Evening Post of July 1st is marked by a reference to stamp collecting. A colloquy is indulged in by a doctor, specializing in nerve diseases and a splenetic old American whose irritability is charged against "the national bane," dyspepsia. Doc prescribed that crabbed Croesus take up a hobby and suggested the one in which he was interested, "scarabs." "What are scarabs?" erupted the sufferer. "Egyptian hieroglyphs," explained the doctor. "What are Egyptian hieroglyphs?" pressed the pestiferous one. Hereupon, the doctor observes to himself "whether it would have not been better to advise Mr. Peters to collect postage stamps." We commend the doctor for advising a hobby for the victims of nervous and other diseases but we insist that he show a respectful attitude towards stamp collecting. We shall not invite any comparison, dispensing on this occasion with the well-known "invidious," between scarabs and stamps but we would have doc know that stamps can hold their heads up in the most select or learned society. Vide our ordinary catalogues, now a thousand pages in extent.

Those Were The Days—In a recent number of Harper's Weekly, we read in the study of "The Heart of a Boy" that "in the winter" among other things, they (the boys of his community) "traded stamps." We can appreciate this simple statement and finally, if any collector now turned forty who had an album as a boy cannot enter into the spirit of it, we miss our guess. Do you remember that cold, elfin night in December, 1885, when little Willie Whiffet brought his album and duplicates to your home at the invitation of your mother and how you had a trading bee in the cosy parlor under the approving eyes of your parents. You were happy as you thought that you were getting the better of Willie in the trade, and just as Willie was about to depart, your mother brought out the four-layer White Mountain cake.

Literature Sale Catalogue—The sale catalogue of the Alfred Smith Philatelic Library has reached its fifth part; in it the periodicals, Brazil to Great Britain, are listed. In Canada, we find a price of five pounds attached to the Stamp Collector's Monthly Gazette of St. John, New Brunswick, Volumes I-II (1865-67) complete. Volume I of the Stamp Argus was published likewise at St. John in 1865; and these two journals are the earliest published in Canada. We find that Bogota, Colombian Republic is credited with three different periodicals, the first of which, Heraldo Filatelico, was published in 1886. The Coleccionista of Bogota published 1904-1906 was an excellent paper and it was the only philatelic publication that we remember ever having received from Colombian Republic. Brazil and Chile have both produced stamp papers of merit somewhat freely and Costa Rica has been represented by several well-known journals.

THE STAMPS OF GERMANY.

THE SEVENTH ISSUE.

In 1889, stamps of a new design appeared, the 10pf being issued on October 1st, and the others shortly afterwards, all being on sale before the end of November. In several cases, too, the colors were changed, this probably being due to a more rigid adherence to Postal Union regulations. The 3 and 5 pfennig stamps were alike in design and show a large, uncolored numeral, with PFENNIG curved below, on an upright oval of solid color. An Imperial crown surmounts the oval, REICHSPOST is on a straight label at the base, while the balance of the design consists of elaborate ornamentation. The 10, 20, 25 and 50pf are all alike in design and show the Arms on a circle in the center with REICHSPOST on a straight tablet above and the numerals of value at the base with "PF" on each side of these on small scrolls. The sides are ornamented, though not so heavily as in the lower values. It should be noted that the small shield shown on the eagle's breast is nearly as tiny as that on the first issue which was rejected as heraldically incorrect.

All the stamps of this series were surface printed—probably on the score of expense—and Mr. Westoby describes the method of their manufacture as follows:—

Fifty impressions are struck in lead by a fly-press from the original die, and after being clamped together in five rows of ten, are put into a bath, and copper deposited on them to the thickness of 1 1/2 mm. (1/16 inch). This plate serves as a matrix for making the printing plates by the electro process, each plate consisting, therefore, of fifty stamps; and when it has been steeled (that is, after a film of steel has been deposited on its surface), and backed up with type-metal to the necessary thickness, it is fit for printing.

The sheets contain 400 stamps, divided into four panes of 100 each, arranged two and two, and each pane is subdivided by a space of 5 mm. into two portions of fifty each, so that each sheet of stamps measures about 21 3/4 inches deep by 18 3/4 inches wide.

The paper as received from the mills is in rolls of the width of two sheets. On one side is a centimetre scale, each centimetre being marked on the margin by a violet line about 6 mm. long, while on the other margin is the word REICHSDRUCH-

EREI (Imperial Printing Office) in short, wide capitals, about 7/8 in. apart, so that when the paper is cut down the middle, either the scale or the word, appears on the outside margin of each sheet. The gumming is done before the paper is cut into sheets by passing it under a felt roll kept charged with liquid gum; it is then carried forward on laths, fixed to an endless chain, into the drying room, which is heated by steam pipes. After drying, it is again wound onto a drum, smoothed, and cut into sheets. . . . In the printing, on the sides and bottom of each pane, is a marginal border of lines, 2 mm. long, and about thirteen of them to each 5 mm., with the same object as what are called Jubilee lines in the English stamps, and at the top, over each vertical row of ten is printed the price. Thus, in a pane of 100 stamps of 3 pfennig, over the first vertical row is 0.30, over the second 0.60, and so on to 3.00.

After the printing, the sheet is divided horizontally, each half sheet being 10 1/2 in. deep by 18 1/4 in. wide. They are then perforated by comb-machines in layers of six, the perforation commencing from the side of the stamps, and not from the top or bottom, as in England. Four perforating machines perforate 60,000 of these half-sheets per day.

As a safeguard against counterfeiting, the stamps were provided with secret marks and again I am indebted to Mr. Westoby for a description of these, viz:—

From the commencement of the series down to 1892 the impression was on white wove paper, on the back of which horizontal bars were printed with phenolphthalein, which were quite invisible until acted upon by certain chemicals. Since 1892, the sheets have been printed on the face, with a design, repeated as is requisite, consisting of a crown in the upper left, and a posthorn in the lower right, while in the upper right and lower left are the Arms. This, also, is printed with phenolphthalein, which, from its name, we conclude to be a compound of phenol and a hydrocarbon.

But, notwithstanding these secret impressions, the 10pf was extensively counterfeited on at least two occasions. The first of these forgeries was discovered early in 1891, as shown by the following paragraph from one of the London newspapers of January 30th in that year:—

COUNTERFEIT STAMPS IN GERMANY.

Berlin, January 29th.—Great curiosity has of late been aroused, on account of letters bearing ten-pfennig stamps invariably arriving behind time. It now appears that the delay was occasioned by the fact that the postal authorities were examining all stamps of that denomination with a view to discovering the manufacturers of a large quantity of counterfeit stamps, estimated at ten millions, known to be in circulation. The counterfeits are almost perfect fac-similes of the genuine stamps, and only show a slight faultiness in the perforation. The counterfeits have now been discovered to be Messrs. Bauer Brothers, lithographers, of Hoechst, the imperfect perforating machine being found upon their premises.

The second forgery was made in 1895, and, by all accounts, was by no means a clever one. It is described in the Monthly Journal for February, 1896, as follows:—

Last November, forged stamps of the 10 pfennig denomination were discovered at Ridorf, one of the suburbs of Berlin. They were manufactured by a printer, Julius Rose, who has been arrested. The forgeries are made by lithography instead of typography, and, have therefore, a washy appearance. They lack the invisible background of eagles, post-horns, and crowns, which is the characteristic of the genuine stamps now in circulation; besides, the perforation is 10 1/2, instead of 13 1/2 by 14 1/2, and the gum is replaced by glue. The forgeries being so easily detected, no great number of them got into circulation.

Until April 1st, 1900, certain private postal institutions carried town or drop-letters and printed matter in some towns of Germany cheaper than the Imperial administration. At the date mentioned a law was passed suppressing these institutions; but as a concession to the public the postal rates were modified and among other rates the fee on postcards and printed matter weighing up to 50gr was reduced to 2 pfennig within the limits of two contiguous districts. This made the issue of a new value necessary and 2pf stamps were placed on sale on the day the new regulations came into force. They are similar in design to the 3 and 5pf values of the series.

As all values except the 2pf were current for eleven years many printings took place and shade varieties are fairly numerous.

The 3, 10, 25 and 50 pfennig are known imperforate and though used copies exist it is not believed that any were ever sold from a post-office in this condition. It is said that in 1889 a few sheets entirely imperforate were received by the chief Post-office in Berlin from the printing office and these were handed over to the Postal Museum. The Museum authorities sold a number of these to obtain funds for adding to its collection of postage stamps and some thus sold were passed through the mail by those collectors who wanted even errors of this kind used.

LIST OF B'S WANTED.

We are indebted to several of our readers for lists sent in connection with our Philatelic Dictionary soon to be commenced in the WEEKLY. Awards will be made in the very near future.

We would now like lists of B's and our subscribers are requested to send in lists of such philatelic words or terms commencing with the letter B that should properly be included in such a dictionary. Study your stamps and let us know the result of your labors. All lists must be in by July 15.

THE NEED OF A. P. S. PROXIES.

In recent years it has been a source of great concern to the official board of the A. P. S. that the members of the Society have not given proper consideration to the matter of convention proxies. This year every member is earnestly requested to delegate someone to vote their proxy in case of inability to attend. The managing editor of the WEEKLY will be pleased to serve in this capacity. Address him, Willard O. Wylie, Beverly, Mass. Important business may be blocked by lack of proper representation.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—W. A. Langdon has shown us a strip of 12 stamps, 2x6, which bears plate No. 6568, and also to the right, "Coil Stamps," the latter in large Gothic letters, the two words measuring 5x60 mm. Mr. Langdon says these are being issued in sheet form with this "Coil Stamps" imprint.

S. E. Colman submits for our inspection a block of four 2c stamps with the new 10 3/4 perforation. It is designed to remedy the difficulties that have been experienced in having a perforation that would either break too easily or as in the case of the perf. 10 be difficult of separation.

E. E. Wells sends us a copy of the 75c parcel post stamp, which has a large blotch, evidently caused by a scrap of paper falling on the plate while printing, which covers parts of the "E" and "N" in "Cents."

AUSTRALIA.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles a new 1d envelope with portrait of King George.

Envelope.

1d carmine.

BOSNIA.—Otto Weismann informs us that the 30h, 35h, 40h, 45h, 50h, 72h and 1k, 2k, 3k, 5k and 10k values of the 1912 set have been overprinted "K u K Feldpost" like the other values previously reported.

CANADA.—Mrs. Oughtred kindly sends us a specimen of the 3c war tax stamp, green, in the oblong rectangular shape uniform with the 1c, 2c, 5c and 10c values previously chronicled. Mrs. Oughtred writes that she has also seen the 13c rose in the same design.

Revenue Stamp.

3c green.

GREAT BRITAIN.—According to the Post Office Circular the series of embossed postage stamps, bearing the portrait of King George, has now been completed by the introduction of stamps at the following rates: 1 1/2d, 2 1/2d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 10d, 1s. The colour of each resembles that of the adhesive stamp of the same denomination. The new stamps will not be used at present on any stationery issued for sale at Post Offices, but only on private stationery impressed with postage stamps by the Inland Revenue Department. Telegram forms bearing 6d and 10d stamps of the new pattern will be issued to Post Offices later.

HONDURAS.—George A. d'Hemecourt reports the 10c brown of the current lithographed series has been surcharged "5 Cent" in black.

Provisional Adhesive.

"5 Cent" on 10c brown.

INDIA.—According to Ewen's Weekly there appears to have been several settings of the overprint in use at the same time, and applied at convenience without discrimination to any of the first nine denominations of the "I. E. F." stamps. This is distinguishable by the defective letters showing in relative positions on several different values, and not on other sheets of same denominations.

The most interesting error found is the double stop after "I. E. F.", found on the 2a and 3a. The error no stop after "I. E. F." is more plentiful and found on six of the values: 1/4a, 1a, 2a, 3a, 8a and 12a.

The most prominent varieties in the letters are: Thick "I" and joined angles of "EI" which appear on the 1a, 2a and 3a values, and contained in the same blocks of six, as the error double stop after "F."; no foot stroke to "I", 1/2a; large top and short foot stroke to "I", 1r. Slightly defective or battered letters are found on all ten values.

Hyderabad.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles two values in a new series of stamps for this state, the inscription reading "Post and Receipt."

Adhesives.

1/2a green.
1a red.

ITALY.—According to the London Telegraph, Italy has marked its entry into the war by some postal issues. A 10c envelope has been produced, intended exclusively for correspondence addressed to the Italian army. It is a large, stone-coloured envelope, with the impression of the 10c stamp of 1906 in the upper right corner, and the heading at top, "R. Esercito Italiano" (Royal Italian Army).

Two official postcards have also been issued. These have no denomination expressed upon them. One is for the use of the army, and bears the inscription, "Correspondenza del R. Esercito Italiano" (Correspondence of the Royal Italian Army), and in the upper right-hand corner is a representation of the Italian Coat of Arms. The size and style of the card resembles the ordinary postcards for use by the public.

The second kind of card (which measures 137 1/2 mm by 90 mm), as the inscription, "R. Marina" (Royal Navy), shows, is intended to serve for the correspondence of sailors on service with the Italian Fleet.

A double postcard of the face value 15 centesimi (7 1/2 + 7 1/2c) has been issued for the Croce Rossa Italiana (Italian Red Cross). Each part bears an effigy of the late King Humbert. On the first part in addition to the portrait are the Italian Arms, and the printed address "Alla Presidenza della Croce Rossa Italiana, Rome." The other part has in place of the arms the Geneva Cross, with the inscription "Convenzione di Ginevra 22 Agosto 1864." The use of this double card is for writing inquiries to the Red Cross on the subject of wounded, missing, or captured soldiers, the second part being used by the society for the reply.

NEW BRITAIN.—German New Guinea, being now a British possession, the entire of said colony had to be surcharged accordingly. Mr. Schachne has shown us the provisional postal cards, all having the ship stamp and the surcharge consists of two lines in black: "G. R. I." on the first line and the denomination in British currency below.

Post Cards.

- "2 pence" on 10pf hand stamped "Sold at 1d."
- "1 penny" on 5pf divided face.
- "1 penny" on 5pf first half of reply card.
- "1 penny" on 5pf second half of reply card.
- "2 pence" on 10pf.
- "2 pence" on 10pf first half of reply card.
- "2 pence" on 10pf second half of reply card.

ST. VINCENT.—Ewen's Weekly says: "On examining the intact sheets of 120 stamps amongst supplies of the provisional ONE PENNY on 1sh, we found it impossible to determine what number of stamps may have been surcharged at an operation, as no two sheets were similar or showed the different measurements in spacing of overprint in relative positions or adjacent lines. The spacing between the two lines varies from 6 1/2 mm. to 10 mm. Those measuring 7, 7 1/2, 8 and 8 1/2 mm.

"Stamps of Cook Islands" PRICE 25c

BY B. W. H. POOLE

A comprehensive handbook, well written, finely illustrated and typographically a handsome production.

McKeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.

average near equal quantities and total 110 to 114 on a sheet. The extremes 6 1/2 mm. or 9 to 10 mm. are very scarce. In comparing two particular sheets, one shows two 6 1/2 mm., four 9 1/2 mm. and four 10 mm., the other three of 6 1/2 mm. and none of 9 1/2 or 10 mm.

"Other interesting varieties found in the surcharge are: Long type "N" of 'ONE'; Thin type 'PE' of 'PENNY'; Double 'PE' of 'PENNY'; Long type 'NN' of 'PENNY.' The varieties are repeated in different positions on different sheets, but all do not appear on all sheets.

"Very limited numbers have so far been placed on the market and the local speculators, who bought out and cornered the issue, have apparently now decided to run the price considerably higher than first quoted. Copies postally used at date of issue, January 30, 1915, are certainly scarce, the speculators having kept their holdings, as acquired, in mint condition."

TOGO.—The stamps of Gold Coast have now been over-printed for use in the captured German colony of Togoland. The over-print is in small ordinary type, reading in three lines "TOGO — ANGLO - FRENCH — OCCUPATION." The over-printing is done at Accra, and that there is a full series, comprising the following denominations: 1/2d, 1d, 2d, 2 1/2d, 3d, 6d, 1s, 2s, 2s 6d, 5s, 10s and £1. The 3d and 5s values are the surface-coloured paper varieties of the Gold Coast stamps.

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the widespread scattering of approval selections.

A 10 3/4 PERF. ISSUED.

After wrestling with the proposition of producing a perforation that shall satisfy the general public as well as the manufacturers of stamp coils, the Department has evolved a new perforation measuring 10 3/4. We are indebted to S. E. Colman for specimens of the 2c value. Mr. Colman advises us that it is very doubtful whether the 50c regular issue and 10c Panama-Pacific will ever appear perforated 10. The P. O. Department has not as yet decided that the new perforation shall be permanent and it is evidently being given a try-out.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322, Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P.M.

June 15, 1915.

The 338th (regular meeting) of the Society was called to order by Pres. Carpenter at 8.10 p. m. Mr. A. H. Hall was elected to membership. The committee appointed to purchase a lantern reported a substantial subscription for this purpose and hope that every member will respond. There was an auction sale during which a number of lots were sold for the benefit of the Society's collection, the auctioneer, Mr. Lyons, donating his entire commission to the same. Mr. Tuttle brought his collection of Chinese stamps to the meeting, showing a great variety of cancellations, etc. There were 30 members present, the meeting adjourning at 10.15 p. m.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—C. W. Kissinger, president of the S. P. A., was one of the party visiting the San Francisco Exposition on the Shriner's Special.

—H. S. Dickey of Newton, Kans., calls our attention to the fact that there is a lengthy stamp story in the July number of the Black Cat Magazine and "a good one, too, at that." Mr. Dickey adds: "See the advertising notice that this magazine puts on its front cover page and read the story. It's a good kind of stamp publicity for outside publications to give our hobby."

—L. A. Beebe, Yonkers, N. Y., is engaged in the organization of a Poster Stamp Exchange, and will be glad to hear from interested parties.

—Arc. Olivier submits for our inspection a specimen of the new 2c red Canada post card chronicled two weeks ago. He also advises us that the design of the 1c and 2c King George issued in book form is larger than that found upon the regular stamp, the variations extending from 1/4 to 3/4 of a millimetre. These differences in measurement have in the past been held to indicate difference in the shrinkage of the paper. In addition to the 1, 2, and 5c of the new revenue set, the 10c has appeared in olive green, 25c in red and the 50c in dark brown.

—Recently a note appeared in the WEEKLY asking for the present address of Glen B. Frentz. He can be found at Box 22, Sta. A, San Antonio, Tex.

—The Co-Operative Exchange, 1496 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., is taking steps to procure judgment against the McGraw Stamp Co., of Detroit, Mich., and would like the names of any dealers to whom the firm owes money.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Z. Dworkowski; D. D. Berolzheimer, Victor G. Loly, P. G. Moore (2), Hugo Kuenstler (4), and H. Kessler Smith, Jr.

—The Marks Stamp Co., Toronto, Canada, has purchased the stock of C. H. Holden, Detroit, Mich.

—W. H. Suydam of Highwood, N. J., would like to hear from dealers who have become acquainted with G. H. Spooner, formerly of Revere, Mass., and who can give him his present address. Letters written his references are returned unclaimed.

—Mr. Zoss, Salt Lake City, Utah, will learn something to his advantage by sending his correct address to Herman Schmidt, 60 Nassau St., New York.

—The U. S. Commerce Reports just at hand state that in view of the war in Europe the Chinese Ministry of Finance has decided that postage stamps be manufactured and printed by the Government Engraving Bureau at Peking.

—The American Medical Association held a Health Conservation Day at the Exposition Auditorium, San Francisco, June 23. We notice that Dr. John M. Holt of Everybody's Philatelist gave a talk on "Dysentery".

—F. E. Prohaska, 121 Hutton St., Jersey City, N. J., would like to hear from dealers who can correspond with him to advantage in connection with one Thurlow of Wheeling, W. Va. and C. Hall, Chicago, Ill.

—"Upon reading Mr. Cabeen's splendid write up of the Venezuela, 1911, issue, I went through my duplicates in search of the two designs of the 25c and 50c. It may be of interest to you and Mr. Cabeen to know that I also found the 15c in both designs. He states: 'The 25c and 50c are found in this new design and it is improbable that the other values were issued.'—WM. H. CAMP.

NEW TOGOS.

New provisionals have been issued for use in Togo. They consist of the Gold Coast set from 1/2 penny to 20 shillings, surcharged in three lines TOGO—ANGLO-FRENCH—OCCUPATION. According to the Stamp Lover, the overprinting is done at Accra and an interesting feature in connection with this

N. P. S. CONVENTION.

July 22, 23, 24, 1915, the National Philatelic Society will hold its third annual convention in New York City. This is the first stamp convention to be held in New York in fifteen years, and from reports received the attendance will be the largest ever seen in New York at a convention of this kind. The committee on arrangements has met several times to formulate plans to entertain the visiting members. The convention will be called to order July 22, 8 P. M., in the large ball room of the Aschenbroedel Hall, 144 East 86th St. On July 24, the visiting members will be the guests of the N. Y. Ph. Ex. Soc. on a trip to Coney Island, Luna Park, etc., in two special cars.

THE LOST VOICE.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

I had just finished tidying up in the two rooms and the patio of the tent-house when Frevor Moore swung from his horse and headed for the hammock. "Oh! come with me and I will do thee good!" he chanted, gleefully, as we clasped hands.

"Thank you, no: I've been done twice this morning, and a third time will sure make me peevish."

We sat in the shade while Moore listened to the process, all of which shall be another story, "spoiled in the tellin'," as Jimmy O' would say.

"There will be a gathering o' the clans this morning," said Moore, when he was done laughing. "Jimmy O' will arrive, eventually, with Eddy Fyne, and when the day gets more feverish Johnny Williams will amble in on that pinto of his. You'll love Johnny. He is a college man who has sloughed his culture and talks Western as if he were to the manner born. It's the same thing with Jimmy O'. That boy is an undergraduate of a fresh-water college. In spots, you will recognize the culture he can't suppress. Johnny is different,—and, by the way; you're Ann Arbor born, and should know him or his people."

I raked my memory, but I could not recall the name, strive as I would.

We sat in the patio the allotted time. Jimmy and Eddy Fyne were late. When they arrived, they tied their weary horses to the ground, and Jimmy O' began at once his usual monologue, where, evidently, he had left off pouring it into Eddy's unheeding ears:

"And say! He sure can sing! Why, that there Campanari who pulls 'em on their feet at the May Festivals can't hold a candle to him. No, sir. First time I ever heard 'im I sat on a rock an' wept real tears—me, Jimmy O'. It was at a Mexican kid's funeral. No one there but the kid's father an' mother an' sister an' Eddy here an' me."

"Me, too—I turned my back," as-severated Eddy, shamefacedly.

"And who," broke in Moore, "who may it be that has made Campanari a back number?"

"Johnny—Johnny Williams. An' while we wait, might I read somethin' fresh and startlin' in the Chiny sur-charge column—or is it Greece today? or Montenegro?"

Jimmy rummaged among my philatelic papers and dug up his favorite. Eddy Fyne promptly fell asleep with a prehistoric metate for a pillow. Moore looked quizzically upon the somnolent Eddy, the literary Jimmy, and then sought solace in a long draught from the gourd at the olla. Then he lighted his pipe, and blew smoke rings till the air was full of them.

It was past noon when Eddy woke up, and Moore put away his pipe as Jimmy O' finished the last "ad" on the last page. Then we had lunch, the incomparable Eddy acting as cook and waiter. The siesta followed, and in mid-afternoon, when all were refreshed I dragged forth the phonograph.

Let it be known that the phonograph is another story, but I'll tell it here, in part. It was camp property, once, held in common, to which a bunch of diverse tastes had contributed cylinders. You might hear the raucous voice of a ballad-singer, or the wondrous notes of a grand opera star; coarseness and crudeness or fineness and finish; all were here, all dependent upon the taste of the record-buyer.

I wound and rewound the machine. Then finally we began the really excellent records. "Il Trovatore" was the first, and the galaxy lengthened with the day. When the last was ended, I looked at Jimmy O'. His face was a study. It was the surprise of my life,—the face of a man who knew music and loved it and who, I felt in my heart, would have his stained soul in it and die content.

Jimmy came to me at once and thanked me in a voice and with a manner I would never have associated with the Jimmy O' of a few hours ago. It was a new Jimmy O'—for five minutes. Then he broke the spell:

"Say! That sure fetched me. Haven't heard music like that these last six years."

Then Jimmy dragged forth the last WEEKLY, and began to study the small "ads" all over again.

A rush, a clatter, and a "yip! yip! yip!" foretold the arrival of Johnny Williams.

As host, I hastened to the tie-rail. The arrival was off his horse, and just turning toward me. The profile! I spoke the name (not Johnny Williams) of a once very dear friend who had gone out of my life utterly. It was the man himself as I knew him twenty-five years previous—and this man before me was not a day older. This fact came full force as I apologized and led the way back to the patio.

The friend, I recalled, had a voice. He sang for the delectation of his friends, then in Glee Club. Before leaving college, he married a girl student in the School of Music. I left the old home. Next I heard of them in vaudeville, she as violinist, he as baritone soloist. When they were in New Orleans, the fever struck, and they went out together.

The voice of Jimmy O' recalled me from my reverie.

"An' when you sun sinks to his rest, Johnny, me an' you an' Eddy will show that phonograph that it aint all the music in the world."

This was the nearest to self-praise I had ever heard from Jimmy O', and I knew he never was far off the trail.

The sun touched the horizon, purpling the peaks, sank, and as the after-glow began to fade, the silence fell upon us.

Jimmy O' stood by Johnny, who leaned lightly and alertly against the post of the patio. Eddy lounged nearby. Upon the soft summer air there fell unheralded a breathy note, the "Toreador," followed by the song in purest Spanish. I have heard Campanari, but never like that! It was the sweetest, richest, deepest, fullest baritone God ever put in mortal body! And from a cowboy at $45 a month! Why, he might be earning twice that sum in a half hour! The song ended, and again silence fell.

Then Jimmy O' started a cowboy song, in which Eddy and Johnny joined. Eddy had a fair bass, and Jimmy a sweet tenor which he would shift to soprano when the mood pleased him. Then Jimmy imitated a duet, tenor and soprano, which was funny as could be and surely would have been a hit in vaudeville.

An hour or so of song, then the silence fell again. Johnny finally broke it; "We'd best be going." I begged one more song. It was his choice, but one I knew full well—and as the notes of "Lead, Kindly Light" rose and soared and died away, I was transported. It was her song, and his—sung many a night in the Athens of the West, on the old campus. And oh, the mist in the eyes,—the catch in the throat.

"That was my mother's favorite—and my father's," said Johnny, as he leaned from his horse to say good-bye. "You—you called me by his name. He wanted me to forget it. I use his mother's maiden name, now, until I come into my own."

Then he rode away,—rode away—"into his own!"

Moore looked after the three friends as they disappeared into the dark.

"Poor chap! He'll never sing like that again—and he knows it. And the 'glory that was Greece' is denied him, even as 'the grandeur that was Rome' can never be his except in dreams. Poor pariah! Sweetness and light are his lode-stars,—his reward ashes and myrrh. He has an incurable disease of the vocal chords, which, at times, causes him wholly to lose his voice. Then it comes back again, and his song is heavenly. Each time the loss is greater, and on the return his song grows sweeter. But—tonight!"

I thought I caught sight of a tear in Moore's eye. The slow sound of hoof-beats came to our ears.

It was the saddest man's face I have ever seen,—the face of a man stricken,—which confronted us as, into the light of a hastily ignited candle, Jimmy O' and Eddy Fyne supported the figure of Johnny Williams. From his lips a stream of crimson flowed steadily as the face grew whiter. We laid him upon my cot and succeeded finally in staunching the ebb of the life stream.

* * * * *

It was a fortnight before Johnny Williams was able to be about. Tender nursing by his friends was responsible for that. Another fortnight and he was fit as of old, but his singing voice was gone utterly. Johnny was the cheerfulest of the five, however. Jimmy O's heart seemed broken, and his vein of humor sealed.

It was Jimmy O' who, the day the four started for Moore's ranch brought forth the stamp collection referred to in a previous history, and, putting it in Johnny's hands, said whimsically:

"We'll own it together, Johnny—an' in hist'ry it'll be referred to as 'the famous collection of the two J's.'"

REWARD OF ENTERPRISE.

Mr. John Molek, Chicago, writes: "I see by your answers to correspondents that one F. A. W. is interested in obtaining the Belgian stamps postmarked at Havre, France. He may try my way. I sent the international coupon, which I bought at the post office for six cents, to the Belgian postmaster at Havre together with a self-addressed envelope, and a short letter in English asking him to be so kind to exchange the enclosed coupon for Belgian stamps, stick them on the enclosed cover, cancel them with the Havre postmark and mail it. My two friends, collectors, have done the same, and five weeks afterwards, we all received back our empty covers, sealed, of course, with 25 centimes Belgian stamps and Havre postmark on them. They cost us only five cents postage besides the coupons,—and no other trouble. The address we used was: To the postmaster of the Belgian provisional Post Office, Havre, France."

Before any of our readers act upon the suggestion so kindly made by Mr. Molek, we ask that they read the following excerpt from the June number of Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List, with especial attention to the last sentence; and they may then weigh the chances for the successful outcome of the plan under the latest ruling:

"Belgium—The information given in the last issue of our Monthly List proves to be incorrect, although it was given to us officially. The new stamps, which will not bear the portraits of the King and Queen of the Belgians as stated, are not to be issued until the re-establishment of the Postal Services in Belgium. The stamps which are offered for sale in London at £1 per set are the issue of 1912, and are of the denominations as stated, from 1c to 5 francs. These stamps, however, are still on sale at Havre in unused condition, and are still being used for postage, but the Postmaster will not now obliterate stamps to order, nor send envelopes through the post, this rule has probably been made to assist the sale of the obliterated sets in London."

EGYPT—A HISTORY OF ITS STAMPS.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

The earliest mention on record of a working postal system in Egypt dates back to the year 1821, when an Italian, Carlo Meratti by name, established a system for the conveyance of letters to and from Cairo to Alexandria.

After a short period an extension was made whereby a definite mail service was opened between Alexandria and Europe, and this service became known as the POSTA EUROPEA.

After the death of Carlo Meratti in 1847, the postal service which he had so successfully founded was continued by Tito Chini and Giacomo Muzzi, who continued to work the system on its original lines.

The story of this early postal system is admirably told in a little pamphlet entitled "The Post of Egypt," published in Florence in 1898:

Modest offices were opened in each [Cairo and Alexandria], the chief purpose being the transmitting and receiving of European letters—so that the undertaking was known as the "European Post." There are aged men in the foreign colony at Cairo who still remember the little room occupied by the "European Post" in the Musky quarter of the city, and recall their visits to it. They often found the office empty except for a single table supporting a basket containing letters and newspaper packages. All these the visitor looked over, and carried away such as were addressed to himself, or to members of his family. There were also, in that day, foreign Post Offices in Alexandria under the direction of various European governments—known as the "French Post," the "Austrian Post," the "Italian Post," and so on. These have long since disappeared, except the "French Post," which leads a lingering life in its rather shabby quarters of Alexandria. On the death of Meratti his business passed into the hands of his nephew, Tito Chini, who associated with himself a fellow-countryman of great energy and administrative ability, Giacomo Muzzi, who opened additional offices, availing himself of all possible means of conveyance—even using the railway between Alexandria and Cairo as fast as its sections were opened. It reached Cairo in 1856. Muzzi's operations constantly extended; he received a formal government concession for ten years in 1862, but the undertaking proved so profitable that the government purchased the monopoly, three years later, on condition that Muzzi would remain as Director-General. This he did until 1876, when he resigned, and soon returned to his native country, in which he died, at Florence, May 12th, 1898, at the age of seventy-seven. His memory will long be kept green in Egypt as the real founder of its postal system. Many incidents, indicative of his activity and able management, are still narrated. It is told that during one season of an extraordinarily high Nile, when communications were everywhere interrupted, his mailcarriers always arrived punctually at their stations; and there is somewhere described the astonishment of the Prince of Wales, when ascending the Nile, at receiving his mail each evening, with unfailing regularity, from Muzzi's agents, who had outstripped his own steamer. On returning to Cairo the Prince asked that he might see such an indefatigable official, and gave Muzzi his thanks and a souvenir ring.

Muzzi was succeeded by Mr. Alfred Caillard, now the head of the Egyptian customs, who was followed by Walter Halton Pasha (1880). The latter's successor is the present Postmaster-General, Saba Pasha (1887), whose reputation as an accomplished administrator has passed beyond the boundaries of Egypt. No country possesses a more complete and efficient postal service than that which he controls.

And yet there are not many regions in which a postal service has to overcome so many difficulties. In its greater part the populous places are strung for many hundreds of miles along the banks of a river, which every twelvemonth shifts its channels, making even ferriage often difficult. Elsewhere the mail must be borne, in the varying seasons, across wide tracts of desert, against burning winds and blinding sand-storms, or through floods which have turned the country into a sea, menacing with destruction the slender roads of soft earth, which rise just above the waste of waters. But this is not all. The difficul-

87 NASSAU ST., NEW YORK CITY

NEWFOUNDLAND No. 98 to No. 103.

We were sold out high and dry on this set until we blundered onto a small lot a few days since. The stamps have never been hinged and every copy is perfection in every way. We will sell them for a small advance over cost for a quick turn, but they will cost you a lot more next fall.

We have a few sets in blocks of 4. Ask your dealer if he can supply them in this condition and then send your order to us, and remember—

If your name is not on our Mailing List
WE BOTH LOSE.

Headquarters for Stamps of the U. S. and Its Colonies

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

H. F. COLMAN,
Second National Bank Bldg., WASHINGTON, D. C.

ties which nature has created are scarcely greater than those which the accidents of humanity, and the perverse ingenuity of man, have thrown in the way of the servant the post.

Egypt as has often been remarked, is a mosaic of nationalities and creeds, and a Babel of tongues. The postal employees must receive and deliver mail matter addressed in all languages, Arabic and European, spoken by larger or smaller groups of the population—Arabic, Turkish, Amernian, Hindustani, Greek, Italian, French, English, Maltese—and must be able to respond to enquiries in more than one of these tongues. Each one of them, in fact, must be quite familiar with three languages, namely the chaucery Arabic (the bastard Old-Arabic of the newspapers, and of all official correspondence); the Egyptian, the universal idiom of the people; and either English or French. But not a few are able to speak, in addition, Italian, and some know both French and English.

In the foregoing extract it is stated that Giacomo Muzzi and Tito Chini "opened additional offices."

Moens gives the entire list as follows:

Alexandria	Kafr el Zayat
Atfe	Mansura
Benha	Mehalla
Birket-El-Sab	Samanud
Cairo	Suez
Damanhur	Tanta
Damietta	Zagazig
Galiut	Zifta

It must be clearly understood that this system of conveyance of mails was entirely a private concern.

The two postmasters conducted the various services in a very efficient manner, and it is evident that the undertaking proved a profitable source of revenue to its owners.

In the year 1865 the Egyptian Government cancelled the agreement made with Chini and announced that from that date the postal service would be under the control of the Government and that no private postal enterprise would be allowed.

The postal service of Egypt at the time when stamps were first issued was not quite all that might be desired; a fact which is proved by the postal agencies maintained by various European powers.

It was not long however before matters readjusted themselves to such an extent that the postal system compared very favorably with other countries.

Nowadays the postal system provides for the transmission of letters, parcels, newspapers, money-orders, cash, etc., to and from all parts of the world. The latest figures show that approximately thirty million of inland letters, parcels, etc., pass through the post annually:

	Inland.	Foreign.
Letters,	30,129,000	19,193,000
Newspapers,	17,054,000	13,595,000
	Financial
Revenue	£E 312,333.
Expenditure	£E 279,998.

Since 1906 Egypt has enjoyed Imperial Penny Postage.

Most of the centres of any importance are connected by telegraphic communication or with the auxiliary help of light railways.

The following are the more important telegraph lines:

Assuan to Wadi Halfa (connects Sudan).
Salhai to Kantara (via Syria to Constantinople).
Alexandria to Suez.
Alexandria to England (via Malta & Gibraltar).
Alexandria to Italy (via Crete).
Suez to China & Australia (via Aden & India).

The above are, naturally, only the lines of major importance.

An insight into the working of one of Egypt's most modern post-offices is supplied by a local postmaster:

"The new Post Office of Port Tewfik, of which I am the first Postmaster, was opened on December 15th, 1910. The old office consisting of one room only, doing local work only, was closed on that date and the work transferred to the new. This new office, which replaces also the new Suez office, is (besides the local work) occupied with transit work principally; that is, all correspondence received from Greece, Turkey, and Syria are forwarded here to be sorted and made up into closed mailed bags for India, Far East, China, and Australia, and is put on board the different mail steamers outward bound.

"The office is situated at Port Tewfik at the Suez end of the Suez Canal, and all the steamers passing through the Canal can be seen from the office window.

"The Suez office—which, since the transfer of this Foreign Branch of work of my office, has been reduced to local work was built in the year 1850, and is therefore an old building which was pulled down last year, and a new office built in a more central position."

ALCOHOLIC FRUIT JUICE STAMPS.

In reply to an inquiry by Collector Malone, at New York, the Treasury Department has advised the Collector that imported fruit juices containing alcohol must be stamped with customs stamps. Assistant Secretary Peters says it has been brought to the attention of the department that juices of this kind are sold to rectifiers and are not stamped with customs or internal revenue stamps.

"You are therefore instructed," says the Assistant Secretary, "to cause fruit juices of this kind to be stamped with the brown customs stamps prescribed in Article 308 of the Customs Regulations of 1908 for stamping wines and malt liquors. The stamps should be modified by stamping over the words 'wines and malt liquors' the words 'compounded fruit juice.'"—Am. Wine Press.

A NOVEL COMPETITION.

Next January, the WEEKLY will celebrate its quarter centennial of publishing activities. It is needless to say that we shall properly celebrate the event. Just now, suggestions are wanted, in the rough, for a cover design, and we will pay $5.00 for the best one that comes to hand by July 20, providing it be accepted for cover purposes. Our only suggestion is that it be purely philatelic and one following the lines of the cover of May 29 would be very acceptable.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

POLLARD TAKES FOUR QUARTER PAGES.

Bryant Pollard shows his faith in the WEEKLY by taking a quarter page space in each of the four remaining July issues of our publication. It is a marked tribute not only to the WEEKLY but to Mr. Pollard's enterprise in going after business in what is known as the dull season. There will be no dull season in Mr. Pollard's vicinity.

PAPER OF UNIFORM TEXTURE.

By D. D. BEROLZHEIMER.

As an envelope collector, and chemist I have naturally been more or less interested in the paper used for our stamped envelopes and have studied same to a considerable extent.

The whole trouble, so far as uniformity of texture is concerned, can be traced back to the lack of definite specifications as to the exact quality, color, thickness, etc., of the paper to be used. The Mercantile Corporation buys its paper from three different concerns (this is generally known). The three mills do not make their own paper pulp, but buy it in open market. The different lots must naturally vary, coming from many different localities. A large part of the variation can be traced to the differences in composition of the water in the different localities, which is used for washing the pulp. There are other considerations, too, which produce differences.

The trouble mentioned by a correspondent of the N. Y. Sun is not necessarily due to the sizing at all. The same sizing on two different papers will act differently.

The whole trouble as to porousness, variation in weight, variation in color, etc., could be obviated by having definite specifications drawn up, just as is done by the Government for its bond, writing and other papers.

That it is possible to secure uniform lots of paper for envelopes is amply proven by the stamped envelopes made for South American and other countries by the various bank note companies, and by the stamped envelopes used by the European countries. This all runs very uniformly.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from H. G. Burwick, Harry E. Klotzbach, H. E. Lewison, P. G. Moore, A. H. Loomis (5), D. D. Berolzheim.

—Francis M. Bigelow suggests that we establish a department furthering the interests of correspondence amongst stamp collectors, advertisements to be accepted at our 20c per line rate. This would allow our readers to name their specialties, give their addresses and thus "promote many philatelic friendships." May we suggest that our "Ad-lets" is a widely read department and offers just the opportunity referred to.

—"No name appears on the S. P. A. ballot for Int. Sec. We suggest Brodstone as no one in this or any other nation can read his writing. He is the ideal candidate and if all nations work together his letters can no doubt be deciphered."—OHLMAN and WEISS.

—I. C. Greene calls our attention to an article in the current number of Pearson's Magazine. It is entitled "Do You Want 1c Letter Postage?" The article is written by Charles Williams Burrows and is a strong plea for the reduced rate.

—We have received a clipping from the Minneapolis Journal sent us by A. A. Kranhold, giving the particulars of the arrest of one Caverly who for more than fifteen years has operated a private postoffice in that city without knowing that it was illegal. Caverly has been distributing statements for about thirty commission firms. He began operations while he was in school and at the time of his arrest employed several assistants. His charge was 1c for each piece of mail and the business was a lucrative one. The law very plainly states that "no person shall establish any private express for the conveyance of letters or packets, or in any manner cause or provide for the conveyance of the same by regular trips or stated periods, over any post-route."

—F. W. McCreery of Rockville, Conn., who has been advertising in the WEEKLY, has been compelled to go to the Hartford Hospital for medical treatment. It will be several weeks before he can give any further attention to the stamp business and in the meantime he requests the kind indulgence of his patrons.

—John A. Flynn, Dayton, O., giving his address in care of the International Hosiery Co., solicited an approval selection from J. V. Doyle of New Haven, Conn. The selection was sent but a later registered letter inquiring for the selection was returned "Unclaimed."

—The Stamp Shop of Chicago, Ill., has shown us a set of the Gold Coast surcharged Togo, chronicled by us last week.

Selections Sent on Approval. Want Lists Filled

U. S. POSTAGE, selections at 50% discount. Want lists filled at net prices.

U. S. REVENUES and MATCH and MEDICINE, selections sent and want lists filled at 50%.

U. S. CUT SQUARE, selections sent and want lists filled at 50%. I make up packets and sets of cut squares to order. Can make very favorable prices. Let me quote you.

U. S. ENTIRE ENVELOPES, want lists filled at net prices, as a rule, about half catalogue. I have many unlisted shades, oddities, freaks, etc. I make a specialty of sending out selections of each issue. The recut die of the 1903, 2c envelopes, (usually called types) are my specialty. These I sell at net prices as per my price list.

FOREIGN ENTIRE OR CUT SQUARE, these I price by Bright's latest catalogue (55c Postfree) and give 50% discount in all cases. I have a line of approvals of foreign cut squares in great variety at 1c each net. These are very popular.

U. S. and FOREIGN POST CARDS, entire only. These I price by Bright and give 50% discount in all cases.

FOREIGN REVENUES and STATE REVENUES, these I price by Forbin's latest catalogue ($1.50 Postfree), and give 50% discount.

If you have some line that you are no longer interested in, and wish to exchange for something that you are interested in, as I deal in everything, I may be able to use yours and give you what you want.

cal treatment and has other reasons for declining the use of his name.

—We have received from W. J. Stanton, Coronado, Cal., some covers bearing faked E. S. overprints. Every cover in the lot of two hundred secured by Mr. Stanton represents an unclaimed and advertised letter addressed either to Hermosillo or Cananea. Nearly all of them are postmarked prior to December, 1914, the date of issue of the genuine E. S. The distinguishing feature is the surcharge in blue instead of purple. The stamps thus far seen are the 1, 2, 4, 5 and 10c Transitorio, 1, 2, 3 and 5c Denver, 5c 1910 Federal and 5c envelope.

EDITORIAL.

We Gasp—A letter comes to us that leaves us speechless. Writing from a post office in the state of New York, Mr. H. de la Barre says: "It will probably be a surprise to you as well as to other philatelists to learn that the United States is issuing a series of secret marks on the current two cent denomination at least. In looking over the entire stock of stamps at my post office recently, I came upon a few sheets of the two cent, 1914, perforated 10 that had the 'o' of 'Postage' printed in a solid color. I tore a sheet out and paid for it—even got so far as the door with it, when the postmaster rushed up to me and in a most excited tone, told me that I had got a wrong sheet. I smiled at him and said that it was the one I wanted. He insisted that I return it and when pressed for an explanation, told me that it was one of the marked sheets issued by the department to make the theft of stamps an easier matter to trace. He told me that these sheets of marked stamps are kept with the other one and two cents stamps in the regular stock books and in case of theft, they would be used and in passing through the mails would serve as a clue to the thief." Truth, the tale is a pretty one but it agitates us so strangely that we cannot comment coherently on it. There is an air of verisimilitude about it, any way.

* * *

Busy Togo—Something of a sensation has been made in England by the appearance there of a consignment of Gold Coast, contemporary issues half penny to twenty shillings, with the "condominium" surcharge, three lines in black, Togo—Anglo-French—Occupation. This is the third provisional set for Togo and is said to be the fore-runner of "a regular indent from London" and that, quoting Ewen's Weekly Stamp News, in view of the tremendous demand anticipated for stamps from Togo, "the work of overprinting can in every sense be more satisfactorily and expeditiously dealt with by Messrs. De la Rue for a regular issue than locally in Accra." Mr. Edward Michael has shown

$22,000 COLLECTION IN P. O. STATE

Comprising Twentieth Century stamps to date, complete up to and including £1, in all varieties of paper, watermark and perforation and many rare errors, including singles and blocks of four. Some countries have been carried out to great completeness and include XIX Century stamps. Worthy of special mention are Straits Settlements with all the $25, Dominican Republic with many uncatalogued errors, Papua, Russia, Sudan and Crete.

This collection was formed with great care by a fastidious collector who has for many years been ranked a "condition crank." Each and every stamp is quoted net at reasonable prices, offering an opportunity to collectors to obtain many stamps at investment figures that are now difficult to obtain.

The collection will be shown in San Francisco during A. P. S. Convention week by appointment. I will also make stop-overs in cities enroute if requests reach me in time to make arrangements.

us the red cross set, four denominations of the current war issue, bearing the surcharge in Russian characters in black, "Sample," as we are informed.

Newspaper Ads—In the London Telegraph of May 27th, we noticed two advertisements addressed "To Stamp Connoisseurs" which offered "Two Fine Historical Collections." We had intended to comment on these two large announcements before as the text of the ads possesses a piquancy that will not be lost on the discerning collector. The perfervid adman unbosoms himself as follows: "Throughout the whole world it is known that Belgium with the exception of the Yser districts is completely occupied by the Germans. Yet there is a territory known to but a few, still governed by a Belgian Burgomaster, Secretary, &c, where the Belgian colours are flying the whole day, where people are singing with enthusiasm 'De Vlaamsche Leeuw,' which possesses its Belgian buildings—its church, schools, &c—and several of whose young men are fighting at the 'Front' under the Belgian colours. This tract is called Baarle-Hertog. Why do not the Germans reach this place? Because it is totally surrounded by Neutral territory—only some yards from the Belgian borders but enough to be inaccessible. Remarkable and real. This is a wonderful prize for the Collector. A splendid assemblage to be offered by parents to their children as an agreeable surprise. A rich Collection, when framed, to be bought by everyone as a remembrance of the present days of storm. The whole consisting of 3 Red Cross and 12 Belgian stamps posted safely to you from Baarle-Hertog for One pound." An illustration is shown of a "used" cover bearing the stamps. The second ad is that of "The American Post Stamp Amator" at a point in Holland; and the cut depicts nine of the German stamps with the Belgian surcharge, "a complete series of the actual stamps put in circulation by the Germans in Belgium." The "cheap" price is one pound. Thus does the ingenious, if enterprising, advertiser seek to turn a few pounds, more or less honest, in these stressful times.

You Know The Kind—The Black Cat for July attracts the attention of philatelists as the cover which features a story, "Jud Perkins Tackles Philately," asks the pertinent question: "Did you ever collect stamps?" Mr. Jenkins of the Cleveland Leader says: "While the story is of no importance, it helps in a way to advertise our pastime." We agree with him and it may be added that those whose doctors have warned them against excessive hilarity may read the tale with impunity.

Opium Stamps—Our indispensable correspondent, Mr. W. C. Michaels, Kansas City, Mo., writes: "Inclosed find Treasury Decisions of June 10th, 1915, included in which is Treasury Decision Number 2211, dated May 15th, 1915, which indicates that three new high value revenue stamps for opium are to be designed and printed. The tax is to be $300 a pound so that the face value of the stamps will necessarily be $75, $150 and $300. This information ought to be interesting to the revenue stamp clan." We quote Article 11: "(1) Section 1 of the act approved January 17, 1914, provides that an internal-revenue tax of $300 per pound shall be levied and collected upon all opium manufactured in the United States for smoking purposes. (2) All opium manufactured, prepared or suitable for smoking purposes must be put up by the manufacturer in packages containing 4, 8, and 16 ounces, net weight each. (3) Stamps of the denominations of 4, 8, and 16 ounces will be prepared for the payment of internal-revenue tax on opium manufactured for smoking purposes." It is provided that "a single stamp of the proper denomination" be affixed in a permanent manner so that when the package is opened the stamp will be broken in two places and the stamp must be canceled by writing or imprinting in red ink by the manufacturer's factory and district number, etc. Heavy penalties are named for the non-use and mis-use of the stamps.

* * *

Never Issued—Our attention is called by Montgomery Evans, 2nd, to the following notice in the Addenda, under the sub-heading U. S. Internal Revenue Stamps in the catalogue published by Sever & Francis, Cambridge, Mass., in 1863. "New Internal Revenue Stamps will be issued in place of those now in use. They will have a border around the vignette, on which will be printed at the top, figures representing three or four years, as '63, '64, '65; and on the sides and bottom, the names of months and figures for the days from 1 to 30. The method of cancellation will be to cut out with a knife, before affixing the stamp, the whole border, except the letters and figures representing the date required. This will render the second use of a stamp impossible. Stamps of a similar character have been suggested for postage." Some time ago, when we acquired a copy of this old catalogue we reviewed it rather fully and commented, as we remember, on these proposed issues which were ascribed to suggestions of that period of experiment in the early '60's when general attention was turned to the necessity of preventing the re-use of stamps. Comparatively few of the suggestions reached even the essay stage.

DON'T HESITATE.

Write to the editor, if you feel like it. Whatever you write, he will be glad to read it.
It may be a "kick."
It may be a "komment."
It may be a "kompliment."
All will be useful to him.
The kick will keep him humble.
The komment will keep him hustling.
The kompliment will keep him happy.
So write the editor anyway.

THE STAMPS OF GERMANY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

THE EIGHTH ISSUE.

Whether the counterfeits of the last issue induced the Government to change the stamps is not certain, but anyway, in 1900 a new set appeared. Writing with regard to this new set Mr. W. P. Barnsdall stated in Gibbons Stamp Weekly:—

Rumour says they owe their inspiration to that versatile monarch the German emperor, and that he even designed the centrepiece of the pfennig values. It is certain the stamps were issued to commemorate the twentieth century, the Emperor, in common with many other folks, having formed the mistaken notion that the twentieth century commenced 1 January 1900—and in consequence for Germany it had to be.

The design in question consists of an allegorical bust of "Germania" in coat of mail and with Imperial crown on her head, but it did not meet with popular approval, and, indeed, is a poor example of Teutonic art. Various tales are current as to the subject of the design. It is said that when a change of stamps was decided upon, the Emperor wished to have his portrait upon the new set, but in deference to the feelings of the many German rulers, which are a bit ticklish on matters of overlords, etc., the idea was abandoned and "Germania" substituted. Some say the Empress served as a model for the nation's personification on the stamps; others, that a young actress whose impersonation of the character in a spectacle so pleased the Emperor that he commanded she should serve as the model.

The latter seems to be the correct story, the actress who posed for the militant female being Frin. Anna Füh-ring. The allegorical bust fills most of the design, the border simply containing numerals of value in the upper corners and REICHSPOST at the base. It will be noted that with these new stamps, inscriptions have been cut down to a minimum, for not only has DEUTSCHE been omitted (as was also the case with the 1889 series) but only numerals are used to denote the values. The design was the work of Paul Waldroff and that it is anything but handsome or satisfactory may be gleaned from the many caustic criticisms that appeared in German papers when the issue appeared. One daily journal published in Berlin said:—

Beneath criticism is the new national stamps, which we now see for the first time. The head of Germania is common, destitute of anything like nobility or spirituality, the printing so indistinct that the head does not rise at all clearly from the far too roughly shaped background. The post office official who created this masterpiece must be like a child with no sense of artistic composition, otherwise, he could never have been possessed of the incredible idea of bringing Germania's hand into the picture. One looks at this miserable hand squeezed into the lower left corner, and wonders what really is the meaning of it and the crooked sword. It looks as if the interesting lady had just stabbed herself in the stomach!

Considering the Emperor himself chose the design, the language is certainly strong for an ordinary commoner with the bogey of lese majestie always near!

The pfennig values were surface printed, the 2, 3, 5, 10 and 20pf in plain colors on white wove paper, and the values from 25pf to 80pf in two colors on colored wove paper, with the exception of the 40pf which was on white. The 30, 40 and 80pf were used for internal service in December, 1899, but were not sold to the public until January 1st, 1900, when the 10 and 20pf were also issued. The 3, 5, 25 and 50pf followed in February and March, while the 2pf did not appear until July, 1900.

The first supplies of the 25, 30, 40, 50 and 80pf values had the word REICHSPOST in thick letters which gave the tablet an overloaded effect and it was soon altered to smaller type. The stamps with original lettering are extremely rare, for it was only due to an error that any of them were allowed to get into circulation. Regarding these the late Mr. E. J. Nankivell tells an amusing story in the Postage Stamp for January, 1908:—

Amongst the new things included for the first time in the new Gibbons is the thick lettering variety of "Reichspost" in the 25pf, 30pf, 40pf, 50pf, and 80pf of the current series. The history of this thick lettering variety, as told in a paper read before the Royal Philatelic Society by Mr. Reichenheim, is as follows: "Of the 25, 30, 40, 50 and 80pf a few sheets were first printed showing the word REICHSPOST in the same size and thickness of the letters as in the one-colored values (3, 5, 10, and 20 pf), but this size of print turned out to be too large for the tablet accorded to it, and was therefore reduced. As far as I know, some of the sheets in the first print were handed over to the Imperial Postal Museum and its authorities used them for payment to dealers. Some of the latter, not noticing the difference, used them for franking purposes."

Some of the German dealers sent a few presentation sets to the Editors of philatelic periodicals, and as early supplies to a few customers. When the secret leaked out, the dealers who had been circulating a few of the sets sent an innocently worded, but too generous offer, to send the since completed series on receiving back the 25pf to 80pf values already sent.

I do not know how many innocents returned the five odd values to be exchanged for the full series, but I stuck to my presentation set, and am now rather amused to find the stamps priced as follows in the new Gibbons:

	Unused.	Used
25pf	$30.00	—
30pf	$30.00	—
40pf	$50.00	—
50pf	$40.00	$18.75
80pf	$30.00	—

These stamps and also the mark values were all treated with the secret process as before, and show crown, post-horn, and eagles in aniline rose when treated with an alkali.

The mark values were much more pretentious than anything hitherto attempted by Germany, being imposing in size, elaborately designed, and printed from line-engraved plates. The designs were taken from celebrated pictures, and were engraved by Professor William Röse, of the Imperial Printing Works. On the 1 mark value a good view of the General Post Office at Berlin is shown. The 2 mark is from an allegorical painting by Anton von Werner typifying the Union of Northern and Southern Germany. Mr. C. A. Howes gives an excellent description of this and the pictures on the 3 and 5 mark denominations which I cannot do better than reproduce:—

The two sections are represented by two warrior heroes of ancient Germany clasping hands and burying the old ill will of the race. In the background at the left are seen the Alps, with the Rhine at their base, and likewise at the right is the Baltic Sea with the cliffs of the island of Rügen—the limit of the united Fatherland—while above the representatives of North and South hovers the Goddess of Victory, holding aloft the Imperial Crown, which sheds its lustre over all. At the bottom is the legend, SEID EINIG, EINIG, EINIG! (Be united, united, united).

The 3 mark is from the painting of W. Pape representing the unveiling of the statue of Emperor William I at Berlin. The memorial of the first Kaiser included not only the equestrian statue, but a magnificent setting in the form of a peristyle, a portion of which can be seen in the background. In the foreground plainly appears Emperor William II on his black charger, and immediately behind him, the Empress. This memorial was dedicated on 3 April, 1897, in the midst of pageants and ceremonies almost unequalled for splendour and enthusiasm. The date above the picture, 22 March, was the birthday of Emperor William I.

The 5 mark stamp is taken from another painting of Pape's, representing Emperor William II delivering an address on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the proclamation of the Empire, 19 January, 1896. The moment is chosen when the Emperor placed his right hand upon the flag of the 1st Regiment of Guards, and ended the discourse, which he had addressed to princes and representatives of the people by these words: "EIN REICH, EIN VOLK, EIN GOTT." ("One Empire, one people, one God.") The engraving contains no fewer than 51 figures, the features of a large number being distinct.

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues

U. S. Envelopes

Carrier Stamps

Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plympton's is made as easy as rolling off a log. DUTCH ISSUE ABANDONED.

Apparently the Dutch authorities have abandoned the idea of overprinting certain of the current postage stamps of Holland for collecting funds in aid of Dutch people in distress as a result of the war. It was intended to overprint some of the low values with the letters K. N. S. (Koninklyk National Steuncomité—Royal Committee of National Aid) to be sold at a fraction in excess of face value. The extra amount to be devoted to relieving some of the present distress in Holland. It is now reported that a special series of war stamps may be issued in the Dutch Indies.—London Telegraph.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

AUSTRALIA.—Various of our English contemporaries note the issue of 2d gray, 6d ultramarine, 2sh light brown and 5sh yellow and gray, Kangaroo design, printed on paper intended for the King's Head stamps.

BOSNIA.—Mr. Schachne reports the receipt of two new military postal cards. They bear the impressed stamps of 1900 and 1906 respectively and are surcharged in two black lines "K. U. K. FELDPOST".

Post Cards.

5h yellow green and black on buff.
5h blue green and black on buff.

CANADA.—According to Gladstone Perry the new 2c carmine on buff card for Canada is intended to cover both postage and war tax. There are two types of the figure "2". This card was noted in Nos. 1277 and 1278.

EGYPT.—A correspondent sends the following to Ewen's Weekly:

"The old issue (1907) with the exception of the 4m was overprinted with two dots under the last letter. When the 4m was issued, these two dots were missing, and now in the new issue enclosed the same thing occurs, and I have just received a used copy of the 2m of the old issue printed similarly. I am told on good authority that this printing is not correct and that the two dots give the vowel sound and should be printed, although often omitted in ordinary writing."

FRANCE.—L. A. Beebe has shown us the current 10c stamp, first printing, without ground, with the outer line broken away for more than 1 mm. at the upper left corner.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Marsh's Philatelist has the following regarding the new envelope stamps noted last week: "The Georgian 2½d, 3d, 4d, 6d and 1sh Envelope stamps have now come to hand. The designs are very similar to the Edwardian issue; apart from the alteration of the head, the dies have been altered so as to show the value in figures, as well as in words. The 2½d has the label "postage" enlarged so as to allow for the "2½" to be added at each end. The 3d has the figure "3" in white, on a solid circle, on each side of the Crown, midway between the Crown and the beginning or end of the inscription. In the case of the 4d stamp, the figure appears in colour, on a solid white ground, on each side, above the inscription. The sixpence value shows the figure "6" in an oval, at each side; the shilling has "1s" added in a vertical position, at each end of the inscription. The colours are now the same as those used for adhesive stamps of the same denomination, and in each case, except the 6d, the die number of the stamps received is "1". The 6d we have, as yet, only seen with die number "3". A 10d die has also been made, but whether it is only for use on Telegram Forms we are unable to say, the official notice seems to imply otherwise."

Envelopes.

2½d ultramarine.
3d violet.
4d pearl-green.
6d purple.
1sh bistre.

HUNGARY.—Three additional war entires have been issued for Croatia, according to Mr. Schachne. They all bear a war tax of two fillers and are surcharged accordingly.

INDIA.—Chamba.—The Postage Stamp notes the issue of several sheets of the 2a King Edward stamps overprinted "On H. M. S." and in addition Chamba State. One whole sheet is in the Indian Post Office Collection.

Kishangarh.—Marsh's Philatelist notes that the scarce 2a stamp of 1913, Gibbons type 15, is printed in sheets of 20, in 5 rows of 4, and we notice that the 2nd, 3rd and 4th stamps on the sheet have large figures "2" in the upper corners, the others being the normal variety. The 3rd stamp in the 2nd row shows the error "KISHANGAHR". On some sheets there is a full stop at the foot to right of the native inscription on this error. On other sheets the native inscription is normal.

NEW BRITAIN.—The Australian Stamp Journal for April chronicles the following varieties of overprint on the converted stamps of German New Guinea and Marshall Islands:—

On German New Guinea.

1d on 3pf, figure 1 missing.
1d on 3pf, overprinted twice.
1d on 5pf, "d" inverted.

SOMALI COAST.—The latest French Colony to be added to the list of Colonies issuing Red Cross stamps is Somali Coast. The overprint is of the same type as similar stamps printed in Paris, but singularly enough the stamp surcharged is a new one in a design not hitherto recorded. It is a large upright oblong, like other current Colonial issues, but with a projection at the bottom to accommodate the word "Somalis." The design shows a portrait of a native girl, framed in an effective marine design, with "R" "F" in the upper corners, "Postes" at the top and "Cote Francaise des—Somalis" at the bottom in two lines. The figure of value is placed on a large shell below the portrait.

Togo.—We have been shown the full set of the Gold Coast stamps, overprinted "Togo—Anglo-French—Occupation," as noted last week, by the New England Stamp Co. All overprints are in black.

In regard to this set, Ewen's Weekly says:

This third provisional set promises to be even more popular in demand than the preceding issues. The overprint adopted in Accra is in a very small type. It is probably but a makeshift, pending a regular indent from London, which in ordinary course would be by Messrs. De la Rue. Certainly every indication points to this issue being but an expedient for the moment. If it were not so, the demand that will be made for supplies will be so considerable, that there would be no stamps left in Gold Coast for its own service in a very short time.

Send for my Price List of British Colonies WHITE BACKS

CHAS. S. OSGOOD, SALEM, MASS.

This setting made in Accra, is in sixty pieces, 6x10, and the overprint applied to each pane separately, the sheet being completed in two operations. Though every care has been taken, as shown by the evenness in the lines of setting, several prominent errors of type have occurred. The most notable are small type capital "G" in "Togo," sixth stamp on fourth row, and small type capital "F" in "French," first stamp on the fifth row and the fourth and fifth stamps on tenth row.

These errors are exactly repeated on the second pane of each sheet on all twelve denominations, ½d to £1. With the positions of the errors several select blocks can be made. Taking undivided the eight stamps from centre of sheet under the 3rd row, the piece shows error small "G" on left, and error small "F" on right, each contained in block of four and undivided. From the foot of left pane an undivided pair, both small "F", can be made; or from the foot of right pane an undivided pair of small "F" with control, or better still contained in strip of four or block of six or eight.

The above are the important errors of type, but in the course of printing there are also several curiosities of regular occurrence. One pane of 2d had the overprint placed too much to the left, the stamp on the right side vertically thus being without "A" to "AN-GLO." Solid first "O" and small first "O" in "OCCUPATION" are also noted.

On the 1d value the overprint is placed much higher. The other values to the 1sh show it over the centre, but in the £1 it is placed lower, and the word "OCCUPATION" appears across the tablet of value. Amongst the sheets of the 5sh, the odd block found was noticeably much paler in shade. On the several values, 2½d, 6d, 1sh, 2sh, 2sh 6d and 10sh which are dark in colour, the overprint does not show up with prominence, and in the case of the 1sh would be passed as ordinary by anyone without a quick eye. It will be noted the 3d and 5sh are on the surface-tinted paper with white back. The 3d should prove a good item, since the Colonial Journal of April notified the new printing supplied was on the dyed throughout yellow paper. The 10sh and £1 probably exist in very small quantities.

The supply received from Anecho Togo by the West African mail, delivered in London on the seventh inst., contained the current Dahomey 5c, 10c, 20c and 25c stamps without any overprint. It had been officially stated some time since that these stamps were to bear an overprint for use in the territory occupied by the French, but with this delivery it looks as though the intention may have been abandoned. The packages were covered with a number of the stamps duly postmarked "Anecho-Togo" and with the German registration labels that had originally been supplied for that Office.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Dues received since last report: From Nos. 205, 137, 9, 228 and 188 and applicant, total $5.12.

Dr. C. F. Easton, whose application for membership was received in May, 1914, which was held up for nearly a year owing to the miscarriage of a letter from the secretary to the applicant and then when ready to report some complaint was made of the doctor for not paying his bills promptly. The secretary took the matter up with him. He acknowledged that some bills had been delayed in settlement: The reason assigned being that he had been sick and the letters were mislaid. The accounts have been adjusted, so the secretary feels that the doctor can be relied on and that members can do business with him and consider him a member in good standing.

Complaints have reached the secretary of our last member, 235, John A. Wilkowski, Detroit, Michigan. Letters addressed to the member have not been answered. The matter was then taken up with John F. Miller, of Detroit, one of his references, who reports that Wilkowski was the sole owner of the McGraw Stamp Co. of that city and was for a while held in high repute in Detroit, but now he cannot be located. He left many unsettled bills. Members of our society are cautioned to look out for him in their dealings until matters are in better shape.

New Member, No. 232, Dr. C. F. Easton, Health Office, Butte, Montana. Expelled:—No. 235, John A. Wilkowski, 506 Temple Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

Wanted. Some one to take charge of the Purchasing Department of the Society. Please communicate with the secretary as soon as possible so that an appointment can be made to fill the office and this important branch can again be put in working order.

AN OLD POSTAL CIRCULAR.

Some time ago, we described an old circular that came into our possession; and in view of the interest that was manifested in it by different readers, we present first, a cut of the address side of the folder; and second, the first page of the four-page circular.

IMPROVED POST OFFICE STAMPS, WITH THE NAME OF THE POSTMASTER ENGRAVED ON BOX WOOD. GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE.

Testimonials of their Use, Durability, &c.

In the year 1847 Hon. Selah R. Hobbie, (the 1st Ass't P. M. Gen.) visited Europe on business of the Post Office Department, and on his return, in his report to Congress, he made the following STATEMENT.

"I found when in England in 1847, that the stamps in use in the English post offices were universally made of wood, and was informed that they had superseded the metallic stamps entirely. They were preferred, not alone on account of their cheapness, but because they were more tenacious of the ink, in consequence of which, time is saved in the process of stamping, by not being obliged so frequently to ink the stamp. Besides, the impression, I was told, was not so liable to blur. (Signed) S. R. HOBBIÉ."

These stamps, as represented above, are every way superior to metal ones in beauty of impression, when properly engraved; besides a set of metal stamps furnished by the Department, costs more than ten times the price of a complete set on wood. The sample impressions below, show distinctly what constitutes a complete set of Box wood

SENT FREE OF POSTAGE.To the Post Master—

DEAR SIR — During the year last past I have furnished a large number of Stamps to Post Masters, for which I have received two dollars per set. Thus far all the orders coming to me have been executed by Mr. Zevely, of Maryland. When we commenced our arrangement I supposed from the samples received that the Stamps were to be engraved on Box wood, that the changes of month and date were to be of Box wood, and that a box of red ink would be sent with each set, and I stated it thus in my Circular; but after the Circular was sent out he informed me that he could not afford to send red ink, (because it cost more than black ink,) and that his common stamps were not of "Box wood," and I found

CHIT CHAT ON POSTAL CARDS.

By MAITLAND MILLIKEN.

Ceylon has the largest list of surcharged cards of any country.

Argentina, Peru, Uruguay and the Australian Colonies on their numerous postal and letter cards have views of public buildings, monuments, plazas, waterfalls and mountains pictured either on face or back.

Germany is said to be the only country commemorating the arrival of the 20th Century by a card.

A rare error is the Canada 1c1c reply cards of 1885 having the stamp to left of the cards. It is catalogued at $2.50 complete. Have you got it?

Cuba on U. S. 1c on 2c black was surcharged with a large perforated numeral in 1904. Only issue of its kind.

The early Turkish cards are very graceful looking fellows. The later issues are very oriental.

Guatemala in 1896 issued a provisional letter card by means of reply cards and perforating the ends opening on three sides. Very unique for an emergency!

We card enthusiasts have been greatly handicapped by the lack of a late American catalogue. Scott's discontinued the issuance of the card catalogue in 1898 with a supplement in 1899. Fortunately we still have the faithful Bright's A. B. C. catalogue serving us with a new edition every year. However, some want a new order of things so here is an opportunity for some one with "pep" and "rolls" to get out an American edition modeled along the familiar Scott's arrangement. I am sure the publisher will receive hearty support as the copy-rights and illustrating plates of the old Scott's catalogue can be had very cheaply and on easy terms. The present owner is too old to undertake the issuance of a new catalogue. Who will take up this important rein? Don't speak all at once!

The RAREST WAR STAMPS are the following:

TOGO Occupation Franco-Anglaise
GERMAN GUINEA Overprinted G. R. I.
MARSHALL Overprinted G. R. I.
SAMOA Overprinted G. R. I.

We have some of the above stamps in stock and can offer them at low prices, considering the small quantity issued. These stamps all bear on the back our guarantee mark.

A WAR INCIDENT.

"A letter bearing the inscription, 'To the most popular man in Germany,' was posted c. o. d. Poste Restante, Berlin.' Berlin's postoffice redirected it to 'Gen. von Kluck, Paris.'"

Von Kluck, however, did not arrive. Hence the letter was reposted to Berlin marked 'Unknown at this address.'

Said the German postoffice: 'Von Kluck is no longer popular, but von Hindenburg is the hero.' So the letter was redirected to him. By the time the letter should have reached him he was snowed up in the Carpathians.

So the postoffice, perhaps seeking to please the kaiser, re-directed the letter to Count Zeppelin. It was, however, intercepted by an employe in the Antwerp postoffice, who sent it back again to Paris.

It arrived there the day the Lusitania was sunk, and the French postoffice returned it to Berlin marked 'Von Tirpitz. Wanted badly. Try Potsdam.' But a postmaster slipped the letter into the kaiser's imperial packet, crossing out von Tirpitz's name.

The kaiser, perhaps, indignant at being the fifth most popular man in Germany, sent it on to the crown prince, but a Frenchman still employed in the Stenay postoffice re-directed it to Gen. Joffre. The Berlin postoffice marked it, 'Hold until called for.'—EDWIN CLEARY in London Daily Express.

NEW ITALIAN WAR VARIETIES.

Already the Italian war mobilization is providing its quota of philatelic varieties although no special adhesive stamps are to hand. Military envelopes and post cards bearing impressed stamps and inscribed "R. Esercito Italiano" (Royal Italian Army) have, however, been provided for use by the Italian forces in the field, whilst a second type of card for naval correspondence has the inscription "R. Marina."

For the Italian Red Cross Society (Croce Rossa Italiana) a particular double post card has been provided, of the value 15 centesimi. Each part bears a portrait of the King of Italy and the first part the national arms in addition. The Red Cross and the inscription, "Convenzione di Ginevra 22 agosto 1864" appear on the second half of the card.—Stamp Collecting.

NOW is the time to transfer that collection of yours to a new blank album. The MOREHOUSE BLANK ALBUM is acknowledged to be, by collectors who have used it, the very best medium priced album of its kind on the market to-day.

This is the album that was advertised as The Stern Blank Album some years ago. The book is 11½ by 9½, heavy ledger paper, ruled in squares with embellished border, and linen hinged. It contains 100 leaves securely held in place with screw fasteners, and when open, they lie flat. The leaves, can also, if deemed desirable, be inter-leaved with an imported transparent vegetable parchment manufactured especially for The MOREHOUSE BLANK ALBUM. Sample leaves on request.

PRICES

Bound in black cloth, $5; postage extra. .35
Bound in flexible leather, $6; postage extra. .35
Blank leaves, per 100, $3.50; postage extra. .25
Inter-leaves, per 100, 75c; postage extra. .15

THE STAMPS OF GERMANY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

THE EIGHTH ISSUE—Continued.

The stamps were perforated 14, though a few sheets were perforated 11½ by a trial machine. Like the pfening values with large REICHSPPOST these sheets only got into circulation by accident and the perf. 11½ varieties are rare.

The 1 mark value was issued on April 1st, 1900; the 2 mark was placed on sale, on June 1st; the 3 mark on August 1st, and the 5 mark on December 15th, 1900. This latter value was printed in two colors, the centre being in lake and the frame in black. Some time in 1902 the frame portion of the design was re-drawn making two distinct types of this value. In the original type the numerals of value in the upper angles are rather heavier than in the re-drawn one. The flag of the T where it joins the upright stroke is flattened, and the serifs of the M are very rudimentary. In the second or re-drawn type the numerals are thinner and the flag of the 5 merges with the upright stroke in a sharp point. The serifs of the M are clear and distinct. In the second type, too, the "O" of "GOTT" in the lower inscription is shorter than the other letters. Special instructions were issued to the postal officials regarding the obliteration of the high value stamps. Orders were given that they were to be cancelled by means of two obliterating stamps held side by side. Should the defacement not be complete then a second attempt was to be made. Postal employees were enjoined to exercise great precaution in passing the stamps of 2 marks and upwards, and to examine them with care to see they were genuine!

We were sold out high and dry on this set until we blundered onto a small lot a few days since. The stamps have never been hinged and every copy is perfection in every way. We will sell them for a small advance over cost for a quick turn, but they will cost you a lot more next fall.

We have a few sets in blocks of 4. Ask your dealer if he can supply them in this condition and then send your order to us, and remember—

A GOOD TESTIMONIAL.

"We have started advertising with you only two weeks ago and it has already brought us more replies and inquiries for stamps than all our advertisements in four other philatelic magazines during the last three months. We are very much satisfied and we regret we did not advertise any sooner in your valuable paper."

SAN DIEGO STAMP CO.

THE "COIL STAMPS" IMPRINT.

Two weeks ago we chronicled the current 2c stamp perforated, bearing the imprint "coil stamps." The mystery is explained by the receipt of a communication from A. M. Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General, who states that these imperforate sheets were perforated to use up the supply on hand. A considerable stock was available from the fact that the method now in use permits the printing of unjointed strips. We quote from Mr. Dockery's letter the following:

"The ten 2c postage stamps herewith returned, bearing the words 'Coil Stamps' in the margin, are from a sheet of stamps printed specially for coiling before the existing method of printing unjointed strips was adopted. A quantity of these sheets remained on hand when the old method was discontinued. The Postmaster, Washington, D. C., has a supply, from which purchases may be made by sending him their value in a registered letter or postal money order, with return postage and registry fee."

THE ELEVENTH ISSUE.

In 1905 it was decided to introduce watermarked paper and a design consisting of a "multiple" arrangement of lozenges was adopted. The 3pf and 5pf were issued on this paper in December, 1905; the 2pf, 10pf, and 80pf followed in January, 1906; the 40pf and 5 mark were on sale in February; the 20pf, 25pf and 30pf were ready in March; and the 50pf, 1 and 2 mark were issued in April. The 3 mark was the last to appear and though it was chronicled on many different occasions it does not appear to have been actually placed on sale until some time in 1911. The 2 mark of this series is of the second type. A 60pf value was added to the set in 1911.

OFFICIAL STAMPS.

In 1903 a set of official stamps appeared, comprising the values 2, 3, 5, 10, 20, 25,

40, and 50pf, the design being composed of the frame of the then current stamps but with an inscription reading "FREI-DURCH-ABLOSUNG-Nr. 21", in four lines in the centre, on a horizontally lined background in place of the usual bust of Germania. These stamps were issued for use on the official correspondence of the kingdom of Prussia. It appears that 30 different States, Administrations, and Institutions possess the privilege of having their correspondence carried free, and as there was some uncertainty as to the approximate amount which should be credited to the Post office for conveying the official correspondence of the kingdom of Prussia these stamps were issued and continued in use for twelve months. While they were in use the sale of the stamps in unused condition was prohibited but shortly after they were withdrawn the remainders were sold to a German dealer and the set became very common. The No. 21 in the design is the official number accorded Prussia some of the others being:—

No. 1.—The Duchy of Saxe-Meiningen.
No. 2.—The Administration of the Military Orphanage at Potsdam.
No. 9.—The Duchy of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.
No. 17.—The Thuringian Provincial Court of Jena.
No. 23.—The Grand Duchy of Oldenburg.
No. 26.—The Duchy of Brunswick.

In 1904 a somewhat similar set was issued for use by the Grand Duchy of Baden. This also has the frame of the current stamps with a centerpiece consisting of the numerals "16" (the official number for Baden) on a plain ground over which "FREI-DURCH-ABLOSUNG-Nr. 16" is engraved in four lines reading upwards in a diagonal direction from left to right. This set contained only the values 2, 3, 5, 10, 20 and 25pf and, like the Prussian series, it remained in use for a year at the end of which the remainders were sold.

EDITORIAL.

Convention Time—We hope that there will be a representative attendance at the thirtieth annual convention of the American Philatelic Society, at San Francisco, on the 10th, 11th and 12th of August, 1915. If the convention is to be a working body, there will have to be a sufficient representation of members by proxy and in person. The moral significance of a convention that is well supported, while intangible, is of much benefit and the pleasure of the members who attend is increased in ratio to the number present. We are gratified to hear that there will be a fair sprinkling of members who will take the trans-continental trip to be at the annual convocation even while we regret that there are not more members generally who pledge their attendance. At least, it is always advisable to anticipate a small crowd in order that one may earnestly urge members who possibly can do so, to ally themselves with the faithful. The entertainment announced by the local members in San Francisco is of a nature to whet the expectations of all. The convention of the National Philatelic Society in New York City bids fair to be a successful one and the program for July 22nd, 23rd and 24th is well calculated to meet the approval of delegates. The convention of the Southern Philatelic Association in President Kissinger's home town, Reading, Pa., will be a rousing one, and August 5th, 6th and 7th will be banner days in that city of the elect of philately.

Put to Good Use—Some months ago, we told of the "converted" two-cent red postal savings stamped envelope that was used for the "Official Business" of the Post Office Department. Mr. Wagner now sends for inspection a variety of this envelope in which the stamped impression is not obscured by a row of parallel bars, but which as usual has the "penalty" warning printed over the stamp; and the original return stamp of the postal savings branch blotted out by an inked rectangle. The present instance is not the first example of practical economy on the part of the department as we remember that after the stamped envelopes and wrappers of the war department became obsolete, some of them were utilized after having the "penalty" inscription printed across the top of the envelope or wrapper and over the stamp.

* * *

Who Knows—Here is a query that we cannot answer definitely. We much prefer that some reader bestir himself to get us the information than to seek it ourselves. However, if no kind and indulgent investigator will enlighten us, we shall see what we can learn, ourselves. Mr. Harry E. Huber asks pertinently: "I wish to know in relation to the ten shilling St. Helena of which 1800 were said to have been printed, if 722 would be overprinted specimen or would 722 additional copies be printed to take care of the demands of the Postal Union Bureau at Berne."

* * *

Stamp Flavor—For several weeks past, we have been calling attention to the frequency with which the philatelic theme is touched in what may be called the general fiction of the day. Stamp collecting seems to be in its hey-day so far as more or less sympathetic recognition of it by the better writers is involved. Mr. Chester Myers has sent us a copy of a recent number of Reedy's Mirror in which we find the following passage in an article marked: "During thirty-five long years the post office at Heislerville brought often small packages and letters with queer foreign stamps. Once in twelve months is often during thirty-five years. Sometimes the stamps bore heads of queens, sometimes tigers, or waterfalls, sometimes the faces of curious-looking men."

* * *

Flossie Is Fluffed—The artist who syndicates the series, "The Young Lady Across the Way," in the newspapers recently gave philately a fling in the text accompanying one of the pictures. The young lady has a penchant for missing the obvious and for that reason her comments are supposed, in the optimistic mind of the creator, to excite the risibilities of the reader: "The young lady across the way says she saw in the paper that King George was an enthusiastic philatelist; but, of course, she supposed after his country got into the war the only thing for him to do was to fight whatever his principles were."

Old Ones—Mr. Edwin B. Hill informs us that he has a copy of the third edition of Kline's Manual, published at Philadelphia in the '60's; and we think that Mr. Hill is correct in his inference that the third edition of this early list of stamps seems scarcer than the first edition. Mr. Hill adds: "Recently, I acquired for a trifling sum, an Oppen album of the 1866 edition, 200 pages, entirely interleaved with quadrille paper. Every stamp had been removed from the album although many prices had been marked on the rarities; and there were many of them. The former owner's name has been erased from title but there is the date 10-2-66. I surmise, then, that he was a rare good stamp-lover although he did paste 'em down—even as you and I, if you, too, collected in '74. It was in November of that year that I moved to Detroit, Michigan, and began to collect." We cannot claim so early a date as 1874 as our first philatelic year; and it was in 1879 that we received an International Album as a Christmas gift. While hinges were in rather general use in the late '70's, yet the younger generation of collectors at that time were partial to mucilage; and if they were inclined to be somewhat cautious about endangering the future of their stamps, they advanced a step to the refinement of a flour and water paste.

Origin of the Hinge—In the earliest days of collecting, the gum pot was an important accessory of the philatelist. The used stamp was pasted flatly in its place and unused stamps needed but a "lick and a dab" to firmly affix them. Countless unused stamps of the rarest mould have been denuded of their gum by the process indicated. It has been said that two French collectors, Herpin and Regnard, were the first to look askant at this harsh treatment of stamps and to recognize the rights of the reverse side of the stamp and it is told that "they accordingly mounted their stamps on thin pieces of cardboard and hinged them." The innovation was adopted by the astute gentlemen in question shortly before 1865. Only slowly however was the example copied and it is evident that the new-fangled notion received scant regard in quarters where one would think, looking backwards, that it should have been favorably received. No doubt, not a few collectors regarded the plan of hinging as a phase of the French school of collecting and arrayed themselves against it on the score of consistency, as there was a strong faction against the exploitation of the smaller details of stamps, such as the watermark and separation varieties. By 1880, about all the collectors who were at all progressive were hinging their stamps; and in the prefaces of albums, the use of hinges for mounting stamps was advised.

* * *

A New Protective Society—The stamp dealers of France have combined in a new protective society that gives every evidence of becoming an efficient organization. The leading dealers of the country are interested and the official board as published elsewhere in this issue assures us that the organization is on a solid basis. Theodore Champion, who has been a consistent and steady advertiser in the WEEKLY, is one of the vice-presidents and will no doubt be glad to furnish information and prospectus to any American dealers who would like to become better acquainted with the aims of the new society.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF TWO MORE.

The International Precancel Club and the New York Stamp Society are the two most recent additions to the list of societies that the WEEKLY is serving as official journal. The small charge that we make for inserting this matter is all out of proportion to the publicity gained.

QUOTATION AND DATA CARDS.

This article will appeal chiefly to the specialist and the dealer. They find it necessary to keep an exact line on the prices of their stamps, in order to succeed financially. Every collector, general or specialist, aims to buy his stamps at a low rate to allow him a profit if he disposes of his collection. The specialist, who often finds it necessary to buy many copies of the same stamp, must accordingly keep close to the market price in order to buy at advantageous figures. The dealer must certainly keep in touch with the market, as his success demands that he buy low and sell at a profit. Also, he must know when to sell certain holdings and when to buy other items. No matter how good a selling machine he has, if his buying is at fault, he will go on the rocks. With the aid of quotation cards, he can keep at his fingers' end the exact quotations on the different lines, without having to guess.

The specialist will find this card system of great use in keeping information concerning the various minor varieties not listed in the catalogue. For instance, suppose we are making a study of the 3c green. We know that the stamp catalogues 1c. What is it worth by the 100? What does a block of four bring? What is a stitch watermark worth? The human mind is a fine little card index itself, but it can't keep up with all these things. Therefore, it is necessary to supplement it with another index. Aside from the quotation feature of the system, cards can be arranged to make a complete check list of the varieties, together with notations as to scarcity, etc.

Of course, it is impossible for the general collector to make up such a system, as some thirty thousand cards would be required, and the labor of making up the system would be tremendous, and not worth the time involved. Where the collector buys only one or two copies of a stamp, it is hardly worth while to keep such an exact record of that stamp. The same remarks will apply to the dealer.

For the general dealer, who, of course, if more heavily interested in certain lines than in others, a system including only cards on such items as are of special interest is recommended. For instance, our clients call for Newfoundland Guy sets. We have none, but want some. We find that this is a set that sells readily, and is hard to keep in stock. Therefore, we decide to lay in a small supply and will be buying them from time to time. Accordingly, we make out a quotation card (as outlined a little later) and have before us, in a short time, a record of the actual auction prices of this set. Therefore, before bidding on a set, we consult our card and find very close to the exact value of the set. When three or four quotations within a short time are given, the actual value can be arrived at very closely. Also, we wish to price them at market rates, but do not know whether they are selling at catalogue or a half. Therefore, our card will show the prices asked at retail by the other dealers.

The work involved in making up and keeping up a system of this nature is slight when spread over a period of time. There are really only about a thousand items that would interest the average dealer, sufficient to make out a quotation card. Of course, the big dealer, who carries an immense stock would need a larger system, but—his stock is larger, his profits are greater, and he can afford to employ a clerk if necessary to act as a buyer for him, as several of the dealers do. This buyer would have charge of the quotation cards.

The dealer who specializes can, without much effort, make and keep up a complete system for his countries. After the initial effort of writing the cards, keeping them up to date is not hard, as the various changes are received at intervals and only a few at a time. If such a system is installed and kept up, it will not only show what stamps are best to buy, judging from past records of increases and decreases, but it will show the actual value of the stamps from month to month, not from year to year, as outlined in the catalogue. How many of you wouldn't be willing to pay for advance information in catalogue prices, so that you could watch your market and buy in the good things before the increase comes? That is just what the dealers who know are doing. A certain dealer advised me last year to buy all of Norway No. 1 that came my way, stating that it would go to 50c from 25c. It did, and went to 75c. We both made considerable profit on the stamps we bought for that rise. If you were offered a block of four of that stamp at $2.50, would you take it? It catalogues $3.00, and a quotation last December shows that it brought $10.50 at auction in pair.

In making up my quotation and data cards, I use the following plan: I use the 3 x 5 index cards and cabinet, which can be procured from any stationer at a small cost. I am at present, only interested in United States and a very few foreign stamps, so I have adopted a slightly more complicated system than needed for actual work. I use a white card for ordinary varieties as listed in Scott 1915. On the top line, I write as follows:

U. S. No. 70, 1861—Sept. 24c red lilac which is sufficient data to identify the stamp. I file the cards in numerical order, as listed in the catalogue. On the first line below the title, I have the quotations of Scott for 1910, 1912, 1914, and 1915, the unused price being in red above the used price, which is in black. For the sake of brevity, I use S10,—S12, etc. (These are not submarines.) On the next line, I put the Gibbons quotations. I have not gone back of 1915 on these. By comparing the increase from 1910 to 1915, I can judge fairly accurately as to the scarcity of the stamp. Below the Gibbons prices, I enter any wholesale or auction quotations. I usually put these in very lightly in pencil, using the abbreviation of the dealer and date of entry, and amount, keeping the unused above the line and used on the line. If only unused is given, I draw a line through the used space to prevent error, or vice versa. As I receive new quotations, I erase the old, or keep any of especial interest, and keep the lists fairly accurate. Toward the bottom of the cards, I enter prices for blocks, covers, minor varieties, etc., and find this list of exceptional value here, where catalogue is of no assistance.

In my own system, I use a buff card for the minor varieties, as I have need of more accurate information on these than the general dealer or specialist. I would suggest that this information be kept on the white cards or other colors of which the uses will be explained later. These cards usually come in but four colors. Therefore, it is advisable to keep the buff cards for data and not for prices. I keep my data in a separate index, but could keep it with the quotations very satisfactorily by using the different colored cards.

If the stamp in question has shown a marked increase in value, or is needed very badly for stock, either as a speculation or because it is a ready seller, I use a red card. This instantly attracts attention to the fact that the stamp in question has shown itself worthy of special interest, and in bidding at auction, I give the "red card" lots the first preference as I want those stamps the most.

On the other hand, if a stamp shows

1906.....	2.00

Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.

from past experience that it is a "loser" or a large stock of same is offered, forcing the price down, or my stock and supply is sufficient to meet all present needs, I use a blue card, to signify "keep off" in buying. That card will tell at a glance that the stamp is bad property, or that I do not need it.

In short, my system of colors is as follows:

White cards for normal varieties.

Buff cards for data or minor varieties important enough to warrant a separate card.

Red cards for especially desirable items.

Blue cards for undesirables or sufficient stock.

As I receive quotations on recent auction sales, I go through my cards and change the prices to bring them up to date. With every bid sheet, I ask the auction firm to notify me of the prices brought on the lots I bid on, whether I get them or not. I enclose a 2c stamp for this information.

I keep a card of abbreviations, such as S for Scott, etc., in the front of the case, to prevent errors in using the same letter for different dealers.

I use index cards at intervals to give instant access to any card, usually between the issues. If any reader wishes further information on this system, I will gladly furnish any I can. I have but recently installed it, and believe it can be improved upon materially, so will appreciate any suggestions from the readers.

THE 5c PERF. TRANSITORIO.

By WM. C. MICHAELS.

I was much interested in reading the article on the 5c perforated Mexico Transitorio. You might well have added to your notes the contents of Circular No. 15 issued by the Constitutionalist Postmaster General in June, 1914. I furnished you with a copy of this circular and it appeared, I believe, in one of the September, 1914, issues of the WEEKLY. It refers to the perforated 5c Transitorio, denounces it as a counterfeit and says "in the future they will not be available for postage."

This indicates, it seems, that while some of the Linn & Company "samples" found their way from the Postmaster General's office to various post offices in Sonora, and were used in the ordinary way and recognized by the postal officials, they never were formally or officially adopted, and because of the latter fact, were a short time afterward declared to be counterfeits and void, for it is difficult to understand why a stamp should be declared a counterfeit if it has ever been lawfully or formally adopted.

And yet it seems certain that many of the "samples" sent to the Postmaster General by Linn & Company were supplied to some post offices by the Postmaster General as a temporary makeshift, and that they were actually used and did postal duty, and it seems to me that such as were thus used may be properly counted as quasi-officially distributed and used stamps; or as partaking of the character of ex-officio provisionals.

I take it that all of these stamps used on covers before June 30, 1914 are collectible and ought to be, under the circumstances, recognized as provisionals. Unused copies, however, should be put on the "taboo" list as trash.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

AUSTRALIA.—Mr. Schachne has received a new 1d postal card. It bears the kangaroo stamp and has a chalky surface.

Post Card.

1d red on white.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—The Postage Stamp says that of the 10sh on white back paper, 2520 stamps were printed.

CHINA.—A new Express Letter Stamp is chronicled by L'Echo de la Timbrologie in the Republican permanent issue, inscribed "Chinese Post Office."

Express Letter Stamp.

10c green.

CURACAO.—Mr. Schachne has shown us the latest postal card for domestic use. It has the new coat of arms and the obverse is divided by a vertical wavy line.

Post Card.

2 1/2c green on greenish.

DANISH WEST INDIES.—Ewen's Weekly quotes the Schweizer Briefmarken-Zeitung as chronicling a complete new set from 5 to 50 bit. The design of the frame, is like the King Frederick series, but with portrait of King Christian X. The new series, however, has been shortened by one value; the 30 bit has been excluded from the new issue. Copper-plate print has been adopted for the execution of these stamps, which are of an attractive appearance. The stamps are perforated 13 1/2 and printed on paper watermarked multiple crosses.

Adhesives.

5b pale green.
10b red.
15b lilac and dark brown.
20b pale green and blue.
25b blue.
40b vermilion and black.
50b yellow and brown.

EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA.—The reply postal card for international use has just been issued, according to Mr. Schachne.

Post Card.

6x6c red on buff, King George.

ECUADOR.—Hermann Focke has shown us the 50c value in the current American Bank Note set. The portrait is that of Espinoza. Stanley Gibbons gives the color as brown, but this is not correct.

Adhesive.

50c deep violet and black.

FIJI ISLANDS.—The Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung states that the first printings of the 3d and 4d were printed on lemon-yellow paper and the 3d has now appeared on orange-yellow.

INDIA.—Chamba.—W. T. Wilson sends us the 2a King Edward stamp of India overprinted "On H. M. S." and "Chamba State," as noted in No. 1280.

JAMAICA.—Ewen's Weekly reports that the 6d King George stamp is now printed in purple and rosy mauve instead of purple and deep lilac.

LUXEMBURG.—The Schweizer Briefmarken-Zeitung is informed that new Service stamps, with the portrait of the Grand Duchess, were to have been issued June 14. The set includes the following denominations:—10, 12 1/2, 15, 25, 30, 35, 37 1/2, 40, 50, 62 1/2 centimes, 1, 2 1/2, 5 francs.

MEXICO.—Hermann Focke has shown us a cover with the 5c and 10c values of the Denver issue, overprinted Gobierno Constitucionalista in purple.

Why this should have been done is not clear, as the same words appear in the inscriptions on the stamp. Possibly this may be a control mark in this case. Or has there been a leak in the supply requiring overprinting to identify them. The cover was mailed at Mazatlan in the regular order of business.

NORTH WEST PACIFIC ISLANDS.—The Australian Stamp Journal for April pointed out that there were differences in the letters "S" in "Islands," viz.:—

No. 1.—First and second "S," both curves alike.

No. 2.—First and second "S," upper curve close and lower curve wide.

No. 3.—First "S," upper curve close, lower curve wide; second "S," both curves alike.

This is a peculiarity of some founts of type that certain letters may be included in two styles, and the De Vinne capital "S" varies as follows:—

S S

In the May number of which we have received advance copy, our contemporary reverts to the subject, having seen a few blocks of 30 stamps of each denomination from different quarters of the sheet. The overprint was set up 5 times vertically. No. 1 variety (first and second "S" both curves alike) appears at the top and second setting, and the variety which we described as No. 3 last month (first "S" upper curve close, lower curve wide, second "S" both curves alike) is the third setting from the top, and we now describe it as variety No. 2; No. 3 (first and second "S" upper curve close and lower curve wide) described as No. 2 variety last month, is to be found on the 4th and 5th settings. A Melbourne correspondent has informed us on very good authority that a cliché of 30 electros was made from this setting, that the sheets were torn into blocks of 30 and were overprinted 30 at a time. A collector in order to have the three varieties would require to get a vertical strip of three (the three centre stamps of the vertical setting of five).

PENRHYN ISLANDS.—The Australian Philatelist reports the 1/2d King Edward type overprinted in vermilion instead of deep carmine. The surcharge appears to be a new setting, as the sheet has 12 stamps showing no stop after "Island", whereas the first printings had only 8. The "2" of "1/2" is a little further off the fraction bar in the new printing. The most noticeable difference, however, is found between the setting on the pictorial 1/2d and that on the first printing of the King Edward 1/2d, the words "1/2 Peni" in the former measuring 11 mm. as against 10 mm. in the latter, whilst the space between "Penrhyn Island" and value is 1/2 mm. greater in the pictorial.

POLAND.—Austrian Occupation.—Ewen's Weekly quotes the Schweizer Briefmarken-Zeitung that the surcharged Bosnian stamps are used in the districts of Czenstochau, Petirkau, Lask and Random. The press states that the administration of these was transferred by the Germans to the Austrians on April 15, 1915.

Presumably the surcharged "K.u.K. Feldpost" cards are also employed in that region.

Further values of the Bosnia-Herzegovina set have been surcharged; the whole issue includes now the 1 heller to 10 kronen denominations.

German Occupation.—The overprinted stamps recently noted are said to be in use at nine German post offices established at Bendzin, Czenstochau, Kalisch, Kolo, Konin, Lodz, Pabianice, Sieradz, and Wloclawek, for the correspondence of the German Government and its staff, but not yet for the use of the public in general.

RUSSIA.—Leo M. Moulson is informed that most of the Romanoff stamps have been sold out and stamps of the preceding issue have been placed on sale again. Mr. Moulson says the inscription under the pictures of the current Charity stamps reads "For the help of the soldiers and their families."

SAN MARINO IS AUSTRIA'S ENEMY.

Has Been at War With Austria Since Days of Napoleon.

By WM. LE QUEUX.

Contrary to the statements made in press references to San Marino and the war, the tiny republic has been in a state of war with Austria ever since the Napoleonic days, and though the republic has entered into diplomatic negotiations with most other countries, it has steadfastly refused to make peace with Austria. It is the oldest independent state in the world; and standing high upon its three mountains, the three feathers of its coat of arms, it is safe from attack, being in the centre of Italy, not far from Rimini. Its area is only 32 square miles, with a population of 11,000 all of whom are very prosperous, there being no poor-law and no poor.

Napoleon's Gift.—It was founded by the monk Saint Marino in the fourth century, but would long ago have disappeared had not Napoleon guaranteed its independence. On one occasion he sent the republic three cannon, but these were promptly returned with a polite note saying that as San Marino was at peace with the world, except Austria, the guns were not required.

To-day, the army of the Republic consists of about 1,000 men, half of whom are officers, the latter taking turns to fire the mid-day gun from the parapet in front of the Parliament House.

Though a sturdy little state, it contains many comic opera elements.

Its Gun.—Its army is brilliant in gold laced uniforms, but no shot other than the mid-day gun has ever been fired, and there have been no military manoeuvres. At one time the republic was famed as a refuge for criminals who had escaped from England, but the last treaty signed by the late Queen Victoria was one of extradition with the country, and I acted as secretary of the mission sent by the Foreign Office to ratify that treaty.

The republic is governed by a council of 60—30 nobles and 30 peasants, one of each being elected every six months as Prince Regent. In this happy little country no foreigner is allowed to hold property, nor is he allowed to reside there longer than 10 days. The people are a thrifty and patriotic race, and now Italy has declared war every man will arm himself against the common enemy.—London Star.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Will subscribers who have sent us summer vacation addresses with date of return please send us a postcard when it will be in order to send the paper to the home address. One change of address at a time is all we can comfortably handle.

—We have received printed matter descriptive of the aims and purposes of the Aero Mail Club recently organized. Anyone interested can no doubt obtain the prospectus, membership roll and application form by applying to Mr. Truby, whose address is given elsewhere in this issue.

—The Aero Mail Club announces the forthcoming appearance of a new volume entitled, the "U. S. Aerial Postal Service; Its History and Development," which will be published under its auspices, on or about October 1. The work will be absolutely unique in both scope and character, and will, as the title implies, embrace the most exhaustive study of this phase of our postal service ever before attempted. The volume is being compiled and edited by Russell L. Stultz, President of the Club, in collaboration with H. A. Truby and Karl Koslowski, both well-known aerial mail enthusiasts and officials of that organization, which fact affords ample assurance of its authoritativeness. For particulars address Mr. Truby, Box 231, New Kensington, Pa.

—The Fordham Stamp Exchange, Fordham, N. Y. City, would like the present address of A. B. Winograd, civil engineer, formerly 286 Beaubien St., Detroit, Mich.

—W. Peters advises us that he has been informed that John A. Flynn, Dayton, O., concerning whom inquiry was recently made, has been the victim of an automobile accident.

—The Edgewood Stamp Co. has purchased the stock of the Washington Stamp Co. of Boston, Mass.

—Fred'k Meyer, 1508 Sedgwick St., Chicago, writing Mrs. E. W. Oughtred for approvals gave Chas. Klein, 319 Elm St., same city, as reference. Letter to Klein was returned "no such number." Mrs. Oughtred also reports Chas. L. Hall based on sufficient evidence to warrant this news item. Hall is now at Powers Lake, Wis., and dealers interested should take note.

TUXEDO HALL
Madison Avenue and 59th Street
New York City

255th Meeting, July 1, 1915.

Meeting was called to order at 9.00 P. M. by President Klein. The minutes of our previous meeting were then read and adopted.

The Treasurer reports our finances as $141.91 with no bills outstanding; also that our new membership list is ready for distribution.

Mr. Klein reported and brought with him the "Exhibit Winner Certificates" which the Secretary will have filled out and presented to the winners of our monthly exhibits.

It was with regret that we accepted the resignation of Isidore Roos.

It was regularly moved and seconded that Mr. Vahan Mojian be permitted to hold auction sales in our meeting rooms on any of the second meeting nights in July, August and September.

We regret very much to hear of the death of our friend and fellow member Mr. C. Pilz who was killed on the battlefield in East Prussia on May 14, 1915. We extend our sympathy to his relatives.

The President called attention to the invitation of the National Philatelic Society's Third Annual Convention on July 22, 23, 24, at Aschenbroedel Hall, 144 East 86th Street.

Mr. I. Weltman of 119 East 23rd Street, was proposed by Mr. Singer and seconded by Mr. Denzau.

Meeting adjourned at 9:50 P. M.

Next meeting July 15th, 8 P. M. Visitors welcome.

G. DENZAU, Sec.

TURKISH WAR MARKS.

Turkey is using a variety of special war postmarks and censor marks. The censor marks I have seen are rectangular and impressed in violet. An elliptical mark, hand-stamped in red, is used for denoting that the letter has been sanctioned by the censor of the Ottoman Empire to be forwarded to an address abroad. The same mark is impressed in black on letters coming from abroad, the Turkish inscriptions signifying, "Have acquainted ourselves with contents—allowed to proceed." A long oblong mark impressed in black is said to read, "Temporary postmark during war time."—London Telegraph.

THE PASSING OF THE COLLECTION.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

The summons had come. I was on my way into the hills. The trail was long, and my return was at least three days distant. I did not like to leave the tent-house and its household gods alone, but there was no one with whom I felt free to entrust its treasures. The gods are sometimes good,—and this, opportunely, was one of the times.

The notes of "Old Heidelberg" were wafted on the summer breezes. The bass and tenor were known to me. I felt a seemingly elation, for the mingled voices meant safety for the tent-house.

Around a bend in the trail came Jimmy O' and Eddy Fyne, riding slowly and singing somberly. They finished. Then came a cheerful roar of greetings.

"An' t' think o' us wastin' our sweet strains on the desert air was bad enough," began Jimmy O', "thout their bein' desecrated by listenin' ears f'om the environs o' Willow."

"Oh, heck! Jimmy, cut and iron language and let's find out sumthin'," said Eddy, disgustedly.

I explained my errand into the hills, passed over the keys of the shack, and went my way.

At the end of three days, upon my return, I found the tent-house spotless. The twins had been thorough. Even my much-loved and carefully treasured books had been dusted individually by hands which I knew must be Jimmy O's,—for he loved books and handled them in a manner that betokened reverence.

Half an hour later Jimmy O' and Eddy came up the path.

"I had a horse once I thought a heap of," began Jimmy, after the first greetings were over and he had settled into a soft spot on the ground. The hammock had been abandoned to me. "That horse sure would turn on a half dollar. One time, I went into this here town o' Willow, an' one o' them Evans school boys f'om back in Boston saw that there horse and lowed he'd own 'im. Me—I sure needed about $60 that day, an' I sol' 'im."

Jimmy lighted his cigarette, and I saw him no more for five minutes. But his voice came out of the cloud.

"Nex' day I felt some lonesome—me with a new horse I paid 'leven dollars for, plannin' to break 'im. He sure kep' me busy fer a while—that new cayuse o' mine. But I fin'ly gits 'im good. Not havin' 'im on my mind is bad fer me. I kep' thinkin' o' that there cayuse I sold t' th' Evans boy."

"Well, I seen th' boy, awhile later. He sure treated that horse o' mine fine, but he wa'n't ridin' th' range, an' I knew poor ol' Pinto was sure lonesome. He hears my voice, an' whinners. Say! I sure thought then I was lots worse'n Judas."

"Well, I hung aroun' that town, off an' on, till school closes. The boy 'lows he'll ride up t' Flag, 'ith me fer guide, an' as reward I gits ol' Pinto back fer keeps."

Here Jimmy became visible again.

I began to get the drift. I had sent my collection of stamps away back East to be sold—joyously, at the first; then later, when I began to miss them, regretfully; now remorsefully. Bitterly I repented. But the ones most loved had passed forever, and the rest had lost their identity so far as the old album was concerned. It was the need of the passing hour which had caused the transfer.

"You, see, if th' boys had a-known," continued Jimmy O', "I could a-got anythin' f'om them any time. But I wasn't peepin'—not me. So I jest pays the penalty, and suffers along. But I got ole Pinto back."

We went into the house. Eddy was silent. He looked like a hired mourner, and anything I said fell flat. Jimmy O' was maker of the conversation.

"I'm mighty glad t' see th' lib'ry," resumed Jimmy, from the confines of the easy chair. "Now that there set o' the ol' 'American Journal'—an' them there Trifet's 'Mercury'—an' that Kline's third edition—well, when I see them, I says to Eddy, 'Maybe he had a aberration, like me th' time I sells Pinto.' Eddy he thinks so, too."

Eddy grunted assent.

"But, friend o' ours, w'y didn't yo' say sumthin'? Here we are—Moore an' Eddy an' me—just plum' loco with money. We'd a staked you."

I explained the passing years,—the fact that I was no longer young,—that my journalistic labors were not so productive as of old,—all the specious pleas I could muster. But they fell flat. The boys thought they had been treated unfairly.

"When you was gone, I made another c'lector," began Jimmy. "He was that sick he'd 'bout given up ever'thing but the ghost—which wouldn't walk. Said he'd sell out an' quit. Me—I staked 'im. 'E's gone up on th' range now."

"Arizony's plum' full o' 'em, now—c'lectors," interpolated Eddy, breaking the silence for the first time.

"This here chap got off'n the train, feelin' blue as a whetstone. I see he was one o' them down-an'-outers, an' I jest nacherly warmed up ter 'im," resumed Jimmy.

"Son," I says, 'the world's all right, but, for the love o' Mike! ain't some o' the folks in it plum' ornery?'"

"He kind o' grinned, then he ups an' tells me all about it—after I'd towed 'im up here t' th' hummock. Same ol' story. Lungs no good—had t' throw up 'is job—newspaper man, too—name o' Milton Ray. Said he'd known you an' Maxy Solyman, back East, on a paper you-all worked on. Maxy he c'lected, too, 'e says."

I knew the boy as a success and as a very hard worker,—knew, too, the old agonies of mind and body which the poisoned air of that death-trap building had brought to many of us. Five of my co-workers were dead and of the old guards none now remained with the paper. The sorrow of it.

"Well, he's ridin' range, now, an' eatin' three, and prayin' fer a sight o' the 'ole familiar faces.' You'll see 'im w'en you-all gits up t' Three-Bar-X again."

Eddy showed signs of animation. He poked around his roll of bedding for a moment, then pulled out a long black covered little book, in which I knew he carried a few of his choicest treasures mainly "on entire." He passed it over without further words.

I opened it. There were a five cents New York postmaster's stamp, on original,—fine margins; a five cents Confederate, of a beautiful shade of olive. It was slightly damaged in one corner; but it was a rarity. It too was on original. And, wonder of wonders and beyond compare! My eyes opened wide—for there was the only ninety cents 1869 I had ever heard of on entire,—a bright, beautiful copy, very light cancellation. It was on one of those long yellow envelopes, which lawyers use for mailing documents, and the seal and tape had been preserved intact.

Jimmy did not look at me,—nor Eddy.

"Where—where did it come from, Eddy?" I asked, at last,—for the postmark was my native city, and the handwriting and address were most familiar.

"He sent it—that chap Jimmy O'. an' Johnny Williams staked 'long time ago,—that homesick chap f'om Lodi. Said he'd sent this fer mem'ry's sake," said Eddy. "An' so, friend o' ours, we start ye all over agin,—you c'n c'lect entire!"

And, turning deaf ears to my exclamations, Jimmy O' and Eddy Fyne joyously arose and started back to the range.

"A'S" FOR THE DICTIONARY.

Seven lists of A's were received for our Philatelic Dictionary and the awards are as follows in their order:—

EGYPT—A HISTORY OF ITS STAMPS.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

Revised for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

The notice issued by the Government in 1865 lays forth the conditions and stipulations regarding the monopoly of the postal service and all matters appertaining thereto.

The decree being rather long only extracts of interest to the collector of Egyptian stamps are given:

RULES FOR THE INTERNAL POSTAL SERVICE.

(This decree comes into force on January 1st, 1866).

Art. 1.—The monopoly of the postal service belongs by right to the Government.

Art. 2.—The following are exempt from this monopoly:—

(i) Newspapers and periodicals distributed in the town where they were printed.

(ii) Letters, circulars, etc., by societies, firms, etc., delivered in the same place where they are established.

(iii) Plans, law papers in connection with the courts, registers, etc., unaccompanied by a letter.

(iv) Freight notes, bills of lading, etc., brought by captains, carriers, porters, muleteers, or others having reference only to the goods they carry.

(v) Letters, even closed, and newspapers, when taken by persons, if the number is not such as to be deemed to be a business matter.

(vi) Letters and papers referring to the railway service, and taken over the lines.

Art. 3.—Messengers, muleteers, captains, or owners of rafts, etc., arriving at any port or place within the state must take all the correspondence which they bring to the next post office.

Art. 4.—The postal officials have to watch that the administration of the railway, the steamship companies, or their agents, owners of public vehicles, etc., do not take or convey letters or other correspondence.

Art. 5.—The rate of postage for ordinary letters is according to weight so much for each ten grammes or any portion thereof.

Art. 8.—The prepayment of ordinary letters is optional, that of registered letters compulsory.

Art. 46.—All the taxes due to the postal administration . . . are represented by the affixing of one or more stamps according to the corresponding amount of the different established tariffs of the present regulation.

Art. 47.—The preparation of the paper used for the stamps, and the manufacture thereof, is reserved to the Government, which determines their shape and the price.

Art. 48.—The stamps for ordinary letters must be put on by the sender, those for registered letters by the postal officials.

Art. 49.—All stamps will be obliterated at the office of origin. Insufficiently stamped letters will be charged to the necessary amount to be collected from the receiver.

Art. 50.—The postage for letters that are not franked will be put on the address side in large figures.

Art. 52.—The prepayment of correspondence by means of stamps cut in two is inadmissible, the value of such stamps is lost to the sender, and newspapers franked with cut stamps will be destroyed.

In case of frauds by means of these stamps, that is to say forgeries or trying to re-use used stamps, etc., communication will be made with the Director-General with the object of bringing the culprit to justice.

Art. 53.—All correspondence will be delivered at the post offices (no delivery).

At the conclusion of these various clauses, the decree goes on to talk of the impending first issue of permanent postage stamps in these terms:

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

The post offices alone are authorised to sell stamps.

The postage stamps are of seven different kinds, which are distinctive by the colour and the value, that is to say: 5, 10, and 20 paras.

1, 2, 5, and 10 piastres.

The correspondence for foreign countries must not be thrown into the letter boxes, but taken to the post offices. Foreign letters must be franked by Egyptian stamps to Alexandria, the foreign post-

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

H. F. COLMAN,

Second National Bank Bldg.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The remarks about an English firm of printers did not materialize, nor is it even definitely known whether any British firm was ever actually approached upon the matter.

As announced on January 1st, 1866, seven different denominations in various designs were put into circulation.

The illustration gives a good idea of the oriental designs, but it should be noted that in all cases the face value appears in legible figures, so that there is no confusion.

The Overprint. The Watermark.

The stamps were printed on a greyish-white medium wove paper, watermarked (except the 1 piastre) with a pyramid surmounted by an eight rayed star—the star representing "Sirius," symbolic of the periodical rise of the Nile.

The stamps were lithographed in sheets of 200 in ten rows of twenty each by Messrs. Pellas Bros. of Genoa—but we must exclude the 1 piastre, about which we shall have more to say later.

The Turkish overprint (in black) was applied by lithography, but was typographed on the 1 and 2 piastres.

There is no definite information available as to whether the overprint was applied at Genoa or locally; opinion varies. A keen student of Egyptian stamps, the late M. Cantel Bey, stated that the overprints on all values were applied in Egypt.

Much has been written and said regarding the method of production of this issue, but we believe the above to be absolutely correct, both as regards the stamps themselves and the overprint.

None of the aforementioned remarks hold good in the case of the 1 piastre stamp.

This value is peculiar both as regards its printing and make up of the sheet, not to mention a glossy unwatermarked paper.

It has been suggested that this particular denomination was not printed by Fratelli Pellas—a statement which is quite inaccurate.

Why then was this value on unwatermarked paper, typographed and printed in two panes of 100 stamps each instead of the usual sheet of 200?

Probably this value, urgently wanted as representing the inland postage, had been printed before the arrival of the watermarked paper. When the watermarked paper reached the printers they found that instead of arranging the stamps in two panes (as was the case with the 1 piastre sheet) it was necessary to arrange them in unbroken panes [sheet] to fit the watermark.

The ordinary six values (excluding the 1 piastre stamp) were made up of 200 clichés or transfers, and as it was not known that the top and bottom halves of the stamps were slightly different, tête bêche pairs of minor importance occur on all sheets, owing to the fact that the clichés were placed haphazard into the formes.

The printed sheets bore marginal inscriptions:

Top—"VICE REALI POSTE EGIZIANE".
Right—"FRANCIBOLLI" (and value) "PARA 5," etc.

Bottom—"MINISTERO DEI LAVORI PUBBLICI."

The 1 piastre sheet contained two panes of 100 each (side by side vertical) divided by a blank white space. The marginal inscriptions are the same as for the other denominations, but the type is much smaller.

It will be noticed that the upper and lower half of each stamp is apparently the same reversed: this at any rate was the intention of the artist.

Naturally, however, slight variations occurred in all the seven designs and in no case are the "top" and "bottom" portions of the design exact duplicates of each other, so that in making up the printing formes or plates the workmen made no attempt to distinguish between the two halves.

The application of the Turkish overprint finally decided the question as to which was the top of the stamp for the central device should appear with the circle uppermost.

The overprint, therefore, made two types for each stamp.

5 Paras.
I. Upper right hand corner. "A" of "PARA" between two points of star.
II. "A" of "PARA" has one point of star pointing towards it.

10 Paras.
I. Upper right hand corner. Ornament next to border containing word PARA starts vertically.

II. Ornamentation starts horizontally.

20 Paras.
I. Above the centre of the design is a small loop which is almost closed at the top.

II. The loop is more open and flat in appearance.

1 Piastre.
I. The upper scrolls of the central oval do not meet.
II. The scrolls meet.

2 Piastres.
I. In the left hand top corner under the rope-like ornament has ten entwining sections.

STAMP AUCTIONS
PHILA. STAMP CO.
 21 SOUTH 17TH ST. PHILA.

II. The rope has eleven sections.

I. At the right hand top corner the loop touches the circle enclosing the figure "5."
II. The loop does not touch the circle.

I. In upper left hand corner the "P" of "P.E." is badly formed.
II. The "P" is more accurately drawn.

There were two distinct printings of the 2 piastres:

(i) With marginal inscriptions uniform with the remaining five denominations (excluding the 1 piastre).
 (ii) With marginal inscriptions in a smaller type (an intermediate type between that used for the 1 piastre and the other values).

According to the late M. Cantel Bey the printed sheets were despatched from Pellas Bros. imperforate, and were perforated at Alexandria by a single-line machine. Many years ago some proof sheets were found in the old establishment of Pellas Bros., of a sheet of the 1 piastre was discovered with the regular perforation. This discovery has brought some specialists to the conclusion that the sheets were perforated at Genoa. Acting on our original assumption that the 1 piastre was the first value printed, it is quite probable that the 1 piastre was perforated at Genoa; the machine then being sent to Alexandria where the other denominations were perforated. The issue is listed as Perf. 12 1/2, but we have seen undoubted compounds 12 1/2 x 13, although inferior workmanship may account for this. All values exist imperforate, partly imperforate and with double perf. (usually horizontal).

One of Egypt's most interesting and rare stamps is the 5 piastres with overprint of the 10 piastre stamp. There can be little doubt that this error was discovered before many specimens were sold for the simple reason that in imperforate state it appears to be less rare than perforated. The sheets were probably held back, but later they leaked out from official sources. This error is known perforated 12 1/2 x 15.

The 10 piastres with overprint of the 5 piastre denomination is a fake.

Until quite recent times the 10 piastres tête bêche was catalogued at about £40. This tête-bêche overprint variety never existed, however, in the original sheets and is a fabrication pure and simple. Unoverprinted pairs of proofs or printer's waste were overprinted to make this variety.

R. S. Green of Cincinnati, O., has had the misfortune of having two stock books stolen from his office and dealers are advised that they may have offerings made them through which the thieves may be traced. Any information will be greatly appreciated by Mr. Green.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—To relieve the sufferings of Belgium's war stricken population a stamp collectors' auction will soon be held in London. Fred J. Melville appeals to us, through a letter just at hand, to invite contributions for this sale from American philatelists. Stamps may be sent him care of Daily Telegraph, London, Eng.

—Cards are out announcing the marriage of the popular dealer Wendover Neefus of Hudson, N. Y. Congratulations certainly from the WEEKLY and his host of patrons. The happy event took place July 14 at Hudson.

—Washington, D. C., Branch has decided to invite the S. P. A. convention to their city next year and wish that all who make out their proxies instruct for Washington, 1916.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from W. G. Birdseye, H. W. Boers (3), Carl L. Mundy, Rev. Fred A. Weil, M. J. Fenster.

—"Would like to call your attention to a couple of articles, both in women's magazines, perhaps related somewhat distantly to our hobby. The Woman's Companion publishes nearly a quarter page illustration of letters received by them in one of their contests showing U. S. Stamps in a number of varieties, from two to eight on each letter. The Housewife has a story, "A 33rd Degree Optimist," which brings in rather cleverly the old stamps found in a barrel of rubbish."—J. H. MASSEY.

—Will subscribers who have sent us summer vacation addresses with date of return please send us a postcard when it will be in order to send the paper to the home address. One change of address at a time is all we can comfortably handle.

—The Columbian Stamp Co. would like the address of W. Denny, formerly of Lawrence, Kan. A letter to that address has been returned, "unclaimed."

IN OPPOSITION.

To the Editor:—

The Los Angeles Branch, No. 35, A. P. S., have gone on record as being opposed to the publication of verbatim reports of Conventions in the American Philatelist.

We are convinced that a very large part of the membership cares very little about reading such verbatim reports.

We are more than convinced that the great majority of members would much prefer to see the money now wasted on these long winded reports, expended on hand books or articles for the Am. Philatelist with occasional plates of stamps.

I realize that the time now left before the convention is short in which to agitate this question but if it is not beyond the realms of the WEEKLY I should like to see the question brought forcibly to the attention of its readers and trust to it that some of the delegates to San Francisco will bring the question prominently before the Convention.

The collectors of Los Angeles will be pleased to meet visiting collectors, and if they will make their presence known to any of the following local dealers the two local Societies will be notified.

Very sincerely,

JOSEPH S. DAVIS.

STAMPIC SHRINERS SEE SEATTLE.

Shriners interested in stamp-collecting visited the exhibit room of the Washington Philatelic Society, 4092 Arcade building, Seattle, Tuesday, July 13. Fifty Seattle members and visitors gathered to discuss matters philatelic.

A. N. Caudell, of Washington, D. C., who is with the delegation from Almas Temple, gave his general experience as a stamp collector in the capital city.

Dr. W. J. Mitchell, of Wichita, with the Midian Temple crowd, talked of pre-cancelled collections in the United States, in which branch of philatelics he has specialized.

Another talk was made by C. W. Kissinger, of Rajah Temple, Reading, Pa., who is president of the Southeastern Philatelic Association.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

MARSHALL ISDS.—NO STAMPS.

"In view of recent events, it will be of interest to collectors to read the following statement made by Mr. Whalen, manager of the Islands Department of Messrs. Burns, Philp & Co., to a reporter of one of the Sydney dailies, and which was published: 'At Jaluit postage stamps are not used. When a letter is taken to the post office it is read by a censor, and if passed for transmission the sender pays in cash the amount of the charge. The change has not caused any bother, and is working just as smoothly as did the old system.'—Aust. Philatelist.

AMONG OUR ADVERTISERS.

It is interesting to note the appearance of our advertising columns in what is considered the dulllest month in the year. Not only are our regular advertisers taking space right through the summer season, but new dealers are placing their wares before the stamp public.

First note the big Togo advertisements of Dalwick and Bright & Son.

The quarter pages of Pollard and the Fulton Stamp Co. are particularly noticeable. Mr. Pollard is taking quarter pages in four successive numbers, which is a marked tribute to the value of the WEEKLY as an advertising medium. L. G. Barrett, calling attention to this advertisement and the desirability of envelope collecting, takes adv. space also offering envelopes.

Young and Passmore are with us with wholesale offerings. Now is the time for the prospective dealer to get his stock in order for the new season soon to open, and both these dealers can accommodate with small wholesale lots to suit one's purse.

L. A. Beebe commences this week a campaign of poster stamp advertising and hopes to interest many collectors in this cousin of stamp collecting. We have already noted the San Diego Stamp Co.'s appearance in our columns and this firm will be with us permanently. P. G. Beals is back again.

A really new name is Willard E. Gardiner, whose attractive two-inch advertisement will be noted.

When next week an entire page is taken by a well-known firm, our subscribers will be compelled to take notice. There may be dullness in some lines of trade, but it is not so with the WEEKLY and the live dealer appreciates that fact.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Stamp of Gold—A dealer in Chicago was fortunate enough to find a five cent August, unused, in a collection that was rich in old U. S. that he bought "over the counter." The dealer discovered the August variety upon examining the purchase at his leisure and as it happened, a visiting stamp man was the first to see the specimen; or at any rate, he seemed to be the first serious contender for the stamp. He secured a favorable price on the variety and begging a half-hour's option on the stamp, he obtained the purchase price in part from a friend, as naturally he did not have cash to the amount necessary in his pocket. The transaction was completed and another five cent August is added to the visible supply. The copy is a very fine one and retains about all of its original gum; and it may be needless to add has all the paper and gum characteristics of the issue as well as the truncated ornaments in the corners. In all probability, it will not be long before this stamp will fill a gap in one of the great collections. An honest tale speeds best; and knowing that all our riches are not stored up in heaven, the man who bought the stamp naturally turned to us for financial succor temporarily.

* * *

Convention Reports—We have been notified by Mr. Joseph S. Davis that the Los Angeles Branch of the American Philatelic Society places itself on record as opposing the publication in the future of verbatim reports of the proceedings of the convention. Elsewhere, we shall try to make room for Mr. Davis' communication so that the position of the opponents may be fully understood. Quite properly, it is proposed to bring the subject up for discussion at the San Francisco convention. We are aware that objection has existed to the literal reports of the convention in all their trivialities and non-essentials but when it was openly manifested, it did not seem to make the head-way expected. A full and frank discussion of the point should loan a bit of interest to the convention.

* * *

Add—The list of locals must make place for another companion which a Buffalo reader has introduced to the philatelic public through the medium of the WEEKLY. Only infrequently nowadays does the local, "hitherto unchronicled" make its appearance.

Faith—We shall not reopen the discussion on the five centavos perforated Sonora, Transitorio, but we relay the information received from Mr. W. Parker Lyon that he obtained from the Mexican consulate in Los Angeles, no fewer than ten different town cancellations on this stamp, on envelopes that had done actual postal duty and many of which were addressed to the consul himself. Mr. Lyon is a partizan of the Sonora stamps, a deduction that we shrewdly make when he tells us that he has purchased Mr. Linn's collection of Sonora and combined it with his own impressive lot of these stamps. Some time ago, we spoke of a printed censor's label on a Mexican envelope addressed to this country and we may add that Mr. Linn has a type-written censor's label on cover as well as another in red ink, with the written words: "Revisado por el censor." Mexico is a regular country now that it is matching European enterprise.

* * *

Summer Recreation—From Mr. Paul Dillingham, we have received a breezy budget of comment from which we extract the momentous information that our remarks about the "cracked plate" three cent green U. S. got under his skin and he looked over eighteen hundred of the stamp and found no sign of a scratch. "Who's cracked now?" he feverishly asks. He says further that in our "album of song" remarks have been made recently about old albums; and he rises to remark that when J. W. Scott first issued his Best album, the current price of each stamp was printed in the space allotted to it. He wishes to know if some kind dealer will offer to supply him at the aforesaid market prices.

Dream Stuff—A recondite writer on "Dreams" says that it is a peculiarity that even the most inveterate dreamer never distinctly sees colors in his gossamer webs of fancy but we know that in the "pleasing dreams and slumbers light" of the collector who lives for his stamps, he sees the colors plainly of the batch of ninety cent, 1869, and other choice rarities that he finds on covers in his sleep. When the philatelist begins to dream about stamps he may know that he is Philatelia's captive; and here, we ask: Have you had any stamp dreams lately that are worth telling to our refined and fastidious readers?

New Wrinkle—The following announcement has been made by the Postmaster General, whereby Section 458½ of the Postal Laws and Regulations have been amended: "On and after September 1, 1915, the postmaster at the mailing office may, on payment of one cent, give the sender of an ordinary parcel of fourth-class mail a receipt therefor. A postage stamp to cover the charge for the receipt shall be affixed thereto. The name and address of the addressee of the parcel shall be written in the receipt by the sender. Postmasters desiring additional information on this subject should address the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Registered Mails."

Old Collecting Hint—A correspondent says: "I was much interested in your remarks on the origin of hinges, as you put it. You may be interested to know that so late as 1884, the 'Preface' to the International album contained the following warning words: 'In regard to inserting the stamps in their places, care should be taken to use pure gum arabic; many valuable collections have been entirely spoiled by using prepared mucilage, which in course of time will turn nearly every stamp yellow. A much better plan is to use the small pieces of gummed paper sold by stamp dealers, for hinging the stamp to the book; the great advantage of this system is that both sides of the stamp can be examined if necessary, and a poor specimen can at any time be removed to make room for a better one, without injury to stamp or album.'

* * *

Well Liked—A number of readers have expressed their satisfaction upon having seen the illustrations of the "old postal circular" in the issue of July 10th; and one of our friends is so encomiastic as to say that the reproductions are the most valuable bits of lore to U. S. students "that may be conceived of." We have several similar old notices and documents that we shall depict from time to time as we are convinced that there are not a few philatelists who attend closely to the old printed postal records. In this connection we ask that if any of our readers has something in the curious or antiquarian line that possesses a philatelic interest, we should be pleased to be informed about it.

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 West 42nd Street NEW YORKTOGO ON GOLD COAST.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

There has been considerable excitement on the London stamp market by the arrival of stocks of the new Togo provisional stamps, the current King George stamps of the Gold Coast overprinted

TOGO ANGLO-FRENCH OCCUPATION.

Apparently very few dealers have obtained large supplies, and the lucky ones have had some difficulty in fixing a starting price for the novelties. Their importations have been obtained in most instances at face value, with perhaps an agent's commission, but one dealer was offered £1,000 premium on his parcel, and others have been offered double face value on large quantities. The very poor overprinting is largely responsible for the dealers' interest in these new provisionals. They were overprinted in Accra in panes of sixty stamps, there being two such panes to each sheet. But the printing is so bad that the speculative stamp man foresees its early supersession by an overprinting executed more efficiently in London.

There are several interesting varieties which occur in all the values, the most notable of which is the one with a small capital "F" instead of the large initial in "FRENCH." This occurs three times in each pane of sixty stamps.

The prices already quoted for these new stamps issued only last month are, of course, quite speculative. They may or may not be justified by the extent of the issue, but it is not unlikely that they will prove a profitable acquisition, as the demand for war provisionals of the former German colonies has been enormous not only in Europe, but in America and Australia.

The following are some of the prices I have noted:

The set of seven low values, ½d to 1s, is selling at from 7s 6d to 8s 6d (face value 2s 3d).

The 2s, 2s 6d, 5s, 10s, and £1 are quoted retail at prices varying from three to four times face value.—Telegraph.

A NEW PROTECTIVE SOCIETY FORMED.

International Society of Postage Stamp Dealers, Paris.

Under the above title a society was organized June 18 which has its office at 16 Avenue de l'Opéra, Paris, France.

The following officers have been selected:—Lemaire, president; Champion and Vervelle, vice-presidents; R. Poulain, secretary; Marquet, sub secretary; Lerrou, treasurer; Lemierre, manager of the Bulletin; Roland, superintendent of the circulation of stamps; Chevillard, Delacourcelle, Farges, Gilbert, A. O. Marimian, Moreau, Nicolaides, Perron, Roumet, Yvert and Tellier, members of the executive.

The aims of this society are:

1. To establish friendly relations between the members and to facilitate their business connections;
2. To bring forward motions, to study and to work up means proper for developing stamp business;
3. To protect the interest of its members and to help them as far as possible by giving information, references and useful advices;
4. To fight against forgeries and forgers.

In order to attain these aims the Society will hold monthly sessions, publish a Bulletin, establish a library, attend to the circulation of stamps and expertise stamps of the members of the Society.

Anyone will be admitted to membership who has been dealing regularly in postage and fiscal stamps and philatelic accessories for two years at least and who is presented by two sponsors. Ladies having a firm in their own name will be admitted.

The entrance-fee is $1.20 and the annual subscription $2.40. The Rules and Regulations are in press and will be forwarded on application.

CHAT CHAT ON POSTAL CARDS.

By MAITLAND MILLIKEN.

Did you know that French is a more universally used language than the English, on cards

Australia has recently issued a penny Kangaroo carmine on white postal card, also a penny King George letter card dark purple on gray.

A circular postmark with value and date 1877 passing as a stamp in red on blue bordered card was the unique emission of Jamaica.

It is a handsome card that this glorious country of ours should have first gotten out in 1873. The later issues are quite a disappointment.

When the new American catalogue of postal and letter cards is issued, postal card collecting will experience a boom among the American collectors, the like of which has not been seen for a dozen years. There will be many "come-backs" resurrected into the old fold.

Germany has a very large number of card collectors and several flourishing card societies. One of the latter is said to maintain a catalogue for the benefit of its members showing current quotations on cards from all over the world.

It has been noted that several large holders of cards have been detaching or tearing off double or reply cards to make them single to sell to collectors. This practice should be discouraged. Original double cards are harder to secure and worth more money than otherwise.

Several months ago Percy McGraw Mann issued a "P. S. N. List of United States Postal Cards." This pamphlet of 10 pages lists over 100 minor varieties of all cards issued from 1873 to date. Collectors having U. S. cards should secure a copy at the low cost of 12c from the author as they will find a new lot of varieties to search for and add to their collections.

GERMAN OCCUPATION OF BELGIUM.

"With regard to the installation of the German Civil Post in the occupied parts of Belgium, we glean the following from the Tagespresse:—

"The re-opening of the Postal Service within the territory of the German General Government of Belgium has now been completed. All places and localities in this territory have been annexed to the newly-created postal net of the German Postal and Telegraphic Administration of Belgium. The territory encloses the provinces of Antwerp, Brabant, Limburg, Liege, Luxembourg, Namur, and the province Henne-gau, with the exception of the district of Tournai. In this territory are, besides, included the French places of Givet and Fumay, with the postal stations of Aubrives, Fumay, Givet, Hargnies, Haybes and Virlux-Molhain. Not included are Maubeuge and surrounding. This French part, which is assigned to the General Government of Belgium, belongs, like the provinces of East and West Flanders and the district of Tournai, still to the range of the Field Post Office of the Western Armies.

"From June 1st the postal service between Switzerland and the chief places of Belgium, like Brussels, Liege, Namur, Antwerp, etc., is again entertained. The letters must be posted in open envelopes, and, naturally, must not contain any military information."—S. B. Z. tr. by Ewen's Weekly.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—S. E. Colman announces the appearance of the 10c Panama Pacific in the perf. 10 variety which completes the set in this perforation. Mr. Colman adds:—

"The new perf. 10 3/4 is giving satisfaction and will, no doubt, be adopted by the P. O. Dept. So far only the 2c has been issued."

Kendall P. Smith reports the following new envelopes, the numbers being according to Bartels' Catalogue:

2c Die B, white, size 5, K. 87, wmk. 18.
2c Die B, white, size 8, —, wmk. 18.
2c Die B, white, size 13, K. 89, wmk. 17.
2c Die B, white, size 13, K. 89, wmk. 18.

D. D. Berolzheimer describes the new watermark for United States envelopes as showing "U S" intertwined, with "1915" at the top, the figures being separated by the upper parts of the large letters.

J. W. Casper submits a freak cancellation on the 3c of 1870-71, so arranged as to form a woman's face in George's back hair. Our correspondents are evidently studying their stamps closely, but genuine varieties are as scarce as ever.

CANADA.—D. D. Berolzheimer has shown us a new wrapper from Canada. The inscription sufficiently explains its use as follows: "This wrapper to be used only by publishers and for the sole purpose of mailing second class matter to the United States." These wrappers have been in use in the Dominion for years, though it is the first we have seen with portrait of King George.

Publishers' Wrapper.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—Hermann Focke sends us a new Dominican Republic creation which seems to indicate the near-end of the surcharged official stamps which have been in circulation for only a short time. The stamp is a reproduction of the 1912 German issue, made in the Republic, with the color changed from carmine to brown, and with an additional surcharge of the year 1915 in red, to prove its genuineness. The original issue, as previously stated, was demonetized on account of theft from the Santo Domingo Post Office of a large amount, which circumstance, no doubt, stands for the reason of the above stated change in color and the surcharge.

Adhesive.

With "1915" in red.
1c yellow brown and black.

Jacques Krebs has also favored us with a specimen of the above stamp.

FRANCE.—Offices in Morocco.—Though advertised some time ago, the Stamp Shop calls attention to the fact that a permanent Red Cross stamp has been issued for the French Offices in Morocco. The Red Cross and addition to value contained in a tablet cut into the design just above "Maroc." The stamp is overprinted "Protectorat—Français" in black.

Red Cross Adhesive.

10x5c carmine.

FRENCH OCEANICA.—Two Red Cross stamps are reported by our French contemporaries, Lemaire and Maury. The 15c blue of 1892, 15c gray of 1900 have been overprinted locally with a Red Cross and the word, "Tahiti," in red. Of the 15c blue, 1800 specimens were overprinted, and of the 15c gray 10,000 stamps were thus treated.

In addition to these Red Cross stamps, a provisional 10c stamp has been made MIDDLE CONGO.—Stamp Collecting reports a rumor to the effect that the stamps of this French colony are to be overprinted "Territoires du Tchad" for use in the hinterland of Cameroons.

NEW ZEALAND.—The Daily Telegraph says:

"The halfpenny King George stamp of New Zealand was expected to be on sale in the Dominion July 3. This will be the first of the long delayed Georgian series of which so much is expected in the way of portraiture, design and execution. In style it resembles the simple treatment of the portrait of Queen Victoria on the first adhesive postage stamp, issued just seventy-five years ago. Elaborate care has been taken by the New Zealand authorities over this issue, and even after the present design was passed and the die engraved, the die was sent back to England for improvement in details. Now the plates are understood to be ready for most of the denominations, but there is a technical difficulty, which may delay the issue of the other values for some weeks."

RHODESIA.—According to Mr. Schachne, an international postal card, bearing the portrait of King George has been issued.

ST. VINCENT.—Hermann Focke writes: "It may be of interest to you and others that the issue of the recent St. Vincent provisional "ONE PENNY" on 1sh black on green consisted of 15,590 stamps, and that only the fact that the entire issue was bought up by a few speculators makes the stamp a desirable acquisition—at a fair price!"

SIAM.—Philip H. Ward, Jr., reports another provisional from this country, the 2a violet and slate of 1906 having been surcharged "2 satang" like the 2s on 1a noted recently. The same error, accent over "g" of "Satang", occurs on this sheet also. The last year's provisionals, 5s on 6s and 10s on 12s have been reprinted and minor differences can be noted in the surcharges.

NEW BUFFALO LOCAL.

From Mr. Harry C. Flierl, of Buffalo, New York, we have received some interesting testimony on the subject of a local stamp, hitherto unnoticed in a philatelic sense, that he was so fortunate as to uncover recently. It is our opinion that Mr. Flierl has enriched the field of United States local stamps with a new variety; and he may well feel that his philatelic enterprise in rescuing the stamp from oblivion has been well rewarded both from a material and a sentimental view-point. We quote: "In looking over the papers of an old law firm in this city. I found what I have every reason to believe is an unknown Buffalo local. In an old directory of Buffalo, dated 1848-1849, I found a full page ad which I have copied and send to you, following the exact wording and paragraphing of the original ad. I found no other advertisements in subsequent issues of the directory; and in the edition of 1852, the name of Enos W. Spaulding does not appear, indicating that he had withdrawn from business or had moved. The local is not an adhesive but the design is impressed on the envelope or cover; and the word, Paid, is both written and stamped on the cover. The design is similar to that of the Gordon's City Express stamp, 1848, with the exception that 'Spaulding's Penny Post' replaces the inscription on the Gordon local."

We assume that the impression of the stamp is in black and so greatly does the design resemble that of the Gordon locals of New York City that we suspect that a Gordon local furnished the inspiration for the design of the Buffalo local, which is illustrated herewith:

"The following is the advertisement that appeared in the Buffalo directory of 1848-49 and which is nicely corroborative of the existence of the post which undoubtedly was represented by the stamped envelope described:

PENNY-POST CARD.

To the Citizens of Buffalo
The Subscriber respectfully announces that he has opened an Office No. 4 Seneca St., and personally attends to the delivery of Mail matter from the Buffalo Post Office to persons ordering it at any place within the City Limits, immediately after the opening of each mail, between the hours of 7 o'clock A M and 8 o'clock P. M. Persons desirous of availing themselves of the service of SPAULDING'S PENNY-POST

In the early delivery of their mail matter, will register their name at his office, and deposit a Post Office order. Letters to the "care of Spaulding's Penny-Post" from any part of the U. S. or foreign countries, will be taken from the Post Office by the Proprietor, who will pay the postage, and with the utmost despatch deliver to the persons addressed, adding 2 cents to the regular postage on delivery.

The Proprietor also attends to the delivery of City Messages, Visiting and Business Cards, Circulars, Notices, Valentines, Tickets, Bills, and Small Parcels—Matters of this nature may be left at the Principal Office, No. 4 Seneca St., or deposited in his Penny-Post Boxes at the Principal Hotels. The Boxes will be opened three times each day, viz; at 10 A. M., 2 P. M. and 5 o'clock P. M. Letters designed for the Mails, will in all cases, be placed in the Post Office in season for the Mails for which they are intended. Letters for the mails must be Penny-Post Paid, (Two Cents).

Terms:—For P. O. Patrons 50 cents per Quarter, or 2 cents per Letter. Drop Letters command 2 cents on delivery if not pre-paid.

All Postage money advanced by the Proprietor, must be refunded on the delivery of the letter to the person addressed.

Mr. Spaulding having been connected with the Post Office Department, as Asst. Post Master, in one of the principal Post Offices in New England, anticipates and respectfully solicits an amount of patronage equal to the utility of his exertions, and pledges himself faithfully, and promptly to serve his patrons.

ENOS W. SPAULDING, Proprietor.

Enos W. Spaulding boarded at Bennett's temperance house conducted by Bennett and Bailey, corner of Ellicott and Seneca Streets."

FRANCE

A GRILL.

BY STEVENSON.

In a recent eastern auction sale, there was listed a 15c, 1869, with a grill described as being that of the smallest size of the 1867 issue, the catalogue 9x13. (This will sufficiently identify the item for all who are interested.)

This grill was doubtless formally passed as O. K. by the several authorities on the same, as described. It just happens that I differ with the authorities.

I have examined large numbers of the grills of that period in that family of grills. I have between 600 and 700 now on hand which were selected from the many offered me because they showed with sufficient clearness the grill, as a grill. I have re-examined these. In none of them, or in any that I have ever examined, have I found a grill like that in the auction as noted above.

In every grill rectangle of the 9x13 family of the 1867 issue, the ridges of the units run lengthways the rectangle of grill. In the auction item referred to the ridges run the other way, across the rectangle of grill. It is a physical impossibility that this item was grilled with the cylinder that produced any 9x13 rectangle I have ever seen.

Is it a genuine grill? I cannot say it is not, but there you have the facts. It is not as described, an 1867 grill, though the rectangle does measure about this size.

I have listed a Z grill, in which the ridges of the units run thus across the rectangles of grill. It is a distinct and separate grill from the six regular families of 1867 grills and I am satisfied that it is genuine. It corresponds most nearly in size to my E grill, the catalogue 11x13, though some rectangles are a bit larger, and between that family and the D grills in size.

It is barely possible that the item referred to comes from a further reduction in area of the grilling rectangles on this cylinder. I have still to see such a reduced size in all I have seen of the 1867 grills.

What is it? What is its history? Is it O. K. or can we look for more 9x13 grills, say on the 24c, 30c, and 90c, 1867, providing this item "gets by"?

Does this shed any light on the accuracy with which our authorities examine grills? Doesn't it seem to you that it would be advisable to seriously consider these characteristics of the grills known before passing as O. K. an item which is distinctly not the same, and therefore subject to question? Would you care to pay over $200 on the say-so of an authority knowing so little of the actual grills?

I might repeat that since finding the Z grill, over two years ago, I have been constantly looking for the same characteristic units in the smaller size without finding one.—Collectors' Journal.

FOR OFFICIAL JOURNAL.

There are now four of our leading societies that make the WEEKLY their official journal. The list includes:—
Boston Philatelic Society.
Post Card Society of America.
New York Stamp Society.
Precancelled Stamp Club.

All we charge these societies is $2 per column and when we get all that we can stand so far as space is concerned we shall be compelled to call a halt. Our price is a very low one considering the publicity secured.

ENGLAND HAS RED CROSS SEALS.

(A letter to the N. Y. Times.)

In The Times of June 26 John N. Luff, the stamp expert of the Scott Stamp and Coin Company, is quoted as saying: "While all the European countries engaged in the war have issued Red Cross or charity stamps except Great Britain * * *"

The probable reason why Great Britain has not issued such stamps is because the Bristol Red Cross Society itself already did this as early as the fall of last year. They are not, of course, postage stamps, but seals. These seals are of considerable artistic merit and well worth the collector's attention and can be secured from the society in London and were also at one time for sale by Brentano and Mark Cross of New York.

THE EARLY HAWAIIANS.

By JOHN N. LUFF.

"In the afternoon they came unto a land, In which it seemed always afternoon." —The Lotos Eaters.

The land of the poet's dream was not more fair than are those favored isles of the sea which we term the Hawaiian. Those jewels on the bosom of the blue Pacific were brought into being by the action of the most opposite forces in nature. Arising from the ocean amid the titanic crash and turmoil of a volcanic upheaval, they were subsequently extended by the patient, tireless, almost imperceptible upbuilding of the coral insect. The two forces are, to a certain degree, typical of the inhabitants of the islands; first, the happy, idle, passionate natives, and then the cold, calculating New England missionaries.

Originating in some drift from Polynesian sources, the natives were amiable, contented and free from care. Their manners were fascinating, even their vices were not without charm. Life in the islands was, for the most part, peaceful and easy, until the white man came, bringing with him the white man's burdens. Perhaps the natives were not very industrious, but what occasion was there for industry? The climate was kindly and nature had provided an abundance of food. What need to labor? The primal curse, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread," had passed them by. No one had taught them that toil and weariness are blessings, that to be idle and contented and happy is sinful. Well, we have changed all that. We have given them civilization with its doubtful goods and its much mixed evils. In the wake of the freebooter, the trader and the evangelist have followed disease, alcohol, opium and similar accompaniments of progress and enlightenment. The milestones which mark the advance of modern civilization have been gunpowder, the bottle and the bible. What more could a child of nature ask?

The white settlers brought with them the white man's needs and some of his conveniences; among the latter were postage stamps.

Hawaii has always been a popular country with stamp collectors. It has not had over many issues, nor such as savored of being made to sell to philatelists rather than for postal needs.

Among its issues are several which are of more than ordinary interest. The stamps of the first issue rank among the great rarities. Things which are high-priced and seldom seen naturally evoke respect even if they lack the attraction of beauty. The plain-border numerals are interesting to those philatelists who enjoy plating, and other forms of collecting which require study and effort. The earliest of the engraved stamps, the 5 cents and 13 cents of the 1853 issue and the 2 cents of the 1861 issue, have received much attention from philatelic writers and those who have a fondness for stamps with a historical side. These three stamps, with their numerous printings, reprints, official imitations, etc., have been the subject of many articles in the philatelic magazines. One of the best of these articles appeared in the Monthly Journal for December, 1900, and January, 1901. The author—a recognized authority in matters philatelic, who chose to hide his identity under the initials H. L.—advanced the theory that certain printings of these stamps, which had long been accepted as having been prepared and issued for postal purposes, were only reprints. At that time I did not agree with this theory and, not being convinced by the article, I rushed into print and said so. In this I had the company of certain other unregenerates. For our unbelief we were promptly and thoroughly brought to book by the able editor of the Monthly Journal, Major Evans, and I, at least, was made to see the error of my ways. Since that time I have gathered a few bits of information which further confirm the views of Mr. H. L. regarding these stamps. I shall refer to these points when considering the stamps of those issues.

The first Hawaiian postage stamps were issued on October 1, 1851. These were the well-known "Missionary" stamps. The issue consisted of three denominations: 2 cents, for postage on newspapers; 5 cents, for postage on letters, and 13 cents, the combined rate of Hawaiian and United States postage. At that time, and for many years afterward, the Hawaiian Islands had very little commercial intercourse with any part of the world except the United States. Naturally, postal communications followed the same channel. The majority of letters which left the Islands were addressed to the United States, and such as were intended for other parts of the world passed, almost without exception, through this country. Unless I am misinformed, letters for other countries had to bear, in United States postage stamps, the postage from the United States to those countries, in addition to the rates of Hawaiian and United States domestic postage. I believe this arrangement was continued until Hawaii entered the Postal Union. For the convenience of those having foreign correspondence, the principal post-offices in the Islands had United States postage stamps on sale. On letters addressed to the United States the postage for that country might be paid by means of United States or Hawaiian stamps; in the latter case settlement was made quarterly by the Postmaster-General of Hawaii to the United States Post-office Department, through the postmaster at San Francisco.

The stamps of the first issue were type-set. Their distinguishing feature is a rectangle of fancy border type around the large numerals. There were two minor varieties of each denomination. In one variety the upright stroke of the "P" of "Postage" is directly under the first upright stroke of the "H" of "Hawaiian." In the second variety the "P" stands a trifle more to the right. The stamps were issued to the public on or about October 1, 1851. The Polynesian of October 4th announced them as on sale at the post-office.

In 1852 the design of the 13 cents was modified. The word "Hawaiian" was replaced by "H. I. & U. S." and the ornament between "13" and "cents" was changed. There are two varieties of this stamp, similar to those found in the stamps of the preceding issue.

October 1, 1851, 2 cents, pale blue, two varieties.

October 1, 1851, 5 cents, pale blue, two varieties.

October 1, 1851, 13 cents, pale blue, two varieties.

November (?), 1852, 13 cents, pale blue, two varieties.

The stamps of the next issue have given rise to a great deal of discussion. The Post-office Department has no records concerning the issue, but it seems to be agreed by all writers that the two stamps which comprise it were engraved and printed in Boston. I am told by an old resident of that city that the engraver was named Dearborn and that the printer, whose name was Holland, had his establishment in School street, near Province court.

The die of the 13 cents was engraved first, and then the 5 cents was made by transferring the portrait and adding the proper inscriptions. We find evidence of this in the 5-cent stamps. The two little dots above the "FI" and "TS" in the lower label are remnants of the two vertical lines which divide that label on the 13 cents. There were several printings, which are usually assigned to the years 1853, 1855, 1861 and 1865. I am prepared to accept all but the latter date. The first printing was on thick, hard paper, almost card-board, and comprised both values. The second printing was of the 5 cents only and was on very thin, white wove paper. I have seen copies canceled at various dates from October 6, 1857, to September 3, 1861. The third printing was on thin, gray-blue paper and, like its predecessor, did not include the 13 cents. The only dated cancellation of which I have a memorandum is April 18, 1864. I have not found any evidence of a printing in 1865, but I do find much to support the claim that, about 1869, both varieties were printed in new shades on a soft, yellowish-white paper, of medium thickness and somewhat porous. The stamps of this printing were not intended for postal use, but for exchange with other governments and for sale to collectors as specimens of obsolete issues. They were, to all intents and purposes, reprints. To support this claim it will be necessary to quote at some length from various sources.

In Filatelie Facts and Fallacies for August, 1899, we find the following letter of Postmaster-General Alvah K. Clark, dated November 24, 1860, and addressed to Mr. John S. Marsh, Boston, Mass.:

"I am informed by Mr. H. M. Whitney that you had engraved a plate on which the 5-cent stamps now in use by the Hawaiian Government were printed (one of which I enclose). My predecessor, Mr. Joseph Jackson, ordered a quantity of these stamps struck off and sent out, but of whom no one here knows. I am unable to learn in whose possession the plate now is. As you performed the commission of having the plate engraved, I would enquire whether you would be willing to procure for me a new supply of 5-cent Hawaiian stamps, also obtain a plate of 2 and 1 cent Hawaiian stamps. If you are willing to accept the commission, please let me know at your earliest convenience at what expense you could obtain 10,000 5-cent stamps, 40,000 2-cent stamps and 5,000 1-cent stamps. The 2 and 1 cent stamps should be in sheets of twenty-five and the 5-cent stamps should be in sheets of twenty. Full information respecting the above and an early answer will much oblige."

From this letter we learn that the Hawaiian Post-office Department actually did not know the locality of some of the plates from which its stamps had been printed. We also note that they required 5-cent stamps, but evidently had no need of the 13-cent denomination. As Postmaster-General Jackson held office from July, 1856, to August, 1859, the date of the second printing of the 5-cent stamps was probably 1856 or 1857, instead of 1855. I shall revert later to the matter of the 2-cent stamps.

In the same number of Filatelie Facts and Fallacies we find another letter, written by Mr. Clark to Mr. Marsh, under date of March 12, 1861, saying: "Please obtain and forward by first opportunity one thousand (1,000) sheets of 5-cent stamps. The others, viz.: 2 cent and 1 cent, I have concluded not to order at present."

In the next number of Filatelie Facts and Fallacies is reproduced a letter to Mons. C. N. Rondot, of Paris. This appears to have been written in the latter part of the year 1861. After speaking of the 5-cent stamp, it continues as follows: "Owing to the large number of American ships touching at these islands and forwarding letters, another stamp was printed at the same time embracing American postage (which was at that time 8 cents) with the Hawaiian postage, making the value of the stamp 13 cents. The American postage being subsequently raised, these stamps became of no value and have not since been used."

Changes in the rates of postage in the United States were made, by act of Congress, in 1851, 1855, 1861 and 1863, and some of these changes may have affected the usefulness of the Hawaiian 13-cent stamp. At the same time, I do not find any record of an 8-cent rate for domestic postage in the United States and, therefore, conclude that that rate must have been established by postal convention with Hawaii. If that were the case, the rate may have been modified by a similar convention.

HARRY WESLEY LEGG.

Died July 21, 1915. Age 32.

A Tribute From His Closest Friend.

No doubt many readers of the WEEKLY have had business dealings with my late friend. A few number of collectors and dealers had the privilege of his acquaintance. Still fewer knew him well because his nature was one of retirement and his home in the country his happiest habitat. But to me, as I knew him, he was one of God's noblemen. Generous to a fault, he loved to make his friends happy and his stamps were his delight and his solace. Few men were better read than Harry Legg—he mastered the most difficult subjects with ease and his knowledge of stamps was second to none in this country. His approval selections were masterpieces of knowledge—his dealings always generous to a fault—as an evidence of this I might mention that I found but few unpaid accounts due to him and few unsettled selections of his out on approval. The stock of stamps that Harry Legg left at his death was a considerable one and in view of the fact that my firm never holds auctions his widow, upon my advice, has decided to turn the entire holdings over to one of Harry's best friends, P. M. Wolsieffer of Philadelphia, who will take upon his shoulders the task of marketing them. Thus passes from our little world one of the well known citizens of it. The remains were buried in Arlington Cemetery on Saturday, July 24th. Mr. Legg is survived by a young widow to whom I am sure we all extend our deepest sympathy in her hour of sorrow. For myself there is a void that can never be filled, and the only consolation is that he died beloved by all who knew him and without any physical pain and suffering when the end came.

EUSTACE B. POWER.

A WAR BOOM WITHOUT WAR ORDERS.

(A correspondent who withholds his name submits the accompanying article which appeared in the "Wall Street Journal," N. Y. City; "News Bureau," Boston, and "News Bureau," Philadelphia. He suggests that articles such as this would help greatly in creating an interest in our national hobby and advises all collectors who are situated where they can supply matter to the press not to lose the opportunity. No doubt many of our readers are able to do missionary work of this kind.—Ed.)

One industry, if it may be called an industry, has received an impetus from the war without a single war order. That is the business of supplying the demands of those persons who have never been able successfully to withstand the fascination of collecting postage stamps. It's a bug which has probably attracted the attention of a greater proportion of the human race, since stamps have been, than any other hobby known to man. If sizes of the respective articles be compared, it may not be extravagant to say that there are few works of the great artists commanding greater price per square inch than do several varieties of the engraver's art as illustrated in postage stamp.

The war has given a new interest to the collector. Not only have many countries issued special stamps for home use but there is the surcharging of their own stamps for use in territory of the enemy occupied. Thus Germans are chagrined to see their Samoan Island stamps superseded by those of New Zealand with the word Samoa printed over them. And the invasion of Belgium by the Kaiser's forces will go down into history as long as the world lasts through the legend which will accompany the German stamps surcharged for use in Belgian territory.

The story will be told, too, in the new issue of the Belgian postal department which, alas, King Albert's government is unable to make use of until the postal service is resumed in Belgium. It is the same all through the fighting zone, Russian stamps for use in Austria, Austrian stamps for use in Russia, German stamps for use in Poland, French stamps for use in Alsace-Lorraine, Serbian stamps in Austria and British and French stamps for use in Turkey and the vanquished colonies of the German Empire.

IS IT POSTALLY USED?

By MALCOLM H. GANSER.

Thinking that you are probably unacquainted with and would likely be interested in an odd usage of the stamped envelopes, I enclose for your inspection a cut-square current two-cent envelope stamp, on which you will note cancellation in rubber-stamp as follows:

This envelope was used to carry mail from the St. Clair Scale, Pa., office of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway to the office in Philadelphia of The Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company. You will note the first named company is a railway company and is separate and distinct from the latter concern, which is engaged in the mining and sale of anthracite. For years these two companies were so closely associated that they were practically considered as one and in the ordinary course of business with its mines in the coal region, the Coal & Iron used the mail service of the railway company for the transportation of its correspondence instead of the United States mail.

However, the time came when it was decided by the Supreme Court at Washington that these corporations were separate and distinct corporations. Following this decision it was ruled that the Coal & Iron Company had no right to the free use of the Railway Company's service for the transmission of mail, as it thereby evaded the payment of postage. The inconvenience of sending the Coal & Iron Company mail by the regular U. S. postal service, led to an arrangement whereby the Post Office Department issued an order permitting the Coal & Iron Company to make use of the railway company's mail service if all mail was forwarded under the regular Government stamped envelopes, with the understanding that the Coal & Iron Company employees must cancel all such stamped envelopes with the company's name, name of place whence it originated, together with the date.

This is by no means something new, but has been in effect probably for the past seven or eight years, or maybe more, for my memory does not serve me well on this point. I have been in constant contact with this arrangement, so much so that the idea that it might be of interest to other philatelic folk, did not appeal to me until just now.

NO DULL SEASON!

The thing that stands out most prominently in this week's paper is the page advertisement of B. L. Drew & Co. of this city. This firm evidently believes in compelling business to come its way, but there will be a natural attraction when one studies the prices contained in this attractive announcement. We congratulate Mr. Drew upon his enterprise and our subscribers will find ample satisfaction in their dealings with this old and reliable firm.

A new English advertiser is introduced to our readers this week:—J. E. Lea of Manchester. His offer of the St. Vincent will start something surely.

This has been the greatest July that the WEEKLY has ever known and the reason for it can be found in our substantial subscription list, which carries upon it the very flower of American collecting interest.

A great private collection of California State Revenues is offered this week. It is probably the most superb collection of these stamps ever put together. The owner does not reveal his name but interested parties will do well to address the WEEKLY.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL

Still in Business—In answer to several questions on the subject, we say that there is no interruption in the mail service between Germany and the United States. "Mails from the United States can be delivered to any point in Germany; likewise letters for the United States may be mailed at any place in Germany." Official confirmation of this statement may be had from the postal authorities. Naturally, some delay may result because of the conditions that exist at present. The interchange of money-orders between Germany and the United States has not been suspended and the convention between the two countries is still in force.

* * *

Standards—We look with approbation on the effort of our contemporary, the

$22,000 COLLECTION IN P. O. STATE.

Comprising Twentieth Century stamps to date, complete up to and including £1, in all varieties of paper, watermark and perforation and many rare errors, including singles and blocks of four. Some countries have been carried out to great completeness and include XIX Century stamps. Worthy of special mention are Straits Settlements with all the $25, Dominican Republic, Papua, Russia, Sudan and Crete.

This collection was formed with great care by a fastidious collector who has for many years been ranked a "condition crank." Each and every stamp is quoted net at reasonable prices, offering an opportunity to collectors to obtain many stamps at investment figures that are now difficult to obtain.

The collection will be shown in San Francisco during the Convention by appointment. I will also make stop-overs in cities en route if requests reach me in time to make arrangements.

EUGENE KLEIN, 142 South 15th Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Stamp Trade, to codify rules that may be accepted as standard in the conduct of the business of stamp auctions. As pointed out, it is highly important for both the auctioneer and his patrons to abide by fundamental rules from which there can be no appeal; and we trust that our contemporary will succeed in having adopted universally, regulations that are binding on both parties to an auction sale transaction. However, there is a phase of the auction business that cannot be covered by any verbal description, no matter how precise; and it is one that is growing to have a sinister effect on the auction trade. Even now, we believe, that what would be the normal increase in the volume of patronage of stamp auction sales is curtailed by the question that is looming up more and more unmistakably. We mean the condition question as it applies to the consideration of centering of the stamps offered. Individual opinion honestly may vary in regard to off centering, in degree, and its penalizing effects; and for that reason all these variations of minds must give way to an established rule. Further, the written regulation will not do; and it must be pictured. A series of standard cuts should be a part of each auction catalogue, showing the perfectly centered stamp with margin equal on all four sides down to the badly off center copy. The intermediate stages of condition would be "fine," "good," and "fair," making five cuts to illustrate the range of condition from poor to perfection in centering. The application of the scale is evident and for instance, a specimen not quite reaching the state of perfection would fall into the next lowest division. Stereotypes of the accepted scale would cost almost nothing. Let the American Philatelic Society take up the question at the convention and appoint the inevitable committee which could thresh out the case. In the meantime, we suppose that the auctioneer could adopt any standard that he might work out. We hope to submit a tentative set of cuts ourselves so soon as our artist grasps our idea.

* * *

Aye, Sir—What is your idea of the place of philatelic torment? One of our readers says that his pet notion of it is to watch a fellow collector who dabs at his immaculate duplicates with dampened fore-finger in order to remove the stamps from their slits in the stock-books, ignoring the tongs that you extend so feverishly; and inwardly cursing yourself that your mistaken sense of delicacy will not allow you to ask that your pestiferous comrade forbear, in pity's name.

* * *

It May Be So—It is sometimes remarked that it seems impossible nowadays to duplicate the "red" color of the ink that one sometimes sees used for the cancellations and postmarks on the stamps of the first few issues of the United States. It is probable that the color is not seen much latterly because there is no crying need for color of just its characteristic shade but our observing reader, Mr. Justin H. Forrest, Chicago, makes the point that the red ink of that by-gone day was made from powdered sumac leaves infused according to a recipe that was valued by our forefathers. Like many a custom of over a half-century ago making one's own red ink is now obsolete.

Taking A Chance—We notice that an advertiser from London in offering the Gold Coast, provisionally surcharged Togo for the Anglo-French occupation says: "Above quotations for Sportsmen only. Others must wait and see." This well-conceived warning protects the advertiser against the complaints of those who are quick to claim their "money back" if prices break against them. Stamps offered with a sort of reserve of the kind appeal to not a few collectors who are willing to take a chance with fair odds. Moreover, it might be thought worth something, by the more dare-devil collectors, to be dubbed a sportsman (the equivalent of sport in our fair country).

* * *

Yes And No—A subscriber says: "I have recently received several covers from Salem holding precanceled 'Salem, Mass.', current 4's, 5's, 10's and 15's that evidently have been precanceled with the hand stamp in the sheet. Would these specimens come under the precanceled line logically." A consideration of the collectibility of the hand-stamped precanceled stamp would not exalt the more or less humble hand-stamped interloper to a place in the sun with the matured brother, impressive with his letter-press marking, if tradition is respected and strict accountability is demanded. The inception of the hand-stamped precanceled stamp was in the order of the department granting permission to postmasters to precancel stamps during the rush of the holiday season. However, we shall be pleased to listen to the voice of authority on the subject of the relative merits of the hand-stamped variety. We know that there are not a few collectors to whom precanceled stamps are a fount of deepest inspiration; and we hope to give ear to one who has drunk deeply of the Pierian spring.

* * *

Slip A Cog—A reader has addressed a few observations to us on the subject of stamp advertising in the course of which he makes a contention that should be given publicity in the interests of both advertiser and reader of the stamp paper. He refers to the tendency of advertisers in listing single stamps under the more popular collecting countries, at least, to dispense with any description of denomination, color, etc., and merely give the catalogue number. Our correspondent intimates that while he is a collector of United States stamps of some standing, he is not adept in catalogue numbers; and for that reason he is disinclined to send for the advertised stamps that he believes he wants but in view of lack of confirmation he is not certain that he does. We agree with him that a catalogue is not always at one's beck and call and without dwelling exhaustively on the subject, we think that it is fair to say that description only by the catalogue number loses sales for the advertiser who habitually uses the method. Competition in the stamp business as in all other recognized lines of commercial endeavor is so keen that no dealer can afford to shade the effectiveness of his advertising in any way.

DEATH OF H. WESLEY LEGG.

Notwithstanding the fact that it has been generally known that Mr. Legg has been during the past months unable to attend to business, the news of his death will come as a severe shock to his numerous friends and acquaintances. Mr. Legg died Wednesday, July 21, at his home in Pepperell, Mass. For years he has been actively engaged in the stamp trade and had developed a good business. He was a member of the A. P. S., B. P. S. and other philatelic societies. A man of genial personality, he will be greatly missed, and the sympathy of the entire fraternity will go to Mrs. Legg in her bereavement.

DO THESE STAMPS EXIST?

By ALVAH G. CLARK, A. P. S. 4371, S. P. A. 1095.

I am of the firm opinion that I have run across at least nine of the "hardest to get" stamps. My endless and tireless search of over two years for these stamps, I think, proves it. Time and again I have sent a "want list" containing these stamps to all the leading dealers in this country and England only to receive a letter back saying "nothing doing."

After having tried all the dealers the thought struck me that perhaps some small dealer or individual collector might have them so I placed an ad in the Adlet Column of your paper, issue of May 29th but to date I have not received one reply. I do not blame your paper for this condition, however, as it only goes to show the apparent scarcity of these stamps.

The stamps in question are as follows:

Year.	No.	Country.	Value & Colour.	Cat.
1883,	*16,	Bangkok,	2c rose,	.50
1892,	* 8,	Col. Rep.(Cauca),	5c carm.
			(greenish),	.15
1904,	*23,	"(Cundinamarca)	1c orange,	.05
1901,	* 1,	"(Magdalena),	5c white,	.75
1877,	98,	Griqualand,	1p rose,	.10
1900,	*37,	Bussahir,	3a red,	.06
1895-67,	4,	Jammu & Kashmir,	3r dull blue,	5.00
1898,	*40,	Maderia,	25r yell.gr.,	.12
1899,	1,	Marianna Isls.(Sp.),	2c dk.bl.gr.,
			Not cat.

It can readily be seen that with exceptions of the stamps of Jammu and Kashmir and the one from the Spanish Marianna Isls., these stamps catalogue at practically nothing.

There can be some excuse for the lack of the stamps in question from Griqualand and Jammu and Kashmir as these were issued in 1877 and 1866-67 respectively, but what about the rest, none earlier than 1883 and from this year to as late as 1904.

What is the status of the Spanish Marianna Isls., stamps issued as recently as 1899 but no catalogue value given? I would be pleased to hear from other readers who have had any experience with these stamps.

NEW ZEALAND KING GEORGE STAMPS.

In a letter written April 21 by a well-known New Zealand philatelist, that gentleman said that the delay in the issue of the new stamps was because the colors selected were not considered rich or deep enough, and others had to be provided. Our correspondent said he anticipated then that the new issue would be out inside of a month. In a letter written on 6th May he wrote:—"I daresay the stamps will be out before long," but in a letter just to hand, dated 28th May, from a correspondent in New Zealand, who is also well known in philatelic circles, that gentleman writes:—"No signs at all of the new stamps, and I think it will be a long while yet before they appear."

We did expect that the stamps would be issued on the King's Birthday (3rd instant), but they were evidently not ready for that event. We still think that it would have been much better for everybody if the various denominations had been issued when they were ready, and we commend this opinion to the consideration of stamp issuers generally.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

DEATH OF EGBERT BAGG.

Charles S. Hibbard of Utica, N. Y., advises us of the death of Egbert Bagg of that city, and sends us a lengthy clipping from a local paper giving the story of his career. He was an ardent stamp collector and for years has been a subscriber to the WEEKLY. Besides his interest in stamps he was interested in floriculture and arboriculture. He made a special study of bird life and was familiar with most of the bright pages in the big book of Nature.

CANAL ZONE PERFORATED "P".

There recently appeared an item of news in the London Daily Telegraph stating that "four stamps of the Panama Republic series issued just prior to the recent pictorial set have been converted into stamps for official use in the Zone. They have been overprinted 'Canal Zone' as usual, and, in addition, are perforated with a large capital 'P'."

We communicated with John K. Baxter, Director of Posts for the Canal Zone, and we quote from his communication in relation to the same:—

"The stamps referred to are used on official foreign mail dispatched by the various departments of the Panama Canal to foreign countries. These stamps are issued on requisition to mailing clerks and are perforated simply to prevent their use on private mail. The ordinary domestic mail of the Panama Canal is forwarded in penalty envelopes similar to those used by government offices in the United States.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—In No. 1184, we noted the Canadian 2c stamp as having been found with fine lines running across the face, indicating a scratched plate. William F. Works has now shown us specimens of the United States 2c carmine of 1890 with similar fine lines. These lines vary somewhat in position but are all near the tops of the figures of value.

D. D. Berolzheimer reports the 2c envelope, Die E, size 5 on white, Knife 87, with the new 1915 watermark.

Raymond Freshwater has shown us a vertical pair of the current 3c stamps, one of which has a large colorless spot on the lower part of the oval line surrounding the portrait, and opposite the Adam's apple.

CANADA.—Happenings of interest to post card collectors appear to be taking place in the Dominion. We have noted already the issue of the 2c post card to cover the war tax. We have also noted that there were two varieties of the figure "2." From information sent us by George Pack and Mrs. E. W. Oughtred we gather that not only were the figures different, but that the whole stamp was re-engraved. In reality, there were two entirely distinct cards, that intended for the use of the public being much better printed, as well as having the bi-lingual note—"The space below is reserved for address only," repeated in French. The other card, intended for advertising purposes, and taking the place of the 1c carmine and buff, has the stamp poorly engraved, with striking differences in the King's face, whiskers, ear and eyes, in the "Two cents" as well as the figures, and the crowns in the upper corners. This card has a space 36x81 mm. set off by a red rule in the lower right corner for the address but without the bi-lingual inscription. These cards are used freely by express and railroad companies to notify consignees of the receipt of freight and express parcels.

Mrs. Oughtred has also shown us the 2c war tax stamp, new design, perforated 10 vertically.

HUNGARY.—Scott's Circular notes the issue of the 6f and 12f postage due stamps in the old colors, but on paper watermarked multiple Crosses.

INDIA.—The Philatelic Journal of India fills up a gap in Indian Philately by giving a complete list of the totals of British Indian Edwardian Stamps, overprinted "C. E. F.":

1/4 anna	60,480
1/2 anna	179,040
1 anna*	669,360
2 annas	20,160
2 1/2 annas	12,480
3 annas	16,320
4 annas	17,280
8 annas	15,840
12 annas	15,600
1 rupee	5,568

*This total includes both types with inscription reading "India Postage" and "Postage and Revenue."

Mysore.—The Philatelic Journal of India notes the following war stamps issued in India, the only ones thus far reported, except the "I. E. F." of the Indian Government.

With the sanction of the Maharajah of Mysore, three values of the large bill stamps of Mysore have been surcharged in black: "IMPERIAL INDIAN—RELIEF FUND, 1914."

PAPUA.—The Daily Express states:—"Papua specialists in particular, and collectors of modern British Colonial stamps in general, will learn with interest that the present single coloured 1d and 2d stamps of this territory, typographed at Melbourne, have been printed on paper intended for the Georgian stamps of the Australian Commonwealth, watermarked with a single line Tudor Crown in place of the South Australian type previously employed. It seems probable that this is merely a temporary expedient, and that the varieties with this type of watermark may be restricted to the two denominations named."

SALVADOR.—Scott's Circular notes that the 1c, 2c and 3c of 1906, type A65, have been reprinted. These have the overprinted anchor and shield. The official stamps of the same date and values have also been reprinted. The shades of the reprints differ considerably from those of the originals, the paper is thinner, the gum whiter and the perforation gauges 12 instead of 11 1/2.

of the fund named. They are large stamps, measuring 5 1/2 x 3 1/4 inches, and show a portrait of the Maharajah in a circle in the centre, with the name of the state above, in English, and below, in Canarese. On either side there are the Arms of Mysore on an engine-turned background, while the whole is enclosed in a frame consisting of the arms of the state and conventional designs frequently repeated, the lower part of the frame containing the values in Canarese, English and Urdu. The values thus surcharged are:—

2 annas, dull green.
4 annas, purple.
1 rupee, scarlet.

We are not informed that these are for postal use, so presume they have only a passing philatelic interest.

JAPAN.—Scott's Circular says that the 5y and 10y stamps have been seen on granite paper, like the rest of the postage set.

MEXICO.—Oaxaca.—A. C. Roessler has shown us a stamp, one of a series issued by the "Estado Libre y Soberano de Oaxaca" according to the legend, which surrounds the arms of Mexico. "Correos—Transitorio" is printed at the top, "Centavo" at the bottom, and the figures of value in the four corners formed by the Circular inscription around the arms. In the specimen examined the "1" in the upper right corner is missing. These stamps were issued June 5, and were printed in two operations, a faint background underlying the main printing in a shade of the same color. They were printed in sheets of 21 stamps, 3x7, the shades varying on almost every sheet. In printing the 5c the second printing was inverted so that the third and fourth rows are tête-beche. The paper is heavy wove, and perforations measure 12. Some kind of printed blank forms were used for the stamps so that the reverse has printing, part of which reads "Former 637—1911—V—la—500,000." The stamp submitted for ex-

PACIFIC WAR STAMPS.

As intimated last month current Australian stamps overprinted "N.W. Pacific Islands" from the 1s denomination downwards have been put on sale at Rabaul, and we have received a small lot of the following denominations:—

1/2d King George. 4d King George.
1d " 5d "
2d kangaroo. 6d kangaroo.
2 1/2d " 9d "
3d " 1s "

We are somewhat in a quandary. These stamps have been issued at Rabaul, which is the capital of New Britain. The stamps are only available for use in the islands recently occupied by the Australian troops and for no others. They have really no claim to the designation "North-West Pacific Islands," seeing that they do not include any of the islands above the equator.

Further, we are in a difficulty as to the name of the country under which the overprinted German New Guinea and Marshall Islands stamps should be listed. Some of our contemporaries abroad refer to the stamps of "German New Guinea," and "Marshall Islands," whereas both kinds were overprinted for use only in the districts above referred to under Australian control, and now we have the N.W. Pacific Islands stamps to complicate matters. According to our ideas, these stamps should be classed under the heading, "New Britain," but it will no doubt be difficult to persuade some collectors that this is correct, seeing that the stamps themselves bear the overprint "N.W. Pacific Islands."

Although we understand that a very large supply of the latter has been printed, still we should not be surprised to learn that the designation on the stamps was altered any day. Possibly there will be no alteration at all until after the war is over and the peace terms have been settled. It may be that, as prognosticated in this journal some months ago, there will be a Federation of the Western Pacific (like the Federated Malay States), and that one design of stamps will be issued for the entire group.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

EGYPT—A HISTORY OF ITS STAMPS.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

In the middle of July, 1867, the supply of 1 piastre adhesives ran short in Alexandria, so the demand was allayed by cutting the 2 piastre value in half—each half representing 1 piastre.

The bisection of stamps was contrary to the official decree (Art. 52, "The franking of correspondence by means of stamps cut in two is inadmissible—"). To counteract this clause the following was issued by Muzzi Bey:

"By reason of the insufficient supply of stamps of the value of 1 piastre, which are in circulation, permission has been given at the office at Alexandria to bisect stamps of the value of 2 piastre in equal parts for the prepayment of letters, the two halves corresponding respectively to the value of 1 piastre, to be used from the 16th to 31st July. The stamps should be bisected from the upper left hand corner to the lower right hand corner, as in the illustration given in the margin.

The Director General
"MUZZI BEY."

"ALEXANDRIA, 13th July, 1867.

The above half stamp was an official issue, but the same cannot be said of the halves of 10 paras and 5 piastre stamps which are known postally used: having done postal duty for half their original values through official laxity.

There are few distinct shades to be found among these stamps, although there are more less marked variations of the 5 paras (shades of grey), 20 paras (shades of blue), 2 piastres (pale yellow to orange yellow), and 10 piastres (shades of dull slate blue).

Anything out of the ordinary such as blocks, used on originals, etc., are very difficult to find. A block of any size is worth (to the specialist) any price that the vendor demands.

Fine single copies, either used or unused require a lot of finding as quite ninety per cent of these stamps are off centre.

Collectors should be careful not to confuse imperforate stamps with proofs. The proofs are on smooth thin paper (imperf. and perf.) without watermark. The paper of the proof and that employed for the actual stamps is so at variance that there is no difficulty in differentiating between them.

besch para= 5 paras
on " 10 "
jighirmi " 20 "
bir grouch=1 piastre iki " 2 " besch " 5 "
on " 10 "

II. Second Issue (Aug. 1, 1867).

A new issue of postage stamps was announced in July, 1867, by the proclamation reproduced below:

DECREE.

The Administration of the Egyptian post will shortly issue stamps of a new design.

These stamps, larger than the old ones, will have, instead of Arabesques, the likeness of the Pyramids, of the Needle of Cleopatra and the Column of Pompey.

"H. H. the Viceroy has approved of a new issue of stamps of 5, 10, 20 paras, and of 1, 2 and 5 piastres, which will be for sale on August 1st next.

"During the same month the present stamps, as well as the new ones, can be used indifferently for the franking of letters, patterns and printed matter. On September 1st next the present stamps cease to frank correspondence, but can be exchanged for new ones. Letters, etc., franked with them will be considered as not franked.

"The stamps at present in use can be

UNFASHIONABLE STAMPS

Said a large dealer to the writer: "I will pay a good price for a collection of Unfashionable stamps, including French and Portuguese Colonies, with all British Colonies left out."

You will make no mistake if you make a collection on above lines. Let us send you a selection and fill up these countries while they are cheap. They will be worth more later. Make a collection which is a little different from the ordinary.

BUYERS

My last season's mailing list is being revised. If you want catalogues of coming sales or if you have been on my mailing list and do not buy at auction or if you have friends who might be interested Send a postal.

SELLERS

After August 15th, I shall be glad to correspond with those having good U. S. to dispose of. Wholesale or damaged lots do not sell. Scarce stamps brought fine prices in my four sales last season. A 2800 name mailing list of active U. S. Specialists is an advantage not to be overlooked.

Headquarters for Stamps of the U. S. and Its Colonies

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

H. F. COLMAN,
Second National Bank Bldg.,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

exchanged at all post offices until October 31st of this year, after which date they will not be of any value.

"This decree, with the reproduction of the new stamps, will be hung up in every post office during this time.

The Postmaster-General.
"Muzzi Bey.
"ALEXANDRIA, July 11th, 1867."

The design of this issue is decidedly pleasing with its representations of the Sphinx, the Pyramid, Cleopatra's Needle, and Pompey's Column.

F. Hoff, of Hirschberg, Silesia, was responsible for the drawing of the design. From the clearness of certain proofs there is no doubt that the original dies for all values were of metal, and the printing stones were produced by transfer or other method of reproduction.

The matrix die consisted of stamps (in a block of four), each of the four being separately engraved by Hoff.

The blocks of four were then reproduced on to a lithographic stone and printed by M. V. Penasson at Alexandria under the supervision of the Government. It was said that after the printing was completed the stones were sent to the headquarters of the postal service at Cairo.

As was the case with the first Issue, the stone was composed of 200 impressions, made up by fifty transfers of the original block of four. The printed sheets (20x10) were printed without visible marginal inscription, but the margins contained a watermarked inscription (in Italian), the letters measuring about 6 mm. in height: "AMMINISTRAZIONE DELLE V.R. POSTE EGIZIANE" and value "PIASTRE EGIZIANE 1," etc.

The watermark consists of a crescent and a five-rayed star relief impressed into the paper at the back of the stamp. The paper used was of medium to medium-thick white wove, and the gum which was at first white, became brownish upon the later printings.

The numbers of the four types as here given (I, II, III, and IV) are in their correct order according to Hoff's engraved block of four (2x2).

5 Paras, orange-yellow.

TYPE I.—Pompey's Pillar is too much to the left in its rectangle. The thin end of the Arabic character in the left of top label cuts through the line below it. The three dots at the end of the Arabic inscription in top label are almost all level.

TYPE II.—The second A of PARA in top left hand corner is very narrow. The left of the Sphinx's head practically touches the left side of the pyramid. Of the three dots, the first is the lowest.

TYPE III.—The A's of PARA are fairly normal. The 5 in lower left hand corner is leaning to the left. The apex of the pyramid almost touches the inner circle of the oval. Of the three dots the centre one is the highest.

TYPE IV.—The second A of PARA in top right hand corner is thin. Both the 5's in the lower corners are further from the base line than in other types. Of the three dots in the upper label, the first is the highest.

10 Paras, dull lilac.

TYPE I.—The apex of the pyramid touches the inner oval and the head of the Sphinx touches the pyramid at the left. The three dots are of uniform size, but the first is the highest.

TYPE II.—The first A of PARA in upper left corner is thin; the second A in upper right corner is wide. The 0 of 10 in lower left hand corner is very defective. The first of the three dots (Arabic inscription in the top label to the right) is larger than the other two.

TYPE III.—There is a line across the right hand side of the head of the Sphinx which in this type resembles a cut. The central dot is slightly higher than the other two.

TYPE IV.—The second A of PARA, top right hand corner, is very thin. Pompey's Pillar is much thicker than in the other types. Of the three dots, the third is the lowest.

20 Paras, green.

TYPE I.—The shaft of Pompey's Pillar is not well centred as regards its base—it leans to the left. The left outline of the pyramid reaches the ground—in other types it touches the oval. The first Arabic sign (a dot) in the bottom label touches the upper line.

TYPE II.—The 2 of 20 in each bottom corner is thin and leans to the left. In the word PARA, top right hand corner, the P has a space between it and ARA. The three dots over the last character in the bottom label are further from the end of the character than in other types.

TYPE III.—The second A of PARA, top left hand corner, leans over to the right. The first A of PARA, top right hand corner, has a white speck above it.

TYPE IV.—There is a small white dot before the 2 of 20 in the bottom right hand corner. The R of PARA, top left hand corner, is defective. The head of the Sphinx touches the pyramid on the left.

1 Piastre, red.

TYPE I.—The second character in the lower label (a perpendicular line) is further away from the first character than in any other type. The middle dot of the three is the lowest.

TYPE II.—Pompey's Pillar is badly centred, being very much to the right. Cleopatra's Needle is too wide at its base. The first of the three dots is the highest.

TYPE III.—The pyramid touches the inner oval on the right. The dot above the "C" character touches it. The first of the three dots is the highest.

TYPE IV.—Cleopatra's Needle is not well centred, being too much to the left. The three dots at the end of the top label are equidistant and in a straight line.

2 Piastres, blue.

TYPE I.—The apex of the pyramid touches the inner oval. The right hand base line of the pyramid touches the inner oval. The three dots in the upper label are not in a straight line. The first is the highest.

TYPE II.—There is a white spot after the central stroke of E in top right hand corner. The top of Cleopatra's Needle touches the line under E. The letter P, right left hand corner, is somewhat to the right in the label. The three dots at end of top label are in a straight line.

TYPE III.—The Sphinx touches the pyramid on the left. The base of the pyramid on the left is some distance from the oval. The top inscription on Cleopatra's Needle is a solid line of colour extending right across. Dots as in TYPE II.

TYPE IV.—The "G" figure in bottom label is very open at the top. The apex of the pyramid is further from the oval at the top than in other types.

The base of the pyramid is equidistant from the oval at each side. The three dots are in a straight line, the second and third being close together.

5 Piastres, brown.

TYPE I.—The point of the pyramid touches the last line of the background and the line of shading over the left eye of the Sphinx is long and horizontal. The first of the three dots is the highest, the third is the lowest.

TYPE II.—The shading on the forehead of the Sphinx, over the left eye, slopes downward from left to right. The third of the three dots is the highest.

TYPE III.—There is a clear line of shading between the apex of the pyramid and the outline of the oval above. The three dots in upper label are on the same level.

TYPE IV.—The oval containing the central design is closer to the frame than in the other types. The end stroke of the third Arabic sign in the upper label ends in a straight line, not in a curve. The first dot is the highest, the other two are level.

The descriptions of the four types given should prove sufficiently clear to allot any specimen to its proper place. Any block of four of this issue will show the four types.

All stamps of this series are perforated 15 x 12½, the work of two single line machines.

Many perforation varieties are to be found such as imperforate, rouletted, partly perforated, etc. Rouletted and partly rouletted specimens of the 1 piastre are unofficial but nevertheless uncommonly rare. Of the imperforate varieties the 1 piastre is more often seen than any other.

In July, 1869, a new printing of the 10 and 20 paras denominations came to hand—the 10 paras in bright mauve, and the 20 paras in yellow-green. If the two printings be compared it will be seen that the new shades almost amount to new colours. In addition the 1869 prints are exceptionally clear in detail and the Arabic inscriptions have a far more fragile appearance.

Once again Art. 52 of the Decree of 1865 was ignored, for no less than three values are known cut in half and used for half their original values. The practice of bisecting was never used to any extent, and when resorted to it was pure "necessity."

Not infrequently one sees the 20 paras printed on both sides—or even with two or three part impressions on one side! The 1 piastre is known in the same state. Both these freaks are simply "printers waste."

In strips or blocks of any size all values of this issue are hard to find. A block of four is cheap in all cases at the catalogue price of four single specimens. Larger blocks are extremely difficult to buy at any figure.

Several minor varieties may be found of these stamps, some of which appear to be constant. A variety of the 5 paras contains a round solid (yellow) dot in the background shading to the left of the Sphinx's head. This dot has been noted by several specialists and constitutes a definite variety. This same value is known with a curious chain-like device in colour right across the stamp. The 1 piastre is known with an extra character (in the form of a dot) in the inscription in bottom label, whilst another variety has an extra character between the long curly sign and the "G" character.

The upper Arabic inscription in the design reads: "Tamghai Posta Masrie," and in the bottom rectangular label is "Tamanon" and the values—"hams" (5), "ashra" (10), "ashrin" (20), "ghersh wachet" (1 piastre), "ghersheen" (2), "hamsat" (10).

Quite apart from the distinct tints of the two printings of the 10 and 20 paras there are a nice range of shades, many of them deserving of catalogue recognition. The 10 paras (1867), 1 and 2 piastres all exist in a multitude of shades, some of which are by no means common.

A very curious official obliteration is to be met with upon the stamps of this issue. It is a solid circle with Arabic (?) characters cut out. Another interesting cancellation is that used after the withdrawal of the Suez Canal Company's stamps.

The postmark—a circle in blue—bears the inscription "CANAL DE SUEZ—CHANTIER VI" and date. A second obliteration, this time in black bears the legend "KIL. 83" (Kilometre) in place of "Chantier VI."

THE STUDY OF FISCAL STAMPS.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON.

Revenues, or more properly, fiscal stamps, are the stamps used to denote the payment of certain taxes or imposts, either direct or indirect. Fiscals are used to cover a wide range of money-raising methods, the most usual one being the tax on certain documents, such as receipts, bills of exchange, agreements, and other legal papers, but in other instances, familiar to all American collectors, they are used to indicate payment of tax on medicines, playing cards, perfumes, chewing-gum, and other necessary or unnecessary articles.

In many foreign countries, where taxes of all kinds are paid, or the payment indicated, by means of stamps, fiscals are in vogue to show that taxes have been paid for the privilege of burial; for the right of translation of a publication; for the issuance of civil marriage licenses; for stumping on wood cut in state forests; for inspection by officials of weights and measures, gas meters, and electric lights; for court fees and judicial payments of all kinds; for peddling; for customs duties; in short, for every purpose in which the resourceful political economist sees a source of revenue. No article, action, or trade is too trivial or insignificant to bear its share of the burden of government upkeep somewhere in the world. Egypt has issued a whole series of stamps for the payment of salt taxes: Cuba has put an impost on soda water, whether in bottles, siphons, or other container: Mexico taxes the production of precious metals: Persia exacts contributions from common carriers, whether camels or steamships.

The one fact that stands out before all others is that fiscals are issued because they are necessary. There is, and can be, no hint of the speculative about them, and for this reason, if for no other, they deserve vastly more attention from collectors than they have received. Many countries which have the habit of issuing an elaborate series of postage stamps have been content to worry along with a very small family of fiscals. Liberia is an excellent example of this: postage, 250 or more; fiscal, exactly eleven. Panama, as an independent republic, has found it necessary to issue but three fiscals.

But it must not be thought that the foregoing examples are typical of all countries. The contrary is often the case; for example, the Argentine Republic and its constituent states have brought forth nearly twelve thousand varieties of fiscal stamps to date. This is explained on the grounds that practically all taxes are paid by means of stamps. Every municipality collects its income in this way: every state raises funds by means of stamps: the nation receives its contributions in the same manner. Every year sees a new issue, the same design being used for long periods, date only differing.

The belief is common that fiscals lack the beauty that is common to postage stamps, and hence are poor objects to collect. Nothing could be more erroneous, as in the majority of cases fiscals are strikingly beautiful. Generally they are large, which means that they attract attention: almost without exception they are carefully engraved: in fully fifty per cent, they are bicolored. A great many of them are very rare, but in the vast majority of cases, they are low-priced stamps, and any collector of very modest means can accumulate a collection of several thousand.

The knowledge of geography is generally conceded to be one of the greatest benefits to be derived in postage philately, but in addition to this and all other knowledge to be obtained from the study of postal issues, there is the great benefit of economic and financial knowledge to be gained in the fiscal field.

Fiscals have been little studied, in America at least, so there is abundant opportunity for investigation, discovery, and specialization. This is just as true of our own fiscals as those of any other country, for there are whole issues of American fiscals which have entirely escaped the attention of American cataloguers. Who can supply the "Consular Service Fee Stamps" issued in 1906? How many collectors are familiar with the "Cashier's Office Fees Received" stamps issued in 1887 for the New York Custom House? Where is it possible to obtain the 1898 U. S. revenues surcharged "PORTO RICO Excise Revenue"? How many values of the first issue of our revenue stamps exist on the very thick paper, almost like thin Bristol board? These questions are only a few of many that need answering. The opportunity and the credit both await the collector of fiscals.

EDITORIAL.

To The Conventions—Our managing editor, Mr. Wylie, is in San Francisco, attending the convention of our first national society, the American Philatelic Society, and Mr. Severn has been at Reading, Pennsylvania, during the annual meeting of the Southern Philatelic Association. Accounts of these two most important events on the philatelic calendar duly will appear in the WEEKLY.

* * *

Gone—We learned with genuine sorrow of the death of H. Wesley Legg at Pepperell, Mass., as for many years our personal acquaintance with Mr. Legg had brought us into intimate contact with him. Mr. Legg was a comparatively young man, somewhat under forty years of age, and his passing deprives philately of a stamp student of exceptional acumen and his friends of an associate of many charming and estimable qualities. Mr. Legg's philatelic knowledge was acute and his judgment on quality was usually unerring. Mr. Legg attended his first American Philatelic Society convention at Springfield, Mass., in 1902; and thereafter, he was somewhat regular in his attendance at the annual meetings. As a dealer, Mr. Legg was to be called a specialist and his patronage was of a select order, we may say. Philately has sustained a severe loss in Mr. Legg's death, and many of us feel the bereavement on friendship's score.

* * *

Worst Has Come—Mexico has done its worst. Mr. A. Roterberg has shown us two postage stamps, one centavo buff and five centavos violet, emanating according to their legends from the district of Oaxaca. It is not because we lost money in a Mexican plantation that had its locale in Oaxaca that we are prejudiced against the stamps but their looks are against them. The Mexican eagle perched between "Correos Transitorio," at top and "Oaxaca" below is an ornithological fright; and the workmanship of the stamps and perforating are crude indeed. If each of the Mexican states takes a whirl at stamp issuing, an army of philatelists will feel like cleaning up the country. N. B. The stamps come tête-beche.

At Perihelion—Mr. Hugh Massey Clark, the generalissimo of the forces of the Scott Stamp and Coin Company has engaged in a new venture. On July 24th, 1915, the marriage of Miss Theresa Matilda Scheidemantel to Mr. Clark took place in New York City. May their joy be at perihelion for all time to come.

Typical Letter—It is apparent to us that the watermarks on United States stamps are as bothersome as ever and that their determination is a task that does not always reward patience and perseverance. Younger collectors often avow their discouragement over the difficulty in detecting the watermarks in question, and the following letter is characteristic of not a few that we receive: "Can you enlighten me upon the subject of watermarks? I have great trouble in finding the watermarks of United States stamps. I use a black celluloid tray and benzine; and this is all right for British colonials, etc., but of no use for the U. S. stamps. I would very much appreciate a reply." On general principles we say, a murren seize U. S. watermarks. They are uncertain, coy and hard to see; and we wish that we were well rid of them. If the purpose of the watermark is to make itself seen, those markings in U. S. paper are arrant failures. When in 1895 watermarked paper was adopted by the authorities in consequence of the counterfeiting of the two cent stamp and there was a speculative orgy in the unwatermarked dollar values of 1894, in particular, the enthusiasm of the most frenzied boomers was jolted at times when the difficulty in deciding which was which became acute. However, there was a disposition to solve the watermark problem by the gum; and crackly, whitish gum was the badge of the unwatermarked stamp. If it was almost impossible to see the watermark on the 1895 issue and as the 1894 issue had no watermark, it was the gum that came to the rescue and decided the question of watermark! Speaking of the watermark of the 1895 issue an English catalogue says: "This watermark is so faint as to be practically invisible, except in whole sheets or large blocks, and for this reason we have not catalogued them separately. Now that it is admitted that the watermark on some of the U. S. stamps is all too faint, we may inquire what is to be done about the condition that confronts us. It will scarcely impress the young collector to say that the difficulty that lies in the detection of the watermark loans a piquancy to the chase. Perseverance in using the benzine cup or tray is the best general suggestion that may be given. Practice will sometimes have its effect in seemingly hopeless instances when after repeated efforts, one will finally succeed in tracing out the watermark. Experience in searching for watermarks will do much to aid one in discovering them but even so, some of the U. S. watermarks almost defy detection and will be posers for philatelists of all kinds, young and old. One should resolve however not to be stumped by so small a thing as a watermark.

Little to Say—Another question that comes to us frequently and likewise cannot be definitely answered is: "Where can I obtain a book giving the different shades and colors of stamps?" There is no one work on the subject that stands forth as a standard and is accepted generally for color nomenclature. Several noteworthy attempts in the past to provide a medium of the kind were not wholly successful as may be assumed in the light that they seem to be out of print. Several ingenious ideas have been incorporated in color guides for philatelists but the publications did not attain any wide circulation and consequently acceptance of the plans. Color charts prepared for general use are lacking in details that could with advantage be applied to philately and those for technical purposes are open to objection on some score or other. The naming of colors in philately to a great extent is a matter of individual choice and the great body of collectors are content to follow the authorities and chroniclers of new issues. While the leaders agree fairly well in their judgment yet it is not to be contended that the element of uncertainty does not enter largely in our color classifications. Here, again, experience will do a great part in smoothing out the tangle and the eye becomes the more adept in discrimination. The question is robbed of its seriousness because typical colors, in time, can be identified and when that stage is reached, one cannot go very much out of the way in labeling the shades.

* * *

In Pictures—Yes, they have a way that is all their own in movieland. We have seen letters that passed through the mails sans stamp, postmark, etc.; and B. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune says: "In England one postmarks his own letters and cancels the stamps. Tennyrate, in the photo play of 'The Moonstone' a letter is mailed and when it is held up so the folks in the theater may see the address, it is also noticed that the letter is postmarked and the stamp cancelled." Our old friend, Walter Clark Bellows, author of that wonderful volume, "Campeche," who has been doing a bit of stage directing for a film company would not be guilty of any philatelic faux pas.

PHILATELY AND THE EXPOSITION.

By EDGAR S. BISSINGER.

Philately is pretty well represented at San Francisco. In fact, there is plenty to see of interest to philatelists if they only look for it, but, for the convenience of philatelists visiting the fair, let me say a few words about the exhibits of interest to the stamp collector.

The main feature of Uncle Sam's postal exhibit is in the Palace of Mines. Here one may see, from an elevated platform, all the workings of a large city post-office, which the general public are never permitted to view in ordinary post-offices. It is here, that all the Exposition mail is handled, and it is practically a main office, in itself, as all the Exposition mail is dispatched to, and received direct from the depot. There will probably be an officer in charge who will explain all the workings of the office in detail.

As you descend from the platform, you will find, in large, swinging glass cases, a collection of all the postage stamps, ever issued by this government, as well as newspaper, postage due, special delivery, postal savings and parcel post stamps, from 1847 to the present day. This, of course does not include minor varieties.

In the same building, may be seen motion pictures entitled "What Uncle Sam does for two cents," which shows in detail every process in the handling of a letter, from the time it is mailed, until it is delivered. These are shown twice weekly, and at other times other pictures of U. S. Government work are shown.

At the Palace of Transportation Uncle Sam exhibits a Railway mail car, show-

NOTE NEW ADDRESS

MEX. CONST. SPECIALIST

S. B. HOPKINS LAREDO, TEXAS

On Sept. 16th the Constitutionalists will celebrate the Mex. "Independence Day" by a new (permanent) issue of stamps—there will be no remainders of current issues, as stocks are very low.

Dealers are advised to place their orders now for the new issue and at the same time get what they need of the Gob. & Const. and other recent issues before the prices advance.

I have the obsolete 2, 3, 4 and 5c; the rare 1 peso and the very rare 5 pesos. Selections sent to responsible dealers. [86]

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE N. P. S.

A most successful convention of the National Philatelic Society was held July 22-24 in N. Y. City. Seventy-three persons were in attendance and the interest was sustained throughout the several sessions.

The usual convention features prevailed consisting of a flash-light photograph, stamp auction, and banquet together with a trip to Coney Island.

The following officers were elected:—President, E. L. Clark; Vice-President, G. R. Goetz; Second Vice-President, H. Meyers; Secretary and Treasurer, A. M. Wright; Directors-at-Large, E. L. Weiss, W. C. Polk, J. H. Frederick, M. Herbert, J. E. Guest and W. A. Striker. The following are the appointed officers: Sales Superintendent, A. C. Bartley; Exchange Supt., J. S. Swisher; Auction Manager, M. Ohlman; Counterfeit Detector, E. H. Gammans; Librarian, J. B. Childs; Fraud Investigator, J. E. Guest; Bulletin Editor, W. C. Polk; International Secretary, O. Hill.

Lynn, Mass., was selected for the seat of the 1916 convention, winning by a vote of 73 to 66 for Boston. It was voted that the society publish its own official organ, adopt a national emblem pin and to make the dues 60c per year with initiation fee of 25c.

LAI D PAPER IN THE U. S. 1861 ISSUE.

By WM. L. STEVENSON.

Several values of the issue of 1861 have been, and are now, listed as existing on definitely LAID paper. Specimens do exist that show something of a laid effect. I do not believe this is a laid paper but until recently had little except the opinion to put forward. Here is an added item of information on which, with some study, you can base an opinion of your own.

Mr. Luff tells us that this paper is "similar" to that used for some of the first issue revenues. I think this is not quite correct and that this paper is identical with that used for some of the first issue revenues.

This opinion is based on a characteristic of this paper that has heretofore escaped mention. I call it a "hair-watermark." How descriptive this name is can be readily ascertained by looking at the cut and comparing some of the specimens of postage and revenues.

My earliest revenues, used say in October and November, 1862, do not show this characteristic. As the paper changed a bit in November or December, this characteristic appears and continues during 1863 and probably into 1864. I have not found it among the 2c U. S. I. R. which was issued August 12, 1864. Practically every normal imperforate and part-perforate of this period show it in some degree.

The cut shows the general nature of the effect when a well marked specimen is looked through with a good glass. The thinnest and hardest papers generally show it best. Such a watermark on such paper is shown thus only by its relative translucency, not transparency. It is obscured more or less by any softening of the paper, by thickening of the paper, or by rubbing-up of the surface fibers. In the best marked specimens the "hairs" show clearly as indentations in the backs of the stamp paper. This persists even when the watermark is not very clear and is one of the definite characteristics of this "hair-watermark."

It is certain that hairs of some sort were at some time pressed into and then withdrawn from this paper. Such an impression might come from either the printing process or the paper-making process.

Everything considered, I am satisfied that the existing effects cannot come from the printing process. If some do, all do. The most strongly marked ones do not come from the press work.

It is quite certain that this watermark comes from the manufacturing process and it is highly probable that the hairs were thus impressed while the paper was still merely a fairly firm pulp. Whether this was intentional or not is here unimportant but it would be nice if we knew for certain.

It seems evident from examinations made, etc., that this paper is a definite product of some paper-mill during a certain period. As the revenue paper apparently all came from one contractor till about 1869, the general source seems certain.

Less than half of the revenue stamps so watermarked show the laid effects. The same is true of the postage stamps. The watermark is the more definite and permanent characteristic. The laid effects are uncertain and are no more truly laid lines in the one than in the other set of stamps. I am satisfied that the revenues are not on laid paper and that the same paper in the postage stamps is not laid, and that in the revenues the catalogue is quite correct in not so listing it. No one seems to have ever had any idea of listing a laid paper among this issue of revenues. Make some comparisons and see what you think about it.

In the revenue stamps, I think this paper needs listing as with "hair-watermark." Except for the silk-fiber paper, this is the most distinct paper of the whole issue. In the postage stamps, I think it would be proper to list such specimens as "On revenue paper." I have seen it in the 1c and 3c and the "laid" paper is listed in the 5c and the 2c. It is hardly common in any of the 1861 postage stamps.

To repeat. I am satisfied that the postage stamps of the 1861 issue do not exist on laid paper. I might add that I have still to see what seems to be a laid paper in any issue of our postage stamps. It is possible that some of the paper in the early 80's is laid. I doubt it, but it is worth studying further.

MAKE YOUR ADVERTISEMENT PLAIN.

By L. S. KEELER.

I have always noticed one thing in the "ads" as put out by different stamp dealers. As a rule they are vague and of no interest, requiring time, annoyance, etc., to study out from cumbersome catalogue just what stamp they desire to sell and it all causes a tremendous concentration of mind to match up details. I do not believe one out of fifty collectors carry in their minds the catalogue number of stamps but they do have a concise idea of the year, and are so guided by this simple way in buying from "Ads".

I have in this issue of your paper come across what I term an ideal stamp "ad" and it comes from abroad. It reads like history and for conciseness, and the whole thing in a nutshell, I take off my hat to the ad writer. Pardon my criticism but you will find this "grouch" is near to the heart of all collectors who have something else to do, besides their favorite "hobby" of stamps and want things plain, readable and quick to grasp, without a search warrant and an interpreter.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Arthur Barger of Framingham, Mass., has returned home from Canada, where he has been for some years connected with one of the large stamp firms. In the Framingham Evening News of July 20 appears an interesting writeup dealing with Mr. Barger's return, with particular reference to war stamps and censored communications. It is Mr. Barger's intention to deal in stamps, and the WEEKLY will no doubt be used as a means of becoming acquainted with stamp collectors.

—"I have a copy of the 3 cent of 1851, on entire, bearing date Harrisburg, Pa., July 2nd, the letter being dated July 2nd, 1851. This is the earliest date of which I have any knowledge, the stamp having been issued on July 1st. It is of course, wonderfully clear and fine, as an impression, with the distinctive early shade, enhanced by the blue gridiron obliteration. I should be glad to know whether any dated cancellation survives with the date July 1st."—D. W. HULBURD.

—Harry Caden submits a copy of the title page of the Black Cat, containing in bold type the question "Did you ever collect stamps?" and advising its readers to peruse "Jud Perkins Tackles Philately". This is the July number of the Black Cat, published by S. E. Casino, who owned the Boston Stamp Book in its palmy days. This paper was sold subsequently to Rev. John Luther Kilbon.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from H. S. Parsons, Arthur Kolstad (2), J. H. Weimer (2), H. A. Bernard.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels writes as follows:

"The new envelope contract has now gone into effect and it appears that the old dies will continue to be used with new watermarks. As the contractors receive paper from various manufacturers, the Government has authorized each manufacturer to use a different watermark. So far we have seen two, namely single line letters "U S" interlinked with addition of date. We have designated as wmk. 19 the paper supplied by the American Writing Paper Co. which shows the year date running horizontally across the top of the letters. We have likewise designated as wmk. 20 a similar watermark used by another paper manufacturer, but the year date runs diagonally downward through the same interlinked "U S." What is known as wmk. 17 is the 1911 issue "U S S E", while wmk. 18 is the same with a dash between the "S's," thus "U S—S E".

"As practically all collectors in this country use Bartels' Envelope Catalogue and its Supplement, it might be advisable to append numbers of envelopes to conform with this catalogue. In the enclosed list we have added these numbers, but for the present are not numbering the envelopes with the 1915 watermarks. None of those on the enclosed list have been chronicled by us before."

D. D. Berolzheimer writes as follows: "The envelope contract July 1, 1915 to June 30, 1919, for 9,000,000,000 envelopes was awarded to the Middle West Supply Co., of Columbus, Ohio, on the strength of its bid of $8,000,000. This concern has, however, been bought out by the Mercantile Corporation of New York, the old contractor. Full details of the award, the purchase of the M. W. S. Co., etc., will be found in recent numbers of the Paper Trade Journal. The old envelope dies are still being used, with a revival of the 2c Die B and Die D with its 13 varieties."

Something of a mix-up has occurred in regard to the new perforations on the current 2c stamps. MEKEEL'S WEEKLY stated some time since that the new perforation was 10 3/4. Measurements later on other gauges and of other stamps show that the correct measurement was

11. The following letter from Director J. E. Ralph of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will be of interest:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

July 21, 1915.

Mr. WILLARD O. WYLIE, Boston, Mass.,
Sir:—I am in receipt of your letter of the 20th inst. in which you state that it is reported to you that the perforations on the new stamps, samples of which are enclosed, are gauged 11, while others claim it is 10 3/4. You request to be advised what this Bureau recognizes as the proper perforations. You enclose four 2-cent stamps with your letter to show the perforations.

In reply I beg to state that this Bureau recognizes the standard perforations as 10 and 12.

Apparently your reason for calling attention to this matter is on account of the fact that the perforations between the two bottom stamps enclosed by you run 13, and between the two left hand stamps 11.

This condition may occur and is accounted for by the expansion of the paper, and is due to the fact that the stamps were perforated upon a very damp, humid day; or, if in the case of a lesser number than the standard, to the contraction of the paper, which is printed wet and dried before perforating, or to an exceedingly dry day when the sheets were perforated.

The four 2-cent stamps enclosed by you are herewith returned.

Respectfully,

J. E. RALPH, Director.

It will be noted that Mr. Ralph counts the perforations as they appear at top and sides. As the stamp is 2 mm. wide, the count agrees with the measurement, but at the sides it becomes 13, where the philatelic measurements would be the same as at the top. Allowing for the varying shrinkage of the paper, it is clear that the new perforation is 11 and not 10 3/4; certainly neither 10 nor 12.

Irvin B. Robinson favors us with a description of a new Philippine revenue stamp which was put on the press at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, July 25. The shape is a large horizontal oblong 1 1/4 x 3/4 inches, with "Philippine Islands" at the top, value at the bottom, with the figures of value in the lower corners in small circles. "Internal Revenue" and "Act 1189," "Ph. Com," and various ornamental devices fill the body of the stamp. The stamps are printed in sheets of 100 stamps.

Revenue Adhesive.

1c pale lilac.

I. Thurman Mann submits a copy of the current 3c precanceled "Raleigh—North—Carolina."

CANADA.—H. A. Bernard calls attention to the fact that the current 1c and 2c stamps of Canada vary greatly in shade and depth of color. Presumably the printers have found the same difficulty in regard to procuring colors as reported by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington.

WITH APOLOGIES TO "HAMLET".

Fine or superfine the everlasting question. Now is it better to have no stamp at all Than to have one that is not perfect; Or to disregard the dictum of condition cranks And take them as we find them. Imperf. or perf. Each one must have a margin 'round And if a hair's-breadth out to south or north He will not have it and the space is empty, And never will be filled. Why not? because The stamp cannot be found, for sad to say The man who made them did his level best To spoil them all and few were left perfect To suit the crank. Frank A. G.—says, "If the centering's off a mite, reduce the price To some per cent. of catalogue for fine;" But he is wrong, the crank must have them all As perfect as the best, with same outlay As saner mortals pay for average kind; And, if the saner mortal has for sale A copy that to him appears of worth, The crank returns it and demands instead Unknown perfection; says will pay the price Of damaged or off-centered stuff and shies When asked to pay according to the book Whose standard all are ready to accept, As guide and monitor, collectors' friend Which teaches us the A. B. C. of stamps And shows where copies without name belong Thus does a fad make hopeless cranks of some And bids all wonder whether this collecting Is hedged around with such a hopeless task As hunting for the rainbow's hidden gold, The album's pages thus remain unfilled And dead is the collection.

SAN MARINO.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The war is teaching us much of the geography of Europe. Except to the stamp-collector, the existence of the tiny Republic of San Marino was all but unknown to our countrymen until the other day, when its attitude towards the present struggle was made clear. A few years ago, seeking a map of the place at a famous geographical establishment in London, the attendant assured me that I must have mistaken the name, and that it was San Remo I wanted. San Marino, having preserved its own independence for sixteen centuries, runs its own postal service, and has its own distinctive stamps which frank its outgoing foreign mails throughout the scope of the Universal Postal Union. A diligence carries the mails from the little Republic to the nearest point on the Italian railways at Rimini, for the Republic itself has no railways.

Prior to 1877 the Republic was content to use Italian stamps on its outgoing mails; and needed none for its domestic posts. The citizens enjoyed free postage in the interior as late as 1899. On July 1, 1877, the first stamps of San Marino appeared, a series of five denominations printed by the Italian Government Printing Office at Turin. The lowest value bears a large numeral "2" in a horizontal oblong design, the other denominations, which are all in "centesimi," depict the arms of San Marino, showing three towers on three mountain summits surmounted by a crown. The stamps were designed by Sr. Enrico Repetti of Placenza.

The values 2, 10, 20, 30, and 40 centesimi served all the needs of the country until 1891, when 5 and 25 centesimi denominations were added.

The next year the proud little Republic evidently got into the hands of German philatelic speculators, and their trail is over all the middle period of Sammarinese stamp issues. In the early and middle 'nineties there were special journals published in San Marino, the first by a member of the great Dresden stamp society, who took up residence in the Republic. The first provisional surcharges appeared in 1892, when 20,000 of the 10c and 10,000 of the 30c stamps were surcharged "Cmi 5" in black. This so depleted the stock of 10c stamps that 40,000 of the 20c denomination were next surcharged "Cmi 10," which lot was afterwards supplemented by another 40,000, with the surcharge reading "10-10."

About the same period the use of stamps cut diagonally in half appears to have been allowed to make up odd amounts of postage, and it is not uncommon to find half of a 10c stamp used as 5c, or two and a half 2c stamps used on letters to make up the postage rate of 5 centesimi.

On July 15, 1892, the stamps in the old design, values 5 and 30 centesimi, appeared in new colours, olive-green and yellow respectively, and three new values were added—40 and 45 centesimi and 1 lira. The 2 centesimi was changed to blue on March 15, 1894, the 10 centesimi to dark green, and the following new stamps were created—15 and 65 centesimi, 2 and 5 lire.

In this year (1894) San Marino sent out its first pictorial series, commemorative of the visit of the late King Humbert, who opened the new Palazzo Pubblico, wherein the Council of Sixty conduct the affairs of the Republic. There are three values in three different designs. The 25 centesimi, marone and blue, shows in a quatrefoil frame an exterior view of the new palace, and in the upper spandrels are tiny portraits of the captains regent of that day, Commander Tommini and Chevalier Marcucci. The 50 centesimi, marone and red, shows the same view in a frame with a triangular opening, which arrangement shows more of the Pianello and a marble statue of Liberty, which was presented to San Marino by an English lady.

The highest value, 1 lira, shows the interior of the Council chamber, the chairs in which were presented to the little Republic by the President of the French Republic, the late M. Carnot. The portraits of the captains regent are repeated on all three values.

The colours of the regular stamps were rearranged in 1895, and again in 1898, the latter occasion bringing the 5, 10, and 25 centesimi values into line with the Postal Union requirements.

In 1899 the "Captains Regent of the Most Serene Republic" decreed that, beginning with Feb. 5, correspondence for the interior of the Republic should be prepaid with postage stamps created for the purpose and in accordance with rates set forth in the decree. The design of these special stamps for the interior shows a view of the aforementioned statue of Liberty.

A new series of stamps in 1903 introduced two new designs, one of an ornate numeral pattern, the other showing a view of Monte Titano, with the three towers of the Rocca Fortress, the Palazzo Pubblico, and the Torre della Fratta; down the side of the mountain are houses representing the little market town Borgo, a suburb of the capital. Two additional values in a new design appeared in 1907, and in that year also was introduced a stamp of 25 centesimi for use on "express" letters, which issue suggests that latterly the sleepy little Republic has not escaped the quickening influences of modern life.—London Telegraph.

FRENCH RED CROSS STAMPS.

In the beginning the postage stamp was introduced as a means of collecting small sums of money due for postage on vast numbers of letters. The stamp system owes its almost universal adoption to the fact that it enables the postal authorities to collect millions of small payments and to keep a check on these payments with a minimum of account keeping. With the example of the adhesive postage stamp as a guide the system has been applied to many other purposes, and notably in the present war we find that stamps are proving a convenient means of collecting small contributions to the charity funds of the nations at war, and even in some cases to nations which though not at war themselves are suffering from the consequences of the war which is spreading throughout Europe.

The only "stamps" of the war with which philatelists are concerned, are, of course, those which have a bona fide postal validity, and purely charity stamps having no other object than to serve the convenience of collecting charitable donations, are outside the sphere of philatelic recognition. But the most effective of the war charity stamps in augmenting the funds of the humane organisations concerned in alleviating pain and distress are those which combine with the charitable object a postal utility which brings the charity stamp into the category of postage stamps. Such stamps may fairly be expected to attain a greater circulation by reason of their legitimate use on all classes of correspondence, and by the utilisation of the numerous agencies of the postal administration throughout the length and breadth of the country of issue, to ensure their widespread sale.

In the present war France was the first country to issue a war charity postage stamp, which it did on August 18th, a little over a fortnight after les Boches had intruded upon French soil and set ablaze the conflagration which the armies and navies of the allied nations have not yet succeeded in extinguishing. The stamp of August 18, 1914, was of a provisional character only, being the current 10 centimes stamp surcharged with a Red Cross and "5c.", making the total expressed value 10c + 5c.=15 centimes. Of this sum the original face value 10c. represented the postal franking value, the extra 5 centimes being the contribution to the war fund. The war fund benefited by the French charity stamps is the Red Cross, which in France is a triple concern, the three branches of which are the:

- (1) Société Française de Secours aux Blessés Militaires.
- (2) Association des Dames de France.
- (3) Union des Femmes de France.

The first of these bodies is the oldest and did great service in the war of 1870. But as a commentary upon the vast extent of the present war operations in France it may be remarked that this Society alone has already spent more than during the whole of the Franco-Prussian War. Since 1907 three societies have worked in harmony under one central committee as the French Red Cross.

It will be interesting to learn in due course to what extent the French Red Cross benefits by the charity postage stamps issued in its interests. L'Echo de la Timbrologie last November gave a few illuminating statistics of the sales:

During the last 15 days of August: Francs 30,000.

During the whole of September: Francs 90,000.

The average daily sale in September was 3000 francs, sufficient for the tending of 750 wounded soldiers per day, at an average daily cost per head of 4 francs.

The provisional stamp of August was replaced by a stamp of definitive type on September 12; in this the die of the Sower stamp has been adapted to show the charity supplement on the stamp impression, so that from the new plates the new stamp is printed at a single impression. Plates have also been prepared for the issue of the Red Cross stamps in book form, in which form they were issued on February 13. The booklet of 20 stamps sells at 3 francs.

Large posters have been printed in various sizes for the extensive advertising of the stamps. Most of these were included in the very interesting and documentary collection of the French Red Cross stamps shown by Mr. Franz Reichenheim at the recent War Stamp Exhibition in London.

The Principality of Monaco followed with a surcharged stamp for the French Red Cross, and since September last a number of similar issues have been made for the French colonies, protectorates and postal agencies. A full list of these to date follows:

TWENTY YEARS AFTER.

To the Editor:—

It has been 16 or 18 years since I have been interested in philately, my interest waning when I accidentally lost or had stolen a fine collection out in this country. Recently I began passing away the time in looking up stamps again and incidentally I subscribed for the WEEKLY, the first copy of which came to hand today. I noticed your name and remembered having met you on several occasions and if I am not mistaken you were also interested in journalism. That was while I was living in Chicago. I think we had several visits together considering subjects in which we were mutually interested.

I am glad to see you president and editor of that magazine and trust you have been prosperous during all these years since last we met. I have been occasionally interested in newspaper work since coming west and at present am running a daily here, a copy of which I am sending you. I was impelled to drop you a few lines because it recalled old times.

Wishing you much success and with best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

D. W. GREENBURG,

MAFEKING SIEGE STAMPS.

In the current issue of the Boy Scouts Association "Headquarters Gazette" Sir R. Baden Powell has an interesting note on the origin of the famous Mafeking siege stamps. He recalls that, as the available stock of stamps at the post office were required for letters smuggled through the Boer lines by native runners, it became necessary to manufacture new stamps for use inside the town. Accordingly the Chief Staff Officer and the postmaster put their heads together and devised the new stamps and had them made.

"One day they produced the stamps, penny ones, imprinted with a picture of one of our cadet cyclist despatch riders, and this became the regulation stamp for internal postage; but in addition to this, apparently as a little surprise for me, they printed a sheet of stamps with my portrait on them as a memento of the siege. I was rather amused to hear later on the rumour that I thought so much of myself that I had ordered these stamps for issue. This would have been self-glorification indeed—had I done it!"—London Telegraph.

A BOOK ABOUT ONE STAMP.

This review is by Mr. Melville in the "Stamp Lover," and he indicates that the British press has nothing on the WEEKLY when it comes to specialism. It is really too bad that the "Philatelic Record" could not have reviewed this book, it would surely have given us a glorious name and fame. May we just add that this book by Mr. Wiley is meeting with a great sale.—Ed.

When the specialist writer discards the mere magnifier for the microscope, and the sensitive finger for the micrometer, he may be quite entertaining to a limited circle of enthusiasts, but he is beyond the depth of the general reader. Mr. Wiley has micrometrically gauged the paper thickness of thousands of the familiar 3 cents stamp of the imposing design of 1870; he has calculated—and his pamphlet contains many remarkable calculations—that 2 per cent. of the Continental Company's printings were on "ribbed" paper, and of these 2 per cent. he finds the micrometer gives a dozen degrees of variations in paper thickness expressed in ten-thousands of an inch. There, indeed, is philately reduced almost, if not quite, to an "exact" science! But in some modern aspects of philatelic specialism in the States we are inclined to fear there is a tendency to overdo the "science." When, as in the case named, we get many details, so mathematically complex as to be working out in ten-thousands of an inch, and we, in common with many other "dabblers" in U. S. stamps, don't believe there is any true ribbed paper throughout the Continental printings of this stamp, our scepticism is not a matter to marvel at. But a work like Mr. Wiley's may fairly have its uses in our philately. We entered upon our short notice with fear and trembling, for it is too much to expect a mere reviewer for a weekly paper, to produce a serious critique in a few hours on a work that must have taken its scientist author years to compile even the mere statistics he has set out, statistics which, in the main, may never be challenged, for this is not everybody's way of going about the study of one stamp.

THE EARLY HAWAIIANS.

By JOHN N. LUFF.

Continuing our examination of the copies of official records published in Filatelic Facts and Fallacies, we find another letter of Postmaster-General Clark, dated October 31, 1852. (As Mr. Clark held this office from 1859 to 1863, this date is doubtless a misprint for 1862.) In this letter he writes: "Hereafter we shall not keep any United States stamps, and persons wishing to pay the United States postage can do so in money or use the 13-cent stamps, which represent the full amount necessary." This would indicate that, while the 13-cent stamp was out of use, the stock was not entirely exhausted.

In its number for April, 1864, the Stamp Collector's Magazine said: "The 5 cents of the Sandwich Islands we have never seen on pure white, but occasionally on an exceedingly pale tint of bluish paper." Again, in March, 1866, the same magazine says of the 5-cent stamp: "Genuine impressions on white are extremely scarce"; while of the 13 cents it says: "It was suppressed in 1863 and is now very rare." Had the stamps on soft, yellowish paper, which have been so plentiful in more recent years, been in existence at that time, these remarks would scarcely have been made.

On June 24, 1864, Mr. William G. Irwin, stamp clerk in the Honolulu post-office, wrote to Mons. Moens (see the Monthly Journal for December, 1900) as follows: "The 13-cent stamp is one that was issued when the rate of postage from these Islands to the United States was 8 cents, but it having been changed since, the stamp has become obsolete. So the stamps now used in this kingdom are only: 1 cent, 2 cents, 5 cents."

On February 24, 1865, Mr. Irwin wrote again to Mons. Moens (see the same number of the Monthly Journal as for the foregoing extract), acknowledging an order for stamps and sending, among other things, sixty 5 cents and twelve 13 cents of the 1853 issue. He also wrote: "The 13-cent stamps have become very scarce, and I had to pay a large premium for those I now send; in fact, it is almost impossible to get any now, and as they long since became obsolete, no more impressions will be taken from the plate, which is somewhere in the United States. * * * I must apologize for having been so long in replying to your letter, but as I send you a new stamp which you have not yet seen, I hope you will not complain. The post-office has no 5-cent stamps on hand. While awaiting a fresh supply from the United States we issue in the meantime the provisional 5 cents (numerals) to serve until the others arrive."

This numeral was the 5 cents with "Hawaiian Postage" at each side. From this letter we see that the stock of the 13-cent stamp was entirely exhausted and there were no expectations that it would be replenished. The stock of the companion 5 cents must also have been exhausted or nearly so, as a provisional issue had been found necessary. The printing of this provisional in blue ink and upon blue paper probably indicates an attempt to conform, in those particulars, with the 5-cent stamp previously in use. Mr. Irwin's words "while awaiting a fresh supply from the United States" have been construed to mean a fresh supply of the 5 cents of the 1853 type, because it is known that the 5 cents of the 1866 type was not ordered until about two months after the date of his letter. But is it not possible that he, knowing the issue of a new stamp to be contemplated, supposed it had already been ordered by the Postmaster-General?

Again turning to Filatelic Facts and Fallacies (October, 1899) we find that on March 6, 1865, Postmaster-General David Kalakaua wrote to the postmaster at Hilo: "Your order for 5-cent Hawaiian and 5-cent United States stamps I am unable to furnish, being entirely out of them, and having been obliged to send to the United States for a fresh supply. The 3-cent and 2-cent United States are the only kinds we have, and which I forward you by this mail in place of the 5-cent stamps. You will have to collect the Hawaiian postage of 5 cents in money until the stamps can be procured."

From Mr. W. M. Giffard's Descriptive Catalogue of the Postage Stamps of Hawaii we learn that, on April 26, 1865, an order for 200,000 5-cent stamps was sent to New York. This order was executed by the National Bank Note Company.

OFFICIAL FACSIMILES.

Ordinary White Wove Paper. 1889.—5c light blue, 13c light red.

We occasionally see copies of the 13-cent stamp which have a large figure "5" written on them in black ink. This has been claimed by some to be a provisional issue, while others assert that the figure is merely an accountant's mark.

Thin bluish wove paper:

The next stamps issued in the Islands were the so-called "plain border" numerals. They were issued on August 1, 1859, and remained in use until about 1866. During that period other stamps were brought into use, but I think it will be preferable to consider these stamps as a group by themselves and not to interrupt the series merely for the purpose of mentioning all varieties in their exact chronological order.

There were three denominations of these stamps—1, 2 and 5 cents. The first was to pay the postage on newspapers; the second was for letters passing between the islands or between two post-offices on the same island, and the third was issued provisionally to supply a shortage of the regular stamp of that denomination. The stamps were typeset and arranged in groups of ten. In printing them it was customary to make five impressions of the setting, or a total of fifty stamps, on each sheet of paper. The sheets were divided into half sheets of twenty-five stamps before delivery to postmasters. Very frequently some of the impressions were printed tête-bêche to the others, and pairs which have been cut from such sheets are occasionally seen in collections. So far as we know, there were never any true têtes-bêches—that is to say, any which were caused by an inverted variety in the setting. The stamps were printed on ordinary letter paper, bought at a stationer's, which accounts for the variations in quality, color, etc.

The printing was done in the office of the Polynesian, and when not in use the material which composed the setting was kept in a safe. Changes were made from time to time in the arrangement of the component parts, and when different values were required the numerals and the word "Cents" were altered to suit the occasion. Some time ago I made an exhaustive study of these stamps and published the result in the American Journal of Philately for August, 1901. My conclusion was that the eleven settings which have long been familiar to collectors through illustrations were not all that had existed. Thanks to leading specialists, who kindly loaned me their collections, I was able to considerably extend the list of settings. It is quite possible that still others exist. I thought it best to retain the familiar numbers of the settings and to add the new ones by means of letters. I also rearranged the numbers, placing them in the order in which I believed them to have been printed. The reader who desires to know my reasons for this arrangement is referred to the American Journal of Philately. The space at my disposal does not permit their repetition here. I shall adopt the same order and numbering in the following list.

AUGUST, 1859.

I, 2c, light blue on grayish-white.
IA, 1c, light blue on grayish-white.

DECEMBER, 1860.

IB, 2c, black on gray.
III, 2c, black on grayish (shades).
Variety: "INTERISLAND."
III, 2c, black on gray-white.

JANUARY, 1863.

IIA, 1c, light blue on bluish-white.
IIB, 2c, light blue on bluish-white.
II, 1c black on grayish.
IIC, 2c black on grayish.

Variety: "2" at top of rectangle.

"Impression on the reverse.

" "NTER."

IIC, 2c black on greenish-blue.

APRIL, 1864.

IV, 1c black on yellowish-white.
V, 2c black on yellowish white.
V, 2c black on deep blue-gray.
V, 2c dark blue on grayish.

Variety: "HAW IIAN."

FEBRUARY, 1865.

VII, 1c black on white laid.

Variety: "HA" only, at left side.

VIII, 2c black on white laid.

Variety: "NTER."

" "POTAGE."

VI, 5c dark blue on gray-blue.

VIA, 5c dark blue on gray-blue.

JUNE, 1865.

X, 2c dark blue on white.

IX, 1c dark blue on white.

Variety: "1 Cen."

1865-66.

XI, 5c dark blue on gray-blue.

As has already been shown, the first of the 5-cent numeral stamps was issued provisionally about February, 1865, the 5 cents of the 1853 type being exhausted and its successor not yet ordered. It is evident that, before the new stamps arrived from New York, the supply of the first provisional was used up and a second one had to be made. For this purpose recourse was had to the type-set form which had been used for the 1 and 2 cents dark blue inter-island stamps. The compositor merely changed the central numeral and the value and overlooked the inscriptions at the sides, which were quite incorrect for a stamp which was intended to pay external postage. The only copy which is known with a dated cancellation was used on September 2, 1866, but the stamp was probably issued late in 1865 or early in 1866.

When Mr. Irwin wrote to M. Moens in June, 1864, he sent the 2 cents numeral on yellowish-white paper and announced that all 2-cent stamps had been superseded by the engraved 2 cents of 1864. Yet, when he wrote in February, 1865, he sent more 2-cent numerals, which were received and chronicled in Le Timbre Poste for August, 1865, as 2 cents black on white laid and 2 cents dark blue on white wove paper. By some writers these and their companion 1-cent stamps were thought to be reprints, but it now seems evident that they were provisional issues made to supply a shortage of the 2 cents of 1864. The 1-cent stamps were as necessary then as at any time to pay the postage on newspapers.

"Stamps of Cook Islands"

PRICE 25c

BY B. W. H. POOLE

A comprehensive handbook, well written, finely illustrated and typographically a handsome production.

McKeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.

The next stamp to claim our attention is the 2 cents rose, lithographed, on laid paper. The date of issue of this stamp has usually been given as 1862. In his work on Hawaiian stamps Mr. Giffard says: "Mr. H. M. Whitney, who was Postmaster-General from 1850 to 1856, states that the order for the first 2-cent stamp (lithographed) was sent by him to Boston shortly after that for the 13 and 5 cent of the 1853 issue, and that the date of issue (1862), as ascribed to it by philatelists abroad, is erroneous, the correct date being 1855." I believe Mr. Whitney to have been mistaken in what he thought he remembered. In Mr. B. C. Kenyon's History of the Postal Issues of Hawaii he speaks of certain essays of 1, 2 and 3 cent stamps, which were tendered as designs for inter-island stamps, at the same time as the designs for the 1853 issue. Possibly Mr. Whitney had these in mind. If the reader will refer back to the two letters of Postmaster-General Clark to Mr. J. S. Marsh, written in November, 1860, and March, 1861, he will see that the Postmaster-General first asked estimates on plates and printing of 1 and 2 cent stamps, and then decided not to order them. Following these letters, I quoted part of a letter to Mons. C. N. Rondot. A later paragraph in that letter says: "In 1861, the early part of the present year, an attempt was made to improve the engraving of the 2-cent stamp, and accordingly a red stamp, with a face on it, was printed, the value remaining the same. This last is now in use." This would seem to settle the date of issue as being, beyond question, 1861. Evidently, the Postmaster-General changed his mind, after his letter of March, 1861, and decided to order the 2-cent stamps. It has always been agreed that the stamps were made in Boston, and the fact that they were lithographed would indicate that they were wanted in a hurry and that there was not sufficient time to make a plate and print from it.

Le Timbre Poste for September, 1865, and the Stamp Collector's Magazine, for March, 1866, described the stamp as issued in 1862. Le Timbre Poste for 1863 (page 12), says: "The 2 cents pale rose has been replaced by a stamp of a bright carmine shade."

EDITORIAL.

A Triumph—The convention of the Southern Philatelic Association at Reading, Pa., on August 5th, 6th and 7th, afforded a delightful surprise. The most sanguine expectations of success were exceeded in realization and in all its aspects, the convention was ideal. The advantages enjoyed by the delegates were such as to command unrestrained enthusiasm. No philatelic occasion of the kind could have more bounteously rewarded those present than the festival at Reading. The attendance was large and representative and the roster included names of some of the foremost philatelists of the country. The commingling of philately and fellowship at the convention was in well-measured proportion and Reading has written its name high on the record of philatelic achievement.

* * *

Just Wait—At this time we shall not attempt even to scratch the surface of the broad vista of recollection of the S. P. A. Convention but in issues to come we shall deal adequately with the convention in its details. It may be said that in some respects the meeting was a tribute to the esteem in which the philatelic leaders of Reading are held by the friends that they have made in the course of over a score of years of loyal service to collecting and the testimonial of regard was deserved. To the older generation of philatelists, the names of Kissinger, Fox, Kantner and McDermott of Reading inspire memories that are most pleasant and their present activities are such as to be an incentive to the younger collector of to-day.

* * *

Advertising—An important adjunct of the convention was its publicity phase and it is safe to say that never before has a meeting of philatelists been given so much space in the newspaper press of the city in which it was held. Singularly accurate accounts of the proceedings were given front page space and two column notices, for instance, were a common allotment. One of the Reading dailies under the management of Mr. Fox was the space-maker in this regard and the philatelic accuracy of its reports was a joy to contemplate and the other newspapers ably followed the leadership of the Reading News Times. Philately came into its own in the Reading dailies.

The Link—Some time ago, we were enabled to report the discovery of U. S. stamped envelopes, both of the 1853 and 1857-60 issues, three cent, with the type-set inscription "Trans-Mississippi Post Office Dept." of the Confederacy; and these Confederate officially franked envelopes bore the postmark of Marshall, Texas, as the place of origin. The envelopes that were described had come into the possession of Mr. McDonald and the reference to them aroused attention on the part of students of Confederate issues. We have now received correlative information on the subject that we are pleased to impart as it does much to make the story of the envelopes complete. Mr. McDonald says: "In a new book just published, entitled 'Confederate and Southern State Currency,' by Wm. West Bradbeer, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., there appears on page 25, the words: 'The Congress of the Confederate States do enact that the President by and with the consent of the Senate appoint an agent of the Treasury Department whose duty it shall be to reside west of the Mississippi, at such place to discharge such duties as shall from time to time be assigned to him by the Secretary of the Treasury with a salary of $3,000 per annum, payable quarterly in advance.' The point designated for the branch (sub) treasury was Marshall, Texas. D. F. Shall was appointed auditor and James H. Starr became agent of the 'Trans-Mississippi Post Office Dept.' at Marshall. The ostensible purpose in establishing such a branch was to provide a much safer place than Richmond in case of emergency." Mr. McDonald adds: "This accounts for the Trans-Mississippi envelopes heretofore noted and the franking signature is no doubt Starr instead of Stern, as we formerly made it out." The confirmatory statements based on historical records that Mr. McDonald has submitted are explanatory as we have said of the existence of the Marshall, Texas, "second capital" of the Confederacy. In time, we hope to give a further word on this interesting phase of Confederate postal history.

* * *

Even So—From Franklin P. Adams' column in the New York Tribune (and we regard F. P. A. as about the equal of B. L. T. who taught F. P. A. the rules of verbal vaudeville) we are pleased to "lift" the following sage observation: "The National Philatelic Society is convening in New York. It is a good many years since we sold sheets of stamps on commission but we can recall the time when we considered completing a 'set' the most important thing in the world. Nor are we convinced that many things are more important." Two weeks ago, when we first printed the foregoing paragraph, the impression that it made on us was so deep that we feel that F. P. A.'s philosophy deserves a word of commendation. When a student of the human comedy of the sapience of Mr. Adams lifts his voice to say that he does not think that many things are more important than completing a set of stamps, Old Dignity need not avoid the boulevards in order to keep it dark that he is a stamp collector. However, the past twelvemonth has taught a good many that all is vanity and that the little things of life well done hold their sweetest triumphs. No longer need the quiet collector keep his collecting quiet.

* * *

Great Fun—From Mr. Arthur W. Line, Los Angeles, California, we have received a copy of Punch, London, several months old, that moves us strangely. For a time all too short, Philatelic Punch, in this country, gave a rosy tinge to the philatelic atmosphere; and so, we suppose that it is too much to hope for a Philatelic Punch in Great Britain. Yet we find a page of the classic comic weekly, London Punch, devoted to "The Stamps of Fortune," described as "our great war serial, a romance of love, war and philately." From the "synopsis of preceding chapters and characters in the story which takes place in the autumn of 1914," we learn that the dramatis personae are as follows: Emilia Watermark, the sweet and fond English maiden who has inherited from her father a wonderful stamp collection which includes "a unique set of San Salvador 1896 issue (unused)"; This dear young "lady philatelist" is in love with the "pure collector", Harold Pootwink, who is the secret rival of Steinart who "deals on the side". A beautiful philatelic adventuress, a champion stamp "lifter" who really is loved by Steinart, is enamored with Harold. Prisons, plots, passions and philately run riot in chapters XLVI and XLVII and though the narrative is "(To be continued)", we fear that one will look in vain for another instalment of the scrambled tale. The burlesque is a sprightly one and its cleverness is tinged with philately in the right proportion and consequently, stamp collectors best will be able to appreciate the skit.

DEATH OF MELVILLE STEWART.

Many collectors who knew Melville Stewart personally, will be exceedingly sorry to hear of his very sudden death on the 5th of August at noon.

Mr. Stewart was a well known actor and an enthusiastic collector and leaves a widow and a son of 15, and the funeral took place on Sunday, August the 8th, at the Masonic Temple.

We feel sure that the sympathies of the collecting world will be extended to his family and many collectors all over the United States will mourn his loss.

To Mr. Eustace B. Power we are indebted for the above information.

CHICAGO COLLECTOR IN THE TOILS.

A postage stamp collection, a patent portable army cot and four city blocks presented by Alexandria, Va., to the inventor of the cots, on which to build a factory, are a combination that caused trouble for Dr. Adolfo Luria, 921 Independence boulevard, according to the physician.

Dr. Luria was arrested yesterday on a fugitive warrant from Washington, charging him with the larceny by bailee of the stamp collection from Antony Telli of that city.

The doctor said he was in Washington arranging for the sale of 50,000 cots at $10 each and met Telli, who sold him the collection for $25. The doctor said he promised to keep Telli in mind for a job in the factory. Telli's anger over the delay caused him to allege the stamps were worth $500 and get a warrant, said the accused man.—Chicago Herald.

PERMANENT ASSIGNMENT OF LETTERS TO VARIETIES.

By Wm. L. STEVENSON.

In connection with the suggestions regarding a revenue list, printed recently in the Collector's Journal, a correspondent advances an excellent idea. He suggests that so far as possible each different revenue variety be designated by the same letter permanently in every issue and under every stamp, now and in future whenever such a variety occurs. This would take the place of the present method of assigning the first letters of the alphabet in turn to the varieties under each stamp regardless of what that letter indicates under some other stamp.

I have worked over this idea for some time under the postage stamps and have tried various and numerous expedients in an attempt to arrive at a simple and consistent system that could be adopted as a permanent arrangement for both postage and revenue. I am not at all sure I have found the ideal means to this end but will here submit my present arrangement for criticisms and comment. Don't hold back a single idea you may have because it is but one. It may be the idea. The fundamental idea involved is certainly worthy of attention.

In the revenue stamps, considered by themselves, it would be very easy to make such an assignment. In the postage stamps, there are from first to last many more kinds of varieties recognized than can be covered by our one available alphabet. There seems to be no other alphabet sufficiently well known for our purposes. Further extension of use of numbers seems inadvisable. I think we should retain the use of capital letters till we come to considering the shade problem. There is our problem.

Some varieties occur in nearly all issues and may be expected to turn up in future issues at any time. Such are the double transfers, imperforates of normally perforated stamps, etc.

Some varieties occur in but one issue or in but few periods. Such are the grills, the book-leaves, etc.

Still other varieties are of infrequent occurrence or occur only as great rarities; as color errors, or cracked plates; while still others are nearly on the border line between varieties and mere curiosities of the postal service; as split provisionals, revenues used as postage stamps, etc.

The complications are quite apparent but there are openings if we care to take advantage of them.

I here give my present solution. Note that I have divided the varieties into three not very sharply drawn classes assigning to some double letters, to others absolutely permanent single letters, and to others letters permanent only within given periods. Where letters are unassigned, they are open for further extensions.

THE

Commemorative Stamps of the World

By James H. Lyons.

One of the most interesting stamp books ever written, profusely illustrated. Should be in every philatelic library. Excellent gift for your friends to show them how much fascination there is in stamp collecting.

Price bound in cloth, gilt lettering, only $1. Send your order today and we will send the book by return mail. The New England Stamp Monthly is now running a second series of articles by Mr. Lyons on Natural History as Shown by Postage Stamps. The Monthly is now in its fourth volume and will be sent one year for only 12c, the cost of postage.

It will probably be said that as no one will ever attempt to memorize such a list, the scheme is absolutely useless. It is not expected that anyone will ever make such an attempt. No argument is required on that point. It certainly is obvious to any one that constant use of any list tends to fix the most used numbers and letters in the memory, the more constant the use the more fixed the memory. This is well illustrated by the frequent mistakes due to the constant changes in the list numbers as shown by our catalogues as changed frequently since, say, 1890. It surely is a nuisance and for one thing makes it extremely unpleasant for other dealers in getting out their own sales lists, and to all dealers in arranging stock.

Dealers and collectors handling mainly the stamps since 1890 will quickly see the value of the idea. The same applies a little less strongly to those who are more interested in previous periods. As before said, the fundamental idea is correct and sound. All that is needed is the correct and sound solution. Think it over. Can anyone suggest any better or simpler solution or make any suggestions whatever toward the desired end? Don't consider simply the one little portion of the list in which you may be personally interested at present. It is a bigger problem than that.

"AT LUCID INTERVALS."

By JOSEPH LOWELL.

I recently had occasion to enter several books in the Sales Dept. of the S. P. A., a book of fine German colonials being among the lot. A note was added to the effect that since the allies had captured the colonies issuing these stamps, Scott's prices on these issues had been cancelled, and were no real guide at the time. Imagine my surprise on receiving the retired books, to find the following penciled by some patriotic son of the Fatherland underneath my note, "Taken, but will take them back!"

What has become of the Perforated Pete, Embossed Emil, O. R. Gum, Gushie Gurgle, and the unfortunate Count, not to forget that popular sticker to the hobby, "The Perfect Philatelist"? Have they all given way to the new order, or are they languishing in deserted European tourist resorts, patiently waiting for return tickets to Boston? Or, perchance, may they have wended their way southward to sunny Sonora, in the search of Maro and Centavob errors?

A friend nearly succumbed to a shock he received some weeks ago, and is not yet himself. "There's a Reason." He bid $2.00 on an item in a stamp auction, and it was sent him at $1.50, 10c above the next highest bid, as per rules of the sale!!

Old man Diogenes can blow out his lantern and hang it up. We have found the honest man, a stamp dealer at that. A boy collector friend recently paid 25c for an unused copy of Venezuela, 230b, then cat. $2.50. Last week 20c was returned to him by the dealer, with the statement that as the stamp was now priced very low, he did not want his customers to lose money, hence the refund up to half catalogue. Poor business on the dealer's part, you say? A loss on these particular sales, possibly, but will warrant that he has these "kid collectors" for keeps.

AUSTRALIA.—Ewen's Weekly reprints a cutting from the Argus of May 25, 1915, with reference to the 1d rate to Samoa, etc., which, of course, only applies to those parts over which the Australian Government holds jurisdiction and not over such parts as American Samoa or Dutch New Guinea:—

"It has been decided that the penny rate of postage on letters posted in the Commonwealth shall be extended forthwith to correspondence for Samoa, New Guinea (except Dutch New Guinea), Bismarck Archipelago (comprising New Britain, the Admiralty Islands, New Ireland, New Hanover, &c., Nauru, Bougainville, and Buka, Solomon Islands). The reduction is in consequence of similar action by the Imperial postal authorities. A new scale of charges for parcels sent by post to Samoa, New Guinea (late German New Guinea), the Marshall and Caroline Islands is also now in force. The schedule is 8d for the first pound, and 6d for every additional pound."

AUSTRIA.—A new Red Cross reply card, for the correspondence of the prisoners of war, has just been issued, according to Mr. Schachne.

Military Post Card.

No value. Brick red and black on buff.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—A. C. Roessler informs us that the special War provisional was put on sale July 29. Only the 5c is on sale at this time, but all values will be put out as soon as stocks now on hand are used. The stamps are the ordinary King George issue, with a peculiar sort of a purple overprint, somewhat like that used on safety paper as employed on checks, etc.

CANADA.—Gladstone Perry writes: "Referring to your issue of the 31st July, re Canada, Post Cards.

You quote:

2c carmine and buff, for public, bi-lingual, good die.
2c carmine and buff for Railroads, poor die.

I have copies as follows:

2c carmine and buff, for public, good die, without bi-lingual.
2c carmine and buff, for public, poor die, without bi-lingual.

It remains for someone to turn up a copy of the 2c bi-lingual for public, poor die, if such exists.

CUBA.—Jacques Krebs has shown us the 2c map stamp in a new color.

Adhesive.

2c vermilion red.

HONDURAS.—George d'Hemecourt reports newspaper mail from Honduras franked with the current 2c carmine stamp surcharged "Official—$0.01", in black. Mr. d'Hemecourt has a pair with the new value printed "$0.10" on one of the stamps.

Provisional Official Adhesive.

"0.01" on 2c carmine.

NORTHWEST PACIFIC ISLANDS.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us a full set of the Australian stamps overprinted, "N.W. Pacific Islands". The 1d and 2½d values were originally prepared and sent out with Colonel Pethebridge when that officer left Sydney in November last to take up his duties as Administrator of the North-West Pacific Islands. The London Telegraph described the two stamps on information received at the time, but the colonel's destination and duties were subsequently changed and he went to Rabaul, New Britain, and these stamps, although earmarked for the "North-West Pacific Islands", were actually issued in New Britain, to which the designation North-West Pacific does not strictly apply. The stamps are only available for use in the islands recently occupied by the Australian troops, and for no others, and these do not include any of the islands above the equator except Nauru. Apparently the set of stamps just received is a later printing than the one previously reported in The Daily Telegraph, and it includes additional values, so there are the following war stamps to be noted for "New Britain", although marked "N.W. Pacific Islands":

First Issue.

1d green, King George.
2½d indigo, Kangaroo.

Second Issue.

3d green, King George.
1d carmine, King George.
2d grey, Kangaroo.
2½d indigo, Kangaroo.
3d pale olive, Kangaroo.
4d yellow, King George.
5d chestnut, King George.
6d ultramarine, Kangaroo.
9d violet, Kangaroo.
1s green, Kangaroo.

ST. PIERRE & MIQUELON.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the current 10c carmine rose and red stamp, surcharged Red Cross and "5c" like the other colonies.

Red Cross Adhesive.

10x5c carmine rose and red.

SAMOA.—Mr. Schachne has shown us the current New Zealand letter cards surcharged "SAMOA" in blue.

Letter Card.

1d dark blue and red on light blue.

TOGO.—Philip H. Ward, Jr., reports having just received the "Togo" on Gold Coast 3d with yellow back. Have not seen this mentioned before—previous listings showing the white back only. Have also obtained a copy of the ½d, same set, on a much thinner, almost transparent paper. The comparison is strong when placed side by side with the regular stamp.

Ewen's Weekly says: The West African mail arriving in London on the 12th inst., brought a small supply of the 3d purple on yellow paper dyed throughout. Curiously, all the sheets had the third stamp of bottom row of each left and right pane neatly abstracted without damage to the margin. The overprint is the same as used for the other values and was no doubt applied at the same period, the stock of the 3d tinted having become absorbed before the required quantity of this denomination was attained.

Georgian Series. Provisional Overprint.
3d purple on yellow.

The question will be what is the 3d tinted variety worth. Many thousands of collectors will want to acquire and most will have to go without. The errors small "G" in "TOGO" and small "F" in "FRENCH" are certainly worth a great deal more than the quotations that have been made during the past three weeks, and those who have availed themselves of the opportunity to secure are indeed fortunate.

For obvious reasons, may not the 3d on dyed yellow paper with this small overprint also prove a good stamp? Speculation is rife. Will "TOGOLAND" or "GOLD COAST & TOGOLAND" be instated as the title for the territory, and appear on the next issue? The coming season will probably bring an added and still greater interest in the West African group.

URUGUAY.—Ewen's Weekly notes another lithographed stamp in the current set.

Adhesive.

20c dark lilac brown.

VENEZUELA.—The first of a new series of stamps has been shown us by Jacques Krebs and Elliott Perry. The design is in the American Bank Note Co.'s familiar style, but the portrait is an enlarged and abbreviated copy of the Bolivar portrait on the 1914 issue. The inscriptions read "Correos—E. E. U. de Venezuela" at the top, and the value at the bottom, with

THE PARCELS POST MAN.

Like Atlas, his load is a back-breaking one,
As he trudges along with his pack,
Or you'd think that old Santa had come down too soon
With his presents all piled on his back.
They can still load him down to the very last straw,
Like an Orient-bound caravan,
Yet he never complains, but he smiles through it all,
Does the good-natured parcel post man.

There are parrots and dogs and a few sample bricks,
A baby, a venison roast,
A dozen cut roses, a limburger cheese,
All sent C. O. D., parcels post,
A ham and a hatbox, a live rattle-snake,
A pudding, a sixteen-inch fan—
But he smiles through it all as he trudges along,
Does the good-natured parcels post man.

THE NATIONAL MUSEUM COLLECTION.

(W. L. McAtee has very kindly sent us the report of the National Museum for 1914 and in it we find an official statement in regard to the Museum stamp collection that we deem best to reprint in the WEEKLY. We feel sure that it will be read with interest.—Ed.)

At the beginning of 1908 the subject of postage stamps was illustrated in the Museum by only a small miscellaneous collection of domestic and foreign issues numbering about 2,500 pieces, and it is interesting to note that the principal contributor had been Mrs. Spencer F. Baird. In the year named, however, through the munificence of Mr. David Cromwell, of New York, the Museum received an exceptionally fine series of about 20,000 specimens representing the United States and nearly all foreign countries. These stamps were almost without exception well preserved, uncanceled copies, which had been assembled by the collector with much care and at great pains, and were therefore especially suitable for public exhibition. Though lacking in many important particulars, this collection was installed as a unit in a series of cases designed for the display of manuscripts but well adapted to this purpose, which are located in the smaller hall of history, as already explained.

In 1912 the Museum obtained by transfer the more essential parts of the large exhibition of the Post Office Department, comprising as its most valuable and important feature the stamps, stamped envelopes, and postal cards of all the nations of the world, to the number of nearly 200,000, and since then there has been a constant accretion from the same source. The original collection consisted primarily of a large cabinet with sliding frames, in which the main series of stamps had been installed, including those printed for the United States by private firms from 1847, the date of the first Government issue, until 1894, when the work was taken up by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and the subsequent issues from this bureau; the foreign stamps received through the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union at Berne, Switzerland, and a number of early United States stamps specially purchased. Nearly all of these series, however, were incomplete. The remainder of the collection was composed of sheets of stamps, envelopes, and postal cards mounted on swinging screens for various American expositions; many separate sheets of stamps and individual specimens; and several albums of stamps and of die proofs of United States stamps.

The preliminary work of putting this collection in shape, consisting in the systematic arrangement of the material by countries and dates of issue, having been completed in the early part of last year, the problem of preparing an appropriate exhibition was then taken up. It was decided to limit the display in the beginning almost exclusively to stamps, and, drawing first upon the resources of the collection from the Post Office Department, to leave spaces during the mounting for the desiderata which would be supplied as opportunities offered.

There have been many methods of exhibiting postage stamps, but it is believed that the scheme here adopted is an improvement over any other, especially in the matter of details. The principle is the same as that followed by the British Museum and is exemplified in the former cabinet of the Post Office Department, namely, a series of vertical sliding frames in which the specimens are mounted. The cabinet that has been built and in which the installation is in progress, though already made accessible to the public, may be briefly described as follows: There are two cases, each 16 feet 2 inches long, 6 feet 7 inches high, and 2 feet 8 3/4 inches deep, constructed each in two sections for convenience in moving. They are made of mahogany with simple trimmings on the outside, but of white pine in the interior except as otherwise stated, and are placed facing each other on either side of the main passageway in the northwest court. The lower part of the cases is arranged for storage and provided with doors. The upper part, measuring 3 feet 2 1/4 inches from a counter shelf to the top of the cornice, contains the sliding frames, of which there are 148 in each case, or 296 in all, a number that may of course be at any time increased by adding to the case length.

The individual frames, made of cherry, measure 31 1/4 inches high by 29 3/4 inches deep on the outside, and 27 3/4 by 21 3/4 inches in the opening. The thickness of the frames is 1 3/16 inches, and when fully drawn out they are exposed to a depth of 23 3/8 inches, with an extension into the case of 6 1/4 inches, which provides the necessary leverage. Both sides are used and are glazed with English negative glass. The frames slide on cherry strips and the upper and lower rails of the former are grooved to within an inch of the front. In the lower groove are mortised four brass trunk rollers projecting one-eighth inch to raise the frame above the strips, but the upper groove contains only one such roller, placed about 1 inch from the back of the frame to prevent friction as the frame is started. On the front edge of each frame is a bronze-finished bar drawer pull, a label holder, and a numbered disk. The frames are doubly secured in the case by a hinged cornice at the top and a wooden flap at the bottom, which are fastened by locks at the ends. They are released for inspection by unlocking the flap, being stopped at the proper place by a square strip of wood attached at the top, and may be wholly removed by also throwing the cornice back on top of the case. Still other attachments give greater refinement to the mechanism of the case in several ways.

Summarizing the principal merits of these cases, especially with reference to their use by the public, it may be said that the frames run so smoothly that they are instinctively pushed back into place, which is an important matter as operating against an unlimited exposure of the stamps and their consequent more rapid fading; while, furthermore, the frames are all in a single row and center at a height of about 4 feet 10 inches above the floor, which places each mounting easily within the range of vision of the ordinary standing visitor.

The stamps are mounted on quadrillé paper, which is supplemented in each face of the frames with a mat having four quadrangular openings, the stamps being appropriately grouped for this arrangement, which greatly adds to the appearance of the installation. Between the two mountings is a sheet of one-fourth inch compressed filler board. The labeling of the individual stamps has gone forward with their mounting and is done directly on the quadrillé sheets by means of a typewriter having gothic type. The results are very satisfactory in effect and much more durable than by attaching the many thousands of separate printed labels that would otherwise have been required. There remain to be added the general printed labels, one on each frame face, giving the name of the country represented, and one on the front edge of each frame indicating the scheme of arrangement.

The installation of the collection, instead of according with the usual stereotyped alphabetical arrangement throughout, agrees practically with that of the coins and medals, and therefore begins with the United States, followed by the foreign nations in alphabetical order, the stamps of the colonies being grouped together geographically under each respective mother country. It is ultimately proposed to add an alphabetical and numbered list of all the countries and colonies represented by means of which any particular set of stamps may be quickly located in the cases.

The total capacity of the 296 frames in the present cabinet is about 75,000 stamps. Approximately 20,000 had been mounted by the close of the year, and labels had been prepared for about 30,000 more. As regards the material on hand the work had been somewhat more than half completed, and the alphabetical arrangement of the stamps by countries had progressed to the letter N. Spaces have been reserved for all of the primary varieties lacking, which it is expected to procure from time to time. The collection is, therefore, by no means a complete unit, but to be considered as the nucleus of a greater and more perfect representation of the stamps of the world to be gradually rounded out. As at present constituted it is most important on account of its size and wide representation, as well as for the period covered, commencing about the middle of the nineteenth century. It lacks especially the rare specimens of collectors and common varieties of certain periods, particularly of foreign issues. In general the mounting is of single stamps of each issue; but when necessary to serve a particular purpose they may be mounted in pairs, strips, blocks, or sheets. A selected series of the stamped envelopes of the United States follows the stamps of that country, but otherwise no provision has yet been made for the exhibition of postal cards and envelopes. In addition to the exhibition series which is expected to be the most complete, a reserve series will also be maintained for the use of special students of the subject.

The collection of United States stamps from the Post Office Department is an especially valuable one, all of the regular Government issues during the nineteenth century being represented as to types except the 1, 5, and 12-cent stamps of August, 1861, the other desiderata consisting in the lack of a number of scarce shades and special printings. The issues of the present century for the United States, the Philippine Islands, and the Canal Zone lack only a few shades which are not rare and can readily be secured. The representation of foreign stamps, however, is far less complete, and includes not a single one of the many great rarities of the nineteenth century. Though numerous gaps occur in the series of the twentieth century, they can mostly be filled without trouble and through the medium of exchange.

In the United States series, the installation of which has been completed, occur the following rare stamps, mainly unused copies and all in fine condition, namely, the 1-cent (type 1), 5-cent in dark brown and red brown and 24-cent of the issue of 1851; the 5-cent (type 1), in brick red and red brown, of the issue of 1857; the 3-cent rose, 3-cent carmine, 10 and 24-cent, and the 90-cent imperforate of the issue of August, 1861; the 3-cent scarlet, 5-cent buff, 5-cent olive buff, and 24-cent steel blue of the issue of 1862-1866; the 15 and 30-cent of the issue of 1869, with inverted medallions, the latter being one of the three great rarities in the issues of this Government; and a 12-cent, grided, of the issue of 1870. The set of reprints of various issues made by the Government in 1875 for the Centennial Exhibition of 1876 is complete, with the exception of the 1, 3, 6 and 12-cent of 1871 and the 2 and 5-cent of 1875. The collection also contains the 2, 7, 12 and 24-cent stamps, special printing of 1880; the 2 and 4-cent, special printing of 1883; the complete issue of 1890, 1 to 90 cents, in imperforate blocks of four; a complete sheet of the 2-cent Columbian issue, 1893, imperforate, signed and attested by J. Macdonough, president of the American Bank Note Co., and A. D. Hazen, Third Assistant Postmaster General, as the first Columbian stamps printed; the 6 and 8-cent stamps of the issue of 1895 printed in error on revenue paper; the 1, 2, and 4-cent inverted medallions of the issue of 1901, the 2-cent being the greatest rarity in the United States series of this century; a complete set, 1 to 15 cents, of the issue of 1908 on bluish rag paper; a complete set of the postage due, special printing of 1880, except the 1-cent denomination; a complete set of the issue of 1893, special printing imperforate blocks of four; a copy of the $5 stamp of the State Department; a set of newspaper stamps, 2 to 96 cents, special printing of 1875; a complete set, 1 to 60 cents, in imperforate blocks of four, of the special printing of 1893; and a complete set of the issue of 1894, bureau printing of the American Bank Note design, 1 cent to $6.

The Museum has been fortunate in securing for the classification and installation of its stamp collection the services of the experienced philatelist, Mr. Joseph D. Leavy, to whom credit is due for its present excellent condition.

"UNTO THIS LAST."

By EDWIN B. HILL.

The Arizona summer with its heat had passed and the coming winter had begun to call the tourist from the East. The snow-clad peaks of Superstition range and the Matatzals reached heavenward in forlorn visibility. I felt desolate as they, for my friend, Frevor Moore, had gone into the hills during what we called Autumn to stay until Spring. With him had gone a gadding tourist of an Englishman, one of those gentlemen to whom everything is strange and some things worth inquiring about. It was an axiom at Willow to save your lies for natives, and tell strangers the truth. That is why I steered clear of the Briton. I'd have to lie to him if he was receptive, although it would be merely passing on the local items retailed to me by cow-puncher or sheep-herder. So I hid out, and saw Moore depart for the hills with him in tow.

"Mr. Moore was looking for you," said the red-headed girl in the post office when I collected four days' mail an hour after the cavalcade was out of sight. "He wanted you to meet his friend, Algeron Prince."

"Ha! Prince, eh? Ha!" I replied, somewhat testily.

"Cheer up! You won't be bothered till Spring," said the girl, hopefully. "Too bad it's so short a time."

That was the straw. The red-headed girl saw I was splashed and so she let it soak in.

After this little exchange of amenities, she was most kind and forgiving. I felt this intuitively; for she went so far as to show me His picture—a nice gentle cow-puncher who worked up at Moore's ranch. I knew and liked him. Well, I "holed up" until the snow melted, the winter floods passed, and the green showed on the mountains.

Then it was, that, one day Moore came into the postoffice with his quick soft step, grasped my hand warmly, and burst out:

"Heard the news? Madero dead—murdered—and I'm afraid for Juan—sore afraid he's gone out, too. I'm down here to get word."

There were letters galore, but not the letter.

"No news is bad news," declared Moore. "But I want you to come up to the ranch with me and meet my friend, Prince," he continued.

"Ha!" ejaculated the red-haired girl, and then busied herself amongst the letters. I shrunk properly. That stab from her was entirely unnecessary.

"Glad—er—glad to go!" I replied; and I was. So we rode forth into the mountains.

At the ranchhouse I was introduced to Algeron Prince, of London. He knew his Lamb and his Coleridge and his Keats, and I cursed my stupidity and boorishness. Better than that, to me, just then, he knew stamps, as none besides, while of the ways of the forger and the faker he was as familiar as with an open book. It was glorious! And I'd missed it all these months!

"Show him your collection of rarities," suggested Moore, as he puffed at his pipe.

Prince went over to Moore's trunk, and pulled forth a small black volume. "In mourning," he laughingly declared as he passed it over to me.

I opened the book at the first page. The sight took my breath. Hawaii! Missionaries! Eight of them! There was a sight for the gods! I gloated and gloated; for these were the first of those famous stamps I had ever seen.

"And every one a gem,—if only they were perfect," added Prince, sadly.

I looked again. Then I took the book into a better light. My eyes, schooled as they were to search for skilful repairs, with difficulty discerned the work of an artist in every stamp.

"Blanque! As I'm a sinner!" burst from my lips.

"Yes, the greatest of them all," said Prince. "There are just 229 stamps in that book, worth as many thousand pounds if perfect, every one of which has been repaired by that wonderful artist Blanque, of Paris. One year ago he died. These were his legacy to me,—his swan-song,—the gems of his curious collection. You knew the old man? Not a perfect stamp in his small shop. Every one had been repaired by himself. Why, he must have restored rarities worth millions of pounds. Good old Blanque! I can see him now, amongst his darlings, as he called them,—those ruins of rarities. He taught me to respect his art, which has died with him.

Prince slowly filled a pipe as I looked through the volume, noting the world's greatest rarities made to look as good as the best. But always I recurred to the Missionaries.

"Blanque was a character, and the soul of integrity, too," said Moore. "I knew him fairly well the last two years of his life. Don't you remember, Prince, how I asked him once to alter a common variety into a rarity? I wanted to use it as a joke when I went back to London. I can see now, how the old man's hand trembled as he took from his stock-book a copy of this rarity, and handed it to me. 'Yours,' he said. I tried to explain. The old man waved me off, and went into the rear room, closing the door. My eye! I was in a stew until you dropped in and I explained. Then I went to my pension until you came for me."

"I have that stamp yet. And the memory, too, of an insulted and hurt old man. He was apology personified, I remember, when you fetched me across Paris to him. But I never forgot it,—nor did he."

As we sat there, looking across the mesa suddenly the rhythmic sound of hoof-beats came on the breeze from far-away but beating nearer.

Moore dropped his pipe and sprang to the open door. We crowded the narrow entry into the open.

A solitary horseman, mounted upon a sorry animal, was close upon us. He was an Indian, and rode as if he had come a long distance. He was on the verge of falling as we caught him, swaying in the saddle. Moore helped the man indoors, and gave him water. He thanked us gravely, and then, looking intently at Moore, spoke slowly in perfect English:

"Senor, he is dead. He sent me to tell you. I—I follow quickly."

That was all in English. Then in his adoptive Spanish, he poured forth his soul of love and affectionate remembrance. He was the last of his tribe,—the last of the house where he had served three generations. Huerta's men had trapped his master to his death with Madero that bloody day. José knew the end long before it came. His people were not ready,—the reforms were in advance of their time. And so that was the end; that was Fate.

That night the old man, too, slept into the Silence. We buried him at dawn, where the sun shone first upon the hilltop, and the evening sun last at night. "Faithful to the End," we carved upon his headboard.

Revised for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

EGYPT—A HISTORY OF ITS STAMPS.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

III. Third Issue (Jan. 1st, 1872).

The firman of the Sultan dated June 8th, 1867, investing the Viceroy with the title of Khedive was responsible for the new stamps issued nearly five years later.

In December, 1871, the following announcement was made:

POSTAL ADMINISTRATION OF THE EGYPTIAN KHEDIVATE.

HEAD OFFICE.

NOTICE.

ISSUE OF NEW STAMPS.

His Highness the Khedive has been pleased to approve of the issue of new postage stamps of seven different values, viz., 5, 10, and 20 paras, and 1, 2, 2½ and 5 piastres.

These stamps will be put into circulation on January 1st, 1872, and during that month the general use of the present and the new issue for the prepayment of letters and printed matter will be permitted.

On February 1st, 1872, the former will cease to be legally current, and letters bearing the old stamps will be considered unpaid, and treated strictly according to the tariff. The public will, however, be allowed to exchange the old stamps against new ones of equal value, at the post offices, until March 31st, 1872, after which they will be demonetized.

A copy of this notice, together with specimens of the new stamps, will be exhibited during the whole of the above period at every post office.

The Director-General,
MUZZI BEY.

ALEXANDRIA, December 19th, 1871.

The general features of the design may be described as similar to the last issue with the Sphinx more to the left and the pyramid more to the right. The stamps of this issue are no credit to anyone connected with their production.

The inscription in top label reads, "Poste Khedevie Masrie"; in the bottom POSTE KHEDEVIE EGIZIANE, and the Arabic equivalents of the face value are the same as the last issue with the addition of "Ghersheen e nuss", the rendering of 2½ piastres.

It will be seen that the title of Khedive (Khedivate) is prominent in the design: the bottom label translated reading the same as the top.

The stamps of this issue were surface-printed in sheets of 200 (20 x 10). The first plate made was the 1 piastre value.

The plates for the other values were then made by reproduction of the central portion and upper and lower rectangular labels of the 1 piastre. The rectangular labels at the sides including the corner figures and a corresponding portion of the top and bottom lines of the frame were made separately and inserted afterwards. The fitting was usually defective, so that white lines of varying degrees of thickness (due to bad fitting) are often seen.

The stamps are watermarked with a crescent and a five-rayed star.

This issue contains a new value—2½ piastres. It is not quite clear whether there was any real necessity for this additional denomination, but it is quite clear that the demand was not great, for there was a large stock on hand in 1879.

The emission under discussion forms a most fascinating study, not the least interesting item being the two printings.

The first printing was the work of M. V. Penasson at Alexandria (1872), while the second printing (1874) was executed by the Egyptian Government "Imprimerie Nationale" at Boulac near Cairo.

The following notes should prove adequate for the allocation of these stamps to their respective printings.

THE TWO PRINTINGS.

I.

Alexandria Printing. Jan. 1, 1872.

I. Perforated 13½ and 12½ x 13½.

II. Medium to thick opaque paper.

III. Plain undecorated margins with thick line of colour on top margin.
IV. Shading on Sphinx's ear clear and sharp.

BRITISH HONDURAS

The three low values were overprinted with a secret device to prevent the use of a quantity of stamps with plain face that had been lost and possibly stolen. Whilst these overprinted stamps are supposed to be current we have been unable to secure them on a basis of face value. We now have the five cent value unused. It ought to be eight cents but we cannot quote it less than

Headquarters for Stamps of the U. S. and Its Colonies

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

H. F. COLMAN,

Second National Bank Bldg.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

V. Impression and perf. sharper than in second printing.

VI. Watermark always () correct.

II.

Boulac Printing. Nov., 1874.

I. Perforated 12½ and 13½ x 12½.

II. Thinner paper (often semi-transparent).

III. Arabesque ornamentation round entire sheet on margins.

IV. Shading blurred.

VI. Watermark often found inverted in this printing.

Tête-bêches occur in this printing only.

The Alexandria printing are perforated 13½ or 12½ x 13½. The former was in use from 1872 to the end of 1873. The 12½ x 13½ machine was also in use in 1872, but was abandoned until 1874, when it was once more utilised.

Stamps of the 13½ gauge are decidedly rare in unused condition.

Upon the Government taking over the stamp printing at the end of 1874, a new machine gauging 12½ was employed. The 20 paras unused is a good stamp. Of the 13½ x 12½ series the 1 piastre is really rare in mint condition.

Two values of the Boulac printing are known with an error of perforation; that is to say, perforated 12½ x 13½—the gauge of the compound Alexandria prints. The impressions of the 2½ piastres are on thin paper and very blurred in appearance.

Both of these perforation errors are extremely scarce.

As already stated, the tête-bêche varieties occur only in the Boulac printing. Four values only are known which show these upside down varieties, viz., 10 paras, 1, 2 and 2½ piastres.

The tête-bêche varieties occupy the undermentioned positions in their respective sheets:

(i.) 10 Paras—Nine inverted clichés are known.

Row 4. Stamps Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

Row 6. Stamps Nos. 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10.

Row 13. Stamp No. 5.

(ii.) 1 Piastre—It would appear that there were no less than four settings of this plate, as shown below:

C. Row 4. Stamp No. 8

Row 6. Stamp No. 8 } Same sheet.

Row 16. Stamp No. 2

A. Row 12. Stamp No. 4.

B. A. Twelve tête-bêche varieties scattered over one sheet.

Row 1. Stamps Nos. 1-10.

Row 12. Stamp No. 4.

Row 15. Stamp No. 1.

D. Nineteen (?) inverted clichés.

Row 1. Stamps Nos. 1-9.

Row 20. Stamps Nos. 191-200.

We are assuming that two tête-bêche blocks in a well-known collection are both from the same sheet in Setting D. If this is incorrect, then one of the items under Setting D should come under the heading E.

(iv.) 2 Piastres—Row 1. Stamp No. 8.

(v.) 2½ Piastres—Row 16. Stamp No. 4.

Tête-bêche pairs of the last two denominations are scarce.

It is held in certain quarters that flaws and dots to be found on the stamps of this issue are definite varieties which are constant. There may be one or two constant minor varieties, but the general workmanship of this series is so bad that it is practically impossible to distinguish between genuine varieties (if such exist) and "varieties" caused by bad printing, over inking of the plate, etc.

A nice range of shades exist, the 1 piastre being the most prolific. We have seen odd copies of the 2½ piastres in a curious dull green colour—presumably changelings.

Once again the unofficial split stamp cropped up, and as before many copies passed through the post, including the 20 paras and 1 piastre.

In April, 1875, a new printing of the 5 paras denomination was made by the Government at Boulac, and this printing brought forth one of the most curious errors recorded in the annals of philately—curious from the fact that every stamp comprising the sheet of 200 is an error!

The origin of this error was that the Government officials made up the composite die with the rectangular labels at the sides interchanged owing to their ignorance of the European letters and figures. To make matters worse the forme was made up without any care whatever so that a large quantity of tête bêche pairs and blocks cropped into the sheet.

The sheet is composed as follows: (1) Rectangular side frames upright and head (central portion) inverted; (2) Rectangular side frames inverted, center upright.

Stamps of this issue and also various values of the 1879 De la Rue issue are sometimes seen bearing the words "Dopo la Partenza" overprinted in black, red or blue.

The cancellation on the specimens we have seen is of a large circular type and is inscribed "Poste K. E. Direzione Locale Cairo."

IV. The 1879 Provisionals.

On January 1, 1879, the old violet 2½ piastre stamps were put into circulation with surcharge of "5" and "10 paras" denominations. The surcharges were applied in black. This was done in order to utilise the remainder of 2½ piastre stamps on hand and also to be prepared for the great New Year's post which requires almost entirely 5 and 10 paras denominations. A bold figure of value ("5" or "10") with PARAS reading upwards on the left and the usual Arabic inscription "HAMS PARAT" 5 paras and "ASHRAN PARAT" 10 paras, on the right composed the surcharge.

The quantity of the two provisionals surcharged was 1,700 sheets—that is 340,000 stamps. It is probable that the number was equally divided for each provisional, as there is no difference in the relative scarcity of either value. Each sheet contained one tête bêche stamp so that the surcharge appeared inverted on this particular specimen. Tête-bêche pairs of these provisionals are scarce.

The surcharge was applied inverted by mistake to some sheets and in this case the tête bêche variety shows the normal surcharge.

The lists give the dates of these provisionals as Jan. 1, 1879. A fellow specialist has a copy dated Dec., 1878, so it would seem that the last days of Dec., 1878 saw the issue of these New Year emergency provisionals. Both provisionals were on sale in Cairo and Alexandria, although we do not believe that they were exclusively on sale in these towns only.

Misplaced surcharge varieties are fairly common and no particular care seems to have been taken in putting the sheets through the press.

IV. De la Rue 1879-84 Issues.

A marked improvement in the general workmanship of Egypt's stamps is to be noted from April 1, 1879, when the printing contract with Messrs. De la Rue & Co., of London, came into force.

The official announcement was as follows:

DECREE.

The General Post Direction has the honour to inform the public that the postage stamps at present in use will be replaced by postage stamps of a new design, which will be put into circulation on the 1st April, 1879.

The postage stamps at present in use will continue to serve either by themselves or in conjunction with those of the new issue, for the franking of correspondence until the 31st of October next. From that date they cease to be accepted as payment for any postal matter whatever.

From the 31st October to the 31st December, 1879, all postoffices are authorized to exchange the present postage stamps against others of equal value of the new issue. After that time they will not be accepted at all.

The new issue will consist of the following postage stamps:

- | | |
|-------------------------|-------------------|
| 5 paras, colour, brown. | 10 paras, green. |
| 10 — — — light violet. | 5 piastres, grey. |
| 20 — — — blue. | 20 paras, rose. |
| 1 piastre — — — rose. | |
| 2 — — — orange. | |
| 5 — — — green. | |

ALEXANDRIA, 20th March, 1879.

The set duly appeared as announced. The Sphinx and pyramid form the central portion of the design. The upper tablet contains the French inscription "POSTES EGYPTIENNES", whilst on the left is the value in the same tongue. The bottom and right hand tablets enclose the Arabic "Posta Masrie" and the facial value expressed as upon the previous issue.

The stamps were surface-printed on medium wove paper similar to the "Crown C.C." although of course in this case the watermark was the crescent and star. The sheets comprised 120 stamps in two panes of 60 each with control number (2) in each of the four corners.

The 10 Paras of 1881 and 1882.

In January, 1881, the 10 paras appeared in a new tint—lilac rose in place of the old mauve.

On January 25th of the following year the same value was issued in a bluish-grey colour.

The 1884 Provisional.

February 1, 1884, saw the introduction of the 20 paras on 5 piastres. Either there was a very large demand for this value, or else it was thought expedient to use up the surplus stock of the 5 piastre value pending probable postal changes.

4,000 sheets (480,000 stamps) were surcharged at the Government Printing Office, Cairo, of which number 12 sheets bore the surcharge inverted.

We are inclined to think that more than 12 sheets were printed with the inverted surcharge, as this error is in reality quite common. A nice block with the normal surcharge appears to be rarer than a block with the inverted!

The latter varieties were bought by an official, who resold them to the trade used or unused.

V. Change of Colours—1884.

In Dec., 1884, a change of colours was resorted to—heralded by the usual post-office proclamation.

DECREE.

The General Post Direction has the honour to inform the public that the Administration is just issuing new postage stamps of 10 and 20 paras and of 1 and 5 piastres, of the following colours:—

- | | |
|-------------------|------------------|
| 1 piastre, blue. | 10 paras, green. |
| 5 piastres, grey. | 20 paras, rose. |

This new issue will come into circulation on the 15th of next December.

The stamps of similar values now in circulation may be employed singly, or in conjunction with the new ones, for the payment of postage until the 1st of December, 1885. After that date they will be obsolete, and no longer accepted in the Egyptian post-offices.

The stamps of similar value now in will be the same as those actually in use. ALEXANDRIA, 20th November, 1884.

As the stamps are the same in design, perf. and wmk. as the last issue, there is nothing much to be said.

It is worth noting that the 10 and 20 paras and 1 piastre are printed in the colours conforming to the Universal Postal Union. Egypt joined the U.P.U. on July 1, 1875 (Class III.).

VI. The New Currency Issue of Jan. 1, 1888.

This new series of stamps was required by the adoption of a new monetary system.

The official proclamation of Dec. 21st, 1887, tells us:

DECREE.

From the 1st of January next the present stamps of 5 and 10 paras will be replaced by new stamps of 1 and 2 milliemes. In consequence all stamps of 5 and 10 paras will be replaced by such of 1 and 2 milliemes in all post offices.

None of these new stamps have to be sold before the first day of the year, and no more 5 and 10 paras stamps must be sold from the same date. All the remainders in stock at this date must be returned to the General Post Office, and full credit will be given to each office.

A new stamp of 5 milliemes will also be put in circulation at the beginning of the year to replace the 20 paras stamps. As, however, a considerable stock of the 20 para stamps is still at the different post offices, the new stamps will not be supplied until the stocks are used up. Later on instructions will be given to the different post offices concerning the time the present stamps can still be used. ALEXANDRIA, 21st December, 1887.

Exactly a week later a Post Office Notice followed:

From and after 1st January next will be issued—1st. Postage stamps of 2 milliemes and 1 millieme respectively, replacing the current stamps of 10 paras and 5 paras. 2d. Stamped envelopes.

The postage stamps of 5 paras and 10 paras will cease to be sold from the 1st January, but will continue to be accepted alone or with the new issue for the franking of correspondence up to the 30th June, 1888. After this date they will not be allowed to circulate, but may be exchanged for other stamps at the chief office up to the 31st December, 1888. After this they will not be accepted in any circumstances.

The new stamps were printed from new plates, although the main features of the previous issue were embodied in these designs. Thus the new 1 mil. is very like the old 5 paras, the 2 mils. is similar to the 10 paras, and the 5 mils. is like the 20 paras.

At first sight the central portion of the design appears to be the same as before. There is, however, one very noticeable difference. The head decoration of the Sphinx now runs down to the enclosing oval, whereas in the previous emissions this decoration stopped short of the oval.

The 1 and 2 mil. stamps were the first to be issued and they appeared on January 1, 1888, being followed by the 5 mils. in March and the new 10 piastres on January 1, 1889.

A decree dated Alexandria, 21st Mar., 1888, stated:

On and after the 1st May the sale of the stamps of 20 paras by the post offices shall cease, although they may continue available for postal purposes up to the 31st October next.

In order to avoid any confusion over the new currency, the post office issued a printed list of postal rates:

- For letters circulating from one office to another, for every 15 grammes 10m [milliemes].
- For the same posted and distributed within the same circuit, 5m.
- For single post-cards, 5m; for double 5m on each part of the card.
- For journals and periodicals under 150 grammes, 1m.
- For printed matter and patterns circulating from one office to another, under 50 grammes, 2m.
- For the same posted and distributed within the same circuit, 1m.
- As fixed charge for registration, 10m.
- For every acknowledgment of receipt of a registered packet, 10m.

The Reductions of 1890.

DECREE.

- The rate of letters within Egypt will be reduced to 5 milliemes in case of franked letters, and double in the contrary case for every letter and for every 15 grammes or part thereof.
- The present decree will come into force on 1st March, 1890.
- Our Chancellor of the Exchequer will be charged with the execution of this decree.

EDITORIAL.

Scores High.—The large attendance at the convention of the Southern Philatelic Society at Reading was an element that contributed greatly to the success of the meeting. The delegates came from as far west as Nebraska, as far north as Minnesota, and as far south as Florida, while the representation from the home state was a strong one. The numerical showing was due to a combination of causes; the active interest manifested by members in the workings of their society and a desire to recognize the loyalty and hospitality of the Reading leaders. An underlying factor lay in the decision of a number of members not to attend the A. P. S. convention because of its distance and enjoy the meeting nearer at hand. The presence of many experienced philatelists, among others, afforded a basis for the accomplishment of work that redounded to the benefit of the association and philately as well. The volume of intelligent newspaper publicity gained through the convention alone was of incalculable good and the perfecting of the workings of the somewhat intricate internal machinery of the organization certified the proceedings as of sterling results. Reading's first convention amply verified the most sanguine expectations and firmly fixes the fair fame of the progressive city.

Among Other Things.—The reports of the officers and committees reflected a year of efficient conduct of the S. P. A. and the growth of the body was marked. There was a brisk fight for next year's convention seat and it may be said that the selection of Washington in a sense was a compliment to Mr. Gorham who, as chairman of the recruiting committee proposed over fifty members during the year. No change was made in the official journal and except in one instance, there was little competition in the election. While the convention was a harmonious one yet the members did not hesitate to express themselves freely and pointedly and their remarks loaned a piquancy to the proceedings as there were an unusual number of forceful speakers present. The report of the committee on constitution evoked much discussion and the changes that were made were carefully considered. The constitution of the S. P. A. is a codification that well repays examination and as the necessary revisions and additions are made to it, an admirable instrument will result. While the Southern Philatelic Association has a distinctive place in that it addresses itself to the younger or medium collector, yet it has shown that it is not without its appeal to the most practiced of philatelists. Its age and its present position are its passports to full recognition; and in years and in influence it has attained its majority.

Gushful.—Of the social diversions that were so large a part of the convention, one cannot speak without enthusiasm. The beautiful natural setting of the city was a pleasure to behold and full advantage was taken of the physical attractions as a background for the entertainment of visitors. The hospitality of the Reading contingent was unbounded and the comfort of the delegates was a first consideration. As the pleasures of the three days were unfolded the impressions of the delegates resolved themselves into the conviction that never before had a philatelic convention been so royally entertained. For a city of its philatelic population, Reading outdid itself and one may realize the work of preparation to ensure the happy issue that was performed by comparatively few of the stalwart philatelists of Reading, a city just comfortably over the hundred thousand mark in population. The lesson of Reading is one worth pondering. The city is just large enough to supply all of the conveniences of a metropolis, but is yet small enough not to regard a convention with jaded eyes. It would seem that a convention seat of about this size, in many respects is the most satisfactory one but how few cities of the kind have philatelists who can match the activity and influence of those of Reading.

Grand Opening.—One of the events that was not on the program was the reception given to the visitors by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kissinger at their home, on the evening before the opening day of the convention. The guests crowded the spacious rooms where entertainment dear to the heart of the philatelist was dispensed. In this cheerful atmosphere, acquaintances were rapidly made and the host and hostess may know that their house party was one of gaiety unalloyed. For philatelic entertainment the superb collection of Dr. Hetrich of Birdsboro, Pa., comprised of U. S. revenues including the private proprietary issues, was on view and engaged admiring attention. Parts of the collections of Mr. Kissinger were at hand and were examined with interest. The surroundings were perfect for an evening of rare philatelic sociability and the introduction to the pleasures of the week was indeed felicitous. The memories of the occasion will linger in the minds of the visitors and kindly thought for Mr. and Mrs. Kissinger will long endure. This foretaste of the pleasures of the succeeding days served to bring the delegates in close communion and to accentuate their hearty participation in the subsequent social features.

Stamps Were Present.—The different members had many stamps to show and while there was little time for "bourse" transactions between the demands of the convention and the excursions, yet the meeting had a stamp leaven that was appreciated by the "traders." The display of U. S. and Confederate was good. Conventions should make allowance for a trading session as the visitors are apt to bring a few choice stamps with them and wish in many cases to "buy, sell and exchange." It is considered a privilege by the visitors from the smaller towns to have the opportunity to have a genuine stamp session with kindred spirits and provision should be made to meet this natural inclination.

Coast Convention.—The convention of the American Philatelic Society at San Francisco was the feature of the week and our report will be found in this issue. Those who traveled far to participate in this classic event surely were amply repaid for their journey and the hospitality of the coast entertainers must have been a source of great pleasure.

Behind Schedule.—A summary of the convention proceedings of the Southern Philatelic Society will have to await the next issue as our eastern trip has been changed by unavoidable circumstances from the original plan. However, the routine has now been resumed after an outing of over two weeks. Our general observation has been that philatelic interest is running high and that stamps still reign supreme. The distractions of the day do not seriously disturb stamp collecting and having withstood this acid test, philately is stronger than ever in our country.

CONTINENTAL SILK-FIBER PAPER.

By WM. L. STEVENSON.

Auction catalogues occasionally list for sale specimens of the 15c Continental (issue of 1873) on what is termed silk-fiber paper. Other values may have been listed but I have not seen them so noted.

I have examined several specimens so described and some of them certainly do show certain small fibers sprinkled throughout the paper. They are not surface fibers merely but generally distributed through the pulp. (I have also seen two specimens with gum that howed similar fibers in the gum only.)

That these are SILK fibers I do not know and have located no one who knows whether they are or not. They do not appear to be purely accidental but as if purposely mixed into the paper pulp. Are they silk fibers? Are they an intentional marking of paper especially for postage stamps or an unusual use of some unusual paper not specially for stamps? Is there any record of such a special paper?

Looking through my accumulated Continentals, I find the same paper used for the 1c, 2c vermilion, 3c, 5c, 6c, 10c, and 15c. I do not find it on the 30c or 90c. Also it does not appear in any of the 2c brown, 7c, or 12c. As these last three were dropped to date June 30, 1875, the paper seems to belong after that date. Their non-appearance on the two highest values may mean simply that the comparatively few printings of these values missed that particular paper.

Paper differences are quite numerous during this whole Continental period, 1873 to 1879, and it is entirely possible that this silk-fiber paper is a real experiment. At any rate, it is definitely and distinctly marked. When we come to listing paper variations, say in 1950, we will probably find this particular paper among those recognised by all. Look them up when you get time.

While the fibers are not strictly microscopic, and can be noted with good eyesight in some cases, a good glass is a requisite for certainty of determination. The best method I have found is to so hold the stamp, back up, that its lower surface is directly lighted while its top is indirectly lighted but the stamp is nearly in the plane of light. Thus the fibers all receive proper illumination and they can be seen well enough to count them if desirable. Look through the paper, not at the surface only. I have found no specimens that are marked with these fibers but with a few only. All seem fully marked with numerous fibers or not at all. As papers go, this one is worthy of a place in any list, whether we know all about it, or not. Any further information about it will be gratefully received.

THE A. P. S. ANNUAL MEET.

Convention Held at San Francisco on August 10, 11 and 12.

By WILLARD O. WYLLIE.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Aug. 12.—Eight years ago the writer visited San Francisco. The earthquake had left a terrible waste in the devastation it had wrought. I shall never forget the desolation and turmoil and confusion that was so plainly evident as I wended or tried to wend my way through the torn and twisted section of the stricken city.

But amidst the wreckage I could see a dogged determination to build a new San Francisco, so that out of the great calamity should rise a city greater and better than it had previously been and the fruit of this determination is plainly apparent to me as I have walked among the built-up section and noted the splendid buildings that have been built since my last visit.

We have met in what is called the Auditorium, one of a group of buildings in the heart of the city, known as the Civic Centre. It is a building splendid in its appointments and admirably fitted for the numerous conventions that are being held in the city.

The convention was presided over by H. B. Phillips and was called to order Aug. 10 at 10 A. M. Jas. A. Barr, director of exhibits for the exposition welcomed the convention to the city. More than a hundred members and friends were in attendance.

The report of President C. A. Coolidge was then presented. The general reviewed the work of the year in detail; covering not only the details of society administration but the more important philatelic developments.

The ballot for officers resulted in the election of C. A. Howes for president; H. H. Wilson, W. B. Sprague and Dr. Carroll Chase, vice presidents; W. E. Ault, secretary; C. F. Heyerman, treasurer; L. H. Kjellstedt, international secretary, and directors at-large, H. B. Phillips and W. H. Barnum.

In the afternoon there was a trolley excursion into Alameda county and in the evening an exhibition of stamps of various countries at the headquarters, Hotel Stewart.

Wednesday morning the secretary's report was presented as the first item of business. The membership of the A. P. S. is 1433 as against 1468 one year ago—a loss of 35 members. Mr. Ault reported thirteen deaths. There has been a gain of six branches.

The finances of the society outside of the general fund are in excellent condition. The various balances shown amount to nearly $6200. The general fund has been overdrawn $130.

The important item of business brought up at this session was the matter of re-incorporation under the federal law. It was voted that no action be taken in view of the expense and particularly as no special advantages or benefits would result.

The bay excursion in the afternoon was keenly enjoyed by all but a very few and these few soon forgot their "slight indispositions." For three hours we navigated the splendid bay tasting old ocean where the waters come in contact at the Golden Gate and getting a fine water view of the exposition. We ran close to six warships stationed near by and the entire afternoon was given over to a splendid "get-together" occasion.

A delightfully informal event was the banquet at the Cliff Hotel in the evening. Mr. Phillips acted as master of ceremonies. There were no set toasts and responses but jollity and good nature reigned supreme. Messrs. A. W. Batchelder, W. Parker Lyon and the writer all made remarks more or less appropriate for the occasion, but the pleasing features were presentations of medals by the Pacific Philatelic Society to various collectors present, for their philatelic study and exhibits:—John T. Gribble, Honolulu; W. Parker Lyon, Pasadena; Fred E. Farnham, Chicago; Frank F. Barnes, Kalamazoo, Mich.; and John T. Jones, Santa Maria, Cal.

There were seventy-five present including ladies and the occasion will long be remembered by those who were privileged to attend.

Thursday, Aug. 12, the final session was held and many items of business were cleaned up including formal reports of various committees.

It was reported that a total of 394 proxies had been received but only a small part were properly stamped as required by law. No amendments to the by-laws could therefore be adopted, but none of great importance presented themselves.

Boston was placed in nomination for the 1916 session by A. W. Batchelder, and unanimously elected.

The committee on by-laws reported that several desirable amendments had been presented, but in the absence of necessary number of proxies to change the by-laws, all amendments were referred to the incoming board.

It was voted that the secretary be given full power to restore old numbers to reinstated members.

On recommendation of finance committee, it was voted to print pages 1 to 114 of the index; appropriate $50 for the Index Committee and $100 to the Philatelic Literature Committee.

The new journal of proceedings will be edited by Secretary Ault with the idea of eliminating all irrelevant matter.

At 2.30 o'clock P. M. in the California State Building occurred the exercises in connection with the A. P. S. "official day." A commemorative plaque was presented by a representative of the exposition and accepted by W. C. Michaels in behalf of the A. P. S. The entire convention program has been one of marked interest and the committee in charge is to be congratulated upon its success.

11-CENT STAMP OUT.

Bears Head of Franklin—For Parcel Post Use.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The new 11-cent postage stamp appeared today at most of the postoffices. It bears the head of Franklin in profile, from Houdon's bust, and is printed in dark green ink. It is the same shape and size as the ordinary stamps, series of 1911.

The new stamp is issued primarily for use in prepaying postage on parcels and postage and insurance fee on insured parcels amounting to 11 cents.—N. Y. Tribune.

The above clipping is kindly supplied us by C. F. Richards, while we are also favored with one by the J. M. Bartels Co. and Grant L. Paul. We are indebted to Gen. C. A. Coolidge for notice of the appearance of this stamp and he states that they bear Plate Nos. 7498 and 7499.

THE 3c GREEN BOOKLET.

A handsome production! Printed on heavy paper and fully illustrated all the way through.

Cover printed in green of the color of the stamp, of which an enlarged illustration in half-tone is shown. It's within the postal regulations.

Some ten blank pages, "Stamps and Notes," added to make the book right up to the minute.

A chart, folded in, with data.

Poems by Field and Pember.

And the price only 12c!

GEORGE L. TOPPAN'S

United States Stamps and Their Varieties

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues
U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps
Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plymptons is made as easy as rolling off a log. Dr. W. H. Deaderick reports having found a copy of the current 1c green, perforated 10x12, precancelled, "Quincy, Ill.", and with perforated initials, M. D. Co."

DENMARK.—W. T. Wilson has shown us a new provisional from Denmark, the 12 ore of the type of 1876 et seq., having been surcharged "80 ore" in two lines in large black type. Mr. Wilson also reports that there is a provisional 80 ore surcharged on the Official 8 ore stamp. The new permanent 80 ore value was to have appeared early in August.

Provisional Adhesive.

"80 ore" on 12 ore slate and lake.

HONDURAS.—Hermann Focke submits a specimen of the current 10c red brown lithographed stamp, overprinted "5 cent."

Provisional Adhesive.

"5 cent" on 10c red brown.

INDIA.—Gwalior.—W. T. Wilson has shown us the 2a King George stamp surcharged in two lines with the usual two lines in native characters for "service" use.

JAPAN.—Tadayasu Maki, writing from Nagoya, Japan, reports that stamps commemorative of the Coronation, which will occur this year, will be issued in two designs. There will also be picture cards and a special postmark has been authorized by the Department of Communications. The stamps will be of four denominations, 1 1/2s, 3s, 4s and 10s. The 1 1/2s and 4s will be in one design and the 3s and 10s in the other. Mr. Maki also encloses three special postmarks, similar to those with which he has favored us in the past. He expresses regret that philatelists in other countries have no interest in these commemorative postmarks, which are so popular in Japan.

Those submitted include one commemorative of the "Special Grand Military manoeuvres of 1914," used Nov. 19, 20 and 21, 1914, by the Post Office at Osaka; another commemorative of the "Opening of Tokio Railway Station, 1914," used Dec. 18, 19 and 20, 1914, by one of the Post Offices in Tokio; and a third commemorative of the "Sai Den," was used June 5, 6 and 7, by the Mutsumi Postoffice in Aich Prefecture.

MEXICO.—Roy S. Farley reports an issue of stamps for the Southern District of Lower California. They are the same design as the Villa Sonora "Stage Coach," except that the colors are different, and they are inscribed, "Distrito Sur de la Baja Cal. Mexico."

Adhesives.

UNITED STATES OFFICIAL SEALS.

By JOHN N. LUFF.

It is not the purpose of this article to present a general or elaborate review of the various seals employed in the work of the Post Office Department of this country. The principal object is to consider the typographed and lithographed seals and the reasons for the new arrangement of the list of them that appeared in the 1915 edition of the Scott catalogue. By way of introduction we may recall that the list of our official seals opens with three that are engraved. First, the green seal with the word "Registered" across the face; then two brown seals, one with a background made by the words "Post Obitem" in small letters, many times repeated, and the other with a background of lathe work. These three seals were issued in 1872, 1877 and 1879, in the order they are described. In 1888 another brown seal appeared which continued in use until 1907, with many changes of shade and color, as well as being imperforate, perforated and rouletted. This seal was much inferior in design and printing to its predecessors. When first issued it was over-inked and blurred. It had the appearance of a poor lithograph and many people termed it such; others said it was printed from a wood block and still others that it was typographed. These conflicting opinions were probably due to want of familiarity with various processes of printing and also to the conflicting statements about the seal in the philatelic press at or soon after the time it was issued.

The first chronicle that I find of the 1888 seal is in the American Philatelist for July 10, 1888, page 237, where I read: "Mr. A. Lohmeyer sends us a new official seal, which is a very poor copy of the old one. The imprint at the bottom is missing and the portrait in the center barely distinguishable. Official seal, dark brown."

The Philatelic Journal of America for July, 1888, page 215, says: "It is the same design as the old one now in use but very poorly printed."

The American Journal of Philately for August, 1888, page 290, in "Addenda to Stamp Catalogue" lists it as: "Lithographed. Perforated. 1888. Officially sealed, brown."

The American Philatelist, dated July 10th, 1889, publishes on page 300, a letter from Mr. C. F. Rothfuchs, who had interviewed the Chief Clerk of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Third Assistant Postmaster General and other officials on the subject of the 1888 seal. He was informed "That they were printed from relief plates taken from a wood cut, and are not lithographed. The first lot received by the Post Office Department was unperforated, and all other lots received since then have been perforated."

In this statement about a "wood cut", we, doubtless, have the origin of the "wood engraving" seals which were listed in the catalogues and handbooks for some years. If we trouble to compare an engraved seal with one of the 1888 type we will see that the latter does not in any way suggest an engraving on wood and is so faithful a copy of the engraved seal that it must be the result of some photographic process. My idea is that Mr. Rothfuchs' informant either spoke hastily or was misunderstood. He very probably said "wood block" and meant a thin metal surface fastened to a backing of wood, just the sort of thing that makers of photo-engravings and electrotypes turn out to-day. Before going any further I wish to make one more quotation from the American Philatelist, Jan. 10, 1890, page 101: "A brief history of how the present type of these stamps came to be adopted may not be out of place. The two previous issues were finely engraved and comparatively costly. Being without an appropriation sufficient for their manufacture, the Department had the present wretched transfers made and printed at the Government printing office."

After the foregoing statements about the method of production it is not surprising that catalogues and writers were somewhat confused and caused like uncertainty to the collectors who tried to follow them. From Tiffany's handbook on United States stamps I compile the following list:

- 1872 Engraved. Perf. 12. Green (Registered).
- 1877 Engraved. Perf. 12. Brown (Post Obitem).
- 1879 Engraved. Perf. 12. Brown.
- 1888 Wood Block. Perf. 12. Reddish Brown.
- 1888 Lithographed. Perf. 12. Brown.
- 1888 Lithographed. Rouletted. Brown.
- 1888 Lithographed. Imperf., Brown.
- No date. Typographed. Black on pink tinted paper.

Mr. Tiffany gives the four seals of 1888 as "on lavender tinted paper." No one else has ever been able to discover that the paper was anything but ordinary white. This is not important, but is merely mentioned to save any one who might read his book from starting a search for something that does not exist.

My file of the Scott Catalogue begins with the 51st edition, 1890-91, in which I find:

POST OFFICE SEAL STAMPS.

- 1872. Registered, green.
- 1877. Officially sealed, brown (Post Obitem).
- 1879. Officially sealed, brown. Lithographed.
- 1888. Officially sealed, brown. Wood Engraving.
- 1888. Officially sealed, brown. Typographed.
- 1889. Officially sealed, black on pink paper. Rouletted.
- 1889. Officially sealed, black on white.

The 53rd edition (1902-03) added another item under the heading "Rouletted": 1891. Officially sealed, brown, lithographed.

It will be noticed that in the foregoing list one seal is marked "Rouletted", but nothing is said about the others, which included perforate and imperforate varieties. An attempt was made to remedy this in 1895. After this date the list was subject to continual rearrangements, changes of dates and headings and the addition of imperforate and part-perforate varieties, shades and new colors as they appeared. In 1896 the heading "Wood Engraving" was changed to "Typographed", thus doing away with one error. At the same time the seals which had been called "Typographed" were designated as "Typeset", a more informative if not more accurate heading. In 1895 all lithographed seals were dropped from the list and did not reappear until 1904 when one of them was restored under the old date, "1888". In 1912 another lithographed group was added, the various colors being assigned to the dates "1891" and "1903".

I do not think there was ever an edition of the Catalogue (with the possible exception of the present one) in which the list of the official seals quite satisfied me. It is more than probable that some of the many changes in the list were due to efforts on my part to get things nearer right. For years I have bought new varieties of the seals as they came to my notice but I could not decide how they should be arranged and they remained unmounted until a few months ago. When I tried to get help from philatelic publications I found very little in them and the result seemed to be a case of the blind leading the blind. When I was writing my book on United States Postage Stamps I tried to learn something definite about the seals but found it almost impossible to get any information. I paid special attention to the question of lithographed seals. From the description and the colors there could not be much doubt that the early writers were referring to the chocolate brown seals when they wrote about lithographs. Those seals certainly did look lithographic on the face but when one examined their backs and saw raised marks indicating the edges of the clichés he knew they were not made by lithography. I consulted my friend, the late H. G. Mandel, expert of the American Bank Note Co., and he assured me that they were all photo-engraved and typographically printed and that he could not find any evidence that any of the seals had ever been printed by lithography. For this reason, when the chapter on Official Seals appeared in the American Journal of Philately for May, 1900, there were no lithographed seals in the list. Some time during the next year, Mr. Mandel came to me one day and said: "The lithographed seals do exist after all. I have just found some." He showed them to me and pointed out the differences between them and the typographed seals. On the strength of this discovery the chapter on the Official Seals was revised before the publication of the work in book form and a lithographed seal was included in the list. Believing it to be the stamp described by the early writers the old date "1888" was assigned to it.

Soon after this, another lithographed seal turned up. It was printed in dark

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

INDEX TO VOLUME XXVII. - - 1913.

NOTE:—Regular features, to be found in almost every issue, are not indexed. These include Editorial, News Gleanings, Communications, Chronicle, Knick-knacks, With the Boy Philatelist, Book Reviews, Coming Auction Sales, Short Replies and Society Reports. Items of special importance, however, which occur under these headings, have been indexed by their subject matter. References in general are to subjects rather than in the exact form of the titles.

THE EARLY HAWAIIANS.

(Concluded.)

By JOHN N. LUFF.

On November 4, 1863, Postmaster-General David Kalakaua wrote to Mr. A. K. Clark, at that time the government's agent at New York, as follows: "This office being nearly out of 2-cent postage, I am desirous of procuring a fresh supply, and thinking from your long connection with the postal affairs of this kingdom that you would know just about what is wanted, I send you this order to be filled in New York, if it will not be too much trouble. The color and design of the new stamp I should like to have as near as possible the enclosed Nova Scotia stamp, but in place of 'Nova Scotia' have the word and figures '2 Hawaii 2' and underneath 'Elua Keneta,' in the same style of lettering as the sample. I forward also a likeness of His Majesty for the center, which please have copied as correctly as possible; the one on the old stamp was not done well. If it will not be attended with much extra expense, I should like the sheets perforated, so as to avoid the inconvenience of separating them with shears. The number required will be 10,000 sheets of twenty-five on a sheet."

This order was given to the National Bank Note Company on January 21, 1864, and the stamps were delivered to the New York representative of the Hawaiian postal administration on April 2 of that year. The stamp was the 2 cents of 1864, the first perforated stamp issued in the Islands. It was chronicled in Le Timbre Poste for September, 1864, as having been issued in the preceding May. A second requisition for 100,000 of this stamp was sent on April 26, 1865, in company with the order for the first perforated 5 cents. The two orders were filled and the stamps delivered on August 31, 1865, but, as has previously been mentioned, the shipment appears to have gone astray or been delayed somewhere and did not reach the Islands until about April or May, 1866.

I should like to say here a few words concerning the dates of deliveries given in Mr. Giffard's work, which appear to have misled some writers. I have obtained evidence that, in a number of instances, the dates there given were the dates on which the manufacturers delivered the stamps to the agent of the Hawaiian Government in New York, and not the dates at which they reached Honolulu. I do not assert that this was always the case, but I would not be surprised if it were. Doubtless each delivery was accompanied by an invoice, and it is quite within the range of possibility that the dates given in the official records were taken from those invoices.

Again referring to Mr. Irwin's letter of June 24, 1864, to Mons. Moens we read: "The 2-cent stamp is the Island postage on letters, issued in 1859, previous to which time no postage was charged on Island correspondence. Since 1859 two or three different kinds of 2-cent stamps have been issued, but all of the same value and used for the same purpose. During the past month all the 2-cent stamps have been superseded by a new 2-cent stamp, just issued, samples of which I enclose." The enclosure was the 2-cent red of 1864.

In his letter of February 24, 1865, Mr. Irwin writes: "The 2-cent rose, old issue, are also becoming scarcer, and are at a premium." Later in his letter, speaking of the 1864 stamp, he says: "The new stamp, of course, superseded all other 2-cent stamps, and it is now the only 2-cent stamp in use."

In July, 1866, the Stamp Collector's Magazine printed an article describing the paper and watermarks used for the different issues of each country. It mentioned the Hawaiian 2-cent carmine and pale rose as being on laid paper, but evidently knew nothing of an issue on wove paper.

The reader will remember that in 1868 Mr. H. B. Phillips did not find any 2-cent stamp on sale in Hawaii except the stamps of the 1864 issue.

In October, 1869, Le Timbre Poste published the following significant paragraph: "The Bostonian Journal, The Timbrophilist, announces that a new 2-cent rose vermilion, with the effigy of Kamehameha V., is about to appear." I consider this to be our first intimation of the engraved 2 cents of the 1861 type, and it is from Boston, of all places, that we might expect the stamp to be first reported, since it has always been agreed that it was made there.

Headquarters for Stamps of the U. S. and Its Colonies

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

H. F. COLMAN,
Second National Bank Bldg., WASHINGTON, D. C.

In January, 1870, Le Timbre Poste announced: "The 2 cents, known on laid paper, has reached us in pale red and bright carmine on white wove paper." This was, of course, the engraved stamp printed on thin white wove paper, which has of late years been accepted as being regularly issued in 1869. Since 1871 Moens' catalogue has listed this impression as a reprint, and there does not seem to be any reason to question the correctness of this classification. It is worth noting that 330,000 copies of the 2 cents of 1864 were ordered and delivered in 1868, and 555,000 in 1869. There would not appear to be any occasion for a comparatively small printing of the obsolete 2-cent stamp, except for "specimen" purposes.

It has been thought by many that the first issue of this stamp was lithographed because there was urgent need of it and not sufficient time to make an engraved plate, but that, as soon as time permitted, the plate was made and held in readiness for future orders. But we know that there were at least two printings from the lithographic stone, which would scarcely have been the case had the plate been in existence. Major Evans' conclusion about the plate is probably correct. In the Monthly Journal for March, 1901, he says: "In 1867, the authorities of Hawaii discovered that it would be convenient to have a supply of their obsolete stamps on hand to send to foreign post offices which asked for them, and in that year, or in 1868, they wrote to Boston for a certain quantity of the 2 cents of 1855, and the 5 cents and 13 cents of 1853. The plates of the 5 cents and 13 cents were in existence, and supplies were at once printed off and sent to the Islands, copies reaching Europe in January or February, 1869. The stone of the 2 cents had been cleaned off, but the die was in existence, and from this a plate was now made, and the stamps despatched later; this would account for their reaching Europe at the end of 1869 instead of coming over with the first supply of the new printing of the 5 cents and 13 cents, as they most certainly would have done if they had been in existence when the others were sent."

The engraved stamps were printed on thin white wove paper, in sheets of fifteen, three rows of five stamps each. I have never heard of postally used copies. The majority of specimens had the overprint "CANCELLED". This was probably applied at the time the 1853 stamps were surcharged "SPECIMEN". The die was probably sent to Honolulu in company with the dies of the 1853 issue. Nothing is known of the fate of the lithographic stone or the engraved plate, but they are supposed to have been destroyed by order of the Hawaiian Post Office Department.

In 1885 the postal authorities decided to replenish their stock of specimens of obsolete issues. The stone and plate of the 1861 stamp had either been destroyed or their whereabouts were unknown. The die had been mislaid. So, on August 15, 1885, a sample stamp was sent to the American Bank Note Company, with an order to reproduce it. The order was filled, and a plate made for fifty stamps, five rows of 10, with the letters "A. B. N. Co." in monogram at each corner. From this plate 10,000 copies were printed, on stout, yellowish wove paper and delivered on December 8, 1885. By order of the Postmaster-General one-half of these stamps were overprinted "SPECIMEN" before delivery. Copies of this stamp are frequently seen with an obliteration of heavy concentric circles. It is believed that these were canceled "to oblige" and that the stamps were never intended or allowed to do postal duty.

The Facsimiles differ from the original stamps in many points, such as in the lines in the background of the portrait, the shading of the coat and the ornaments in the side panels. But the difference can be most readily seen in the words "ELUA KENETA." in the facsimile the cross-bar of the letters "A" is placed too low and the lower right arm of the "K" is too long.

In 1887 the missing die was found, but it was in bad condition. On December 16th of that year it was sent to the American Bank Note Company to be restored. It was recut and a new plate made in imitation of the first plate of fifteen stamps. On January 14, 1889, an order was sent to print 7,500 copies from this plate. These were delivered on September 6th of that year. On May 3, 1890, a further order for 30,000 copies was sent, which was filled on September 17th of the same year. Such of these stamps as were unsold on August 19, 1892, were overprinted "REPRINT." These stamps were printed on yellowish wove paper, watermarked "Standard No. 1" and a shield with the letters "R. & M." in monogram. The paper should serve to distinguish this reprint from the earlier one on thin white wove paper; but, if a further test be needed, it will be found on comparison that the foliate ornaments above "UKU LETA" have been recut and that there are three lines in the shading at the right of the nose, running from the eye to the upper lip, which do not appear on any other stamp of this type.

The dies and plates of the 1853 and 1861 issues, together with numerous other obsolete dies and plates, which were in the possession of the American Bank Note Company, were destroyed on March 27, 1894.

As it was my purpose to write only of the earlier postal issues of Hawaii, this paper ends at this point. Beyond this date there are no problems for the philatelic student. The succeeding issues are, so to speak, of a neat and orderly nature. They were the work of the National Bank Note Company and the American Bank Note Company, fine specimens of engraving and printing, and presenting an interesting gallery of portraits of the Hawaiian royal family. The overthrow of the monarchy is marked by the stamps surcharged "Provisional—Govt.—1893." These were followed by the issues of the republic and now all have given place to the stamps of the United States.

THE LURIA CASE.

Four old canceled foreign stamps were made the basis yesterday for federal prosecution that Dr. Adolfo Luria of 3611 Lexington street characterizes as persecution.

Anthony. Telli, a stamp collector of Washington, D. C., caused Luria's arrest. He said the physician failed to pay him for an old Spanish stamp, Swiss stamp, French stamp and British stamp, the total value of which he estimated at $162.30.

Luria told United States Commissioner Mason that he had paid Telli $25 for an assortment of stamps. He showed a receipt to prove it. He maintained

S. P. A. BANQUET AT READING.

The dinner took place at 8.30 in the ball room of the Berkshire. The banquet table was arranged in the form of a horseshoe. The decorations consisted of cut glass vases filled with flowers and potted plants and ferns were placed promiscuously about the room. Mr. and Mrs. Kissinger sat at the head of the table.

Before turning attention to the bill of fare, Henry Ades Fowler, of Chicago, asked indulgence for a few remarks. He said that there was no doubt that the visitors deeply appreciated the manner in which they were being entertained by Mr. Kissinger and the other Reading "boys," and as a token of their esteem, he presented their host with a magnificent basket of cut flowers, having the initial "K" built up in the center of it. A waiter brought in the gift and placed it at the head of the table. Mr. Kissinger expressed his thanks.

The following menu was then served in real Berkshire style:

Spanish Olives and Radishes, (Pink and Green); Consomme en tasse, (Sur-charged); Celery, (Green on White); Filet of Sea Bass Saute Nicoise, (Water Marked); Pommes Chateau, Roast Stuffed Philadelphia Chicken, Giblet Sauce with Waffles, (Provincial); New Potatoes Rissolo (Officially Sealed); New String Beans, (General Issues); Lettuce Salad French Dressing, (Embossed); Chocolate Ice Cream, (Original Color); Assorted Cakes, (Special Packet); Cafe, (Dark Brown).

Mr. Kissinger acted as toastmaster and introduced as the first speaker one of his first friends in philately, Charles Esterly Severn, of Chicago. Mr. Severn said he first became acquainted with the host in Chicago during the World's Fair of 1893, "and even then I saw in him the elements of philatelic genius. The success and fame he has attained in the philatelic world have been due to hard work. While he likes stamps, he also likes their associations."

Mr. Kissinger next called upon his first Reading association in the stamp business, Harry F. Kantner, the well-known attorney. Mr. Kantner referred to those present as his "fellow sufferers," saying that they were all suffering from stamp fever. He discussed the symptoms of the disease in a humorous way, one of them being a mucilage coating on the tongue. He referred to stamp fever as very catching, estimating that there are about 8,000 now suffering with it in the United States, besides fully three times that many convalescents.

William R. Ricketts, of Wilkes-Barre; C. V. Webb, of Perry, O., secretary of the association; E. T. Wallis, of Indianapolis, and L. T. Brodstone, of Superior, Neb., were called on in turn and made happy addresses.

Lewis M. Lang, of Baltimore, Md., was introduced. He said that this was the first convention he has attended in twenty years. He paid a high tribute to Mr. Kissinger for what he has done to promote the business of collecting stamps.

L. H. Kjellstedt, of Scranton, international secretary of the association and American representative to the Swedish Philatelic Society, expressed hope for the greater expansion of the society.

J. E. Guest, of Minneapolis, referred to Mr. Kissinger as the right man in the right place. He said he hoped that the association would decide to hold next year's convention in Minneapolis, where there are 150 real collectors. However, since Washington wants it, he supposed he would have to give way and wait until the year following.

Other addresses were made by E. T. Parker, of Bethlehem; A. E. Gorham, of Washington; P. M. Wolsieffer, of Philadelphia, and D. J. McDermott of this city. Mr. McDermott made a decided hit and frequently had his hearers convulsed with laughter.—Reading News-Times.

PATENTED STAMP-CANCELERS.

By STEVENSON.

Patent No. 89213 granted to one J. C. Gaston, of Cincinnati, Ohio, to date April 20, 1869, calls for a canceling device which is intended to, "cut, perforate, or scarify the stamp so as to prevent it from being used a second time." The device was to have as its principal parts, a handle at the bottom of which was "a blade having its edge formed into a series of points," and an adjustable ring screwing up or down the bottom of the handle to prevent the "blade" from cutting through the letter or other enclosures of the cover.

The letter of the patent states that, "It is obvious that the perforating points may be arranged to represent letters, as, for instance, U. S., when used for government purposes, or with the initials of an individual when otherwise used."

The intent of the patent seems evident. I have noted no traces of use of such a device immediately following the date of the patent but have cancellations of a much later date that seem to come from just such a tool, and also a similar idea expressed in cancellations of several years previous to the patent.

CUT No. 1.

The cuts show sufficiently well the results as shown on the stamps or covers that I have. Cut No. 1 shows the impression of a design used apparently only on stamps produced by the Continental Bank Note Co. and therefore presumably between 1873 and 1879. I have specimens of the 2c vermilion, the 3c, and the 6c in which the points are inked and in which they generally puncture the stamp. I have one specimen of the 10c of this period which shows no traces of the points but seems otherwise identical. Other values may show it. It may or may not come from such a source as indicated above but the indications are conclusive to my mind. There are variations in the number and size of the rays, in the number and arrangement of the points, and in the inks used in canceling.

CUT No. 2.

Cut No. 2 shows a design I have found used only on stamps of the American Bank Note Co., and before 1881. I have it on the 1c, 2c, and 3c, all in black. There are variations in the number and arrangement of the points, and apparently there were two or more sizes or shapes of stopping ring. The details of design of the stoppers are not plain and the cut shows simply the nature of one cancellation.

The points of this design almost invariably puncture the stamp. I have not seen either of these two designs on cover and have no good means of identifying the city or cities of use. I have one pair with the second device, the circle of the postmark showing on the left stamp. The last two letters of the town name are ON and from their position in the circle this may well be BOSTON.

Can anyone give further light on these two cancellations? Whether made or used under the patent they certainly conform to its terms and its ideas.

Among covers of the 1861 issue, I have what seems to be a device intended to punch out a circle of paper, without cutting too much into the cover and enclosures. The little inner circle always embosses the cover and shows on the inside, and generally cuts into the stamp pretty thoroughly. It was a success in its direct results. The punched circle could, naturally, in no case fall from the cover but one specimen I have is so well canceled that removal of the stamp might permit the punching to fall out.

CUT No. 3.

I have a punching device shown in action from two cities, Buffalo and Albany, N. Y. Cut No. 3 shows the Buffalo design in use in direct connection with a fully dated postmark. My earliest so dated is of March 9, 1863. I have several from this year, have seen two from 1864 and have one, as shown, dated February 2, 1865. The little inner circle is the punch. It is always inked. The surrounding design seems to represent a stopper to prevent undue penetration of the punch and may not have been adjustable.

Cut No. 4 shows one I have from Albany without the year of the date. The cancellation device is not clearly outlined but seems to be different from those used in Buffalo and apparently of the ray design shown.

It looks to me as if these early punchers have the main idea of the later patent, except possibly the adjustability of the stopper. Can anyone tell us anything about their use and whether they are the normal predecessors of the patent?

Does anyone know of any other designs or cancellation of any period that also conform to these ideas. Has anyone anything in the period immediately following the cancellation patent that seems even remotely connected with it? Please do not hold back even the slightest item that seems in any way connected. While you may not have something complete in itself, someone else may be able to dig up the rest of the needed information, especially after a clue from you.—Collectors' Journal.

A GREAT ADVERTISING OPPORTUNITY.

$15 It was a happy thought for us to decide upon the plan of offering a full quarter page for $15.00, and we feel that our patrons are appreciating the opportunity of getting space in our publication at 10c per line.

$15 It will cost you over $125 to send a circular to 8,000 addresses and here we give you an opportunity to send your message to 8,000 addresses for only $15.00. This proposition is a good one and we want to drive it home to every advertiser.

$15 Bear in mind that the ranks of stamp collectors are constantly changing. They come and go. Any dealer's list six months old has lost much of its virility, but in our mailing list you have the very bone and sinew of collecting enthusiasm.

$15 Any number of the WEEKLY is a good one to use, but the issue of Sept. 25 will be unusually good. Try a quarter page and you will be convinced. A column space or a six inches double column will give you great publicity.

EDITORIAL.

Eleven Cent Stamp—The alert postal administration has taken advantage of the summer season to issue without preliminary notice a new stamp for the current series, with the odd denomination of eleven cents. The third assistant postmaster general sent the following circular from Washington on August 11, 1915. The news of its advent was given last week briefly:

"1. The Department is prepared to supply a postage stamp of 11-cent denomination, described as follows:

DESCRIPTION.

2. The new stamp bears the head of Franklin in profile, from Houdon's bust, looking to the left, and is printed in dark green ink. It is of the same shape (a rectangle on end) and size (about $\frac{7}{8}$ by 23-32 inch) as the other ordinary stamps, series of 1911. The border design is the same as that of the other denominations of the current issue above 7 cents.

3. This new stamp is issued primarily for use in prepaying postage on parcels, and postage and insurance fee on insured parcels, amounting to 11 cents.

4. Postmasters desiring a supply of the new 11-cent stamp may include it in their next requisition on Form 3201 for other stamped paper, using the blank lines.

5. When any variety of postage stamps or other stamped paper is needed, the postmaster will inventory his stock and include in the requisition all varieties of stamps, postal cards and stamped envelopes likely to be needed in the ensuing three to twelve months, depending upon his storage facilities, and not exceeding the number of stamps that can be adequately protected. This will avoid the necessity for frequent requisitions, and will be advantageous to the postmaster as well as to the Department.

A. M. DOCKERY,
Third Asst. P. M. Gen."

Worth Recording—Several weeks ago, we expressed a wish that readers who were in possession of antiquarian documents or objects that portrayed any step of development of the American postal service, or had any philatelic flavor whatever to address us in order that these concomitants of early postal days be placed on record. The first response to the invitation came from Mr. J. W. Fox of Pottsville, Pa., who submitted for inspection a cover postmarked Philadelphia, November 15 (1842), and addressed to Pottsville, which had the words, "Single-Paid" in the upper right-hand corner but subsequently the word, Paid, was crossed out by pen and the words, "but not" were added. In explanation of this alteration, there is the following printed label on the reverse side of the cover: "Sir,—Your Correspondent, as you will perceive, has written 'PAID,' on this letter; but I conceive it to be my duty to inform you that the postage was not paid. Will you have the goodness to ascertain whether or not the money was sent to this office for that purpose. I am induced to be thus particular, because I have known so many instances in which faithless messengers have retained the money, and deposited the letters unpaid—thereby committing a fraud, disappointing the intentions of the writer, and reflecting unmerited censure upon the Post Office Department. Very respectfully, your ob't Serv't. John C. Montgomery, P. M. Philadelphia P. O., Nov. 15, 1842." The month, day and year are filled in with pen. The label is about one by three and one-half inches in size and is neatly printed in an ornamental frame. In this connection, we may call attention to an old post office receipt that has been forwarded by the Reverend Louis Voss of New Orleans, La., which is dated September 30th, 1817, and shows a debit "To the Post-Office of New-Orleans to amount of postage of letters and newspapers." This postal curiosity is of sentimental interest, we need not say, and is to be classed with the one that was illustrated in our issue of August 14th.

A Question—An interesting question has been presented for consideration by a student of Confederate stamps who says that the twenty-cent green of the 1864 issue was prepared as much to supply a currency need as for postal purposes. It is known that in the south as well as in the north postage stamps were used in business transactions as "small change" and consequently, in a commercial sense, the necessity of a medium of a denomination higher than ten cents was pressing. In fact, J. C. Schwab, A. M., M. D., whose history of the Confederate states in their financial and industrial aspects was published by Scribner's in 1901 says unreservedly that the twenty cent stamp was issued as a piece of fractional currency rather than as a postage stamp. Moreover, Dr. Schwab in his work tells of the fluctuations of the values of postage stamps of the Confederates as a circulating medium in the south and how at times the stamps were at a big discount. It would be worth while to hear from the lips of those who lived through the war period in the south, details of the use of the Confederate stamps as money. There have been many stories of the employment of postage stamps as change during the dearth of specie in the north but we do not remember having heard of the emergency use of postage stamps in the south.

One Instance—A conjecture that is sometimes made by collectors here is to the effect that many stamp collections must be destroyed in the course of the conflict in Europe. The assumption is a natural one and the following advertisement in Alfred Smith & Son's Monthly Circular gives it a definite quality: "Everything belonging to Mr. Joosten, Wilbryck, Antwerp, has been burnt by the Germans, including his collection of stamps (9,000). Who will give him a few duplicates to start again? He would be very grateful later on. Temporary address: F. Joosten, Chinley, Derbyshire, England."

* * *

A Taking Name—A series of publications is shown under the general name, "Stampkraft," but there is no philatelic flavor in the little books for children which are designed for the accommodation of poster stamps, one to a page, that accompany the book. "Alice in Wonderland" for instance is to be illustrated with twelve gummed stamps which are to be placed opposite the corresponding rhyme; and there are other tales that may be similarly illustrated.

* * *

Illustrating U. S. Stamps—At the recent convention of the Southern Philatelic Association at Reading, the perennial question of securing permission from the government to illustrate United States stamps was discussed. It is needless to say that the strict prohibition of the authorities in this regard is a thorn in the flesh of philatelists and it is natural that when they meet in convention, they are eager to bring to bear all favorable influence on philately. It must not be imagined, however, that attempts have not been made heretofore to gain relief from this ruling, as some years ago, the American Philatelic Society appointed a committee to work to seek the repeal of the restrictions of the act; and notwithstanding the support of a number of influential legislators that the committee was able to command, no remedial measures were undertaken. However, it is not likely that philatelists will forget this "unfinished business" and who knows but that fresh enthusiasm, untrammelled by traditions of the past, may not be the instrument of conversion of the postal powers who maintain that it would be unwise to let down the bars an iota in this particular.

SOUTHERN PHILATELIC ASSOCIATION CONVENTION AT READING,
 AUGUST 5th-7th, 1915.

It is safe to say that the attendance at the Reading convention was unexpectedly large and the list of those present will show that the meeting was an unusually representative one. The convention was opened by President Kissinger, at the Berkshire Hotel on the morning of August 5th, who introduced Mayor Stratton of Reading. The Mayor welcomed the delegates in a pleasant address to which a response was made on behalf of the delegates by Mr. Severn.

The annual report of the president reviewed the remarkable progress of the Society during the year and dwelled upon the conditions abroad that had a reflex on philately; and he painted the possibilities of the future in lively colors.
 The secretary's report was a rousing one and evoked much applause, as it was shown that the growth of the organization had been phenomenal.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

August 3, 1915.

To the President and Members of the Southern Philatelic Association:

It is with no small degree of pleasure that I am able to present this, my third annual report, as Secretary of the Southern Philatelic Association.

Never before in the history of the S.
 P. A., has there been so great gains made in membership as during the past eleven months. My report this time covers less than eleven months because of the fact that our convention was held over a month later last year.

The membership statistics are:
 Total membership Sept. 5, 1914, 656
 New members admitted, 429
 Reinstated, 22
 Replaced on membership list, 3

Total,	1,110
From which we must deduct:
Deceased,	3
Resigned,	16
Expelled,	8
Suspended by Board of Appeals, 1 Dropped for non-payment of dues,	137
Total,	165

Total membership Aug. 3, 1915, 945

To which add 75 applications now pending which makes a total of, 1,020

We practically have 1020 members in good standing in the S. P. A. today, or a gain of 364 members during the last eleven months; as compared with a gain of 300 members last year.

When I became Secretary in Sept., 1912, we had 290 members in good standing. In September, 1913, we had 356 members; in 1914, 656 members, and now we have 1,020. Who can tell what our total will be next year? Surely, the figure next year will make us rank as second to none.

Credit is due the following for applications proposed: C. V. Webb, 128; L. T.
 Brodstone, 54; Albert E. Gorham, 51;
 C. W. Kissinger, 34; J. E. Guest, 32; S.
 H. Barnes, 11; M. Ohlman, 11; Thos.
 Burnett, 10; H. S. Powell, 10; E. T.
 Wallis, 8; Charles Roemer, 6; Etc., Etc.

The Secretary of another leading stamp society recently published the following: "Including those whose applications are now pending, this shows a possible membership of 1,444 which would be a loss of twenty-five from the figures of last August, which, considering the business conditions which have been existent since last year, constitute far from a poor showing." Surely, with our gain of 364 members and the addition of four new branches—we have a right to feel that the past year has accomplished something for the S. P. A.

New branches have been formed at Reading, Washington, Brooklyn, and Perry. Especially is great credit due to
 Mr. Albert E. Gorham of Washington, D. C., who has built up a membership of some 50 members plus in Washington since last convention.

The hearty coöperation of the President and other officers in the performance of my duties as Secretary has made the past year a very pleasant one.

Having worked under the new Constitution for a year—we have discovered some places which need remedying and I have submitted to the Committee on Constitution various proposed changes:
 all of which I trust will be given careful consideration by the convention.

The Collector's Journal of Chicago and the West have both donated space to the S. P. A. for advertising. The West has been more regular this past year than for a good many years before and they have given us a great amount of space for our reports.

In closing this report—I wish again to thank the officers who have so gladly assisted me as opportunity presented itself and also the members for their hearty coöperation at all times.

Respectfully submitted,
C. V. WEBB, Secretary.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN.

To the Members of the Southern Philatelic Association, Reading, Pa.:

The library of the Association was received by me in October last from Dr. R.
 L. Allen of Waynesville, N. C. It was contained in one case about four feet long by one foot six inches wide and the bulk of the library was made up of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS and Philatelic West; by actual count, there were 1101 Periodicals and 98 Separate Works (this including all Price Lists, etc.). Since October, there have been added 918 Periodicals and 162 Separate Works, making a substantial gain as you can see. The additions were donated by:—

	P.	S. W.
Allen, Benjamin P.,	197	14
Bennett, Samuel,	129
Cannon, Gabriel,		12
Clark, E. L.,	2
Kissinger, C. W.,	24	1
Kromer, W. A.,		3
Melville, F. J.,		1
Lawrence, Parker M.,		1
Potter, Earl H.,		4
Ricketts, W. R.,	554	121
Webb, C. V.,		5
Unknown,	7
Brodstone, L. T.,	5
	918	162

Making a grand total of Periodicals
 2,018; Separate Works, 260 or 2,278 pieces in all.

The library should have contained all journals that had acted as Official Organ for the Association from the beginning, but it does not; in fact, many of the Philatelic West with the reports are missing. It did not even have its own Year Books, these having been received since I took it over.

The Library is being Catalogued on the latest Subject-Author basis and when completed it will be published in the next Year Book.

In order to make this card Catalog uniform, I will ask the Convention to pass a resolution instructing the Secretary to have printed for me two varieties of cards as per sample attached.
 Also a rubber stamp reading as follows:

SOUTHERN PHILATELIC ASSOCIATION.
 LIBRARY.

Presented by Date
 and a blue ink pad, so that each book, etc., can be marked with the donor's name. This alone will add considerable interest to the library in the future.

Advertising Chat—No. 1.

We have carried more advertising during the past three months than any other summer the WEEKLY has been in business.

There is a reason!

We now have 8000 paid subscribers on our mailing list and we have the 9000 goal in view for this winter's work.

If you want to sell stamps the medium to use above all others is MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
 It is perfectly proper to help support every kind of a stamp publication but to sell your stamps use our paper.

Our little booklet, price 10c, tells you all about "How to Deal in Stamps." The stamp season is on and we shall open our series of special numbers with a paper that will fitly celebrate the event.

More anon!

The Weekly Philatelic Era

No paper ever had friends more loyal than the old Weekly Philatelic Era. W. W. Jewett and Willard O. Wylie gave the best there was in it to me, and compelled MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS to do two things:

- (1) Purchase the paper.
- (2) Locate it in Boston.

Do you want a complete sample volume

Special Price 60c—52 Nos.

and have a bit of summer reading that will be keenly enjoyed? We have a few volumes that came to us with the consolidation of the two papers.

Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News, Boston, Mass.

As it is a well known fact, any Society that does not publish its own journal cannot hope to receive exchanges, our library is entirely dependent upon the donations of its members. Now, from above report, you will notice that out of a large membership, only 13 members (three or four have written me concerning donations and if I have neglected to answer their letters, I wish to state here that they will very soon be answered) have given anything to the library since October last. So at this rate our library will not grow very fast. Therefore, I would suggest to the Association that a certain sum of money be appropriated each year, for binding or purchase of worthy literature for the library. This last suggestion is a very important one, as we have quite a few periodicals in complete volumes that should be bound.

Another suggestion is that the Librarian should be allowed postage; I have paid out quite a lot in postage during the past year of which I have kept no account, but it seems to me that this should be paid by the Association in future.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM R. RICKETTS.

The report of the Committee on Credentials indicated that there was a working majority represented. The following officers were elected:

President, C. W. Kissinger of Reading; Vice President, William Lycett of New York City; Secretary, C. V. Webb of Perry, O.; Treasurer, Erwin L. Fischer of Cincinnati, O.; International Secretary, Harry E. Klotzbach of Buffalo; Sales Manager, J. E. Guest of Minneapolis, Minn.; Exchange Manager, E. T. Wallis of Indianapolis, Ind.; Auction Manager, M. Ohlman of New York City; Attorney, W. E. Scripture of Rome, N. Y.; Publicity Manager, Rev. L. G. Dorpat of Wisconsin; Librarian, W. R. Ricketts of Forty-Fort, Pa.; Trustees, Robert C. Edgar, W. L. English, Jr., and F. R. Hayworth, all of Kansas; George E. Fiscus and Charles L. Pond, of Indiana.

Chairmen of the standing committees were appointed as follows:

Credentials Committee—F. S. Fox, Chairman; C. E. Severn, H. Seidel Throm.

Officers' Reports—F. S. Fox, Chairman; George Billheimer, H. Seidel Throm.

Finance—Donald Lybarger, Chairman; B. F. Egan, Henry Ades Fowler. Publication of Official Journal—L. H. Kjellstedt, Chairman; W. R. Ricketts, John S. Mack.

Place of Meeting—A. E. Gorham, Chairman; L. T. Brodstone, Jerome G. Wolf.

Reception—Harry F. Kantner, Chairman; J. Glenn Knauer, H. A. Benner.

Election of Officers—Frederick S. Fox, Chairman; S. H. Barnes, H. Seidel Throm.

Necrology—W. Lycett, Chairman; E. T. Wallis, C. V. Hollis.

Welfare—Charles L. Pond, Chairman; Harry Klotzbach, L. M. Lang.

Constitution—Parke M. Lawrence, Chairman; J. E. Guest, A. E. Gorham.

Thursday evening the complimentary banquet to the visitors was given by Mr. Kissinger and it proved to be a most happy occasion. Elsewhere some particulars are furnished which are taken from the Reading News-Times, of which Mr. F. S. Fox is one of the managers.

The second session of the convention came to order on Friday morning and was devoted to the consideration of reports of the various committees. The cities of Minneapolis, New Orleans and Washington were placed in nomination for the seat of the next convention. After an oratorical display, the balloting proceeded and it was found that Washington was the winner by a comfortable margin. To some extent, the result was a personal tribute to Messrs. Gorham and Mason, whose arguments for their home city were not to be withstood.

The Philatelic West was easily the choice for official journal for the ensuing year and although due regard was shown for the other claimants, they were not serious contenders, as it proved. In the afternoon, a trolley ride over Mt. Penn preceded the luncheon at the famous Kuechler's roost, where later, an advertised auction sale was held by Mr. Fowler.

The Saturday session was a peppery one in spots, as it was given over to discussion of the report of the Committee on Constitution. While opinion was divided at times over the advisability of some of the proposed changes, yet, everything worked out harmoniously. The alterations and additions to the constitution will all be included in the new edition of the working manual that will be distributed soon by the Secretary. The customary resolutions of thanks were passed and the 1915 convention passed into history as the most successful one ever held by the Southern Philatelic Association. Reading had redeemed with interest its promises to make the convention one that will always remain green in memory.

AT THE CONVENTION.

Among those who were present, were the following, all of Reading: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kissinger and son, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Kantner and son, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Fox and daughter, Dr. J. Glenn Knauer, H. Seidel Throm, Miss Anita Kissinger, Donald F. Lybarger, D. J. McDermott, John S. Mack, J. H. Leippe, H. A. Benner, George Billheimer, S. H. Barnes and Mrs. Louise Kissinger. Russell D. Cox, Harry B. Mason and Albert E. Gorham of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Severn and Henry Ades Fowler of Chicago. P. M. Wolsieffer, Percy McGraw Mann, Lewis Myers Lang and Mr. Klein of Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Wallis and Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Pond of Indianapolis. Mr. and Mrs. William Lycett of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Eilers and daughter of St. Louis; L. T. Brodstone, Superior, Nebr.; Wm. R. Ricketts of Forty Fort, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; L. H. Milton R. Miller calls attention to the fact that some of the current 2c stamps are printed on a paper that can be easily split, and inquires if this is a genuine double paper. Others have noticed the same peculiarity, and yet the officials at Washington say that no change has been made in the paper recently.

C. M. Breder reports a new cancellation, the inscription in the wavy lines reading, "Received in Package Box Collection."

BARBADOS.—S. Schachne submits a letter from the Colonial Postmaster at Barbados, dated Aug. 7, 1915, stating that no letter cards have been issued in the Colony as printed in No. 1285. The item in question was reprinted from Ewen's Weekly, from a translation by that paper from the Nederlandsch Tijdschrift voor Postzegelkunde. Possibly an error may have been made in the translation, or the chronicle may have been made from Postal Union copies, not yet sent out to the Colony.

BULGARIA.—W. T. Wilson has shown us a copy of the 25s ultramarine and black of 1911, surcharged "10 ct." in red, above the portrait and with the old value at the bottom obliterated with a red line.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—Hermann Focke and Fred E. Prohaska have shown us another value of the locally printed stamps, overprinted "1915" in red. The frames of these stamps are very poorly printed, the ink being muddy, and the figures of value in the lower corners varying widely in shape and size. The 1c was noted in No. 1282.

Merry wit and hearty laughter
Follow the days coming after.

Six, sixty, or six hundred breweries in Reading! It makes no difference, enough liquid refreshment has never been brewed to satisfy the thirsts of some stamp collectors—and others.

It is said that President Kissinger's complexion became all the reds, carmines, roses, scarlets, vermilions, pinks, crimsons, clarets, magentas, and cerises in the catalog when a bouquet was handed to him at the banquet; however, these colors were prettier than the flushes on some faces the day after.

The only philatelist who doesn't know how to blush is Charles Esterly Severn, who accepted the twice told tale that he was a handsome man—(after a reporter had used him for all the news matter necessary to fill every Reading newspaper for several days)—without change of color, and then he hastened on to tell Mrs. S. to prove something about which there had no doubt been an argument.

Dancing proved to be a diversion at the Tower on Mt. Penn. L. T. Brodstone and P. M. Mann competed in the terpsichorean art—all honors going to Brodstone, although the husband of the lady, who was kind enough to dance with them, bellowed forth something about having been watching a "Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle", but it's impossible to say whether he meant Brodstone or Mann was "Vernon".

D. F. Lybarger, with smiling face and tortoise-shell eye-glasses, was always on the job—Wonder what magazine he was writing for?

dent to one of our big philatelists gave Doc his—almost—first case. M. D. was recently added to J. Glen Knauer at Hahnmann in Philadelphia. Fortunately, the accident proved to be—not serious.

It is remarked that Henry Ades will cork the bottle better the next time.

"The cool of the evening" pleased many, especially J. G. Wolf of Fremont and St. Augustine, who, after hot Florida, said anything cool satisfied him.

The twin Palm Beach suits from Washington carried off high honors, and they won the 1916 convention for their city. Like two senators, they did as do senators—twisted the S. P. A. constitution into unrecognizable reading matter—something to be undone—something to work with at the 1916 meet.

Will some kind parliamentarian explain how a motion is always seconded? Address Lewis M. Lang of Philadelphia.

There is a fellow named Fowler,
Who is a darned fine howler;
He knocked down the lots
To the tink of beer-pots,
He's after the almighty dowler.

Truly, the Berkshire Hotel management had to engage a painter to erase the scratches around many of the key holes to the fillupists rooms. Gee! but the halls were dark—in the cool of the evening.

Literature's the hobby of Ricketts,
Some say he collects car tickets;
Be that as it may,
He's never in the way,
At conventions he's one of the picketts.

A good one is told about a Washingtonian. He was in the shooting gallery at the Tower on Mt. Penn. He failed to hit the target after shooting awhile and finally he asked how many cartridges were left in the rifle. The attendant replied that they were half shot. The sportsman said, "So am I", and then he blazed away and every shot took effect and the target bell rang continuously for five minutes. A good shot is Harry.

'Twas a happy gathering in W. R. Ricketts' room on Friday night, after the return from the auction. Everybody had one of the host's big black cigars to munch on—and the telephone was kept busy until it took a tumble to itself and like the rest of the bunch became out of order. No apologies.

Neversink was fine as silk
For the philatelic ilk;
It had kept all busy,
And made some dizzy,
Drinking, drinking, drinking—milk!

All hail to the Reading trio: Kissinger, Fox and Kantner—some speed, some entertainment, some convention! Everything was just right, done right, and there was right well plenty to do. And all went home happy and cheered with the recollections of one of the best annual gatherings of stamp people ever held.

SUCH A LOVELY TIME.

By MISS GUSHIE GURGLE.

I know you are all just dying to hear all about the fun we had at Reading. Have you ever been there? I hope you have, for if you have not, you just can't understand how perfectly lovely it all was. You know the people are so hospitable they just entertained us every minute,—met us at the train and told us that the town was ours. Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Kissinger gave a reception; not a stiff one, where everybody just smiles and says sweet things to everybody else, but just a real jolly one, where everybody had a good time. We had lots of good things to eat and the grandest punch,—say, but you should have seen Henry Ades help serve; and he didn't leave until everybody else had gone; he stayed to get an extra dish of ice cream, I guess.

Thursday morning, the convention opened and philatelists were coming on every train. Wasn't it a shame that poor Brody missed the last car out of Kutztown and had to stay there all night.

We had such a grand trip, right up to the top of Neversink Mountain, where refreshments were served, just ginger ale and things. We got back to the hotel just in time to dress for the banquet that Clifford Kissinger gave at the Berkshire Hotel. It was lovely; such a good dinner and so many speeches; they were all good. The last speaker was Mr. McDermott; he told us how hard it was for him to give us that talk as he had written all the speeches given by the other men and didn't have much left. I wonder if he really did.

Friday, we went to Kuechler's roost by trolley on Mt. Penn; we stopped at the tower and danced; Cliffie Kissinger, Brody and Percy Mann all danced beautifully. Percy is so much like Vernon Castle. We didn't want to leave there, but the car was ready and we went on to Kuechler's Roost. I wish I had time to tell you all about the Roost; it was started by a funny old hermit who lived up there all alone. Now it is a popular resort. We sat around the round table, drank lemonade, ate pretzels and had such a good time; and wasn't it lovely of Harry Kantner, Fred Fox and Clifford Kissinger to serve us such a nice Dutch lunch. We enjoyed it so much after our mountain ride. After lunch, Mr. Fowler had a sale; it was such fun to bid and so exciting,—every time I was ready to bid, the auctioneer said "gone" and it was all over.

We had a picture taken and it was fine of everybody except me; I am always so disappointed in my own picture.

Saturday morning we all felt so sad that the convention was almost over. Early in the afternoon we went on an auto ride to the Pagoda on Mt. Penn. When we got back to the hotel, everybody was packing and getting ready to go. The Wallis' and Ponds left by auto for Atlantic City and other eastern points. Mr. and Mrs. Parker motored to their home in Bethlehem. Mr. and Mrs. Eilers and their little girl returned to St. Louis. Mrs. Lycett seemed so sorry to go as she had such a good time. We all feel so very grateful to Mrs. Kissinger who did so much to entertain the women at the convention.

Now we are all looking forward to Washington next year and to meeting Mrs. Mason. We just can't wait.

JIMMY O': HEALTH-RESTORER.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

"You see, Eddy is now a lit'r'y feller. He's bought a book. Him buyin' one sure makes th' presses run overtime t' meet th' future demand."

Jimmy O' swung slowly in the hammock which welcomed the passing and passive cow-puncher, while Eddy lazed upon the earth at his mentor's feet. Jimmy had won the hammock by "stickin' out ov his tongue," as Eddy lugubriously described the foot-race from the spot where the inseparables had anchored their cayuses. The rush of hurrying feet had brought me to the door of the tent-house. One look was enough. There was never need of haste when Jimmy O' and Eddy were safely stretched out.

"Now this here book o' Eddy's, it's sure some book."

Jimmy sat up, rolled the inevitable cigarette, and began to kill the rose-bugs on my American Beauties. In fact, anything that came in range of Jimmy's tobacco—"hand-grown by hand," as he phrased it—was doomed to death.

"Some book," repeated Jimmy O'. "Gent o' th' name o'—well nev' mind his name. He want anyways responsible for the name—on'y fer the book. This here gent, 'e says, says 'e 'Bang! bang! an' two more is rubbed out."

I was interested enough then to peep at the title which Eddy obligingly displayed, while Jimmy vanished in a cloud of home-grown.

Eddy was reading "The Monitor of Health."

I went back into the shack and finished my work.

"As I was sayin' w'en you made fer yer gun," resumed Jimmy O', upon my re-appearance, "you c'n pick health off'n any bush in Arizona—cept one o' them jumpin' cactus. Reminds me o' th' time that there Easterner paid me four a day fer 'leven days t' go an' hunt w'at 'e called cacti. Cacti! O heck! If I'd used language like that up on th' range, the boys 'ud a roped an' tied me—sure would. I wouldn't git nary one t' speak t' me fer a month—maybe two."

"Alas! That them dear days aint here now!" interpolated Eddy.

"Quotin' that there master mind now reposin' in 'is lef' hand," added Jimmy O' to the student of "The Monitor of Health."

"Well, this here Boston chap got 'bout sixty-nine kinds o' cactus, more er less, but one he sure lacked. Said the Indians made booze of it afore th' white men come. Now me—I don't care fer that kind. Ever tell ye 'bout the time that ole 'pache give me tiz-wiz mixed with water?"

"Fer w'y the water?" queried Eddy.

Jimmy ignored the jibe and ambled on: "Well, 'e told me hit was plumb good fer my insides. Sure. W'en I come to I was leventeen miles from nowhere—me an' that 'pache, him lookin' sad as a prospector's burro with all the flour recent et up. And say!"

Jimmy O' doubled up with mirth.

"W'at d'ye know 'bout this? Seems we'd been playin' monte an' I'd won 'is pony an' 'is trappin's—saddle, bridle, an' all; an', by heck! I was likewise th' owner o' his squaw!"

"Reg'lar lady's man—Jimmy," declared Eddy.

"Now me—I couldn't stan' fer that there squaw game. No, sir—not me.

But say! She didn't seem to care a whop. But me—I sure sweat blood. Then I tole that 'pache, bein' a dear frien' o' his'n, I'd stake 'im fer another go. He won back 'is pony—an' 'is trappin's—but derned ef 'e didn't buckup at th' squaw. She was las'—an' me—I sure leaked another bucket o' blood. W'en 'e fin'ly won 'er back—me havin' t' stack th' cyards—I jes' nach'ly climbed aboard my cayuse an' faded—never lef' a shadow."

"Never even tried to make c'lecters of 'em," said Eddy, with a grin.

Jimmy rolled another cigarette, and then resumed.

"Well, this here Boston man brung along w'at 'e called a sleepin' bag. First off, he ondresses, puts on a long nighty"—

"Alas! perturbed spirit!" wailed Eddy.

"Then he crawls inter that there sleepin' bag. Me—I buttons 'im in, all nice an' tidy, ev'ry night. An' ev'ry mornin' I lets 'im out."

"Some vally, Jimmy O'," declared Eddy.

"Well, this night 'e went inter 'is bag an' I buttons 'im in. I aint much more'n rolled up w'en buzz-zz-zz goes a di'mon'-back. Mr. Boston he hears it too. An' say! That there bag fairly reared up! He beat a sack-race fer pure fun. Me—I rolled an' luffed till I was sore—that there di'mon' back singin' all th' time.

"Lemme out!" yells Boston, muffled-like. "They's a rattlesnake in th' sack! He's bit me laig!"

"He want, though. I seen 'im coiled 'bout four feet from the sack. Well, I ups an' shoots 'is head plum off—the snake's. But Boston, 'e was so all-fired scairt 'e never heard my gun go off."

"Yer discharged!" he yells, voice like a man wit' his head in th' feed-bin. Gee!

I was glad! I was plum' sick o' that there button-in game anyways. So I says, good an' loud: 'A'right—goo'bye,' an' made as if I was goin' away. Then I kep' still an' never budged. Say—the sack was quiet, too—him in it. W'en I unbuttoned 'im 'e'd fainted clean away.

"Well, 'e cum to, o' course—called me 'is preserver—an' said 'e guessed 'e'd got enough cacti an' experience—mostly experience. Me—I sure swelled up some then an' begun t' feel I was mostly human again."

"Mos'—but not quite yet, anyways," suggested Eddy.

"Well, w'en 'e got back t' Boston they was a long piece in th' paper 'bout him an' me. It was sure funny. Now say! I b'leeve I'll send 'im a book!"

Eddy promptly closed the "Monitor" and passed it over.

"Oh, heck, no!" said Jimmy waving aside the gift. "Is health is all right. He said in that there piece that me an' Arizona was the great health-restorers."

Then Jimmy O' and Eddy fled down the path, mounted their horses, and vanished.

Headquarters for Stamps of the U. S. and Its Colonies

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

H. F. COLMAN,
Second National Bank Bldg., WASHINGTON, D. C.

it was known as Yang-chang (city of rams). The Arabs made regular voyages hither as early as the 9th century, A. D. The Portuguese found their way to it in 1517, and were followed by the Dutch a hundred years later. These in turn were supplanted by the English before the close of the 17th century, and an immense trade was carried on by the agents of the East India Company, whose monopoly ceased in April, 1834. In 1842 Canton became one of the five treaty ports open to foreign commerce. The city was captured by the allied French and English forces in December, 1857, and continued to be garrisoned by them until October, 1861. The city has a present population of about two millions of whom probably less than 1000 are foreigners.

Chifu is a port in Shantung, at the entrance of the Gulf of Pechili. The place is much frequented by foreigners as a health resort in summer. The harbor is shallow with the result that men-of-war and vessels of deep draught cannot approach it. The port played a considerable part in the Russo-Japanese war; before the fall of Port Arthur many steamers ran the blockade between Chifu and the Russian garrison. In August, 1904, the Russian destroyer, Reshitelni, was forcibly abducted from the port by the Japanese. It is the chief port for the trade of Shantung and the Gulf of Pechili for the reason that it is the only port in the gulf which remains open throughout the winter. It has a population of about 40,000.

Ching-kiang is a city in Kiang-su about 150 miles northwest of Shanghai. Its position, near the junction of the Grand Canal with the Yang-tse-kiang, makes it an important centre of trade. This city was taken by the British on July 21st, 1842, and in 1861 it was opened to foreign trade. It has a population of about 300,000.

Foochow is the capital of the province of Fu-chien situated on the left bank of the river Min, about 34 miles from its mouth. The town proper is surrounded with walls nearly 30 feet high and about 10 feet wide at the top. The river is thronged with floating houses and is crossed by a great bridge 329 yards long. The viceroy of Che-kiang and Fu-kien made it his residence in the middle of the 10th century. The Min provides an easy means of communication with the interior, with which a large trade is carried on, and the port, opened to foreign commerce in 1842, is one of the principal tea-markets and mission stations in China. There are manufactories of silk and cotton fabrics and paper; and on an island three miles down the stream there is a large governmental arsenal managed by Europeans. The French bombarded Foochow in 1884. It has a present population of about 700,000.

Hankow is a treaty port in the province of Hu-peh, on the left bank of the Han at its junction with the Yang-tse-kiang, and about 600 miles west of Shanghai. Strictly speaking Hankow is a suburb of the towns of Wu-chang and Han-yang, the three together forming one huge city. Vessels of large size can reach Hankow, the river being navigable to Ichang, 420 miles higher up. It was opened to foreign trade in 1862. In 1889 a decree of the emperor authorised the construction of a railway between Hankow and Pekin—about 776 miles. Over two miles of the river frontage belongs to British and other foreign concessions. These have been embanked with stone to protect them from a 40 foot rise of the river in summer. Before the Taiping rebellion the three cities had a combined population of over 5,000,000, but this has since dropped to about 1,700,000 of which Hankow has between 600,000 and 800,000.

Ichang is a treaty port in the Hu-peh province on the left bank of the Yang-tse-kiang, 965 miles from the sea. Ichang is the transshipment port for cargo to and from Sze-kuen, and light draught steamers run between it and Hankow. The port was declared open to foreign trade in 1877. It has a population of about 50,000.

Nanking is the capital of the province of Kiang-fu being situated about a mile from the right bank of the Yang-tse-kiang and 205 miles west of Shanghai. Its name signifies Southern Capital. The town lies in a hollow surrounded by hills, those which command the river being strongly fortified. At different times between 222 and 501 A. D., Nanking was the capital of China, and again in 1368-1403. Taken by the Taipings in 1853 it remained their capital until 1865. They destroyed nearly all the magnificent public buildings for which the city was once famous. Till then the walls, 50 to 70 feet high, enclosed an area nearly 20 miles in circumference. The most memorable of the ruined buildings was the Porcelain Tower (1430), the summer palace, and the tombs of the kings, with remarkable sepulchral statues. Nanking has since rapidly recovered, its silks and satins being famed in China and its nankeens (hence named) in Europe. The tomb of the first Ming emperor (Hung Wu) lies near the city. In 1842 Nanking was captured by the British. Its population at the present time is between 200,000 and 300,000.

Pekin, or Pei-ching ("Northern Capital") is the capital of China and consists of an inner and an outer—that is, a Manchu and a Chinese—city. The former is 14½ miles in circuit and is enclosed by a wall about 45 feet high and 47 feet thick. Within the Manchu city lie the palaces, public offices, Confucian and other large temples, and many private residences. Shops are almost confined to the main streets, which are of great width. In the Chinese city, which projects south of the Manchu city are shops, theatres, restaurants, etc., but large spaces are unoccupied. The wall around this city is 22 ft. high. Pekin was, with short intervals, an imperial residence for more than nine hundred years, and was an important place long before that date. It has been known by many names—e. g., Chi in the 12th century, B. C., Yen early in the Christian era, Yu-chou in the 7th century, A. D., Nan-ching in the 10th, Yen-ching in the 11th, Khan-baligh in the 13th, and Pei-ching in the 15th century, and its present official name is Shun-tien-fu. Pekin surrendered to the Anglo-French force in 1860 and in 1900 was the scene of the "Boxer" rebellion, when the foreign legations were besieged and ultimately relieved by the allied expeditionary army. The allied forces occupied the "Forbidden City" after the flight of the Chinese court to Singanfoo. Its population is generally considered to be about one million.

Shanghai is a treaty port in the province of Kiang-su, on the left bank of Hwang-po, twelve miles above its junction with the Yang-tse-kiang at Wusung. Its facilities for distribution, and the lack of deep water at the treaty ports in the north, have made it the entrepôt of all foreign trade north of Foochow and the greatest foreign market of the country. Miles of wharves and five large dockyards hardly suffice for its traffic. The French and British and American settlements, almost self-governing, extend about five miles below the city along the river front, and from three to four miles inland. Shanghai was taken by the British in 1842 and was opened to foreign trade in the same year. The total population of the city probably exceeds 600,000 of whom less than 7,000 are foreigners.

Swatau, or Swatow, is a seaport in the Kwang-tung province, on the left bank of the Han, five miles from its mouth. It is situated about 180 miles northeast of Hong-Kong. Swatow has been open for foreign trade since 1869, though for long it had an unenviable reputation for anti-foreign feeling. It has a population of about 50,000.

Tientsin is a city in the province of Chi-li, on the right bank of the Pei-ho, at its junction with the Grand Canal, and 80 miles southeast of Peking. It is the port of supply for the whole of China north of the Yellow river. The river is frozen over from December to March when the business is taken up by sledges. By the treaty of Tientsin (1858) the port was declared open, but owing to anti-foreign feeling it was occupied by the allies in the winter of 1860-61 and shortly afterwards a British consulate was established. On June 21st, 1870, anti-foreign feeling culminated in a massacre of Roman Catholics and other foreigners. The bombardment of the foreign settlements in the latter part of June, 1900, led to the occupation of the city by the allied forces on July 15th following, and from that time until August 15th, 1902, Tientsin was administered by a foreign provisional government. It has a population closely approaching one million.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

Until 1898 ordinary unsurcharged stamps were used at the three offices then in operation in China. At Shanghai the stamps of 1880 and 1889 were used while at Tientsin and Chefoo those of the latter issue were used. These stamps can, of course, only be identified by the cancellations. On January 1st, 1898, the German stamps of the numeral and Eagle types of 1889 were overprinted "China" in black for use in these offices. The overprint slopes diagonally upwards and in the first supplies sent to China the word slopes at an angle of 45°. Later supplies show the name at an angle of 56°. The first series is much the scarcer, especially in the case of the 3pf denomination, and though one set is sufficient for the general collector it is as well to know how to distinguish the two types. The 3pf value used alone prepaid circulars and newspapers between the various offices in China. At first this denomination was only supplied to the offices of Shanghai and Tientsin.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

According to an article by Mr. Reichenheim in the London Philatelist, the post office at Foochow was opened on June 7th, 1900, and less than a month later there was a shortage of 5pf stamps and provisionals were made by the postmaster for temporary use, some of the 10pf stamps of the first series being surcharged "5 pf" by means of hand-stamp. Many conflicting reports have been published regarding the number, varieties, and date of use of this provisional, some writers evidently confusing this Foochow variety with the somewhat similar provisionals issued in Kiautschou. Mr. Reichenheim was able to get information direct from the Postmaster of the German post office in Foochow to the following effect:—

Two issues exist: the first one was made between the 5th and 10th July, 1900, and the second one during a few days in the middle of November of the same year. Both issues have been produced by the same single hand-stamp, cut in wood, and made locally for the purpose, and the surcharge was affixed to each single stamp by the Post Office officials themselves when stamps of 5pf values were required by the public during those two periods. Therefore no different types can exist, but probably through bad stamping some stamps appear with the surcharge "5 p" only. Altogether there have been forty to fifty sheets of one hundred stamps surcharged.

Gibbons' catalogue for some mysterious reason still persists in giving the date of this provisional as "1 June 1900" although the office was not opened until the 5th of that month.

Specimens with double surcharge were reported in 1905 and though this is a very likely error in the case of stamps produced by such primitive means I do not know if the variety has been properly authenticated or not.

GEO. FITCH ON "COLLECTORS."

The world is full of men who collect things.

Some men collect postage stamps and pay as high as $10,000 for a stamp which was worth two cents before it carried a grocery bill to a barber's wife in Mauritius. Others collect pipes, snuff boxes, engravings, bird's eggs, geodes, tulips, tobacco tags, dogs, cats, fleas, Oriental rugs or street car transfers.

When a man becomes a collector he fixes his affections upon whatever he collects and lives for his fad. Nothing can exceed the pride with which an otherwise sane member of society will display a slipper of rare design, the finest in his collection of 1,789 varieties, all different, costing $100,000 and worth in the neighborhood of $1.45.

Collecting rare books is a passionate joy to many men. Edgar Allen Poe, who died of scanty nutrition, would be pleased to see the deep joy with which men pay thousands of dollars today for his manuscripts which brought 10 cents a page when he needed the money.

Collecting paintings has raised the price of old masters $7,000 above normal in the past 30 years. Rembrandts are so valuable, because there are not enough of them to go around among the collectors.

Collecting railroads was a great fad with Harriman, Jay Gould and others. Nothing delighted them so much as to snap up a rare little railroad for about

APPROVALS FOR DISCRIMINATING COLLECTORS

WANT LISTS A SPECIALTY [tf]

WILLARD E. GARDINER

9 Pemberton St., PROVIDENCE, R. I.

START RIGHT!

Vacation is over, and I hope you enjoyed yours as I did mine. Now let's get down to brass tacks. I have been in this business for two years, and I have on my list several customers who have been receiving my approvals since I first started, and I expect to keep them there. A great number have been with me over a year. There must be a GOOD REASON. It is because I have done my best to give FAIR, HONEST, SERVICE, and make RIGHT PRICES. I have also tried to encourage prompt customers by a SPECIAL DISCOUNT inducement, and have had great success. I endeavor to be PROMPT, and unless you ask for something special I can answer correspondence within 24 hours of receipt. I realize that when you want stamps at all, you want them right away.

The general collector will find my stamps, prices and service unsurpassed. A new California customer said, a few days ago: "If you can always send me stamps as good as these, you can count on me as a regular customer."

Why not start right this Fall, and communicate with me? A good business reference is absolutely necessary.

five times its worth and add it to their systems.

Collecting wives is a pastime in many countries. Solomon was a famous collector and so was Brigham Young while some of our modern actors do very well in a modest way.

Henry Ford is said to be an automobile collector and to have one of every variety in his garage. This is peculiar, because Ford's ambition seems to be to reduce automobiles to one variety.

Collecting statesmen was popular with many corporations before the new and reckless progressivism which made municipal and state ownership of public servants obligatory. Many corporations had as many as ten senators in their exhibits.

EDITORIAL.

Resting Easily.—Through sources of information widely scattered throughout the country, we are enabled to say that business conditions in stamps have been good; and while latterly, there has been a demand somewhat diminished in volume, yet the opening soon of the regular season will counteract the effect of the depression, if it may be said to be such. Those who are interested in stamps commercially may know that their "commodities" are of fixed value, almost, and are not readily disturbed by financial ill winds. We do not need to add that new issues and especially the war stamps are ruling strong.

Baltimore Postmaster.—From Mr. Wm. C. Schilling, Baltimore, Md., we have received an old postage bill of 1847 that is interesting because it bears the name of James M. Buchanan, the famous "provisional" postmaster of Baltimore. The bill reads: "To Jas. M. Buchanan, P. M., Baltimore, Md., Dr. to Newspaper Postage, one quarter in advance,—from 1st January to 1st April—$2.64." Moreover, the bill is impressed "Paid" in blue by what evidently was the hand-stamp in use on letters at that period.

Civil War Tax.—A reader has sent us a fac-simile reproduction of T. B. Peterson & Brothers' "new official edition" of the "Stamp Duties, imposed by the last acts of Congress of the United States of America of June 30, 1864," that was presented in a Philadelphia newspaper. The information contained in this tax list, "copy of which is owned by H. H. Hay's Sons, and hangs in the office of the Middle Street store" is emulative and while it is not new to collectors, yet its original form appeals to collectors. For instance: "Proprietors of Cosmetics, Medicines or Proprietary Articles, may furnish private dies, to be approved by the Commissioner, and are allowed 5 per cent. on all purchases of and am prepared to pay high cash prices for Postmasters Provisionals, the regular Imperforate Issues, Locals and Provisional Confederate States. Extra high prices paid for pairs and blocks.

Ferris Auction Review, a few copies left, reduced to 35 cents post free.

$500; over $500, 10 per cent." The price list in question was fifteen cents.

Welcome Step.—Beginning, September 1st, 1915, fourth class mail matter may be protected according to the following amendment to paragraph 2, Section 488, of the Postal Laws and Regulations:

"Fourth-class mail shall not be registered, but may be insured against loss in an amount equivalent to its actual value, but not to exceed $5.00 in any one case, on payment of a fee of three cents; not to exceed $25.00 on payment of a fee of five cents; not to exceed $50.00 on payment of a fee of ten cents, or not to exceed $100.00 on payment of a fee of twenty-five cents, in addition to the postage, both to be prepaid by stamps affixed; but indemnity will not be allowed in cases of loss of such mail addressed to the Philippine Islands, unless the loss occurred in the postal service of the United States."

Impending.—From a Newfoundland newspaper we learn that at a meeting, held August 18th in a town in Prince Edward Island, a resolution was passed petitioning the Dominion government "to overture the Colony of Newfoundland to enter Confederation on terms mutually agreeable." Indications are not lacking that the destiny of Newfoundland is to enter the Confederation at a date not far in the future as the surface showing is that the "merger" would be acceptable to both the Dominion and Newfoundland; and its consummation, we need not say, would result in the discontinuance of Newfoundland's distinctive issues and make the country, more than ever before, the favorite of many specialists.

Good Stuff.—In a recent number of Everybody's Philatelist, Mr. Charles A. Nast, whose contributions may be depended upon to reflect the writer's ripe experience and seasoned enthusiasm speaks of the somewhat remarkable philatelic distinction enjoyed by the October, 1871, number of Harper's New Monthly Magazine. In this classic monthly of the date named, there is an article copiously illustrated and extending over eighteen pages, entitled, "New York City Post-Office." As the name implies, the account is a history of the New York institution from its beginning to the present (1871) when instead "of there being as formerly only a few straggling letters, two hundred and fifty thousand postage stamps, on an average, are daily canceled, and that is a representation of the number of domestic letters delivered at the post-office every twenty-four hours." The figures were astounding then, but to-day, 250,000 stamps are canceled on a single edition of a mail-order catalogue sent out by one of a number of firms that are heavy users of postage stamps. We need not add that this history of the New York post office gives a valuable record that is indispensable to the one who would be a postal historian, let us say.

By James M. Chute.—In the same number of the periodical, Harper's New Monthly Magazine, October, 1871, is the famous article, "Postage Stamps and Their Origin", with many stamp cuts on the ten pages of text. Some time ago, we reviewed somewhat completely this striking article which was the first philatelic contribution to a magazine of the high character of Harper's; and we wager that the appearance of this stamp article caused much rejoicing in the stamp world upon the "recognition" of the pursuit by so critical and discriminating an authority as the monthly in question. A feature of the article was illustrations of the earlier United States stamps, including the big five-cent newspaper stamp of 1865, which, with the companion values, ten and twenty-five cents, "were issued October 1, 1865, and withdrawn in February, 1869, having been used only in Chicago, Illinois and Milwaukee, Wisconsin." Of the 1869 issue which recently had been retired, the observation is made: "The public feeling being wholly against them, on account of their small size, the government in 1870 authorized the company to prepare a new set and in the spring of 1870 (April) they produced an elaborate series." Mr. Nast speaks of the author of the article as anonymous; and while it is true that no name is attached to the sketch in the number in question, yet, in the index to the volume or "Contents of Volume XLIII, June to November, 1871," we find: "Postage Stamps and Their Origin (with 99 illustrations), James M. Chute." Mr. Chute was an active philatelist who was somewhat voluminous in his writing for the philatelic press and who otherwise was aggressive in his championing of philately during the years, 1865 to 1885, let us say. Mr. Chute was a resident of Boston and it is safe to say that the pioneer philatelists of this country remember him well.

A Raid or Two.—A ripple of excitement has been created by the seizure by secret service men who do not herald their coming, it may be surmised, of the stocks of unused postage due stamps, including the parcel post dues, and unused postal savings stamps that were found in the possession of the dealer. The authorities do not hesitate to confiscate these stamps as they claim that possession of them is prima facie evidence that irregularly attended their advent into the hands of collectors; and so the stamps are declared "contraband". Without really knowing anything about the reason for the activity of the department, we think that the report of the existence of unused specimens of the postal savings stamps that were available for collectors did something to instigate the raids.

AN INEXPENSIVE LOOSE-LEAF ALBUM

By W. L. McATEE.

Specialization in stamp collecting, to whatever extent, creates a demand for extra pages, and extra pages soon necessitate an expandable album. Various styles of blank loose-leaf albums are for sale and many collectors use substitutes of their own invention. That used by the writer, though cheap, has many points of usefulness.

The covers employed are known as students' notebooks and cost forty cents each. They are covered with black cloth and the binding device consists of breaking rings controlled by the spring back of the binder.

The size of binder used takes ordinary manuscript paper, and the paper is Superior Linen and Bond, No. 306. This is a thin, tough, white paper, but its chief recommendation for use in a stamp album is its watermarking. The paper is laid—oblong quadrille—the horizontal lines being about 1½ millimeters apart, and the vertical lines 24 millimeters. These lines are inconspicuous when the paper lies sheet upon sheet, but when a single page is placed against a dark background, the lines show plainly and are a great aid to neat arrangement of the stamps. The vertical spaces—25 mm.—are just right to accommodate ordinary-sized postage stamps, and allow one edge of each to be placed on a vertical line.

PERFORATED ISSUES OF HAWAII.

By C. A. HOWES.

I have chosen the above title for this article because the postal issues of this interesting foster-child of America seem to divide themselves naturally into two main groups, the imperforate and the perforated. The earlier issues, all imperforate, are the ones in which the specialist takes most delight on account of their rarity, the questions connected with their issue and use, the study they afford in minor varieties and the delights of plating. With the second group, all perforated—or intended to be—we come to the more prosaic issues, with few varieties, which through their abundance and comparatively low prices are more or less familiar to all collectors. The first group is ably treated by others whose researches in that field enable them to handle it properly and authoritatively. It is left to me to gather together such facts and notes of interest as are at hand concerning the second group which dates from the year 1864.

The letter ordering the first perforated stamp and fixing its design has been published in Filatelie Facts and Fallacies, and it seems interesting enough to reproduce here. It bears the date of November 4, 1863, and was written by Postmaster-General David Kalakaua (afterwards king) to Alvah K. Clark, a former Postmaster-General, who was then in New York:

This office being nearly out of 2-cent postage, I am desirous of procuring a fresh supply, and, thinking from your long connection with the postal affairs of this kingdom, that you would know just about what is wanted, I send you this order to have filled in New York, if it will not be too much trouble. The color and design of the new stamp I should like to have as near as possible the enclosed Nova Scotia stamp, but in place of "Nova Scotia" have the word and figures "2 Hawaii 2," and underneath "Elua Keneta" in the same style of lettering as the sample. I forward also a likeness of His Majesty for the center, which please have copied as correctly as possible; the one on the old stamp was not done well. If it will not be attended with much extra expense, I should like the sheets perforated, so as to avoid the inconvenience of separating them with shears. The number required will be 10,000 sheets, of 25 on a sheet, which when finished, have put up in a case, tightly soldered, and addressed to the Postmaster, Honolulu, care of McRuer & Merrill, San Francisco. I will send the cost of the above order, with your commissions, on the receipt of your bill. The die or plate I would like sent out with the stamps. As we are nearly out of the above stamps, an early reply will oblige.

The Nova Scotia stamp was, of course, the 10-cent vermilion of 1860, which those interested can readily look up if they desire to see how the order was carried out. The likeness on the old stamp referred to, which was unsatisfactory, was the portrait of King Kamehameha IV. on the 2-cent rose lithographed stamp of 1861, and a comparison of the two stamps does indeed show quite a little difference in the two portraits. But even the new one was not wholly satisfactory as an extract from another letter of Kalakaua's, on receipt of the stamps, testifies. This letter was dated June 24, 1864, and was written to the treasurer of the National Bank Note Company. It says:

I have much pleasure in acknowledging receipt of your favor of April 4th, and also the two cases of stamps mentioned therein. Though the likeness of His Majesty as given on the stamp is not good, yet in every other respect they proved quite satisfactory. You will please accept my thanks for the framed copy and portraits sent with them. The plate I should like retained in the hands of the company, subject to the order of the Postmaster-General here, as it will be convenient in case more impressions are required.

It will be seen by this letter, also, that the request for sending the dies and plates to the islands with the stamps was countermanded, and thus we may have missed some interesting varieties of this stamp due to local printings. It also gives the approximate date of issue of the stamp, which was some time in June, 1864. The order was filled by the National Bank Note Company and the 250,000 stamps delivered to Mr. Clark on April 2, 1864, but the exact date of their being placed on sale in Honolulu does not seem to be a matter of record.

King Kamehameha IV. did not enjoy seeing his features on this new stamp, for he died November 30, 1863, shortly after the date of the first letter we have quoted. He was only in his 30th year and had reigned about nine years, having succeeded his uncle, Kamehameha III., who figures on the two engraved stamps of 1853.

As the 2-cent stamp served for inter-island postage, it was, of course, much used, and subsequent requisitions brought the number issued up to 2,160,000 in 1875, when the design was changed. One sheet of fifty is said to have escaped the perforating machine, so that there have been at least that number of imperforate copies in existence.

Evidently the design was entirely satisfactory, for when the second requisition was sent for the 2 cents on April 26, 1865, a requisition for 200,000 stamps of 5 cents was included, the design to be the same, but the portrait to be that of the new king, Kamehameha V., a brother of the late king, and the color to be a dark blue. Of course, the inscription at the bottom was changed, as "elua keneta" is the native Kanaka dialect for "two cents," whereas the word for "five" is "elima." A second order was sent the next year, which made a total issue for this dark-blue stamp of 350,000; and this evidently lasted until 1881, the date of the next requisition, which changed the color to a light blue.

Although 1-cent stamps of the numeral type were printed at various times from 1859 to 1865, at least, they could not have been so very extensively employed or they would be much more common than we know them to be. They were intended to frank newspapers in the island. In 1870, however, an order for three new values was sent to the National Bank Note Company, one of which was for a 1-cent stamp in violet showing a full-face portrait of the Princess Victoria Kamamalu, who was a sister of both Kamehamehas IV. and V.

Besides the 1-cent the order included two new values, a 6-cent in green and an 18-cent in red. These two stamps were required to meet certain rates stipulated by a postal convention with the United States in 1870. The 6-cent bore a three-quarter face likeness of Kamehameha IV., with whose features we are already familiar, and the 18-cent

Advertising Chat—No. 2.

September with its cool evenings offers the collector the desired opportunity for stamp study. The WEEKLY will do its part in providing a good reason.

Plumridge & Co., the old London auction firm, evidently desires a share of American business. Auction buyers will do well to note the advertisement elsewhere and furnish their names and addresses.

J. E. Lea is another English advertiser who has recently broken into the American market. Mr. Lea expects to be with us regularly throughout the season.

Look through this issue. A number of dealing names will be noted that have come to us during the summer months:—H. J. Schmidt, Arthur Barger & Co., Far West Stamp Co., and Fred P. Proessel are in this number.

The live dealer will now get busy and line up for the fall campaign. D. M. Ward, after a summer vacation, returns to the WEEKLY with his special offer, to be seen elsewhere. Others will follow—how about yourself?

"How to Deal in Stamps." We have sold over 900 copies of this book in the past eighteen months. Only a few left. Do you want one—10c?

THE GOOD OLD "PENNY-RED."

By H. C. M.

My young affections began to twine about the "penny-red" about a year ago. A Western stamp-auctioneer gently guided my footsteps, through a seductive announcement in his catalogue of "penny-red plate numbers carefully selected and complete including No. 225," and I parted with about six dollars of my hard earned money for the same. Candor compels me to admit that the whole set is advertised in English stamp papers at about a fifth less.

However, the serpent entered Eden and, through an "ad" in MEKEEL'S I sent to a well-known English dealer for a thousand of the labels, which cost me the enormous sum of sixty cents. With these I entered on a career of ecstatic philatelic dissipation: I soaked and I soaked and I sorted and I sorted,—and I have had more stamp-fun than I ever did over things that cost me many ducats.

The "penny-red" can be studied in a variety of ways. (1) for the plate numbers, which are small enough to stimulate curiosity and plain enough to reward it, (2) for the plating of the stamp by the corner letters, (3) for study of the post-marks, which are largely in numbers instead of names of places and are in bewildering variety and (4) for water-marks.

I found 83 different plate numbers out of 151, the number on the original sheet; 234 different letter varieties out of a possible 240 in the plate; 373 English cancellations, 19 Irish, 24 Scotch, 15 British used abroad, and 43 with the diamond postmark. I also found one stamp with the inverted water-mark. Scott's, Gibbons' and Bright's catalogues were sources of information for much that I wanted to know and for the cancellations I was lucky enough to come across "The Postmarks of the British Isles from 1840 to 1876," by John G. Hendy, a most interesting and valuable work.

What is the moral? Why this:—that there is just as much satisfaction for the medium collector in studying a common stamp like the "penny red," that can be bought in quantities cheaply, as there is in spending a good deal more money over the counter in buying single stamps needed to complete a set.

But to really get the good out of philately that there is in it one must (1) take a live paper like MEKEEL'S, (2) read the "ads" carefully and (3) form a library—it need not number more than twenty volumes—of those books that are comprehensive in their interest.

BRITISH COLONIES.—According to the Colonial Journal, various issues of the different colonies are again being printed on paper colored through. The list includes the following not previously chronicled:

Ceylon 2r on yellow.
East Africa and Uganda 25c on yellow.
Fiji Islands 1sh on green.
Jamaica 3d on yellow and 1sh on green.
Malta 1sh on green.

CANADA.—Gladstone Perry reports having seen the first specimens of the new Canadian Inland Revenue, War Tax, stamped paper. The stamp, which is embossed on a C.P.R. Pay Cheque in red, is in the form of an upright oval, with embossed white letters on red ground. At top of circle is "CANADA" over a crown, surmounting a curved line of caps, "INLAND REVENUE"; below this again, one word on each side, "WAR TAX"; under this is an embossed beaver over the words, TWO CENTS, surmounting a spray of five maple leaves and the control letters, in this case "A A".

CUBA.—Champion's Bulletin notes the issue of a new "Officially Sealed" stamp for Cuba.

Official Adhesive.

No value blue.

DENMARK.—Supplementing the note in No. 1286, W. T. Wilson has shown us the permanent type 80 ore stamp which was issued August 4. The design is the same as Scott's type A16. As noted in No. 1286, there was a second provisional issue, the 8 ore carmine official stamp being used. The surcharge shows a large "80 ore" in the center, with the inscriptions in the frame blocked out by "Danmark" at the top, "Post frim" at the bottom and chains of stars at the sides.

Provisional Adhesive.

ECUADOR.—H. Chitraro submits a new stamp from Ecuador. The design and portrait are the same as the bi-colored issue of 1911-13, but the printing is in a single color, on white unwatermarked paper and perforated 12.

Adhesive.

5c purple.

HONDURAS.—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. has shown us a new official stamp from Honduras. The design shows a small horizontal oblong 22½ x 18, with "Correos de Honduras" above and "Centavos" below the vignette, in curved lines. The figures of value are in small squares at the sides. "U. P. U." and "1915" are printed very small in the top corners. The stamps lithographed on white unwatermarked paper and perforated 11½. The central vignette shows the "Teatro Bonilla." "Oficial" is overprinted in small type.

Official Adhesive.

PERSIA.—Our foreign contemporaries are illustrating the new series of stamps issued to commemorate the Coronation of the Sultan Ahmed Schah. There are three designs, the chahi values showing the imperial crown, the kran values, "Darius on his Throne", and the toman values the Gate of the Palace of Persepolis. The borders are highly Oriental in design, the kran values being in silver and the toman values in gilt. The chahi values are perforated 11 and the others 11 x 11½. As noted last week, full sets have been overprinted "Service" and "Colis Postaux."

SOMALI COAST.—In No. 1280 we noted the issue of a Red Cross stamp for this Colony of a design not previously seen. Maury's Collectionneur now gives full particulars of the new series. The values from 10c to 75c inclusive are of the same design as the Red Cross stamp fully described in No. 1280. The lower centime values show a male native standing outside the door of a building and beating a drum, with a herd of goats in the distance at the left. The figure of value appears above the native's left shoulder. "R" and "F," "Postes," and the name of the Colony are arranged as in the other upright design. The franc values are a horizontal oblong, showing a railway viaduct, with a similar arrangement of the inscriptions as in the lower values, with an ornamental border of weapons and foliage, with the value in a shield at the bottom. There is also a Postage Due set, the main feature of the design being the figure of value in a colorless circle mounted on a trophy of native weapons. The border shows "R.F." at the top and "Cote Francaise" at the left and "Des Somalis" at the right.

WAR STAMPS OF THE YEAR.

A year of war and philately not dead—the month of August and philately not any more quiet than usual: something for the pessimists to digest! I even understand that a well-known firm of Auctioneers is holding an additional sale this month—surely a rather foolish undertaking if things are so black as one or two croakers are at pains to make us believe?

War stamps and good stamps have kept things going through these terrible months. It is mainly the former that the trade has to thank as the latter seldom come on the market these days.

War has proved philately to be the greatest of all hobbies. Many a dealer has remarked to me how curious it is that as soon as our soldier and sailor heroes are home on leave they instantly find time to buy and take as great an interest as ever in their chosen hobby. Let us all show the same spirit! War provisionals are as popular as ever, and even one or two of the leading firms who looked down with scorn upon Togos, etc., have been compelled by public demand to stock and sell the historic provisionals which they first appeared to ignore? Togos remain the popular favourites, and it has been noticed that recently many collectors who previously banned these provisionals have now started to collect them; rightly realising that prices will never be lower than they are today. The provisionals of the present war will most certainly turn out very much better than they are today for the simple reason that they are being bought by genuine collectors and not by collector-speculators.

Red Cross issues are also in great demand, and many will turn out to be scarce stamps. I notice a certain dealer who has the first Belgian set of six varieties is asking 11sh per set. The Reunion black surcharge was on offer a few weeks ago at 3sh 6d—now the price is nearer 35sh!

There are few stamps which have received so much attention in the public press as the 1d on 1sh St. Vincent provisional. Whether or not this provisional was required I cannot say. All the writers, however, are quite wrong in one deduction: they all assure us that this stamp will come upon the market in large quantities at any moment. As I happen to know more than most people about this provisional I cannot accept this statement. The provisional was issued and a big speculation undoubtedly took place in the Island. Practically all these "holdings" have now been sold and the major portion is in the Credit Lyonnais vaults in Paris, and is not likely to come out for two or three years at the earliest; thus present prices are not likely to drop—the reverse being the probability.—Stamp Collecting.

THE U. S. R. S. CONVENTION.

The fact that the United States Revenue Society held its convention in Springfield the same week that the Southern Philatelic Society met in Reading, Pa., prevented several members from being in attendance as did also the terrific downpour of rain that occurred on August 4, the day of the convention.

Aside from the local members, Messrs. Elliott of Winchendon and Sebbins of Worcester were the only outsiders present although J. F. Hoffstetter of Erie, Pa., arrived late that night having been held up 15 hours by a washout.

Vice President Stone presided and Howard Elliott acted as secretary. The secretary reported a membership of 113 and the treasurer a balance of $83.58 with $65.80 in the insurance fund.

Sales superintendent Emery reported very little business on account of the poor quality of sheets sent in for circulation. W. R. Ricketts reported excellent progress on the index to magazine articles on U. S. revenue stamps, which is to be published shortly as a handbook and also gave a report of the revenue literature of the year.

It was voted to make MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS the official journal of the society and to hold the next convention in Boston in connection with the American Philatelic Society.

The Board of Governors were instructed to secure a more appropriate design for our seal and a committee of three was authorized to report needed changes and modifications in our By-laws and to report same to the Board not less than 30 days prior to the next convention.

The new Board of Governors is as follows: President, William C. Stone; First Vice President, W. S. Aldrich; Second Vice President, J. D. Bartlett; Secretary, Walter E. Goodwin; Treasurer, H. S. Ackerman.

After adjournment the members spent a social hour around the dining tables of the Highland Hotel, the weather not permitting the trip to Mount Tom.

HIGH EXPLOSIVES

FOR THE STAMP TRADE

(With acknowledgements to the "Postage Stamp")

GERMANY WAS PREPARED for war, or she could never have put up so bold a stand against so many foes.

FORESIGHT AND PREPARATION are as necessary in business as in war.

ARE YOU PREPARED for the coming season! Or,

ARE YOU SLACKING, waiting till the season is here?

Germany prepared FORTY YEARS. You have FORTY DAYS in which to prepare your WINTER CAMPAIGN.

Think about it—and then SET ABOUT IT.

Take a definite stand, dig yourself in, store up MUNITIONS.

AMONG THE BEST MUNITIONS for the stamp trade this season will be WAR STAMPS. The stereotyped old-fashioned firm that "wont touch that sort of business," will suffer for such exclusiveness, and leave the way open to the progressive dealer who takes the INITIATIVE. It is not the dealer's place to say what his customers shall buy; his task is to supply what they want.

Have your respirator ready to protect you from the pervading doubts and fears. There will be plenty POISONOUS GAS in the atmosphere of the coming season, trying to stifle your efforts, and weaken your confidence.

Prepare to pour out a STEADY FIRE of advertising, with MACHINE GUN regularity of action. Spasmodic and desultory fire is not so effective as steady and maintained fire. Above all in your advertising have a PLAN OF CAMPAIGN, carefully thought out in advance, and STICK TO YOUR GUNS.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS will be your staunch ALLY if you are fighting on the RIGHT SIDE. The philatelic press offers you a PATH TO VICTORY.

LET US HELP YOU IN YOUR WINTER CAMPAIGN.

WE ARE MAKING MUNITIONS FOR YOU.

ADVERTISING is the HIGH-EXPLOSIVE of BUSINESS; it will FORCE A WAY for you to come TO THE FRONT.

RIFLE FIRE:—Adlets 20c per line, 50 lines $7.50.

MACHINE GUN:—Quarter page advts., $15 each.

HEAVY ARTILLERY:—Whole page advt., $57.60; half page, $30.00.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We are advised that mail matter intended for Branch 5, A. P. S., should be addressed to Room 715, McGee Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa. The local societies have consolidated and now meet twice a month at the place indicated.

—Charles Roemer, San Antonio, Tex., has just been elected Sales Superintendent of the Texas Philatelic Association, having recently retired from the management of the sales department of the S. P. A., after eight years of service. The fact that Mr. Roemer has accepted this position will work out to the material advantage of this old state organization which has seen twenty years of active service for the advancing of philately.

—We have received the initial number of the Poster Stamp Bulletin, the official organ of the Poster Stamp Exchange Society. L. A. Beebe, Yonkers, N. Y., is the managing editor and the unique form and interesting contents of this magazine will appeal strongly to those who are interested in the poster stamp hobby. We feel sure that a sample copy will be gladly sent any interested parties.

—We note by an English paper just at hand that Mr. Whitfield King of the firm of Whitfield King & Co., Ipswich, England, recently entertained at his residence on Lacey St., fifty-two wounded soldiers from the hospitals in and around Ipswich. A very elaborate and pleasing entertainment was given and nothing was omitted that would add to the pleasure and comfort of those present.

—We have received a handbook "Notes on Controls," covering the British stamps issued during the Victorian period, 1834-1900. The book is written by Reginald B. Rowell and is reprinted from Stamp Collecting. It is

No. 4 in the series of handbooks issued by this publication and will be followed by another book dealing with the stamps of Edward and George. The price of the book is 12c.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Grant L. Paul, H. W. Litten, E. W. Bridge (2), A. J. Seebach, Joseph W. Beggs (9), J. B. Parker, J. L. Weber and Herman W. Boers.

—The WEEKLY has been elected the official journal of the United States Revenue Society. An account of the annual meeting appears in this issue and the reports of the Secretary will be published from time to time. We bespeak for this society a proper measure of support, having as it does for its object the stimulating of an interest in the collecting of our revenue issues.

—Our thanks are tendered A. W. Dunning for a picture postcard showing his home at "Wildacres," Wilton, N. H. Through Mr. Dunning's activity in dealing and exchange circles he has become well known to many of our readers.

PERFORATED ISSUES HAWAII.

a full-face portrait of His Highness, M. Kekuanooa, whose principal claim to fame was that he was custodian of the king's spittoon! The following clipping from the Boston Globe tells the whys and wherefores of this peculiar position:

One of the tenets of the ancient Hawaiian faith was that the saliva of the sovereign was sacred, and that if necromancers ever got possession of any part of it, they could, with the aid of it, offer incantations that would result in deplorable cataclysms to the nation. Hence the important office of the king's spittoon bearer, whose fidelity insured that every vestige of royalty's expectoration should be buried by night with the most profound secrecy lest the native priests should be able to secure the means for practicing their dreaded diabolism.

The venerable gentleman held his position under Kamehameha I. and married a daughter of that monarch; and three of his children we have already become acquainted with under the names of Kamehameha IV. and V. and the Princess Victoria.

Both the 6-cent and 18-cent were called for in several requisitions up to 1879, by which time 725,000 of the former and 175,000 of the latter had been delivered and apparently served all needs until the establishment of the republic. In the case of the 6-cent, we find one sheet of fifty which escaped perforation, and this interesting account of it was published in the Pacific Commercial Advertiser in describing the collection of Mr. T. G. Thrum, of Honolulu:

"The 6-cent green, imperforate, is a remarkable and valuable stamp. This issue was run off in the '70's during the régime of S. G. Wilder as Minister of the Interior and Mr. Brickwood as Postmaster-General. The 6-cent green issue had been ordered perforated, and when a few imperforate stamps of the same issue put in appearance, Postmaster Brickwood immediately instituted an investigation. He was confident that a forgery had been committed. A diligent search revealed the fact that an imperforate sheet had gotten into the issue in some manner and that it had been sent out by Mr. Brickwood to the postmaster at Honokaa, Hawaii. The broken sheet was sent back to Mr. Brickwood, who divided the stamps among the collectors gathering stamps in Honolulu at that time.

Who wouldn't have been a friend of Mr. Brickwood's just then?

On looking up the number of the 1-cent issued we find the curious practice of the Hawaiian Postal Department in later years of keeping on hand a stock of obsolete issues. While the 1-cent purple was the only one in use, there were four regular requisitions for the stamp, aggregating 525,000 copies, the last being in 1878. In 1881 the design was changed to the blue stamp bearing the portrait of the Princess Likelike. The requisition for this stamp is dated September 22, 1881, and calls for 50,000 in blue. The next requisition is dated April 10, 1882, and calls for 125,000 in green. The third requisition is dated December 22, 1882, and calls for 25,000 blue ones again; while the fourth requisition of July 30, 1884, orders both, 25,000 blue and 225,000 green. Both are ordered in subsequent requisitions up to the time of the change in government, but the green ones always in larger numbers. In 1885 the purple 1-cent of 1871 was also included and in five requisitions thereafter, so that the total number printed of this stamp amounted to 687,500. The shade of violet varies much, as is usual with stamps of this color, so that it is hard to tell if there may have been much difference in the earlier and later printings by which they might be distinguished.

David Kalakaua, a grand-nephew of Kamehameha I., was elected to fill the then vacant throne on February 12, 1874.

We have already heard of him as Postmaster-General, and now that he assumed regal dignity, his portrait must needs appear in the postal issues. The 2-cent value was selected and ordered in 1874, being placed on sale early in 1875. It was printed in dark brown and was intended to supersede the 2-cent vermilion. Up to 1882, when the color was changed, there had been printed 3,500,000; but, as in the case of the 1-cent violet, there were subsequent orders, which brings the total up to 3,600,000. As in the 2-cent of 1864, one sheet slipped through without perforations, and this adds a variety.

With the requisition for the new 2-cent was another for a 12-cent, needed to meet the requirements of a convention with the New South Wales Government in 1874. Of these, 225,000 in all were printed. They bear the portrait of Prince Leleiohoku, a younger brother of King Kalakaua and heir apparent to the throne.

These two stamps were ordered from the American Bank Note Company, which printed all subsequent issues for the islands.

We have already spoken of the new 1-cent of 1882, with the portrait of the Princess Likelike, who was a younger sister of King Kalakaua. This design, both in blue and green, continued in use up to the change in government, and the numbers printed were respectively 275,500 of the blue ones, and 2,250,000 of the green.

In 1882 also we have the 2-cent brown of 1875 changed to rose. The first printing was in lilac rose and consisted of 750,000 stamps. The later issues, amounting to 6,275,000 were in the rose shade. The 5-cent dark blue had also run out and the new supply was ordered in light blue, of which in all 2,137,500 were printed. Both the 2-cent rose and the 5-cent light blue are known imperforate, and the latter imperforate horizontally, but how many of each is not known.

As Hawaii joined the Postal Union on January 1, 1882, the increased need of 5-cent stamps was apparent, and evidently stamps for double and triple rate letters were thought desirable, for 10-cent and 15-cent stamps were also ordered. The former, in black, shows a full-face portrait of King Kalakaua in uniform, and the latter, in brown, a portrait of his consort, Queen Kapiolani.

The usual reprinting occurred with the 10-cent, of which 200,000 in all were delivered, but for the 15-cent only two requisitions were made, amounting to 75,000, which accounts for its relative scarcity.

Changes now being the order of the day, we find in 1883 the 10-cent appearing in a bright red, and the 12-cent in mauve, for cancellations did not show well on these two in their previous somber hue. Of the 10-cent, 87,500 were printed, and of the 12-cent but 37,500.

At the same time that these changes took place, a need for higher values seemed to be felt, and the result was three additional stamps, the 25-cent bearing a representation of the statue of Kamehameha I. in Honolulu, the 50-cent a portrait of King Lunalilo, and the $1 a portrait of Queen Emma. Kamehameha I., also called "The Great," became ruler of the western part of the Island of Hawaii in 1781, three years after the "rediscovery" of the islands by Captain Cook. With the aid of the newly arrived Europeans, he made himself master of the whole group in 1809 and reigned for ten years thereafter, with much credit to himself and benefit to his people.

King Lunalilo, a descendant of Kamehameha I., succeeded Kamehameha V., who died in December, 1872. He reigned but a little over a year, dying on January 3, 1874. Nine days later, Kalakaua, as previously stated, was elected to the vacant throne.

Queen Emma was the consort of King Kamehameha IV., and a beautiful woman, both in feature and character, being almost idolized by the natives.

Fifty thousand of each of the three high values were ordered, and subsequently an additional 50,000 of the $1. This extra order was probably due to the use of the $1 stamp for revenue purposes as well as for postage. In 1886 the Legislature passed a bill licensing the sale of opium, and instead of providing a revenue stamp of $1 to meet the requirements of the new law, they used the postage stamp of that value, as there were plenty on hand. It was so used for about two years, and can be readily distinguished by its cancellation, which is the name of the Collector of Customs written or stamped across it, or a Maltese cross in purple ink. The number so used I am unable to state.

In 1884, the 10-cent was again changed in color to brown, and of these 562,500 were printed.

In 1890, when on a trip to the United States, King Kalakaua was taken sick and died in San Francisco, January 30th. His remains were conveyed back to Honolulu in a warship. Having no issue, he was succeeded on the throne by his sister, Queen Liliuokalani, and this resulted in the substitution of her portrait in place of the late king's on the current 2-cent stamp. Of the new 2-cent violet with her likeness, 2,500,000 were delivered, and the only variety represented is an imperforate one. This was the last stamp issued by the kingdom.

I neglected to mention the later requisitions for the 2-cent vermilion of 1864 and the 5-cent dark blue of 1865 when speaking of those stamps, because such a length of time elapsed before what were virtually reprints were ordered—in the case of the 2-cent twelve years, and of the 5-cent twenty-four years. This difference of time produced differences in the later stamps which readily distinguish them from the earlier ones. In color, the earlier 2-cent shows distinctly the yellow in it, while the later stamp shows the red more decidedly. The earlier 5-cent was an indigo with a slightly greenish tinge, but the later one has no suggestion of green. The paper also serves to distinguish the two printings, for the earlier stamps are on a slightly thinner paper with a yellowish cast, and the later ones on a pure white paper, slightly thicker. The number of the re-issues was 125,000 of the 2-cent and 62,500 of the 5-cent, and it was these re-issues only which were overprinted in 1893.

Queen Liliuokalani had held the reins of government but two years when she made an attempt to force the Cabinet to grant a new constitution giving greater powers to the sovereign and the natives. She not only failed, but was deposed in consequence, and a Provisional Government was formed to last until political union with the United States had been effected. The new government had the stock of stamps then on hand overprinted "Provisional Govt., 1893" in three lines, the following notice concerning them being put in all the newspapers and posted in the offices:

NOTICE.

The new surcharged stamps of the Provisional Government will be on sale at the post office on or about May 20, 1893, after which date the present issue, and sale of same, will cease, and none of the old issue will be thereafter sold for postal purposes.

(Signed) Jos. M. OAT,
Postmaster-General.

Of course, this surcharging was attended with more or less errors, the most notable being the red surcharge on the 12-cent mauve. Only a third of the stock of this stamp was first used, and the surcharge printed in black. The demand was such, however, that the order to surcharge the remaining stock was sent to the printers, who executed it in red by mistake, and we thus have the curious spectacle of the error being more common than the correct type. Two other errors of note were the black surcharge on the 6-cent and the red surcharge on the 10-cent brown, which have only lately been chronicled or even seen in this country. The following two affidavits, however, should clear up all doubts of their authenticity:

PERFORATED ISSUES OF HAWAII.

(Concluded.)

By C. A. HOWES.

Inverted surcharges have been found on the 2-cent rose of 1883, the 2-cent violet of 1891 and the 5-cent light blue of 1882, though it is believed but one sheet of each was so printed. Double surcharges have been found on over half the set, and even a pair of the 1-cent green with one stamp surcharged and the other not—probably the result of a sheet shifting in the press.

As for varieties in the setting, there are few of importance. The first impression lacked a period after "Govt." on the first stamp of the second horizontal row from the top. This omission occurs on all the values first operated upon by the printers, but was then corrected and does not appear on other values surcharged later. A few sheets of the 1-cent purple were printed without any "3" in the date on the third stamp of the bottom row, and a few of the 2-cent violet in which the "9" has slipped out of the date.

The number of stamps surcharged will be found in the table at the end of this article.

In October, 1893, the Post-office Department put this notice in the Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu:

Hawaiian Postal Service.—Designs for a new issue of 1, 2, 5, 10 and 25 cent postage stamps will be received at this office on or before November 1, 1893, at noon.

The designs accepted will be paid for at the rate of $10 each, and when more than one applicant has the same design, priority of receipt and style of execution will determine the selection.

Jos. M. OAT,
Postmaster-General.

This competition resulted in the selection of a set submitted by Mr. E. W. Holdsworth, of Honolulu. The designs were sent to the American Bank Note Company in November, and the beautiful set issued on February 28, 1894. A 12-cent stamp was added to the set on October 27, 1894. This stamp is inscribed "Republic of Hawaii," as, having failed in their attempt to be annexed to the United States, a republic was declared on July 4, 1894. The set is too familiar to need description except for remarking that the statue on the 5-cent is of Kamehameha I., the same as upon the 25-cent of 1883; the view on the 2-cent is of Honolulu; the steamship Arawa of the Canadian-Australian line is shown on the 12-cent; and the portrait on the 25-cent that of Sanford B. Dole, the head of the Provisional Government, President of the Republic, and later Governor of the Territory of Hawaii.

The numbers printed of these stamps were:—1-cent, 2,500,000; 2-cent, 5,000,000; 5-cent, 2,187,500; 10-cent, 312,500; and 125,000 each of the 12-cent and 25-cent.

As usual, the old stamps continued to be sold at the post-office when asked for until the following official decree determined their fate:

By AUTHORITY.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii:

JOINT RESOLUTION.

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives that on and after December 31, 1896, the sale of postage stamps, postal cards and stamped envelopes issued previous to the present issue shall cease at the post-office, after which date all, if any, that remain will be destroyed, and the President shall appoint a committee of three disinterested persons, who shall serve without pay, to act with the Minister of Finance and Postmaster-General, for the purpose of checking off all remaining stock on that date and see that the part of this resolution relating to the destroying of same is strictly carried out.

Approved this 27th day of May, A. D. 1896.

SANFORD B. DOLE,

President of the Republic of Hawaii.

The plates and dies of all these old issues had already met their fate when, on March 27, 1894, on the order of the Hawaiian Government and in the presence of the Hawaiian Consul-General and the officers of the American Bank Note Company, twenty plates for postage stamps, three plates for postal cards, twenty dies for postage stamps, three dies for postal cards, five dies for envelopes and twenty-eight electrotypes

Headquarters for Stamps of the U. S. and Its Colonies

I am now breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, which is especially strong in the 1847 and early issues, consisting of single copies on and off covers,—some wonderful copies in the lot.

The collection also contains some most marvelous shades in blocks of 4, from 1890 to date. If interested, write me.

for envelopes, comprising "the entire quantity in our possession prepared previous to those recently made for the Provisional Government of Hawaii" were "cancelled and destroyed," as is duly certified and attested through T. H. Freeland, secretary and manager of the company.

Pursuant to the decree above quoted, the sale of all obsolete issues ceased with the year 1896, and, "on January 5, 1897, in accordance with the Joint Resolution, the President appointed a commission consisting of Messrs. J. H. Soper, Walter M. Giffard and F. L. Stolz, giving them authority to supervise, with the Minister of Finance and Postmaster-General, the enumeration and destruction of all stamps of the issues referred to and which remained on hand December 31, 1896." (W. M. Giffard, in American Journal of Philately.)

The inventory was made on January 27th, and the destruction took place on the morning of the 28th, the following account of the affair appearing in that evening's edition of the Honolulu Evening Bulletin:

"Postmaster-General Oat, with his usual thoughtfulness, extended an invitation to the Bulletin to send a representative to witness the burning of the stamps authorized to be destroyed by the last Legislature. The method adopted for their destruction was fire, and the scene the furnaces of the Electric Light Works. The stamps, envelopes and postal cards doomed to destruction were enclosed in new white canvas mailbags, tied and sealed, and were taken from the post-office in an ordinary express wagon, being, however, carefully watched by two or three postal employees.

"Gathered in front of the furnaces in the boiler room of the Electric Light Station were Messrs. F. L. Stolz, W. M. Giffard and J. H. Soper, a special committee of three appointed by Minister Damon to attend to and verify the work of destruction. Minister Damon and Postmaster-General Oat were present in their official capacities. Superintendent Hoffman attended to the fires, while Louis Kenake threw the packages into the four mouths of the big furnace, as rapidly as careful incineration would admit. Another interested spectator was Stanley Gibbons, Esq., the head of the great London philatelic firm of Stanley Gibbons, Limited, the largest dealer of stamps in the world, who is in Honolulu on his second tour of the world.

"It was curious to watch through the open doors of the furnace how the different packages acted when thrown on the bed of red-hot coals. The envelopes seemed to give up without a struggle, the forced draught drawing them apart and scattering them all over the furnace. The postal cards, being heavier, did not succumb so rapidly. Now and again the draught would pick up a bunch and scatter them to their fate, but, as a rule, they stayed where they were thrown until there was a sudden upheaval of feathery ashes in their places. The stamps fought bravely for their existence. They refused to be separated and died locked in a gummy embrace. The heat melted the mucilage on the stamps and the bundles soon looked like partly charred pieces of wood. They had to give up, after repeated stirring and raking, and soon there was not a vestige of the lot to be seen among the live coals.

The operation took about half an hour and was quite interesting."

At this time, or rather about the middle of January, 1897, the Foreign Office of the Republic was supplied with a set of six values for use on official correspondence. The stamps bore the likeness of Mr. Lorrin A. Thurston, who had served as a Cabinet Minister under both King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani, and afterwards represented the Republic as its Minister in Washington. Their use continued until August 12, 1898, when the formal transfer of the islands to the United States took place, but their sale ceased on July 16th. Just before annexation a speculator made an offer to the Government to take all the Foreign Office stamps on hand at the time of annexation at their face value. This offer was accepted and the remainders thus purchased consisted of 6,100 2-cent, 22,450 5-cent, 3,150 6-cent, 36,050 10-cent, 4,250 12-cent and 4,300 25-cent. The original quantities of the stamps were 10,000 each of the 2, 6, 12 and 25-cent, and 50,000 each of the 5 and 10-cent.

The regular postage stamps did not go out of use with the annexation of the islands, but remained in use while the status of the former Republic was being settled by Congress. During this time, the 1, 2 and 5-cent stamps were changed to the Postal Union colors, forming a sort of provisional colonial issue, the 2-cent appearing in rose on February 2, 1899, the 1-cent in green in May and the 5-cent in blue (with the word "cents" at the bottom) in July.

The quantities of these issues were as follows:—1 cent, 2,187,500; 2 cents, 2,500,000; 5 cents, 1,250,000.

The islands were finally admitted to the body politic of the United States as a Territory and the ordinary American stamps were then substituted for the Hawaiian. I have been unable to find the date on which the Hawaiian stamps became unavailable for postage, but, if I mistake not, it was some time in 1900. At any rate a lengthy period was given in which all those possessing Hawaiian stamps might have them exchanged for American, and this offer was closed on January 14, 1901. The stamps which had been turned in were then shipped to the Post-office Department at Washington, where they were counted and verified, and on Saturday, February 9, 1901, were fed to the special furnace used for such purposes in the building.

There were, of course, no provisional stamps in the lot, but it contained both colors of the 1, 2 and 5 cent stamps. The total number destroyed is given as follows, all being the Republic's issues:

- 1-cent, 51,012 stamps.
- 2-cent, 125,506 stamps.
- 5-cent, 42,225 stamps.
- 10-cent, 81,160 stamps.
- 12-cent, 18 stamps.
- 25-cent, 6,862 stamps.

With this closed the philatelic history of Hawaii.

I am greatly indebted for matter contained in the above article to "Giffard's Catalogue of Hawaiian Stamps" and Kenyon's History of the same. Also, to the late Mr. G. D. Gilman, formerly Consul of Hawaii, in Boston, several articles in the American Journal of Philately and Stanley Gibbons' Monthly Journal, and the "Check List," by C. F. Richards in the American Philatelist.

AMERICAN STAMP DEALERS ASS'N GROUP.

We are indebted to W. F. Slusser, the efficient secretary of the A. S. D. A., for a photograph of the members of the Association who were present at the A. P. S. convention at San Francisco. It will be of more than ordinary interest to our many subscribers from the fact that during the past months they have been in close touch with members of the group. We commend this Association to all dealers as worthy of their membership and support.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 11, will see introduced the first aeroplane postal service in the northwest, when two aviators will each carry a sack of mail from the grandstand to the nearest postoffice.—Clipping from H. M. NORTON.

—Our attention is called to the fact that the 1c Canada King George has been seen with the same hair-lines of color as are found on the 2c value. We do not recall that this has been chronicled previously and we are indebted to Geo. H. Bochoven for the information.

—As will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere in this issue, L. L. Albright of Rochester, N. Y., is now located in Detroit, Mich., where he is the secretary of the Michigan Zinc Coat Co.

—Stamps of Marshall Islands, German New Guinea and Samoa with counterfeit G. R. I. surcharges are being offered in San Francisco. H. W. Doscher & Co. write us to this effect. Collectors will do well to exercise care in the purchase of these stamps.

—Karl Baumann informs us that his name was incorrectly spelled as "Bowman" in the official matter of the International Precancel Club published August 28.

BE A BOOSTER!

We want every subscriber to be a booster and we take it for granted that you want to be one and merely wish to be shown the way. We shall try to do this:—

Look over your duplicates and select a hundred or more for presentation to a friend. Drop a chance remark about the variety in designs, the range in colorings, the pleasure in stamp study and the profit in our hobby as compared with other pastimes.

In the majority of cases you can start a stamp collection and an easy convert to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. Mrs. Irving Horine writes:—"Here is a boost towards your 9000 mark in the form of a new yearly subscription."

"Every subscriber a booster for philately"—let that be the motto for the coming year and our hobby will blossom forth with tremendous vigor.

Get on the honor roll!

EDITORIAL.

A Real Discovery—It is not often that we have the unctuous satisfaction of proclaiming to the philatelic world the existence of two United States stamps that hitherto have been unknown to collectors but we now have the opportunity to indulge in a little orgy of gratification and glorification. While we may not have aided, by courtesy, we might have been said to have abetted in the discovery of two "new" U. S. internal revenue stamps, the "1 pint" red and the "1 quart" blue "Imitation Sparkling Wine" stamps, "series of 1912." The stamps are beautifully line-engraved and measure six and one-quarter inches long and five-eighths inch wide, in their printed design. The stamps are rouletted and come in sheets of twenty stamps or two panes of ten stamps each, attached side by side. The outside end of the stamps is not rouletted and there is a guide arrow half-way down the side margin. The words: "Imitation Sparkling Wine," are in large blank letters extending over four inches horizontally in the center of the stamps; and at right of this legend, in much smaller letters, is: "Series of 1912" and at left, "Act of June 6, 1872." In a circular scroll in the center is, "U. S. Int." (above) and "Revenue," (below). At either end is the "value," vertically, "1 pint" (or 1 quart). The pint represents a ten cents tax and the quart, one of twenty cents. These stamps are striking additions to our revenue stamps and their history is of engrossing interest, possessing as it does, an element almost of mystery.

* * *

The Story—The advent of the two stamps under notice on the philatelic horizon is due to the persistence and pertinacity of Mr. Roscoe L. Wickes of Chicago, a collector of many years' experience. Mr. Wickes specializes in U. S., with particular attention to the revenue issues. Several years ago, Mr. Wickes, who was in the drug business, noticed casually, an "imitation wine" stamp on a product that was seeking a market and which was made in Chicago. Contrary to his expectations at the time, Mr. Wickes did not see the stamp again; and he forgot about it until the new issues of revenues sharpened his interest in all the stamps under this category. Proceeding astutely at his task, Mr. Wickes finally found, after a wearisome search through records that he was able to gain access to, the manufacturer for whom the stamps were made and who ordered only one lot of the stamps. After allaying the suspicions of the maker, Mr. Wickes got the dolorous story, which was one that the merchant preferred to forget. The "near wine" was not a success; and further it was the source of much worry to its originator. First, the revenue office had to order special stamps for the imitation; and that meant much delay but finally the stamps came. With sadly shaken faith, the "imitation," etc., in circus letters having given his fond hopes a body blow, the exploiter tried to market his beverage,—and it fell flat. The great public, it was averred, would not buy so palpable an imitation; and to dispense with details intervening, not a stamp even, remained to serve as crepe for the business funeral.

* * *

The Worries of Wickes—A fresh breath was taken by Mr. Wickes; and he bent his back to the stamp man's burden. The local revenue office was averse to sending in a requisition for the stamps and so, Mr. Wickes applied to Washington. Washington said that the stamps were on hand and asked Mr. Wickes what he wanted the stamps for; and the information was returned that he desired them for collecting purposes. It was then said that the stamps might be ordered but only by a manufacturer that had a rectifier's license; and Mr. Wickes succeeded in having this requirement obeyed. Then, the local office knowing that the stamps were for collecting purposes, refused to order any but full sheets as there was no demand for the stamps and no remainders were wished to be carried from year to year. It was ascertained that the denominations were ten and twenty cents and that there were twenty stamps in each sheet; and so, the transaction was finally consummated after a more or less decent delay. Mr. Wickes has the stamps and he has earned them.

* * *

What of Bill—From Bridgeport, Ohio, Mr. Philip F. Mayer writes of Bill Bloss: "I have imagined Bill in various forms, black haired and bald, pretty and ugly, etc. There must be some joke about it that I haven't heard; and anyway, I think it would be very easy for you to get your extra thousand subscribers if you would print his picture just once. It would relieve the anxiety of your readers and draw new ones like flies to the sticky paper." We have not seen Bill for some months. While our head was turned he slipped away to alien shores but chastened in spirit, he will return like the prodigal son; and he will be welcomed, even unto printing his picture.

* * *

Much Marked—A reader shows us a cover that holds a record for censorship. The letter which originated in Danzig, Germany, is addressed to an occupant of a prison camp in Kingston, Jamaica. On the envelope there are the markings applied at Danzig, the English "Passed Censor" and the Post Free P. C. Prisoner of War impressions; and on the reverse flap is the Kaiserliches Postamt label. Moreover, the German stamp is practically wholly removed by the English censor in order, no doubt, to intercept any clandestine correspondence under the stamp a la the famous "hunger cry."

* * *

Business View—One of our foremost dealers, Mr. John A. Klemann, New York, who attended the convention at San Francisco, expresses himself as well satisfied with prospects commercially. The results of his observation have been such as to impel him to regard the impending season with "quiet confidence," as they are supposed to say in the circles of big business. Moreover, Mr. Klemann, who has been buying choice offering when occasion permitted, is inclined to think that the quantity of exceptionally good stamps that has come on the market is smaller than was anticipated at the beginning of the summer months. However, Mr. Klemann's serenity of mind is caused to some extent by his purchase of the general issue volume of Mr. H. J. Crocker's wonderful United States collection while at San Francisco in competition with several other large dealers. Further, Mr. Klemann was enabled to add a few items to his truly great collection of Confederate general issues in the course of his travels.

* * *

Various—It looks as though the authorities were not to be weaned away from the new perforation 10, notwithstanding that objections against the general adoption of the big perforation have been registered by postal clerks and others. For instance, all the new eleven cent stamps that we have seen thus far are perforated 10 and Mr. R. J. Wagner, Fostoria, Ohio, says that his office has received the two cent red due in this size perforation. He adds that all the one cent dues in the shipment were the green parcel post issue. Split stamps are coming on mail from Honduras and we notice a new surcharged envelope in the mail from Chile, the five centavos gray stamped envelope with the overprint: "Diez Centavos," with "10" over the numeral 5, at either side.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

GERMAN POST OFFICES ABROAD.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

THE THIRD ISSUE.

The third issue, if we rely on the catalogues for chronological order, consists of a number of provisionals issued by the German post office at Tientsin. Writing with regard to these stamps in Gibbons' Stamp Weekly, Mr. W. P. Barnsdall says:—

For some time discredit was thrown upon their bona fides, but they are undoubtedly all right. It appears that the field post offices of the German forces at the time of the Boxer troubles had a supply of the "Germania" stamps. When the forces were withdrawn, the remainder of this supply was distributed amongst the North China offices. The postmaster at Tientsin felt it his duty to overprint these with the word "China" to prevent speculation. The nominal value of the Chinese dollar as regards the sale of German stamps was M.2.50, but as the actual value was only about M.2., a considerable profit could be effected by buying the said stamps without overprint and using them for remittances to Germany.

The above sounds plausible enough, but the Monthly Journal in first chronicling the stamps in April, 1901, gives another version of the story, viz:—

A correspondent, writing from Tientsin on February 16th, tells us that the new stamps with the overprint "China" impressed at Berlin, had not reached that place at that date, but that unsurcharged stamps had been sent out there and had been overprinted on the spot with a rubber handstamp. He sends us a copy of the 3pf thus treated, the surcharge being similar in type to that previously employed, and struck diagonally, but much less clear and black; he states that the 50pf was overprinted in November last, and the stock of that value was exhausted, but that the 3, 5, 10, 20, 30 and 80 pfennig were still on hand. The unsurcharged stamps were being used at the German Post Office at Pekin. There seems to be no special need for these surcharges at all.

The account given by Mr. Barnsdall, therefore, can hardly be correct. To start with, it is not likely any German forces were withdrawn at the time these stamps were issued (November, 1900). The allied forces did not succeed in relieving the besieged foreigners in Pekin until August 14th, 1900, and they did not leave that city again until peace was signed on September 7, 1901. Tientsin was one of the places at which heavy fighting took place and this was established as a base when the march on Pekin went forward. It is probable; therefore, that the base Field post office was under the general charge of the Tientsin postmaster, and that official, in an excess of officious zeal, caused the unsurcharged stamps with which the field post office was supplied to be overprinted "China" in the same manner as the previous set. The total quantities issued with this local surcharge are given as follows by Mr. Barnsdall:—

3pf brown, 1,000—ten sheets.
5pf green, 2,000—twenty sheets.
10pf carmine, 4,000—forty sheets.
20pf blue, 2,000—twenty sheets.
30, 50 and 80pf, 300 (three sheets) of each.

Judging by catalogue quotations, there is something wrong with the above figures, for the 10pf is priced higher than the 3pf, although four times as many are supposed to have been issued.

The 25 and 40pf and 2 and 3 marks are also known with this overprint, but these do not appear to have been issued at Tientsin at all. Gibbons' catalogue says, "the surcharge is known inverted on the 50 and 80pf." All the other values have also been reported with inverted overprint in the Monthly Journal from time to time, and all but the 3pf and 20pf are listed in this state in Scott's catalogue. This latter work also lists the 30pf with double surcharge.

Reference List.

November (?) 1900. German stamps of 1900 overprinted "China" at Tientsin in black.
8. 3pf brown, Scott's No. 317.
9. 5pf green, Scott's No. 318.
10. 10pf carmine, Scott's No. 319.
11. 20pf blue, Scott's No. 320.
12. 30pf black and orange on buff, Scott's No. 321.
13. 50pf black and purple on buff, Scott's No. 322.
14. 80pf black and carmine on rose, Scott's No. 323.

THE FOURTH ISSUE.

When the Germania design made its appearance in 1900, it was decided to overprint the series for use in the various foreign post offices and though supplies were expected at the different offices in China, it is evident from the paragraph quoted from the Monthly Journal in connection with the local provisionals of Tientsin that none were issued in China until 1901, notwithstanding the fact that the catalogues give 1900 as the date of issue. When they were actually issued I have been unable to trace, but it seems probable they were on sale, at some offices at any rate, in March, 1901.

We are also indebted to D. D. Berolzheimer, Kendall P. Smith and R. J. Tarry for items regarding new envelopes, which have been included in the lists printed in recent weeks.

William F. Works submits a block of four of the current 2c stamps, with the design showing through from the back, and reports having seen a whole sheet showing the same peculiarity. Mr. Works says pertinently that these should be noted by Scott, as well as Newfoundland, No. 110.

BOSNIA—W. L. Aldrich & Co. have shown us the full set of war stamps of the design of 1912 series, but with "K. u. K. Feld Post" at the top instead of "K. u. K. Militar". Values and colors are the same as the 1912 series.

CANADA—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred sends the following list of King George post cards, which are nine in number:

- 1c green; English inscription only.
- 1c green; bi-lingual.
- 1c red; bi-lingual.
- 1c red; no inscription.
- 2c red; no inscription.
- 2c red; bi-lingual.
- 2c red; English inscription only.
- 2c blue; Postal Union.
- 2c black; Reply Card.

COSTA RICA—A. C. Roessler shows us a new series of Postage Due stamps, lithographed for this country by the American Bank Note Co., as the imprint below the design indicates. All values are of the same design, the main feature being large colorless figures of value in recessed circles with a broad band as a border. "Multa—Republica de—Costa Rica" is printed in an oblong space at the top; the values in words in a small curved line across the lower part of the central circle, and "Centimos" across the bottom of the stamp. The stamps are printed on white, unwatermarked paper and perforated 12. The size is the same as the current postage set.

Postage Due Adhesives.

- 2c orange.
- 4c blue.
- 8c green.
- 10c violet.
- 20c brown.

CURACAO—Elliott Perry sends a new envelope with the new portrait of the Queen facing to the right, in an oval with "Curacao" at the top and the value below, the whole surmounted by a large crown, with various ornaments surrounding the oval.

Envelope.

5c carmine; on white, blue lined.

DUTCH INDIES—W. L. Aldrich & Co. have shown us the three Red Cross stamps noted last week.

NEW ZEALAND—Some time since MEKEEL's printed an illustration of the design of new stamps of New Zealand, with portrait of King George. For some reason the date of issue was postponed from time to time, but the closing days of July saw the full set on sale at the Dominion postoffices. We have been shown a full set by Frank P. Brown & Co. As previously announced, the 1d is unchanged, the "Universal Postage" design of 1909 being retained for that value. The new design suggests the early line-engraved Queen's Head stamps of Great Britain, with the name of the Colony at the top and the value at the bottom in words. The stamps are printed on white paper.

Adhesives.

- 1/2d green.
- 1 1/2d blue gray.
- 2d purple.
- 2 1/2d slate blue.
- 3d brown violet.
- 4d orange.
- 4 1/2d myrtle green.
- 6d carmine.
- 7 1/2d red brown.
- 9d olive.
- 1sh vermilion.

NORTH BORNEO—Frederick J. Rider has shown us a vertical pair of the 12c of 1909, imperforate between. This is not mentioned in either Scott or Gibbons.

NYASALAND PROTECTORATE—The Colonial Journal reports that a 2d stamp is being prepared for this Protectorate.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS—Frank P. Brown & Co. have shown us the $2 printed on yellow paper colored through as recently noted.

VENEZUELA—Elliott Perry writes as follows: "In re your recent chronicle of the new 50c purple Venezuela would advise that the 75c and One Bolivar are now also in use. The 75c is greenish blue and the 1 Bol. is black. Both are very similar to the 50c, differing chiefly in the ornamentation and arrangement of the inscription 'Correos E. E. U. U. de Venezuela'. Both have same portrait of Bolivar in circle. These are more properly the completion of the current set than a new set as no values above 25c have been in use since the 5-10-25c with three-fourths portrait of Bolivar came out.

Adhesives.

- 75c greenish blue.
- 1b black.

COMMUNICATIONS.

WASH., D. C., Sept. 4, '15.

To the Editor:—

I am a stamp collector of many years' standing and appreciate very much reading your valuable magazine.

I am sincerely sorry, however, to read in P. M. Mann's report of the recent Reading Convention of August 28th, in your last edition, no less than seven different paragraphs referring to drinking and drunkenness at said convention. While I don't believe that Mr. Mann expected or desired to be taken seriously regarding his allegations of drinking bouts, his constant allusions to boozing at the convention are distasteful to all clean minded persons, whether prohibitionists or not.

Therefore, I register an earnest, tho courteous, kick against any further advertising of the liquor drinking exploits of any of our philatelic friends in our journal.

Doubtless, a majority of your readers who read the article in question will agree with me in protesting against a repetition of this in your columns, and I am sure that many more of your subscribers would write you along this line if necessary.

Altho no temperance advocate would look for articles propagating his views in a paper such as yours, still, on the other hand, this powerful and ever increasing movement against drinking and drunkenness is justified in objecting to such articles as being too bald and offensive to be ignored.

Trusting that this letter will be received in the friendly spirit intended to be conveyed, and that you will be kind enuf to publish it in your next issue in order that the friends of temperance among your 8,000 readers may realize that your policy is so fair and liberal that you desire both sides to be heard on every question, I remain,

WM. V. MAHONEY.

Only Half a Stamp!

One of the most interesting provisional series of late years was that issued by the Governor of the Portuguese India in 1911-12. This issue was authorized by the Home Government at Lisbon, and was issued at Goa to fill a real need. Therefore there was a postal necessity for the stamps and they were used in the regular order of business. Both Scott and Gibbons list these interesting stamps, but with rare exceptions, no prices are given for used specimens. By a fortunate chance we are enabled to supply collectors looking for genuinely postally used stamps with the following list, at the low prices named. In most cases we can supply both right and left halves, but in no case can we supply used unsevered pairs. Prices are net, per half stamp, with postage extra on orders under 50 cents.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. THE WITNESS OF WILLOW.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

Jimmy O'. had quit the range cold and taken a surprisin' interest in things urban, which was sure some puzzlin'. For a fact, I couldn't stand the strain of it, and so one evening I put the question plainly.

Jimmy O'. looked at me with his whimsical smile.

"Well, I'll tell you. I jest wanted to mill around awhile an' git my bearin's. Sort o' lookin' before you leap, you know. An' besides—besides—"

Mirth shone in the eyes of Jimmy, and Laughter gurgled in his throat. That somewhat under control, he went on:

"An' on the 30th day of May, which same bein' Memorial Day—er—Dec'ra-tion Day, gen'rally, fer Jimmy O', you'll know all about it. Till then you don't want to be able to know anythin'—leastways, not too much."

"An' what I'm tellin' you thus far is 'on the square,' an' in confidence," added Jimmy, as he lit a cigarette and bid me adios.

The 28th of May, and Jimmy has been here five days. Tomorrow the "friends, Romans, and feller-citizens" of Willow vote wet or dry. I am for dry; and Jimmy O'. has been dry so long he rattles like a locust. But, then, there are others in Willow that hates, scorns, and despises everything dry, from demi-johns to real estate; them as cry aloud for the irrigation of man's inner works especial.

Signs posted around the town of Willow blatantly set forth the great prosperity forthcoming if the wets prevail. One-third of the voting population is Mormon, and that people are (glory be!) for a dry town. Of the remaining two-thirds,—moisture has 'em lashed to the mast. But there's the Unknown Quantity,—the woman vote,—Arizona allowin' the petticoats to step up to the ballot-box for the first time since born.

A perfect day ushered in the battle. About dawn wets and dries began to arrive, in wagons and on horseback.

When I went forth at 9 o'clock to exercise the rights of a citizen of these States, I was attracted to a crowd near the postoffice, listening to a burst of oratory from a voice which, though not wholly natural, seemed familiar as my hat.

"Some lit up, eh? Wonder w'ere 'e got it?" said a native, as an opening in the crowd, disclosed Eddy Fyne, clinging to a telegraph pole with one arm, and sawing the atmosphere with the other, hiccupping "wet town an' prosperity"—"million dollar hotel"—"shame to rob a man of right to drink," etc.

Right then the marshal came along, and Eddy, who knew him as an old time cow-puncher, shook hands effusively and wandered off, talking to himself and colliding with a number of the most respectable electorate, male and female, who made disrespectful remarks along his wake.

I cast my ballot and came forth. Another crowd. This time it was Jimmy O'. and one of the boys from Three-Bar-X trying to sing a duet, "There'll Be a Hot Time." It was such a bad duet, too. It shocked my system, and I am some hardened.

So the day passed, Eddy and Jimmy and the Bar-X boys sure enjoying this last day-of-grace. In my soul I grieved for them—for Jimmy, in particular, who, I thought, had given up the bottle for the stamp album. Jimmy's come-down hurt so much that I was too peeved to return home at once, but grubbed out. However, when I learned Willow was dry by seven votes, it helped a heap; and after the streets had some quieted down from the unusual stress I hiked along the trail leading to the tent-house.

I groped my way to the door. From the room behind came the discordant noise of heavy snores. I confess to being somewhat riled. The boys were welcome—more than welcome—but in my soul I felt the hospitality which I had extended was surely being strained today. I found the door-handle, and hanging to it a bit of paper. A match disclosed a note from Frevor Moore:

Advertising Chat—No. 3.

Our columns this week take on an increased degree of activity; new advertisers are taking space and old advertisers are returning to our columns. There is a bustle in the stamp business that is very gratifying.

We want to urge upon our advertisers the necessity of specific low priced offerings in order to win business. Don't imagine for a single instant that collectors are ready to tumble over one another in their feverish anxiety to patronize your advts. You can afford to make low priced offerings to get acquainted with collectors.

Your adv. will be read, no matter where it appears, if you make it worth reading. Name the stamps, give year, color and catalog price—make it easy for the collector to buy. At the end of the year figure up your sales and expense of advg.

We welcome Herman Schmidt back to our columns. He is an old time advertiser and will be with us regularly this winter on page 3. We now have two dealers by this name—don't get your letters mixed. We can extend a similar welcome to the Manhattan Stamp Co., W. F. Slusser, Franklin Stamp Co. and Fordham Stamp Co.

There will be found regularly on page 3 in column 4 the advertising announcements of the old and reliable firm of J. C. Morgenthau & Co. of New York City. This firm makes a specialty of auction business, in fact confines itself entirely to this branch of the trade. Auction buyers will do well to note the firm's address and get on their list.

The Swinton Stamp Co. makes its initial bow this week. The firm is well recommended to us and we have no hesitation in passing on the recommendation.

"How to Deal in Stamps" will cost you only 10c. It's worth much more.

"Don't get peevish. Jimmy O'. will explain."

I thought hard for two minutes, then opened the door.

By the light of two candles, stuck ostentatiously in empty grape juice bottles, I saw Eddy Fyne, Johnny Williams, and the two punchers from Bar-X, "clothed and in their right minds," deep in a game of "muggins," with my ancient and favorite set of dominoes, while at the near-by table sat Jimmy O', intently studying out some Sarawak perforations, the zest of the real collector on his face.

The snores came from the cowboy from ranch J-Bar-5, who was carefully laid out on a bench in the center of the room, candles stuck in other empty grape-juice bottles at head and feet.

Jimmy O'. looked up.

"Willow has gone dry by seven votes," I said slowly, and, I hope, with sufficient solemnity. The domino-players did not even glance my way.

"Seven? Seven?" repeated Jimmy, wonderingly. "Should have been six, if"

Then he looked the boys over. His laugh was full of the joy of victory as his eye lighted on "the corpse."

"Oh, Jimmy!" said Jimmy, when he could speak. "This was vote No. 7,—an' we all thought he was wet. He was so plumb lit up he might a' caravan'd the Sahara fer a hundred years an' never squeaked fer water."

Then the light broke in upon me. It was all for effect,—this horse-play by five reckless cow-punchers, bent on making respectable the town where their friend lived. I was touched, and I wanted to thank them. But, knowing cowboy character, I could do nothing but keep silence.

"We couldn't let you in," Jimmy explained. "You live here. This bunch o' people will cool off an' be glad they're dry—but not now. They'd make you miserable for a spell, first. Now that it's on them, they'll yell that it's on you."

"Muggins!" jubilantly shouted Eddy Fyne, as the game broke up, "I win the corpse. We sure need another hand up at the ranche, an' maybe I c'n make a stamp c'lector outen him yet!"

U. S. PRECANCELED STAMPS.

By L. S. WUNDERLY.

The word "precanceled" has been given to stamps that have been canceled only while in the sheet, or part of the sheet, and after this was done, separated and affixed to the mailable matter with the exception of first class. No other method of canceling can be considered precanceled, it not having the sanction of the Post Office Department.

The object of precanceling is to save the time spent in canceling each stamp separately. By this means, as many as one hundred stamps can be canceled in one stroke.

The early attempts at precanceling were mostly made by drawing a line with a pen or brush across each row of stamps on the sheet; and this has continued to be done up to the present time. Experience pointed out many improvements, and type and the printing press were later used, resulting in a still greater saving of time. In this way, if one hundred stamps were impressed at a time, it did not take long to imprint twenty to fifty thousand stamps, which is not an uncommon amount called for in one lot.

In order to avoid the expense of a press, some postmasters procured rollers made of rubber, and after inking, an impression was made by rolling them over a sheet of stamps. In this method, the first printing was fairly good, but as the rubber spread from continued use, the impressions were soon altered in size and shape. Other methods, such as electrotype plates, stereotype and the like are also used for the purpose.

The use of precanceled stamps increased to such an extent that in 1901 the Post Office Department took official notice of them, and in the early part of that year issued regulations governing their use. One of the provisions was that the State and Post Office name appear upon each stamp, with a heavy line above and below the name and printed with ink the same as used by the Department.

Upon the recognition of these stamps by the Department in 1901, they became for the first time an authorized issue, and for that reason are as collectible as a Government emission. It can never be known when the first precanceled stamp was issued, and some of the used stamps now in collections with odd cancellations may belong to this class. As far as at present known, the first stamp to have been printed with the State and Post Office came upon it was the one cent of the issue of 1882, and bore the words, "Burlington, Vermont" in two vertical lines without bars reading up.

(It is here worthy of note that in postal matters, the New England country has always been foremost in new ideas since the days of postmasters' provisionals, which include issues from Boscawen, New Hampshire; Millbury, Massachusetts; New Haven, Connecticut; Providence, Rhode Island; all covering the years 1846 and 1847.)

(The precancels of Burlington, Vermont were probably used to facilitate the handling of printed matter sent in large quantities by The Wells & Richardson Company, Diamond Dye manufacturers. There are undoubtedly many here tonight who can remember the extensive use to which these dyes were put by our mothers and grandmothers.)

Jefferson, Ohio, has been seen overprinted on the two cent brown of the issue of 1869 and one cent blue of the issue of 1873, but it is not known if they are precanceled. The two cent black of the issue of 1867, canceled in Rochester, New York, was used, but detailed information of this is also lacking. Some collectors insist that precanceled stamps are found as far back as the issue of 1851; however, cancellations not including the State and Post Office upon the stamp should properly not be listed. In most cases, they show the early attempt at precanceling, and to this extent are history. A number can be described accurately enough to identify them, and for these reasons they are given in the precanceled catalogue. Again, certain stamps resemble others so closely they cannot be told by a description. In such cases, the stamp should remain on the cover, or be identified by some one familiar with it.

In the precancel catalogue, when no mention is made of the color of the ink, black is the one supposed to be used. No distinction is made in the catalogue between ordinary printers' ink and the gray-black Government ink. The gray-black can be told by the color, blurred appearance and lack of sharpness of the letters. All inks when thinly applied, vary in shade according to their composition. Some have a bluish, some a brownish, and others a purple shade. These distinctions are omitted. Where any color is mentioned, it is understood to be a clear, strong color.

Errors may be divided in two classes:

(1) Those that result from incorrect setting-up of the type, two or more impressions and impressions in the wrong position. In some cases, the method of printing requires the opposite half of a sheet of stamps to be inverted.

(2) Those that result from careless handling of the form, electrotype plate, etc., so that a letter becomes broken or partly or entirely gone. It is not uncommon for the lower projection of "E" to be broken off, making it appear as "F". Lines may be broken, appearing as bars; or one or both lines gone. These varieties may be acceptable to many, but being broken type, and innumerable, they are omitted in the catalogue.

Postage due stamps are not listed, but where they are overprinted the same as the postage stamps, attention in the body of the catalogue has been called to them.

The paragraphs in parenthetical marks are thrown in by the compiler of this article. Further remarks follow.

According to the catalogue, which is arranged alphabetically by states, and then by cities, twenty-nine states of the Union have issued precanceled stamps. In numbers Illinois leads with a total of 753; New York with 641 stands second; Massachusetts with 634 is third; Ohio with 629 fourth. Florida, North Carolina, and West Virginia each show 4, the fewest issued. The total for the twenty-nine states is 5,241, which, if assembled into one collection, would make a very interesting exhibit.

As these are 1911 statistics, it may be stated that in this, the year 1915, nearly every State now issues precanceled stamps, bringing the present total to double this number, possibly more.

Attention is called to the fine distinction in the use of the words "overprint" and "surcharge." "Overprint" should be used when any addition is made to the stamp after it is run off the original plates. It may be a control mark as on the Philippine stamps, issued under American dominion, reading "O B" and in no way altering the original denomination of a stamp. A "surcharge" is an overprint which increases or decreases the original denomination of the stamp. President Coolidge of the American Philatelic Society some time ago called members' attention through The American Philatelist to this distinction, in an article on precanceled stamps.

According to the accepted meaning of the word "precanceled," a stamp to belong in this class does not necessarily have to bear the state and post office name. In several barrels of old papers were found a few years ago precanceled stamps of the issues of 1894 and 1895 on original covers, state and post office name not appearing on the stamps. Unfortunately, the owner clipped the stamps without endeavoring to determine their point of origin. However, he thinks they came from either Chicago or Cleveland.

A class 1 error is found three times on the precancels of Decorah, Iowa, issues of 1898, 1902 and 1912, the town name being set up as Becorah in each instance. Those of German ancestry insist that the Government should get rid of that Irish compositor out there.

The postal regulations are now very specific as to the style of the precancellation, which must contain the state and post office name on two lines between horizontal parallel bars. Some of the old precancellations stand out in a collection because of their originality.

Take the 1898, 1902, and 1903, Jackson, Mich., which consists of a two-line horizontal inscription in capitals with line above, below and between, all enclosed in a double-lined oval. Then there are the 1902 and 1903 issues of Lansing, Michigan, which show a fancy design representing nine railroad tracks converging to a center, where a star is placed enclosed in a circle, Lansing above, Michigan below, both in capitals. Sherman, N. Y., gives us a design with the word "Sherman" in curve with an ornament above representing two leaves, N. Y. below with a short bar above, all enclosed in a fine line circle measuring 16 millimeters in diameter appearing on the issues of 1902 and 1903. Business at Sherman evidently dropped off, for we find no issues catalogued since the one of 1903. Possibly the postmaster was discouraged by a lack of appreciation of his artistic ability. Arkon, Ohio, probably induced the rubber industry to locate there and furnish the postmaster with better rubber rollers. His grace, the postmaster, struggled along with unsatisfactory rubber equipment starting with the year 1890. In 1902 his patience with rubber must have become exhausted, for the issue of that year was overprinted from a stereotype plate, though the under rollers were used as late as the year 1909.

Some precancellations include the year or month; for example, Edella, Pa., April, 1903, or Edella, Pa., 1904.

Brattleboro, Vermont, since the postmaster's provisional of 1846, had been very peaceful in its quiet and solitude until 1908, when it awoke and gave us a one cent precancellation, which consists of a horizontal inscription with heavy vertical lines 13 millimeters apart. One's faith in reincarnation is strengthened by this act of Brattleboro.

Every collector of precancels should join The International Precancel Club. The yearly dues are fifty cents. Each member through the Club's sales department has an opportunity to buy or sell precanceled stamps at fair prices. The officers were,—

President: Le Roy Pratt, Tacoma, Wash.

Secretary-Treasurer: Dr. W. I. Mitchell, Beacon Bldg., Wichita, Kans.

Sales Superintendent: W. W. Norton, Lakeville, Conn.

In addition to precancellations on postage stamps, the same idea of canceling is carried out by private individuals using large quantities of revenue stamps. We first find them on the Civil War issues. Tobacco and cigarette stamps are often found precanceled, though in no case is the precanceling done by the Government.

"The Catalogue of the Precanceled Postage Stamps of the United States" was compiled and edited by F. L. Smith, 40 Exchange Place, New York, and revised to February, 1912. The price is fifty cents. It is more of a check list than a catalogue as the market value of the stamps is not given in any case. A copy can be secured through your local dealer. Mr. Smith, the compiler, died about 2 years ago. In nearly every pre-cancel collection of any size, one can find stamps not listed, and it was the desire of the editor that collectors either forward such stamps or a list to him.

Various opinions exist as to the best method of mounting precanceled stamps. Reference has been made to the catalogue arrangement of States and cities, which can be followed on a blank album; however, many consider an alphabetical arrangement by cities only as superior. In the cases of two cities by the same name in different States the alphabetical arrangement still holds good; for example, Cleveland, Tennessee, follows Cleveland, Ohio, should the former ever issue precancels. Under cities, the stamps should be arranged chronologically. Each stamp should be mounted with the profile right side up, regardless of whether the precancellation is normal, inverted or otherwise. In some collections, stamps precanceled by rubber rollers are mounted with a piece of the original cover, a commendable idea.

A word as to the kind of album might be in order. As collectors of precancels are usually specialists, the blank album they have chosen for their other stamps is the one they should use for the precanceled collection in order to preserve the uniformity throughout. Does the collection kept in uniform binders make a better impression upon you than the collection kept in binders of a half dozen shapes and sizes? It cannot be denied that the pocket book regulates this to a very considerable extent.

Government envelopes are, now and then, found precanceled in the usual manner. A few are listed in the catalogue; however, the definition given by the cataloguer, Mr. Smith, does not include envelope stamps. In the future, this definition will, no doubt, be broadened so as to include them.

The postal permit, authorized by the Post Office Department, is the outgrowth of the precanceled stamp. For some time the Department has been experimenting in certain districts with a machine, which combines the postal permit idea and the postage stamp, the machine at all times being under the Department's control.

All these ideas are the result of the principle, "to save time is to lengthen life."

The aid of Mr. Chester Myers, St. Louis, Mo., in compiling this article is gratefully acknowledged.

Gold Coast overprinted "Togo Occupation"
At 10% Over Face Value.

OUR NEW ISSUE SERVICE.
We are glad to inform our subscribers to the New Issue Service that we have now been able to secure a parcel of the highly interesting stamps of Gold Coast with the provisional overprint "Togo Anglo French Occupation," as announced in July. Although considerable expense has been incurred in procuring these stamps, which may become obsolete at any moment, we have distributed them to all subscribers whose accounts are not in arrears, at our usual new issue rate of 10% over face-value, without any extra charge, and all orders for blocks, etc., have been considered as far as possible to avoid favoritism of any sort. These stamps are being retailed in the London market at three and four times their face-value, and a further rise in price is certain in the near future.

GERMAN POST OFFICES ABROAD.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

THE FIFTH ISSUE.

Although the "Deutsches Reich" stamps of Germany were issued in 1902, it was not until 1905 that supplies were surcharged for use in the offices maintained in China. This series was not only overprinted with the name "China", but new values in Chinese currency were also surcharged. Small ornamental stars form a part of the overprint, these being so adjusted that they obliterated the old values of pfennig and marks. The surcharge was in red on the 3 mark stamp but in black on all the others. The set is said to have been placed on sale on October 1st.
